DOUBLE MURDERER IS LYNCHED IN WYOMING

W. C. Clifton Told a Gauzy Story in Explanation of the Killing of John W. Church and His Young Wife-Clifton's Head Cut Off When Lynched.

NEWCASTLE, Wyo., May 27 .- W. C. Clifton, murderer of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Church, was lynched by a mob from Gillette last night. The mob battered down the jail door, holding up the sheriff and deputy the while, and hung Clifton to a bridge west of town. Clifton's head was cut off by the fall of forty feet.
Church and his wife, who lived on a homestead claim seventy-five miles southeast of Newcastle, were never seen alive after March 14 last. Clifton, whose ranch adjoined Church's, was arrested April 7 on suspicion, and on April 17 he confessed that he had killed Mr. and Mrs. Church. Clifton claimed he had killed the couple in self-de-fense. He had given Church a bill of sale covering personal property to secure repayment of $600 advanced to Church.

He said he had repaid this sum and obtained the bill of sale, and that Mrs. Church had threatened him with a six-shooter, demanding the return of the papers. He shot her, he admitted, and, being then attacked by her husband, being then attacked by her husband, killed him also. This story was dis-credited, as Mrs. Church was a slender little woman, only twenty-two years

Church was formerly a stenographer in the Union Pacific offices in Omaha. His family and Clifton's reside in Council Bluffs. Clifton was thirty-one

FARMER IS MISSING.

Family Offers Reward for News of His Fate. WINONA, Minn., May 27.—News of a nysterious disappearance—to solve which learching parties from Brownsville have seen exploring the banks and waters of the Mississippi river, has reached this direction.

The missing man is Thomas Cain, a farmer residing two miles this side of Brownsville. Although he left home for a visit to La Crosse Thursday and has not been seen at his home since, nothing was thought of his absence for a time, as he has relatives in La Crosse, and his family supposed that he was staying with them. After some time, however, inquiries were made, and it was found that he find been seen about five miles above Brownsville. Mrs. Cain has offered a reward of $100 for the finding of his body of any news as to his whereabouts.

WEREN'T DEALING WITH CHICAGO.

Telegrapher Says Van Wormer Marked Certain Orders With a Cross. Certain Orders With a Cross.

LA CROSSE, Wis., May 27.—John Parks, who was telegraph operator for J. L. Van Wormer while he represented Finely, Barrell & Co in this city. testified today as to how the customers were decived by Van Wormer and given the impression that they were acually doing business with the Chicago board of trade. Witness alleged that when Van Wormer desired to bucketshop a trade he made a cross on the order and laid it on Mr. Parks' desk along with other orders which were actually being sent to Chicago. When the operator came to the order with a cross he simply did not send it, according to instructions he had previously been given. This continued for several months, but finally Parks refused to accept the bucketshop orders and wrote the fir mwhat Van Wormer was doing. The latters' arrest on the charge of em-bezzlement followed.

POLICE YIELD TO WRATH OF A MOB

Accept Bond for Prisoners and Let Them Go, Saving the Jali.

BLUEFIELDS, W. Va., May 27.—A mob numbering fully 200 appeared at the jail here today and with pick axes and crow bars attempted to liberate two prisoners by battering down the structure. The police, seeing that nothing could stop the wrath of the mob but the release of the prisoners, accepted bonds for the culprits and the latter departed from the jail and the mob dispersed.

The prisoners who caused the trouble were two brothers named Johnson. One of them last night became boisterous. When Chief of Police Calloway attempted to arrest him the brother of Johnson struck Calloway on the head with a club, inflicting serious injuries. Other police arrived and the brothers, after a hard fight, were subdued and jailed.

MAY USE STUDENTS AS STRIKE BREAKERS

Freight Handlers' President May Call Out 10,000 Men in an Hour.

CHICAGO, May 27.—President Law-rence J. Curran, of the Freight Han-dlers' union, today charged that the railroad companies are trying to pre-cipitate individual strikes in their recipitate individual strikes in their respective freight houses with a view of disorganizing the union. He declares emphatically that if they succeed at any one point he will call a general strike of his 10,000 men within an hour. Officials of the railroad companies deny that there is any such plan on their part, and say that if there must be trouble at all they would much prefer that the strike be general, and not confined to a freight house here and there.

Considerable colon, however, is lent to the charge of President Curran by the fact that President Harper, of the University of Chicago, was appealed to by a representative of one of the roads to furnish students to be used as strike breakers.

Today's session of the legislature was exceedingly stormy and resulted in the defeat of the government on a motion to adjourn. The motion, however, was ultimately adopted when it was shown that an adjournment was necessary to pass supply bills. The election will take place in September

TROOPS WANTED TO PROTECT A NEGRO

Mob Surrounds a Kansas Jail Hungry for bought a large, writing for that express purpose.

TOPEKA Kan., May 27.—A telegram for Gov. Balley was received tonight from the sheriff at Yates Center, Kan., requesting him to order out a company of the state militia to protect J. M. Woods, a negro in jail there, charged with assaulting Mrs. J. G. Lind, the wife of a farmer at Yates Center. An angry mob surrounds the jail with the avowed intention of lynching the negro.

To Determine the Age of Trees.

Unless the date of planting is known a tree can keep the secret of its age as long as it lives. Only when it is cut down and the rings that then show on this cut surface are counted can its exact age be told. Especially when a tree is sawed down leaving the stump a smooth, flat surface, it is easy to count its years. Trees such as the oak, chestnut, pine, etc., add a thin layer just under the rough outer bark each year. These layers narden into tough woody fiber, and one after another make the tree bigger and bigger arcund. When the tree is cut down these layers show just as the layer counts for a year, the age of trees that have grown straight and tall is very easy to determine, while in gnarled, wind-twisted trees the rings run into each other, and can scarcely be distinguished, and thus some of the famous old sentinels of the mountain top hide the secret of their age forever. As the trinks of the trees grow larger layer by layer, the rough outside bark which lasts from year to year, cracks wider and wider in its efforts to fit the big round body it was not made for, and great assures and furrows appear, such as are to be seen in the oak. Some trees, like the birch, change their bark from year to year. The birch bark that peels off is almost as thin as paper and split in a thousand places with the swelling of the live new wood just beneath it.—New York Tribune.

MINNEAPOL

USES HORSEWHIP

Y. M. C. A. Member Receives Chastisement in Sensational Manner.

A sensational horse whipping affair, which was hushed up by the Minne-apolis papers, was the talk of the town a few days ago. The principals were Arthur J. Davis, who has a local habitation and somewhat of a name in the Minneapolis Y. M. C. A. building, and Miss Minnie Estelle Reynolds, a pretty waitress at the Russell Coffee House, who occupied a somewhat higher station in life and was "happy till she met him," as the popular song

Needless to say, Miss Reynolds was the bold, dashing whipper. Davis was Miss Reynolds had sworn, so she avers, that if she ever caught Davis with another woman in view of the wrong he had done her, she would give him a taste of the lash, and she bought a large, writhing black snake

With the fury of a woman scorned, she kept close watch on Davis' move-ments "after nine." When she called up the Y. M. C. A. building a few evenings ago and was informed that he had gone driving, she knew what to suspect and she prepared for it. At 11 o'clock when the street was throng-ed with home-bound playgoers, Davis drew rein at the entrance to the fash-ionable Hotel Landour, 8201/2 Nicollet avenue, and there was a woman with

At precisely that moment Miss Revnolds, who had been crouching in the shadow of the vestibule, sprang toward Davis, who was about to hand the lady from the carriage, and began to lay on with the stinging lash with surprising dexterity for one so frail.
"I told you I'd horsewhip you if I ever caught you trifling with another woman" above the straight of the straight with another woman." woman," she exclaimed, "and I've kept my promise!"

Then she had at him again with savage fury. The other woman, a well known resident at the Landour, had in the meantime picked up her skirts and made a hasty entrance to the hotel. As Davis tried to make a get-away, Miss Reynolds poked him stiffly in the right eye with her fist and the member is still in mourning.

The crowd of 200 onlookers made no attempt at interference and when Miss Reynolds coolly entered the carriage and drove down the street alone, there were none to say her nay.

Davis finally summoned Sergeant Tom Russell and Patrolman Michael Cronin, who induced Miss Reynolds to dismount in front of her boarding house, 46 Seventh street S. No attempt was made to arrest her.

Miss Reynolds, who has only recently left the hospital and who is yet to undergo an operation, tells a tale that tugs at the heart strings and which is decidedly discreditable to Davis.

She says that he ruined her and left her to shift for herself. As a result of the intimacy which existed between them, which Davis admits, she says that her father, formerly a wealthy lumberman in a Minnesota town cast her off and that her infatution for Davis separated her from the young man to whom she

"Davis has wrecked my health, my happiness and my life," said Miss Reynolds, "and he must make all possible reparation. I shall see that he keeps away from other women."

TELLS OF CONGO HORRORS.

Returned Missionary Says Revolting Conditions Cannot Be Described. Rev. William M. Morrison, an American missionary from the upper Congo, who has spent the last six years in the Congo Free State at the town of Luebo, 1,200 miles in the interior, arrived in Minneapolis yesterday on a tour of the West, and is staying at the West hotel. in the British parliament.

"Slavery exists in the Congo region in its worst form," said Mr. Morrison to a representative of The Globe last night. "Commercialism is the sole god of the men who have exploited the country for their own profit and they have nothing whatever to do with humanitarianism. Concessions of land grants can no longer cessions of land grants can no longer cessions of land grants can no longer be obtained from the state by other than favored industrial corporations.

The state is dividing up the country among these great concessionaires with exclusive rights of trade by the companies to which concessions are given. There is now very little free land not given out to such companies to exploit. Legitimate trade, except in the small area from Banana to Stanley Pool, is practically shut out.

Stanley Pool, is practically shut out.

"Not only are concessions refused to traders, but they are also refused to missionaries. Natives are obliged to work for the government without pay. Some who are obliged to work in the rubber district, which King Leopold of Belgium controls, have had their hands cut off if they refused. Rev. Lewis Richter thus expressed himself last night in regard to the action of the general Presbyterian astion of the general Presbyterian as-sembly in denying his appeal in the now famous case. Because of views on the liquor traffic, Mr. Richter was ex-communicated from church. Mr. Richter appealed to the general assembly, which yesterday took final action in the matter.

"The decision makes no difference with we" said Mr. Blatter difference.

"The decision makes no difference with me," said Mr. Richter, "I shall continue to carry on my functions as a minister. I have no church, and am a little too old for that, but if a couple mes to me to be married, I shall perform the ceremony. They can then take the matter to the courts.

CUBAN SOCIAL CUSTOMS.

The Restrictions Much Greater Than In This Country.

Until Americans came there was not calling in the daytime. That was all done in the evening. I have heard several Cuban ladies say that they had never made a call in the afternoon previous to our arrival. Some of them are now adopting our way of making the first call on the newcomer. But many still wait until the stranger calls on them. The most Americanized are following our custom in this as in other things.

Of course, a young woman never receives a man visitor alone, as the idea of tom in this as in other things.

Of course, a young woman never receives a man visitor alone, as the idea of chaperonage is as strict as ever. It does not seem to occur to most families that young people would enjoy talking to each other without including all of the members of the family in the conversation. Young people become better acquainted at dances than any place else. A girl does not even receive her fiance alone. The whole world knows that the couple are engaged, for the windows are thrown open so that all passers-by may see the lovers sitting side by side, with the dozing chaperon near by. A girl does not go any place with a man without an accompanying chaperon; in fact, she usually goes with some of her people, and he joins them on arriving there. It is the same after she becomes engaged, only then she does not go to any entertainments unless her fiance is also going. As for the friendships which exist between young men and women in our country, they are unknown, and the thought of them is not looked on with approval.

Marriage does not bring much more freedom to a woman than she had before. A young married woman does not go on the street alone. She does not dance with any man other than her husband or a near relative, nor does her husband dance with any ladies. Should she chance to meet a man acquaintance on the street he would not turn and walk with her. It would embarrass her if he did. Nor would a Cuban woman go on the street he would not turn and walk with her. It would embarrass her if he did. Nor would a Cuban woman go on the street he would not turn and walk with her. It would embarrass her if he did. Nor would a Cuban woman go on the street he would not turn and walk with her. It would embarrass her if he did. The Navy Ration.

The Navy Ration.

The enlisted force of the navy during the coming year is expected to consume 220,000 pounds of frankfurter sausages and 144,600 pounds of sauerkraut. This is a part of the new navy ration, for the component parts of which contracts are shortly to be awarded covering one year's supplies, deliverable at the various navy, yards and stations. The schedules for these provisions have been prepared in the bureau of supplies and accounts, and it has been one of the interesting estimates of that bureau to figure out the amount of subsistence of this class which will probably be consumed on shipboard. The aggregate supplies, in addition to the 220,000 pounds of frankfurters and the 144,600 pounds of sauerkraut are as follows: One million one hundred and fifty thousand pounds of fresh beef, 287,000 pounds of fresh veal, 285,000 pounds of fresh mutton, 220,000 pounds of pork sausages, 88,000 pounds of sugar-cured shoulders, 141,000 pounds of sugar-cured shoulders, 141,000 pounds of fresh efficiency, 285,000 pounds of dressed chickens and 71,800 pounds of dressed turkeys.—Army and Navy Register.

The Kind of a Dollar. "He's as bright as a dollar, they say."

"Of course."
"You admit it?"
"Certainly. Why not?"
"I thought you didn't like him?"
"I don't." "Yet you admit he's as bright as a dollar."

"I do, but I mean, of course, one of those worn and torn paper dollars."—Chi-cago Post.

A Glimmer of Hope. "Senator Boodle says he's willing to leave his hopes of fame to posterity." "Naturally. He feels there's a slight chance that posterity won't find him
