

POPE IS WEARY OF HOPELESS FIGHT

He Begs His Doctors to Permit Him to Die in Peace... Dr. Mazzone Says He Does Not Intend to Perform Another Operation, as It Would Be Useless and Infract Unnecessary Pain...The Pontiff Apologizes for the Trouble His Illness Has Caused Those About Him.

Special Cable to The Globe.

ROME, July 17, 2 a. m.—(Copyright)—The Globe correspondent has just had a talk with Prof. Mazzone, who expressed frank astonishment at his patient holding on so long.

The pope, speaking tonight to Dr. Mazzone, said he was weary of the hopeless struggle and begged to be allowed to die peacefully without useless stimulants, which could only prolong life a few hours at best.

The pontiff was especially solicitous for those about him, and often apologized for the trouble his long illness had caused them, doing so with the touching delicacy, which moved his attendants to tears. Prof. Mazzone told the Globe correspondent he did not intend to perform another operation, as the pope's condition was hopeless and did not justify the inflicting of further pain. Therefore, both doctors would direct their further efforts to making Leo XIII's remaining hours as free as possible from discomfort or pain, employing simple means, not resorting to medicines or methods disagreeable or disturbing to the dying man.

The professor attributed Leo's extraordinary tenacity of life to a healthy heart unimpaired by alcohol and strengthened by regular, simple habits. He intends to publish a scientific monograph, describing and illustrating the pope's extraordinary struggle with death and defending himself from the attacks of those doctors who have ac-

BACK TO PLAGUE-STRICKEN HOME

Ham Hong, Pardoned Out of Stillwater, Will Return to the Few Members Left of His Family in China.

Special to The Globe.

STILLWATER, Minn., July 16.—Ham Hong, the only Chinese prisoner at the state penitentiary, is to be released as soon as the pardon papers arrive from St. Paul, and will leave immediately for his former home in China, where his aged father waits to welcome him. Ham Hong and Ham Wing Sing were sent to the prison from Brainerd, Minn., to serve twenty-five years each for murder in the third degree, having been convicted of the murder of another Chinaman. Ham

Wing Sing died at the prison and Ham Hong became lonesome and sought a pardon. Some time ago he received word from China that the plague had killed his mother, two sisters, two brothers, an uncle and two aunts and the information almost crazed him. He refused to be comforted, and when informed that he was to be released he became overjoyed and said that he would go back to China to see his father, his only surviving relative, with the exception of two younger brothers and sisters. Ham Hong has been a very industrious and obedient convict and has about $140 saved up, which will carry him to his native country.

RUSSIA SPURNS THE JEWISH PETITION

Will Not Receive or Consider It, Which Ends the Whole Matter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 16.—It was learned tonight that the state department had received a reply from Russia stating that it neither would receive nor consider the matter of the Jewish petition on the subject of the Kishinev incident. This information came in the form of a cable dispatch from Mr. Riddle, American charge at St. Petersburg, to whom was committed the delicate task of inquiring of the Russian government as to its attitude with respect to the presentation of the petition. It is believed that this will end the matter, and that no further steps will be taken by this government to bring the views of the petitioners to the attention of Russia, although as yet no consideration has been given by the president to the course to be pursued in the light of Russia's response to our inquiry.

BRYAN FLINGS SARCASM AT GROVER MORGAN HAS KEENE

Former Party Leader Sarcasically Declares Roosevelt Will Beat Cleveland Out of the Republican Nomination.

With President Roosevelt well in charge of the Republican situation, and almost sure of the next nomination, I cannot see where Mr. Cleveland has any chance of receiving the nomination for president. Certainly he could not secure it in any DEMOCRATIC convention.—William Jennings Bryan.

William J. Bryan, of Nebraska, twice candidate for president of the United States, and a few years ago the most talked of man in the country, was in St. Paul a few hours yesterday, but during his stay here less than a half hundred people were aware of his presence and only a few called on him. No brass bands, no committees, not even a friend or admirer was present to welcome Mr. Bryan to St. Paul. He came unannounced and departed uncheered. During the day a few friends called on him at the Ryan, where he stopped, but only a few. When the famous Nebraskan stepped up to the clerk at the hotel yesterday evening and inquired for his bill but few persons in the hotel were aware of his presence, and no one was there to bid him farewell. Unattended, he found his way to a hack he had ordered, and alone he rode to the station.

"There goes Bryan," whispered a man on the street, as the former presidential candidate emerged from the hotel in search of his hack.

"What Bryan?" inquired the man's companion, looking in the direction his friend indicated.

Mr. Bryan instructed the driver to take him to the depot, and, looking his baggage over carefully, took a dime from a worn pocketbook and handed it to the porter.

"I'm not discussing politics at the present time," said Mr. Bryan to the Globe, just previous to his departure from the city.

"But what do you think of Mr. Cleveland as a presidential possibility?"

"I have talked on that subject so much in the past that there is no use of reiterating what I have said," he replied.

"Do you think he could secure the nomination if he desired it?"

"Well, from all appearances, Mr. Roosevelt seems to have the situation well in hand from a Republican standpoint, and certainly Mr. Cleveland could not secure the nomination at the hands of any Democratic convention," said Mr. Bryan, with especial emphasis on the word "Democratic."

"I am surprised anyone should think he had a chance."

"Do you think, Mr. Bryan, that Judge Parker's candidacy is worthy of serious consideration?" he was asked.

With a merry twinkle in his eye, Mr. Bryan replied:

"I don't know anything of these individual candidates," and as his carriage started he added, with a wave of his hand, "I don't know much about politics anyway."

Mr. Bryan came in from the East, and left at 6 o'clock last night for Hudson, Wis., where he was to deliver a non-political address.

Regarding his European trip, which it has been said he would take in company with his daughter this year for the purpose of studying the financial conditions of some of the European countries, Mr. Bryan said he had not as yet made up his mind; it was possible the trip would not be taken at all.

LITTLE GIRLS' ONLY GUARDIAN A DOG

They Live Alone in a Remote Cabin While Their Father Seeks Work.

Special to The Globe.

HELENA, Mont., July 16.—Guarded only by a faithful sheep dog, which would allow no one to approach, Ada and Nellie Lawrence, aged fourteen and eleven years, respectively, have lived alone in a tumble-down cabin near Rimini, at the mouth of Moose creek, more than a month. Officers of the humane society going to the place, secured the girls and brought them here, where they will be cared for until their father, who is supposed to be a bridge carpenter, can be found. The father moved out to the old cabin some time ago, taking with him two girls. Having to leave in search of work, he purchased the dog as a watchman, and there the girls have stayed ever since, doing what little work there was to be done around the place, gathering their own fuel and doing their own cooking.

When the humane society agent tried to approach the cabin he was attacked by the dog, which put up such a fight that the man was glad to retreat. Finally he held a long distance conversation with the two girls, who called off the dog. The children made no objection to going with the agent of the society, as they had become weary of their enforced isolation.

The little girls have been without a mother two years and have practically run the houses where they have lived at various times, while the father has been away earning money. The girls are pretty and intelligent, and say they do not blame their father for leaving them alone, as he could get no work near at hand.

CHIEF ARTHUR DROPS DEAD

Special to The Globe. WINNIPEG, Man., July 16.—Chief P. M. Arthur, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, dropped dead at a banquet tendered by citizens of Winnipeg in Scott Memorial hall, a few minutes before midnight.

He was accepting a floral emblem, and said: "Out of fullness of heart, the mouth speaks," and was preparing to say farewell words to the engineers and citizens, when he fell back over his seat, dead.

The event caused widespread consternation in the hall.

PREFER HARVESTING TO CIRCUSING

Two Hundred Men Desert the Tent for the South Dakota Wheat Fields.

Special to The Globe.

SIoux CITY, Iowa, July 16.—The harvest fields of South Dakota looked so much better to the tent men of the Forepaugh and Sells circus which was touring this state that about 200 of the men deserted the show and took to the fields.

As a result, when the circus reached here today it became necessary to hire about 100 boys of all ages to assist in putting up the tents.

ST. PAUL EVANGELIST AS A SECTION HAND

Rev. Clarence Winter, Dazed, Wanders Off and Is Found by His Mother.

Special to The Globe.

DULUTH, Minn., July 16.—Fr., evangelist to section hand is the remarkable metamorphosis which a few days of religious excitement has brought about for Rev. Clarence Winter, a young St. Paul minister, who today was given over to the charge of his mother, Mrs. L. M. Winter, at Blackduck, where he had wandered, unable to tell his own name.

His mother came up from St. Paul and left with her son on the next train. Young Winter took an active part in the recent Red Rock assembly and returned to St. Paul with his trunk, a gold watch and $40. He does not know where his property is, and his mind is a blank since that time. He was sent up into Beltrami county by an employment agency, and actually began work with a construction gang near Blackduck. But the work, to which he was unaccustomed, was too hard for him and he quit.

Winter appeared to be dazed and the residents of Blackduck took a kindly interest in him. It was ascertained that his uncle, George Lavayeu, was connected with the J. I. Case Implement company in St. Paul, and through him the mother was apprised of her son's condition. Winter's mind is thought to have become clouded through the excitement attending the religious meetings. W. M. Winter, a brother of the minister, accompanied the mother.

MORGAN HAS KEENE BULL STEEL STOCK

Harriman and Keene Are Credited With Having Reached an Agreement on Southern Pacific and James R. Is Again at Peace With George Gould--Market Shows Strength, but the Bears Batter Amalgamated Copper and Anxiety Exists Regarding the Standard Oil People.

Special to The Globe.

NEW YORK, July 16.—The market was stronger today, despite the fierce bear raid which featured its opening. This was to some extent caused by interviews given out by prominent men, in which they declared that the selling movement was not warranted by actual conditions. The attitude of the big interests towards the market was perhaps the most encouraging feature of the day. James R. Keene's firm sent out private letters to its customers advising them to buy stock. Other big firms followed suit.

Wall street learned today that the services of James R. Keene have been retained by J. P. Morgan & Co. to renew the bull campaign in United States Steel shares. The story was also current in Wall street that Mr. Keene and E. H. Harriman had come to an agreement in Southern Pacific and that George Gould and Mr. Harriman were friendly again.

The bears steadily fought the decline all day and apparently were looking for a weak spot. They found it in the afternoon in Amalgamated Copper. The directors of this company met at noon and declared the regular dividend of 1/2 of 1 per cent. Nobody expected that the dividend would be more. But the story got out that there was going to be a cut in the price of copper next week, and Harry Well, acting for the Standard Oil interests, began offering the stock down. This brought out thousands of shares on the break and the selling movement did not end until the price reached 46 1/2, the lowest on record.

This move on the part of the Well crowd puzzled Wall street. It was generally regarded as a ruse of the bears in order to facilitate their covering operations, but coming as it did from the Standard Oil crowd, it created some anxiety lest those interests are still committed to the bear side of the market.

THURMOND NEEDS EYE GLASSES

Takes Another Man's Wife for His, Spanks Her, Knocks the Husband Senseless and Is Arrested.

Special to The Globe.

BILLINGS, Mont., July 16.—Because he is near-sighted and because several women of this city wear hats just alike, George Thurmond is in jail, with a charge of assault with intent to kill against him. Thurmond has a remarkably pretty wife, of whom he is exceedingly jealous. Several evenings ago he thought he saw her walking in the street with a man. Later Mrs. Thurmond denied that she had even been out of the house.

Last evening, while Mr. Thurmond was coming home from his work in the early evening, he saw a woman he supposed was his wife, walking with one of his bitterest enemies. Without a word Thurmond walked up behind the couple and knocked the man senseless. Then he turned his attention to the woman and spanked her soundly. Not a word was said during the trouble, and after it was all over Thurmond left the man and the woman lying in the street and went to his home. His wife, who had supper waiting, greeted him as he came in through the door.

Thurmond, seeing he had made a mistake, went to the police station and told of the assault he had committed, explaining that it was all a mistake. He explained that he had felt certain that the woman was his wife, and that in a fit of jealous rage he had taken the law into his own hands. He was still talking to the police when Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Donnigan entered to make complaint against Thurmond.
