BLIND JIM BECOMES
A RAVING MANIAC
BECAUSE OF WORRY

Loss of Sight and Anxiety Over Proposed Home for the Blind Drive Him Dismayed—He Shrieks, "Oh God, Give Me Back My Eyes."

Blind "Jim" Costello will probably have to go to St. Peter. He was taken to the county jail last night a raving maniac, and there seems very little chance of his recovery.

There were 300 people around the county building at 2 o'clock in the morning, and it took some explanation of the situation to convince them that somebody was not being done to death inside the grim stone walls.

Of late Costello, who is known as the blind philanthropist, has been brooding over his affliction. It has always been a terrible trial to him, but in the past through the mediation of his friends, he has managed to keep his nerves under control. Suddenly, after a brief attack of illness, he lost all control of his powerful physique lost all control of himself and his cries resounded through the otherwise silent streets in the dead night.

"Oh, God, give me back my eyes," he screamed. "My eyes, oh, God, the power of sight and then chaos." Costello became violent as soon as he entered the cell with him during the night. He could not be calmed, and his paroxysms became more violent as the night progressed. To night workers who were homeward bound Costello's ravings simulated the horrors of appeal from Spanish prison vaults, and they halted in awe-stricken attention to the moaning and shrieks that penetrated the silence of early morning.

Costello became so violent that he had to be strapped to his cot, and he did not become calm during the entire night. Yesterday afternoon he was taken before Judge Harvey, of the probate court, but the court declined to pass on his case until there had been a complete examination. Costello was recommitted to jail.

Costello was known as the "blind philanthropist" because he had the plan in his head of erecting for blind people a home in Minneapolis.

He had interested Levi M. Stewart and other Minneapolis business men in his plan, which seemed in fair way of realization. He had already purchased two lots facing east between Thirty-seventh and Thirty-eighth streets, on Minnehaha avenue. The property fronts 150 feet by 80 feet deep.

On this land Jim proposed to erect a $20,000 building. Pending the completion of the building, tents had been erected, and three of Jim's beneficiaries now occupy them. These men are Thos.
Collomann, who is paralyzed, and Gilbert Larson, a helpless cripple. Michael Hayes, who is suffering from locomotor ataxia, is another of Costello's unfor-tunatees.

There was no sign of insanity in Costello's case yesterday, when he suddenly developed the symptoms of acute mania and became worse as the day progressed. The unfortunate man came to Minneapolis in 1912. Before losing his sight he drove a hack for several years. Since that time he has earned a living by conducting popcorn stands.

Costello was a great admirer of Dr.
A. A. Ames, and it is understood that Dr. Ames has been attending the Coste-lo colony free of charge since his return to Minneapolis.

poor pale and worn. He is the saddest and sickest looking lord of the soil seen in Minneapolis for a long time.

Sodini is indicted on the charge of offering a bribe to a public officer. With Dr.
Fichette $1,000 as the price of Mayor Ames closing the Park and Standard Theaters, his competitive neighbors, and "Coffee John" testified to the payment of the money before the grand jury, and securing the original check from Sodini by a ruse and producing this check before the grand jury.

There is evidence that Ames accepted the bribe offered by Sodini, and did close the theaters in question. Sodini was arrested yesterday before Judge Elliott.
Bonds were given and the case set for hearing at the next term of court.

As a matter of fact Sodini has been in town for several weeks. He has been in poor state of health, and it has been understood that he would appear to plead to the indictment against him as soon as his health improved. Fichette, in his testimony, Sodini appeared in court today. He is quite evidently a very sneaky man.

LUMBERMEN MUST
SPARE ALL TREES
MARKED "U. S."

Representative of the Bureau of Forestry Begins Selecting the 5 Per Cent of the Mer-chantable Pine on Red Lake Reservation to Be Untouched.

Special to The Globe.
CASS LAKE, Minn., Aug. 3.—Eugene S. Bruce, chief lumberman of the bureau of forestry, accompanied by H. W. Newman, draughtsman of the bureau, has arrived here from Washington. Mr. Bruce returns to superintend the work of the bureau here, including the selection of the 5 per cent of the merchantable pine to be left standing for seeding and forest reserve.

Experts are marking the pine not to be cut by the loggers. Each tree stamped "U. S." must remain standing. Mr. Bruce will also recommend where the remaining part for the forest reserve shall be. There are over 100,000 acres to be selected.

OUTLOOK FOR VESSEL MEN.
One Shippers Don't Like Prospect for Increased Coal Movement.
SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 3.—Vessel men of the great lakes are figuring on what August is to mean for them. The July deals in grain ended last week, and there have been several deals made for August shipment of grain. The market, though these transactions have not been extraordinarily large, they show that there will be a duller market for the month. By some they are taken as a sign of a heavy movement later in the month and season. With the hose of a vessel men expect increased demand for vessel men. The last two weeks have been about the quietest ever experienced in the grain trade. Unless this month does yield something better vessel men will try to secure business for the grain boats in other lines.

There has been a change for the better in the market for the grain boats. The shippers do not like this because it causes delays that tend to keep back the ore. This winter the market is especially as the ore movement promises to be larger than last year.

MAKES GOLD PRO MSLATE.
This Alchemist Very Appropriately Lives at a Town Named Merlin.
MERLIN, Or., Aug. 3.—La. Rix, chemist and metallurgist, has made silver from gold and developed a new metal from commercial slate from which he expects to produce gold. The metal has an affinity for the atom of gold and silver which he calls "mercurium." The theory he has of working it is the disintegration of the atom into units of the silver atom.

The process consists of a strong acid solution combined with powerful electric currents and long exposure to their action, causing the destruction of a portion of the atom by electrical conveyance into a similar solution of rixum.

JOHN W. GATES
Capitalist and Stock Operator Whose Illness May Cause His Retirement.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Stories of a most alarming nature, and storing truth are told of the state of the health of John W. Gates, who is now here with his family. From time to time during the last year it has been said that Mr. Gates was not well, but as soon as the stories were told they were denied. Now his friends do not deny that Mr. Gates is far from being the robust man he was when first he became known in Wall street, and it is his health, instead of financial reverses that has kept him out of the market of late.

A warm personal friend of Mr. Gates told the nature of his malady.
"Mr. Gates," said the friend, "is an extremely ill man, and no one recognizes the fact better than he does himself. He is now taking a mortgage on a dam in the Jim River valley, near his hands of every pupil in the territory. This is done with the object in view of making statehood a feature in every home.

This book is not of a political character, but uses the arguments of area, wealth and intelligence. It shows that 95 per cent of Oklahoma citizens read and write; that there are seven territorial colleges, and that $1,250,000 are invested in public school houses, employing 3,000 teachers. Regarding area, the book shows that an Eastern legislator need not object to Oklahoma on that score, as the territory could swallow up several New England states and have room for others.

Trouble for Servian Officer.
BELGRADE, Aug. 3.—A Servian officer has been arrested here on the charge of selling the mobilization plans to a foreign power. It is believed that he has several accomplices. An investigation is proceeding.

GLAD HE HAD ANOTHER BROTHER.
The brothers had more or less trouble with the boy next door, and hadn't always come out victors. In fact, the boy next door was so much bigger that he seemed to have the best of it invariably.

So it wasn't an unusual thing when one of the brothers came into the house with a badly bruised eye. Moreover, he was crying when his aunt stopped him in the hall. "You mustn't make any noise," she said. "You mustn't make any noise."
"What—what's the matter?" he asked between his sobs.
"You may disturb your new brother," said his aunt soothingly.
"He died his eyes in a minute."
"Have I got a new brother?" he asked.
His aunt nodded.
"One beside Jim?"
She nodded again.
"Bully!" he exclaimed.
"You're glad of it?" she asked.
"You bet!" he fairly shouted. "If Jim and me and the new one can't lick that feller we'd better move."—Brooklyn Eagle.
