

GALLER—Dear old Jack, I just read in the paper about your being sun-struck, and rushed right over. I'm awfully glad you're as well as you are. You're lucky. Now, old man, I don't want to work the old "I told you so" gag on you, but the way to prevent sunstroke is to keep the bowels clean and cool, and the blood from being over-heated, by taking a CASCARET Candy Cathartic at bed-time. They work while you sleep, and keep you safe and comfortable all day.

Jersey Mosquitoes Seem to Thrive on Kerosene

Special to The Globe. JERSEY CITY, N. J., June 13.—The conflicting opinions prevalent here concerning the value of petroleum oil as a mosquito eradicator have thrown a damper over the opening of the summer season. The recent attack on the recorder of Bloomfield, N. J., by one of the new species recently classified as gargarum anopheles has thrown much cold water on the vaunted oil theory. It is claimed that the new variety has been developed by feeding on the oil supplied by the board of health and intended for the destruction of the pest.

abated, and fever altogether disappeared from among the resident gardeners and temporary resident masons. The site of the gardens had before been one of the worst malaria-stricken spots on the island of Bombay. —Wilbur Hawkes.

VEGETABLE SHOES.

A Vegetarian Society Will Send to London for the Novel Footwear.

Members of the New York Vegetarian society discussed with much enthusiasm at their meeting, held in the Lockwood academy at 138 South Oxford street, Brooklyn, the other evening, a plan to wear boots and shoes made of vegetables, says the New York Herald. These present were so much in favor of the plan that it was decided to send to London and obtain specimens of the vegetable footwear.

Opposition to the slaughter of animals for the use of their skins is one of the principles of the society. About 200 persons were present, many of them women. In describing the vegetable shoe for winter wear one of the speakers said that it was made of "leatherine," and was excellent protection against cold weather. He said that an attempt had already been made to establish the shoe in London, where, it is said, it has become popular with some members of the vegetarian society in the city.

The vegetable shoe for summer, it was explained, was composed of grass and was remarkable for its coolness and comfort. It is shaped like a sandal. The advantage of both the summer and winter vegetable footwear was pointed out by enthusiastic members of the society.

Large Class Will Graduate From Cretin High School

Among the educational institutions of the city one of the most important is Cretin high school, which, as a Catholic high school, occupies a unique position in this part of the country, and the point of attendance ranks well up among the educational institutions of any character, particularly when it is considered that its membership is entirely of boys.

Cretin school has historic antecedents, as the Cathedral school enjoyed a long and honorable career before it became established at present. It may be recalled that Hon. William Louis Kelly, now one of the judges of the district court, was at one time an instructor in the Cathedral school, which stood for many years on the site at present occupied by Schueman & Evans' store, and that Mrs. Charles McCarthy, who is a sister of Archbishop Ireland, was also one time a teacher there.

It was in 1871 that the Cathedral school was taken in charge by brothers of the Catholic church and under their tutelage many of the men who are now most prominent in St. Paul business and professional circles received their early education. Among them may be mentioned John D. and Thomas D. O'Brien and Dr. Harry O'Brien, George Redington, city clerk; James Miner, Thomas O'Regan and Michael Reardon, but to give anything like a complete list would require the publication of a large portion of the city directory.

The school was removed to its present handsome quarters, at the corner of Sixth and Fort streets, in 1889 and then became Cretin high school, but for some years its career was not conspicuously an aggressive or progressive one. Then in 1899 began a period of marked activity and growth in the history of the school and in the last three years it has nearly doubled its attendance. It is now on a firm financial footing and has gained an impetus which cannot but carry it forward. In September, 1900, there were seven classes. There are now ten and the applications already received for membership next year will justify the opening of two more class rooms.

Cretin school is not a charity institution, and it cannot properly be called

The last named species is sacred to Vishnu, being called after the beautiful Tulsī, who excited the jealousy of his wife, Lakshmi, who transformed the fair maiden into the plant which Vishnu at once consecrated to the service of his most distinguishing rites. The "holy basil" is therefore planted before every Vaishnavite house, and every Vaishnavite wears necklaces, or armlets, and carries a rosary, made up of sections of his stalks or roots; and Hindus are sworn on the waters of the Ganges poured into the palm of the hand, crossed with a sprig of holy basil; and sprigs of the plant are borne by the Brahmins at funeral ceremonies. One of the most charming sights in India—the India of the Hindus—is that of a fair Brahmin woman, in the village of the Deccan ("right-hand" country), early every morning, after having ground the corn for the daily bread of the family and performed her simple toilet, with the fearless frankness of the Athenian ladies at the fair-flowing fountains of Callirhoe, walking with stately steps and slow, round and round (pra-dark-shina, "turning to the right"—i. e., with the sun's shadow), the Tulsī plant placed on her forehead and before the house of "the father of her children," invoking on him and them with outstretched arms and uplifted eyes of supplication, the blessings of all-merciful heaven—that is, praying for less and less carbolic acid, and even more and more oxygen—a perfect object lesson in sanitation, art and religion. When the Victoria Gardens and Albert museum were established in Bombay the men employed on these works were at first so pestered by mosquitoes and suffered so much from malarious fever that, on the recommendation of the Hindu kherbari, or manager, the entire boundary of the gardens was planted with holy basil, and any other basil at hand, on which the plague of mosquitoes was at once 67.2, instead of 30. Company C has been making great strides of late, for all of which Capt. John F. Snow and his able lieutenants, G. K. Sheppard and F. C. Robinson, are responsible, and it is to be regretted that the department failed to give them full credit and cause the standing of the company to appear so low.

Battery E, Minneapolis, has several changes lately. Sergeant John P. Miller has been elected second lieutenant to which G. C. Williams, recently promoted to first lieutenant, Corporal F. A. Colstrom has been appointed quartermaster sergeant. The battery will take its full quota—eighty-eight men—to camp, and Capt. Bennet has found it necessary to refuse more recruits lately than were taken in.

Second Lieutenant John McKee Heffner has been commissioned captain of Company C, Third Infantry, of Brainerd. Capt. Heffner is an old St. Paul boy, and served with Company C, Thirteenth regiment, as a sergeant, where he was most popular. His old comrades will be glad to hear his good fortune. His company, on its way to camp, will arrive in St. Paul at the depot Monday morning at 7:25, and lay over for one hour and a half before leaving for Lake City on the Third regiment special.

The president has directed that Maj. George H. Morgan, Ninth cavalry, be detailed by the secretary of war as professor of military science and tactics at the University of Minnesota, to take effect Aug. 1, 1903, vice Lieut. Hayden S. Cole, U. S. A., who is to be relieved at his own request, to take effect July 31. Maj. Morgan will report in person at the university on Aug. 1 and enter into his new duties. This is not Maj. Morgan's first detail to Minnesota. He was for several years on duty at the university prior to the late war. He has many friends in the national guard, all of whom are glad to learn of his return. He is a brother of Alfred S. Morgan, who commanded Company L, of the Thirtieth Minnesota volunteers, in the Philippines, but is now captain of the Ninetieth company of coast artillery, and located at Fort Morgan, Ala. He ranks 181 in the final list of captains.

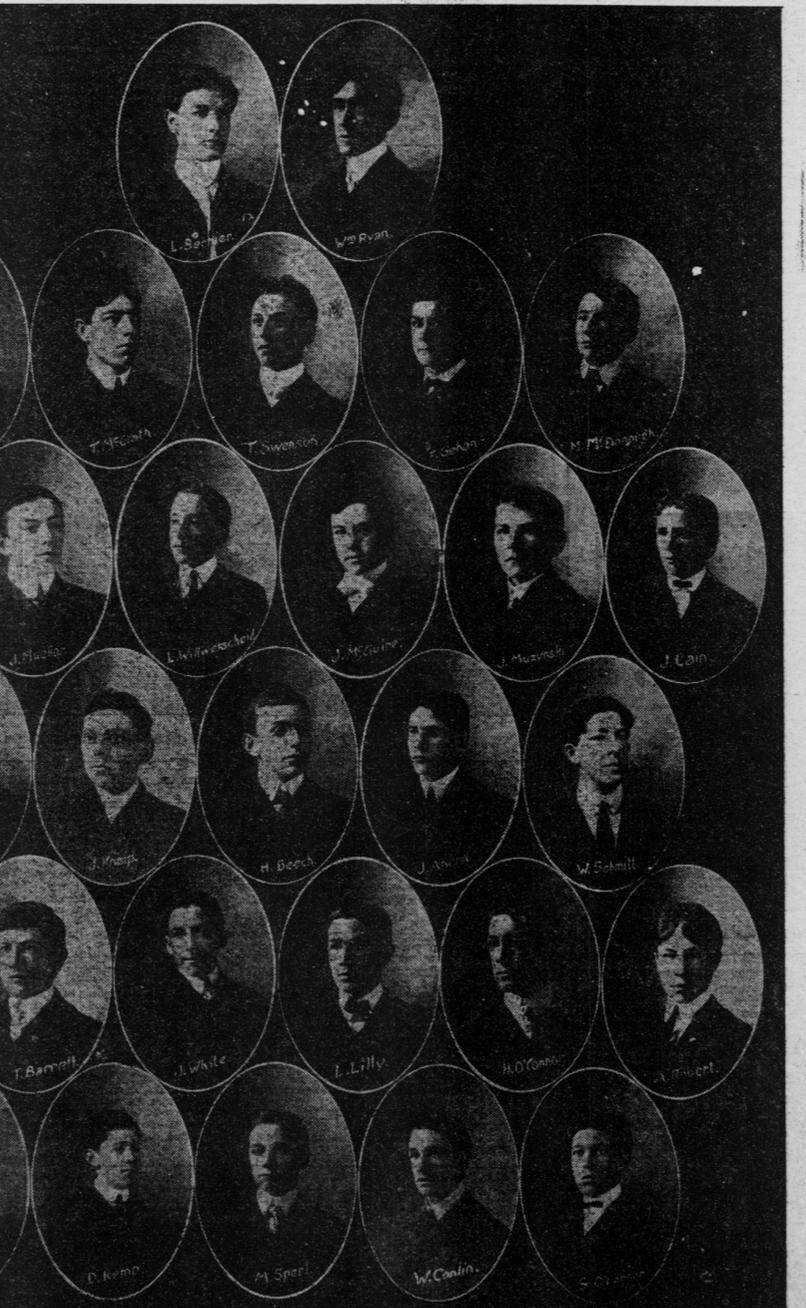

The report that Capt. Thomas F. Dwyer, Twenty-first United States Infantry, has been detailed by the war department to conduct the Minnesota inspections is a pleasing one to members of the national guard. He was a member of the defense of the city during the recent property inspections and made many warm friends. He is a young and energetic officer, and takes great interest in the national guard. He will be on duty at camp during the summer and conduct the inspections.

Maj. T. C. Clark, surgeon Third regiment, has asked to be placed on the roll of retired officers, and the request has been granted. The vacancy will be filled on the recommendation of Col. C. A. Van Dusee, and Lieut. A. B. Cole, assistant surgeon, will undoubtedly be promoted. Lieut. Cole was surgeon major of the Fourteenth Minnesota volunteer infantry, and is a member of the upper house of the Minnesota legislature. Hospital Steward James Ferguson, who has been a faithful member of the medical department for several years, will be promoted to be assistant surgeon, with the rank of first lieutenant.

Maj. Charles W. Fisher, assistant inspector general, general staff, will report to the adjutant general for duty during the encampment of the national guard. He will superintend the preparation of inspection and pay rolls, and will check the regimental, battalion and company records, that the same may conform to the records on file in the office of the adjutant general.

Field work will be omitted this year, and in its place they will be instructed in the construction and use of field entrenchments "street column and square," and the pitching and breaking of camp with both "shelter halves" and "A" tents.

Capt. John R. Delahunt, of Morris, Minn., sheriff of Stevens county, and Miss Bertie M. Duester, of St. Cloud, were married in Minneapolis last Tuesday evening in St. Clement's church, Rev. R. J. Fitzgerald officiating. The ceremony was witnessed by only a few of the most intimate friends of the bride and groom, George Howley was best man, and Mrs. Howley acted as matron of honor. Mr. Delahunt, who is one of the most popular young men in Morris, is serving his second term as sheriff of Stevens county. Mrs. Delahunt was a leader in St. Cloud society before her marriage, and is a most charming young woman. Mr. and Mrs. Delahunt will take up their residence at Morris. Their many friends in the national guard join in congratulations.
