POPE HAS BUT FEW MORE HOURS OF LIFE

His Physicians Admit That the End Cannot Long Be Delayed—His Holiness in a State of Coma From Which It is Doubtful if He Will Ever Emerge—Every Movement About the Vatican Indicates Preparation for the Final Scene.

Special Cable to The Globe.
ROME, July 19.—Dr. Rossini, seen as he was returning from the evening consultation with Drs. Mazzoni and Lapponi, said:
"The pope's condition is desperate. He did not recognize us. He is extremely weak, and is unable to articulate or swallow even liquids. The end is imminent."

Dr. Lapponi was also interviewed. He said:
"We expect the catastrophe tomorrow morning at the latest. The patient is sinking rapidly and is no longer able to assimilate the food given for the cardinals during that function.

The "Tribuna" of tonight contains an officially inspired article declaring that the Italian government will take no notice of the pope's death unless officially notified by the authorities of the Vatican.

QUIET IN VATICAN ACTIVITY WITHOUT

ROME, July 20, 3:35 a. m.—Now that the supreme last moment in the memorable life and reign of Pope Leo is expected almost hourly, the contrast between the quiet within, and the excitement without the Vatican is most striking. In the vast palace there is a hushed calm of expectation, the only apparent wakeful souls being the Swiss guards. The doctors and attendants of the dying pontiff speak in whispers and move noiselessly about, so that from the sick room no sound comes except the heavy breathing of the unconscious pope or his occasional cries for Pio Centra and Dr. Lapponi. His tone is one of fear, as though he felt himself abandoned. In reality sleep is very far from all eyes. No matter at what hour death comes, the whole palace will spring into sudden life as though touched by a magician's wand. In the piazza of St. Peter's, on the contrary, all is movement, there being a regular encampment of journalists before the famous bronze doors, which are now closed in their faces and behind which the regular tramp of the Swiss guards can be heard. Many eyes are glued to the window in the pope's chamber overlooking the piazza, while the near-by cafes, especially those with telephones, are crowded. Bicycles ready for use are lined up outside them and cabs are lingering about in the hope of catching a fare. This strange scene is illuminated by the magnificent starlight, while the two grand and celebrated fountains give a kind of spectral grace to the whole.

The Osservatore Romano, the chief Vatican organ, has received orders to hold itself in readiness to issue almost at a moment's notice a special edition. The only thing wanting to complete the

WYOMING COWBOYS RESORT TO LYNCH LAW TO KILL THREE

Attack Jail at Basin and Riddle Two Murderers With Bullets—One Deputy Shot in Fight—Sheriff Calls for Troops.

RED LODGE, Mont., July 19.—Jim Gorman, who killed his brother about a year ago, and ran off with his brother's wife, and a man named Walters, who killed a widow named Hoover at Hot Springs two years ago because she refused to marry him, were lynched at Basin, Wyoming, early today. C. E. Pierce, a deputy sheriff, was killed during the attack on the jail.
A state of lawlessness now prevails in Northern Wyoming as a result of which all law and order seem to have been abolished. From President Moffitt, of the Montana & Wyoming Telephone company, who is now making a tour of inspection of his company's lines, comes the news of lynching and of an appeal for help from Sheriff Fenton, of Big Horn county, who has arrested a number of prominent cattlemen near Thermopolis and has appealed to the governor of Wyoming for assistance from militia in getting his prisoners to Basin.
Hid His Prisoners.
It was reported to Sheriff Fenton last Wednesday morning that a mob was coming up to Basin from Hiattsville and Tonsilp, for the purpose of lynching Gorman and Walters. As a measure of precaution the sheriff took these two men and a horse thief out of jail and secreted them in a gulley near town under guard of Deputy Sheriffs Felix Alston and C. E. Pierce. Gorman managed to slip his handcuffs and make his escape. He swam the

CHOOSING COFFIN FOR HER OWN FUNERAL

Missoula Woman Does a Bit of Shopping Not of the Usual Kind.

Special to The Globe.
MISSOULA, Mont., July 19.—Most persons have a horror of coffins, but not so Mrs. Frank Henkle, living a short distance from this city. When she appeared at a local undertaker's today and asked to be shown the stock she was as unconcerned as if she were going in to purchase a spool of thread.
"You see," said she, directing her remarks to the undertaker, "my doctor has told me that I have heart disease and consumption and that I am likely to die at any moment. This being true, I desire to pick out for myself a coffin in which I am to be buried."
Mrs. Henkle was accompanied by her husband, who apparently saw nothing out of the ordinary in helping his wife to select her own coffin.
"How do you like this one, dear?" he asked, directing the attention of the woman to a rich mahogany casket with silver trimmings.
"It is very pretty," replied the woman, "but the price is too high. Goodness knows that illness is always expensive, and I am sure you do not want to add to the expense by making me take a coffin as rich as that one."
"Well, suit yourself; you are the person who will have to use it," said the husband, as he smiled at his wife and patted her on the shoulder.
Mr. and Mrs. Henkle looked over all the coffins in the shop and finally picked out one that the woman thought would suit her.
"The doctor tells me I will die inside of two months," said the woman as she prepared to depart, "so I want you to save this coffin (laying her hands on the one she had picked out) for me."
The undertaker promised that he would save it.

LEAGUERS GO TO DENVER NEXT YEAR

Convention at Detroit Ends With a Number of Enthusiastic Gatherings.

DETROIT, Mich., July 19.—With seven meetings tonight, all splendidly attended, the sixth international convention of the Epworth league, which Dr. J. F. Berry and other officers of the league say has been the greatest and most successful in the league's history, came to a close. Denver was this afternoon decided upon for the next convention. The resolutions committee, which has jurisdiction over the meeting place, met yesterday and heard representations from delegations from several cities, including Minneapolis, Saratoga Springs and Denver, and decided to refer the selection to a subcommittee. The pressure of the Denver delegation, was so strong, however, that today the committee recalled the matter from the subcommittee and decided in favor of Denver.
The same programme was followed at all of the meetings tonight. Addresses were made on three subjects, "Christ Our King," "His Conquering Kingdom" and "My Place in the Army," followed by a "waiting hour for the descent of the holy spirit." The official resolutions of the convention were also adopted by each meeting.
The resolutions, which are in the continued growth of the young people's societies, deplore desecration of the Sabbath and declare strongly against intoxicating liquors.
The greatest crowd that has convened in the city during the history of the convention was present tonight. The 5,000 seats were occupied and at least 2,000 more people were standing about the edges of the tent. Dr. J. M. Buckley, of New York, was the first speaker, discussing "Christ Our King."
One of the finest gatherings of the children's meeting in the Central tent Ontario this afternoon, which was presided over by B. F. Diefendorf, of Canajoharie, N. Y. There were 8,500 men present.
Mrs. Jennie M. Bligham, of Herkimer, N. Y., presided over the women's meeting in Auditorium Epworth and the speakers there were: Miss Eleanor Miller, of Hartland, Minn.; Mrs. T. E. Harrison, of London, Ont.; and Miss Iva May Durham, of St. Louis, Mo. More than 1,000 little people attended the children's meeting in the Central tent.
The speakers were: Mrs. Anna E. Smiley, of Springfield, Mass.; Rev. R. J. Treleven, of Toronto, and Miss Mary M. Dennis, of Richmond, Ind. In addition to the three afternoon meetings "Love Feasts" were held at 9 a. m. in a dozen churches in different parts of the city. Fifty or more pulpits were filled at the morning services by various clergymen.

POSTMISTRESS IS HER OWN DETECTIVE

Traces Postal Swindlers, but a Cautious Police Lets Them Escape.

Special to The Globe.
SIOUX FALLS, S. D., July 19.—After having become the victim of two short-change men, Mrs. Young, postmistress at Running Water, turned detective and traced the rascals to Tyndall. Had it not been for the fact that the local officers were not certain as to their jurisdiction in the case, believing that it was a matter for the United States authorities, as it involved postal funds, the men would have been captured.
A stranger entered the postoffice while Mrs. Young was alone. He purchased a stamp, and, after the usual fruitless search in his pockets for pennies, tendered Mrs. Young a $20 bill. He had received his change, when he suddenly made the discovery that he had a small amount of change and asked her to give him back the bill and take the change. He laid a $10 bill on the window, and after taking his twenty, commenced to count out the silver change Mrs. Young had given him ostensibly for the purpose of giving it back to her.
Just at this juncture another stranger, who proved to be a confederate, entered the postoffice and asked Mrs. Young for information about a certain money order office. The name was an unfamiliar one, and Mrs. Young was compelled to consult a postal guide, finding that there was no such postoffice in the state.
When she turned to where the stamp purchaser had stood she discovered that he had disappeared, together with his own money and $10 of Uncle Sam's postal funds.
She determined to do a little detective work on her own account, and found the crooks at Tyndall, where a picnic of the Woodmen was being held. She readily recognized the men, who also got a glimpse of her. The officer who accompanied her declined to arrest the crooks until he had consulted attorneys as to his jurisdiction, and, of course, when he returned the two swindlers had made their escape.
This is the first time that more than one man has attempted to victimize South Dakotans with this game, and it is thought the two men may attempt to work the same scheme on officials at other small postoffices.

TRAMP STRIKER FINDS UNCLE

Minneapolis Boy, a Member of "Mother Jones' Army, Falls Into Luck and a Comfortable Home by Accident.

Special to The Globe.
NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 19.—When "Mother" Jones' army was here yesterday Frank Stacey, a boy of fourteen, was discovered by his uncle, Frank Stacey, a rich leather merchant of Newark, who has a summer home at Fanwood. The boy is a grandson of Amos Stacey, who was a wealthy leather dealer in New York many years ago.

LABORER ROBBED WHILE HE SLEEPS

Nels Jacobson, Harvest Hand, Is Divested of Clothing and Money.

Coatless, shoeless, minus his collar and necktie and short $32 in cash, Nels Jacobson awoke from a three hours' slumber in an alley leading off of East Seventh street at 4 o'clock yesterday morning. Jacobson is still looking for the articles from which he was separated, and has invoked the aid of the police in the search.
Jacobson has been in this country but a short time, and his desire to see the city by daylight led him into several saloons Saturday night. During his rounds of the various drinking emporiums he became acquainted with a number of men, who were inclined to be sociable so long as he bought drinks, and shortly after midnight Jacobson became "groggy" and sought out a soft spot in a convenient alley, where he went to sleep.
When Jacobson was finally aroused everything led to the belief that he had slept soundly. Something like $32 in cash, which he had on his person when he went to sleep, had disappeared, and along with the cash had gone his coat, shoes and a number of other articles of wearing apparel. The person or persons who had relieved him of his money even took his collar and tie; in fact, about the only thing that failed to relieve him of was the effect of the previous night's dissipation, which he still had with him when he entered a Wabasha street saloon to inquire the way to the police station, where he reported his misfortune.
"This is pretty hard luck," said Jacobson, as he surveyed the "meat" of what was left of him in the saloon mirror, "but I guess I'm lucky they didn't take my socks."
"Cheer up, old man, and have a drink," said a bystander. "One more won't hurt you."
"Well, I'll take a chance," replied Jacobson, as he poured out a drink which made the bartender look said, "I guess there isn't anything more they can get from me."
Jacobson reached St. Paul Saturday from Bismarck, N. D., where he has been working in the harvest fields. He had $100 when he reached town, the savings of three months.
"I got acquainted with some fellows and spent $18 in buying drinks for them," said Jacobson. "The last thing I remember they were drinking with me in some saloon, but what saloon I don't know. I think they must have drugged me and then robbed me of my money and clothes."

RUSSIA HESITATES TO ATTACK JAPAN

Eastern Diplomats Think Czar Feels Other Powers.

PEKIN, July 19.—According to diplomats here, the greatest factor in the Eastern situation is the increasing danger of war between Russia and Japan. They believe it is becoming plain that Russia is willing to fight Japan if convinced that no other power will assist her. The Russians are confident of their ability to easily defeat Japan and are said to be anxious to settle definitely her position in Eastern politics and end her ambition to oppose Russia's progress in Manchuria. The belief is attributed to the Japanese that the Russian policy is to attempt to placate Great Britain and America and provoke Japan into beginning hostilities. They regard Russia's consent to opening ports in Manchuria, the czar's promised visit to England, and the occupation of the Korean border as parts of that policy. Russia's activity on the Yalu river is more irritating to Japan than the retention of Manchuria, and all Japanese officials in China speak of war as a probability.
