STRIKE SITUATION AT CRITICAL STAGE

Building Contractors Refuse to Promise Employment to Union Men Only.

The labor strike has assumed a serious aspect.

A proposition has been made to the contractors and refused. The proposition was by George C. Gubins, president of the International Bricklayers' union, yesterday, and included a recognition of the Building Laborers' union, the employment of none but union mason tenders and a minimum scale of 25 cents an hour. Failure to accept this proposition, Mr. Gubins is said to have intimated strongly, would mean a general sympathetic strike, which would affect every business interest in the city.

At the largest meeting held by the contractors in several days, the contractors decided yesterday to stand their ground. After the meeting this noon President P. S. McMillan, of the Master Builders' association, said: "We have decided unanimously to hold to the position we have always maintained, that we will not promise to use only union men."

tempt on the life of the groom. For a week he had been morose, and had been determined in his opposition to the marriage. Only a few days ago he attempted to secure the consent of his sister to an indefinite postponement of the wedding, but when she refused he declined to attend the ceremony.

The guests were so interested in the ceremony that they failed to notice the entrance of the bride's brother to the room. The minister was directly in line with the first bullet, and it whizzed past his head, while the second, which had been aimed at the bride, went wide, and struck a vase on the wall. Marshall ran to the back of the house, accosted a servant to learn the result of the shooting, and was disappointed when he was told that both bride and groom had escaped injury. He managed to make good his escape.

Mrs. Marshall stated that it was her opinion that the son was not in his mind, and for this reason she stated that she would not ask for his arrest.

KILLS HER HE LOVES

"Fanny, I am loyal and true; can't go till we see you; trust John; he will tell you when to go." These are believed to be the "personals" referred to. Dr. Peters, of St. Michael's church, who knew Edson well, is a constant attendant. Her condition that none but the most honorable relations existed between Edson and Mrs. Pullen, she was, he said, Edson's wife.

Mrs. Pullen lived with her husband, John F. Pullen, an auditor at the Grand Central station, and her two children, Mrs. Pullen, now sixteen years old, and Mary, fourteen years old.

The Edsons were to break up their home this morning as a result of an article signed by Edson in the paper, reached the night before. The life of the pair had not been happy.

Mrs. Edson spent last night with her friend Mrs. Pullen. She was about to go out this morning when she was called by Edson asking that Mrs. Pullen accompany his wife to see him. Strikers Cease to Strike.

Many of the employes have returned to work at an increase of 25 cents per day. The jam between this city and Royall is broken, and the drive of 100,000,000 feet of logs is now running freely. A force of fifty men is at work.

TOLD SECOND HAND.

An Interesting True Tale of Feeding. A bright young woman of Iowa, who keeps her eyes open tells an interesting and true story of her husband's experience with food.

She had nervous dyspepsia for several years and when an attack came on she would go to a physician and get some relief up to last year when she had the grip which left her very weak and then her stomach collapsed and refused to retain anything but the very simplest foods. Soon she could not eat even the simplest of these.

She always complained of terrible distress after eating which was soon followed by vomiting, yet she was so hungry all the time that she would try to eat. One day she read an article about Grape-Nuts and asked her father to get some and he went out and bought a package. She took a tablespoonful moistened with a little milk. The taste was delicious and satisfying, and to everyone's surprise there was absolutely no pain or trouble in her stomach after eating it.

"After a couple of hours she called for some more Grape-Nuts and this time the amount was doubled and soon after eating it she fell into a sound, natural sleep, sleeping for several hours, something she had not done since her illness without the aid of morphine. She continued to use Grape-Nuts alone for one week, improving rapidly all the time and then began to increase her diet as her returning strength and appetite made this possible.

"Four months from the time she first commenced the use of Grape-Nuts she became a comparatively healthy girl quite strong and vigorous, eating, sleeping and working much better than she had done for years. She and all her friends feel that she owes her life to the scientific food Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Bletta Creek, Mich.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

FINANCIAL NEEDS OF NORTH DAKOTA

Objections Are Made to Special Session to Supply Money to Institutions.

Special to The Globe. GRAND FORKS, N. D., Sept. 2.—There has been a good deal of discussion on the question of calling an extra session of the legislature to provide for the needs of the institutions during the interim before the regular session. The recent decision of the supreme court invalidating the $750,000 worth of bonds which was proposed to sell on the security of the institution lands has left many of the institutions in a predicament. The trouble is not as to their current expenses, as these are provided for; but improvements were made on any action on the part of the legislature that the needs of the institutions be met by the issue of bonds.

The trustees have in this manner contracted debts aggregating quite a sum, and they have secured the money which they need by issuing warrants which were accepted by the investors here and there, with the expectation that the legislature would provide a way to redeem them. In this manner the state university has contracted a debt of nearly $100,000, the agricultural college of $25,000, and other institutions more or less.

The governor has stated that there is in the treasury about $100,000 in excess of the requirements of the state, and that he would get enough to permit the legislature to provide for the expenditure of the amount of about $200,000 to relieve the pressure at the universities.

There is some objection to the holding of the session, and it has been suggested that the needs of the institutions be met temporarily by the banks, leaving the legislature to take care of the matter at its regular session. To this the reply is made that this would involve the state in a present inchoate condition, and the inevitable result would be the expenditure of large sums of money unnecessarily, to be paid for out of the general taxes in the future.

Some people are ashamed of their age," said Mr. Terrell yesterday, "but I am proud of mine."

Among the earliest settlers in Minnesota who were present yesterday was Mrs. Maria Bolles, of Stillwater, Ind. Mrs. Bolles claims that she was the first woman to settle in Minnesota, and she is now ninety years of age.

The following members of the Territorial Pioneer Women's club assisted at the informal reception yesterday: Mrs. Ed. Southworth, Shakopee; Mrs. Potts, Minneapolis; Miss Stratton, Minneapolis; Mrs. Hill, Minneapolis; Mrs. Hannah Hazard, St. Paul; Mrs. M. C. Hazard, St. Paul.

It is now forwarding weekly to Chicago and New York markets from 25,000 to 30,000 pounds of butter and supphic cheese, and will ship more butter than any other creamery company in the United States.

VAST CROWDS DEFY RAIN AT STATE FAIR

jangled," so far as appearances are concerned, it is very well preserved. Tribute to Ramsey.

Mr. Durant in his opening address yesterday, referred to the excellent work the late Alexander Ramsey had done toward the upbuilding of Minnesota.

"The state owes much of its present prominence to his efforts," said Mr. Durant. "This is the first time the territorial pioneers of Minnesota have met in the log cabin during the state fair without him, and today, more than at any time since his death, are we filled with a sense of his loss."

Mr. Durant introduced H. R. Wells, of Preston, who gave a brief account of the state's early efforts to supply educational facilities. Mr. Wells said he remembered going with his father in 1857 to vote for the state constitution. They walked four miles to vote and when they got there one voted for and one against the constitution.

Following Mr. Wells, A. L. Larpen-teur indulged in a few reminiscences and ex-Congressman Gillilan also spoke briefly. Following the meeting a number of the pioneers visited the log cabin yesterday were: Edwin Patch, who came here in 1847, and who was postmaster at St. Anthony under Presidents Pierce and Buchanan; Philip Barden, of St. Paul, who came here in 1849; Eli Pettijohn, of Washington Park, who came here in 1841; Mary M. Bolles, of Stillwater; Mr. Joseph L. Gulon, St. Paul, '45; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Tinker, St. Paul, '48; Franklin C. Ford, Red Rock, '44; A. M. Parker, Minneapolis, '48.

Oldest Pioneer Is 95. The oldest of all the pioneers present yesterday, however, was H. K. Terrell.

enough food samples to provide him with three tolerably good meals a day. In addition to these food samples he can, if he cares to, carry home many little samples of black lead, sticking plaster, a mouth organ, an up-to-date mouse trap, etc., for family use at home.

It is figured out in prosaic dollars and cents, it is not improbable that the totals would show that samples aggregating at least $1,000 are given away daily during the state fair. Every man who has an article which he thinks the public should not be without is willing to make overtures that he hopes will end in a sale by handing out a sample. Visitors enter the building with empty hands and emerge with arms laden.

Occasionally a name and address is requested in return for the sample. For instance one building, which evidently has some industry he desires to promote, stops each visitor who enters the grounds and demands whether he or she will send like a note with the sample in the affirmative—for the map displays is large and attractively colored, two good qualities which attract the inexpressive perfumes that are given away but not the recipients, who gratefully empty the contents on their coats or bodies as soon as they receive them.

A Minneapolis firm is giving away samples of face powder to the women, and it is a fact worthy of comment that the majority of women who emerge from the building invariably nab their noses with their handkerchiefs.

Many state fair visitors doubtless take exception to the free samples of inexpensive perfumes that are given away but not the recipients, who gratefully empty the contents on their coats or bodies as soon as they receive them.

As a sample of your favorite breakfast food may be had for the asking, hatpins warranted to keep any hat on straight, are distributed generously, crackers, whether you speak or not, are thrust upon you. As for the sample cups of coffee and tea that are tendered—did the visitor drink them all, his nervous system would be a wreck.

FARM MACHINERY EXHIBIT A FEATURE

The farm machinery exhibit has always been a big feature at the Minnesota state fair, but never has the show approached, even in a remote degree, the 1903 display.

The splendid new machinery pavilion is no doubt responsible for the remarkable show made this year, but for many of the firms have erected smaller buildings for their individual uses, and the displays made in the field and under tents greatly exceed in number and variety of machines and appliances shown the efforts of any former years.

There are in all 140 exhibitors of farm machinery. A majority of them are manufacturers or large jobbers and the number of exhibits runs far up into the thousands. A day could be spent in a tour of the machinery section, and then many things, curious and interesting to the city man, as well as the farmer, would remain unseen.

The exhibits range in size from the potato parer to the giant separators and traction engines. There are machines for expelling or lightening the work of the farmer and farm wife in every one of their manifold labors. The little family dish-washing machine, for the overworked housewife, vies with the four-horse corn harvester, the gang plows and the big threshing machines; fruit presses, with hay balers, and labor-saving churns, with silos big enough for a large stock or dairy farm.

FAIR NOTES. Pickpockets do not work at the St. Paul gate at the fair ground. This fact came to light yesterday in connection with the sentencing of four suspects, three of whom were ninety days in the county jail and one paid a fine of $20.

Tom Lynch, St. Paul; James Connors, Albany, N. Y.; Joseph Spades, Chicago, and William Miles, all known in police circles, were picked up by Pinkertons at the Minneapolis gate Tuesday night. Yesterday morning three of whom were ninety days in the county jail, Lynch, Connors and Spades were sentenced to pay fines of $100 or in default to go to jail for ninety days.
