GAMES TODAY. Toledo at St. Paul. Indianapolis at Kansas City. Chicago at Milwaukee. Columbus at Milwaukee.

The chance for Kelley's aspirants for pennant honors to get within whispering distance of Castillon's Brewers' aggregation of Orphans woke up from their two-days' trance and defeated the Saints at Nicolet park by a score of 6 to 3.

Texas Jake Volz was given a longer rest than usual in the hope that he would be able to overcome his hoodoo and at last take one game from the Orphans, but he seems as if he has not as yet hit upon the proper combination. Out of six games lost this season the Millers have beaten him four times and he has yet to score his first win against them. Although his eight hits were made off him, five of them came in a bunch, and as they were of the well developed sort, they proved enough to clinch the game for the Orphans. Volz held his position in splendid shape and accepted seven chances. His hit in the third was also responsible for the first run scored by the Saints.

Young Archie Stimmel started out to do things for the Millers, but a sore arm forced him to retire in the fifth in favor of Williams. It was a well-kept match here today with a Worcestershire eleven. At the close of play the Philadelphians had scored 100 runs for six wickets down in their first innings.

Notes of the Game. The two double plays pulled off by the Millers were of the circus order, and each game a time most unfortunate for the Saints.

Martin had a very busy day at second and played a fine game. He accepted all but one slip yesterday, and he accepted all but one due to his anxiety to make a double play sure.

While waiting to catch a ball thrown by Sullivan in the seventh he off Spooner's theft of the bag, Huggins fell down. The game was a very close one, and the error was due to his anxiety to make a double play sure.

Kelley had sixteen chances at first and, until accepted, threw all without the sign of a skip. His two-bagger was also responsible for one of the runs.

Spooner played a fine game for the Orphans and was a serious factor in their run getting. He drew two passes, made a two-bagger and a sacrifice, stole a base and accepted all six strike chances.

Oyer had five put outs to his credit and three assists, and made a three-bagger and a single.

Charles Cook left for his home at Madison last night, having received a telegram stating that his mother is dying.

Toledo will open a series at Lexington Monday night. The game will be called at 7:30. Stewart will pitch for the Saints.
