ORDAIN MISSIONARY AT HOUSE OF HOPE

William T. Locke Will Return to China as a Presbyterian Minister.

Peculiar interest attended the evening service at the House of Hope yesterday in the ordination of William Turnbull Locke, who is being sent by that congregation as missionary to Hu Nan province in China.

Mr. Locke has already spent some years in this same field as a lay member of the Hudson Taylor, or as it is otherwise known, China inland mission.

There were present for the ordination service of last evening, beside Rev. W. H. W. Boyle, pastor of House of Hope, the following clergymen, members of this presbytery: Rev. M. D. Edwards, Dayton Avenue church; Rev. Malcolm McLeod, Merriam Park church; Rev. A. Cardie, Macalester; Rev. C. C. Duncan, Rev. John C. Taylor, Rev. T. G. Sykes and Rev. H. Taylor. Rev. A. Carver, of Brainerd, member of the Red River presbytery, was also in attendance.

The sermon of the occasion was delivered by Rev. Malcolm McLeod, of Merriam Park church, who employed as his text the words: "Thy kingdom come; thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven," and with them as his foundation discoursed of the various aspects of the kingdom of God.

In the absence of Dr. John Fulton, of Central church, who is moderator of the presbytery, Rev. Maurice D. Edwards presided in the ceremony of ordination, and also offered the ordination prayer.

The address to the newly ordained minister was delivered by Rev. Dr. Boyle, who referred, in impressive manner, to the fact that it is customary on such occasions to have a minister representing the presbytery to address the people; but in this ordination this form would be omitted for the reason that the charge of the one ordained would be to a people of a foreign land speaking a foreign tongue and unfamiliar with the customs of this country and this church.

In counseling the minister to firm adherence to the Book and to his Master's work Dr. Boyle spoke feelingly of the hardships and dangers he would have to encounter and urged him to be steadfast in his faith and his hope.

LOCOMOTIVE FALLS AND ENGINEER AND CRUSHES OUT LIFE

John E. McGowan, for Many Years an Engineer on the Northern Pacific, Meets a Horrible Death Near Dellwood.

John E. McGowan, engineer of the Northern Pacific, was killed yesterday afternoon in a wreck on the Northern Pacific road between Dellwood and Mahtomedi. He was running on a logging train consisting of several empty flat cars, when the engine jumped the track, owing to the sinking of one of the rails.

When the locomotive left the track, McGowan made an attempt to jump from the front window of the cab, but in doing so was caught under the engine as it tipped to the ground. He was driven head foremost into the earth and was dead before he could be pulled from under the weight upon him. His body was literally crushed by the engine and his features were mutilated and distorted.

McGowan's body was turned over to Coroner Freleigh, of Washington county, who allowed it to be removed to St. Paul.

McGowan was one of the best known engineers on the Northern Pacific road. He was connected with the St. Paul & Duluth road before that company was absorbed by the Northern Pacific. He started firing sixteen years ago and was made an engineer in 1894, shortly after the Hinckley fire, in which he distinguished himself, by making a perilous run through the flames, helping to save a train that was endangered.

McGowan was thirty-six years old and leaves a young wife and a son one year and a half old. He lived on Arlington Hills during the years he was connected with the railroad. Recently he had been residing with his family at 613 Cook street.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been made. Mrs. McGowan said last night that the body would probably be removed to Coznovie, Wis., for burial.

Fireman Loren F. Hokanson, who was on the engine at the time of the wreck, escaped with a broken leg and probably internal injuries. He was brought to St. Paul last evening and taken to St. Joseph's hospital. His home is in St. Paul, at 536 Brunson street.

Members of the train crew were badly shaken up, but none was seriously injured. The wreckage was cleared away last night and but little delay of traffic resulted.

NEEDLE IS REMOVED FROM WOMAN'S HAND

Mrs. J. C. Goff Suffers Painful Accident and X-Ray is Used.

Mrs. J. C. Goff met with a painful accident at her home, 242 East Thirtieth street, while sewing Saturday. She was clearing off a work table, on which a number of garments and pieces of cloth were lying, and in moving her hand across the boards struck a needle, the point of which was imbedded in the wood. The needle penetrated her left hand below the small finger, striking the bone and breaking off below the skin.

The needle could not be seen, but the pain was most intense, and Mrs. Goff was driven almost to a frenzy. Dr. Benjamin F. Simon was called, and with the aid of an X-ray, the needle was located yesterday and removed while the patient was under anesthesia.

WHEELMAN FIRES BLANK CARTRIDGE AT A BOY

Nine-Year-Old Arthur Weide is Wounded in the Wrist.

Arthur Weide, nine years of age, residing at 129 Pine street, was shot yesterday with a blank cartridge, near his home, by a young man riding past him on a bicycle. The rider, in whirling past the boy, pointed a revolver at him and discharged a blank cartridge.

Thewad struck the boy in the wrist, lacerating the wrist, and imbedding fragments in the flesh. The boy was taken to Dr. B. F. Simon, who dressed the wound. No serious results are anticipated unless blood poisoning should set in.

He was taken to the hospital with a blank cartridge and infection set in yesterday. The boy was taken to Dr. F. F. Simon, who thinks that serious consequences may be averted.

Anna Dunwittie, 599 Pine street, is another sufferer from a blank cartridge wound, which was imbedded in her hand. The girl, who is nine years old, was taken to Dr. Simon, who dressed the wound. No alarming symptoms have developed.

IDEAL DAY BRINGS OUT BIG CROWDS OF PLEASURE SEEKERS

Thousands of People Flock to Como Park, Wildwood and Other Suburban Resorts—Band Programmes Enjoyable.

After the activity, excitement and noise of the Fourth of July, restfulness appeared to be the thing most desired by the people of St. Paul yesterday. Climatic conditions added their mellowing influence in the same direction and almost unanimously the populace moved in the direction of the suburban resorts.

The outpouring toward the lakes began early in the day and continued until well into the evening. All of the thoroughfares leading from the city were alive with vehicles of all kinds throughout the day and street cars were crowded from morning until late at night. Railroad trains also carried many to White Bear and other lakes, and only those who were compelled to stay in the city remained.

Como park was thronged throughout the entire day, and in the afternoon it was almost impossible to secure a boat, even though those who desired them represented but a very small proportion of the gathering assembled there from both St. Paul and Minneapolis. The drives were so thickly coupled with vehicles and saddle horses as to make travel at some points quite difficult, and the pavilion and shaded paths were crowded. The Minnesota State band presented an excellent musical programme in the afternoon and again in the evening, and its efforts were generously repaid in applause.

Wildwood also received a large portion of patronage and the cars running to and from that point were packed as full as they could hold at almost every time of the day.

In spite of the suppression of some of the attractions in that vicinity, Snelling was the destination of a large number of the seekers after recreation, but it is already noticeable that the character of the Sunday crowd on the Snelling line has greatly changed.

THEY CUT OFF HIS HAND AND LET HIM GO

Injured Laborer Neglected at New Richmond Comes to St. Paul for Aid.

With his right hand recently amputated, and being unable to secure the care he needed at New Richmond, where he has been living, Peter Colginni arrived at the city hospital here yesterday afternoon in a state bordering on collapse. He speaks but little English, but from his fragmentary statements of his experience, it would appear that he has been the victim of an act of gross inhumanity.

Colginni is an Italian, and has been with a gang of laborers employed by the Wisconsin Central road, and making headquarters at New Richmond. At that city yesterday he held a giant firecracker in his hand, with the usual result that his right hand was almost torn away. He applied for treatment to the city authorities, so far as can be learned from his statement, and was subjected to an operation in which the injured hand was amputated at the wrist. Then instead of being cared for he was simply turned loose to shift for himself.

Weak and suffering he came to St. Paul and applied at the city hospital at 2:30 yesterday afternoon. It is against the rules of the hospital, and in a measure contrary to the law, to admit a nonresident to the city hospital, but this man's need was so imperative that in the name of humanity the rule and the law were set aside.

When he reached the hospital Colginni was in a state verging upon collapse, but proper care has caused an improvement in his condition, and it is now hoped that he will recover under hospital treatment. Without this care, however, his death would have been a question of but a short time.

The Poor Man's Doctor.
It is only in serious emergencies that the family in average circumstances can afford to send for a doctor. The family newspaper, through its advertising columns, makes the doctor's place, and informs its readers of meritorious articles for the cure of common ailments. It was in this way, for example, that Cascarets, Candy Cathartic, the well-known medicine for stomach and bowel troubles, were introduced to millions of families and, through newspaper advertising, built up a sale of over a million boxes a month.

JOSEPH SEIDL HAS CLOSE CALL FOR HIS LIFE IN SALOON ROW

Shot Is Fired and Bullet Strikes Him in the Abdomen but Glances Off—Antony Amato, Proprietor of Place, Arrested.

Joseph Seidl, 1079 Goff avenue, had a hairbreadth escape from death last night. He was hit on the abdomen with a bullet fired on South Robert street in front of Antony Amato's saloon, 64 South Robert street, but the bullet struck him in such a manner that instead of entering his body it glanced off, leaving but a slight abrasion about the size of a finger tip.

When Seidl was struck with the bullet he fell to the ground, screaming that he had been shot. He was picked up by a number of young men with whom he had been in the saloon. He could not at first stand on his feet, being overcome by the fright. Examination, however, reassured him, for it was discovered that the only injury he had sustained was a small scratch and bruise.

The trouble leading to the shooting started in Amato's saloon over an argument. There were about fifteen young men in the place and a few of them became involved in the dispute. The contention grew so fierce that words were abandoned and resort was had to fists and chairs. Amato, being unable to quell the uproar, is said to have resorted to extreme measures to get the crowd out of the place. Seidl, in describing the affair, said: "When the trouble increased the bartender ran behind the lunch counter and got a big butcher knife, which he swung around, yelling to us to get out. We all got out and stood in front of the saloon on the sidewalk. One of the boys in the crowd then rushed up to the bartender and hit him and then started to run away. I turned around to run, when I was shot, but I can't tell who fired the shot."

A witness of the affair, who stood upon the sidewalk opposite Amato's saloon when the trouble occurred, told Sergt. Murnane, who was on the scene shortly after the shooting, that Amato, who was tending the bar, fired the shot. Amato was then arrested, but stoutly denied that he had done the shooting. He asserted to Sergt. Murnane that he never kept a revolver in his place. He deposited $50 bail.

Two other persons were arrested in connection with the shooting. They were George Gadabout, 82 South Robert

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS TO MEET

Executive Committee of International Association Will Meet at Winona Lake, Ind.

The annual meeting of the executive committee of the International Sunday School association will be held at Winona Lake, Indiana, Aug. 6-10, 1905.

Winona Lake, Ind., is several hundred miles nearer the center of the country than Chattanooga, N. Y., where for many years the annual meetings of the executive committee have been held. In response to the preliminary announcement of the meeting at Winona Lake, most members of the executive committee have promised to be present, assuring the largest annual meeting since the committee's organization in 1875.

Never has there been interest in state and international co-operative Sunday school work so universal, so harmoniously aggressive, so devoutly enthusiastic, so intelligent in purpose and methods, as has developed since the Denver convention. Leaders of the work will come from the provinces in the extreme East and North of the continent to greet leaders from the states in the great West and the South, and the unpaid committeemen and the paid field workers will sit together in conference and counsel at Winona for five days.

The present plan is to devote the mornings to general conferences with the executive committee. Among topics to be considered are these: How, if it is best, to establish a field workers' trust? What plan of organization will secure an active annual membership of 500,000? How can the theological seminar best aid the Sunday school movement? How to incorporate the International Sunday School association so that it may receive and hold property? The regular meetings of the executive committee will be held in the afternoons, also departmental and special conferences.

Will Talk of "The Superior Man."
"The Superior Man, of whom Confucius had much to say, but whom he did not know" is the subject of the sermon with which Rev. W. C. Pope begins his summer street preaching at the corner of Seventh and Cedar this evening at 8:30 o'clock.
