INDIAN TERRITORY BRIDGES FRAUDULENT

Secretary Hitchcock Will Soon Announce the Man Chosen to Do Some Investigating.

Special to The Globe.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 9.—Secretary Hitchcock's long search for a man to investigate conditions in Indian territory seems to be nearing a successful conclusion. It is expected that an announcement will be made in structed on the familiar plan and of materials in the usual proportions, figures in the accounts as having cost as much for nails alone as for lumber.

a few days. The matters upon which District Attorney Speed will take official action are the charges regarding bridges. A bridge which figures in the certified vouchers as a steel arch structure, with stone buttresses and piers, is actually a cheap wooden affair, supported by the conventional truss; a wooden bridge, supposed to be con-less expense, and the difference pocketed by somebody. A bridge which is certified as spanning a stream and forming part of a continuous highway, stands with one terminus on the highway and a higher on an Indian allotment, where it is a trespasser, and the agent has instructions to close it and keep it closed.

KILLED BY DISGRACE

Des Moines Woman Dies After Fainting in Court.

Special to The Globe.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Sept. 9.—Swooning as she heard her son Fred bound over to the grand jury on the charge of larceny, Mrs. Susan Virden, an aged woman, dropped to the floor of Justice Duncan's court and closed her eyes for the last time on a heart-breaking scene, for she died late this afternoon.

When the judge commenced to render his decision she strained every nerve to catch the words. She bent her aged head forward and as the fatal words were spoken she fell to the floor in a dead faint. A few unfeeling officers standing by as her aged form fell said, "An old trick," but the mother soon died after her son was taken to jail.

RUSSIANS IN NO HURRY TO GET OUT

Propose Postponement of the Evacuation of Manchuria—China Objects to Terms.

YOKOHAMA, Sept. 9.—A Peking telegram, which is semi-officially confirmed at Tokio, says the Russian minister has proposed the postponement of the evacuation of the Kirin and Amur districts of Manchuria, set for Oct. 8.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—The Times correspondent at Peking telegraphs two fresh conditions that M. Lessar, the Russian minister, included in his note to the Chinese foreign board, promising to begin the evacuation of Manchuria on Oct. 8. The first condition is that Russia be allowed landing stages on the Sungari river, with the right to guard them with Russian troops, and the second is that Russia shall have the right to maintain Russian post stations along the main route from Tsitsihar, capital of Heilungking, to Bagovostschensk, China.

Russia specifies that the Kirin province shall be evacuated four months after the Heilungking province, a year after the evacuation of Mukden. China protests against this also.

The correspondent concludes that the attitude of the Chinese officials seems less hopeful than when they first received the Russian conditions.

Washington Postoffice Investigated.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 9.—By direction of President Roosevelt a thorough investigation has been made into the charges preferred by Seymour W. Tulloch against the management of affairs of the Washington postoffice. This investigation has been made by Charles J. Bonaparte and Holmes Conrad, special counsel of the government in the prosecution of the postoffice fraud cases, and it is independent and entirely supplementary to the report made by Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow on the charges preferred by Mr. Tulloch. No prosecutions will follow from any conclusions the report may draw, as the offenses, if any have been committed, are barred by the statute of limitations.

WON BY SWEET VOICE

Accents of Telephone Girl Bring Her a Husband.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 9.—A soft, winsome voice won a heart and home for Miss Mary Kelley, formerly a telephone girl in the long-distance office of the Central Union company. She is now the wife of L. G. Preston, night telegraph operator of the American Press association, who fell in love with her long before he had seen her face.

Preston was a bachelor, with no thought of matrimony, when the night editor of the association called his attention to the fact that there was a new girl with a wonderfully sweet voice at the telephone exchange. He was not even interested until a few nights later, when the night editor again expressed his admiration for the soothing tones of the unknown but accommodating telephone maiden.

"Let me talk to her," said Preston. He took the receiver and the romance was started. Preston liked the voice better than any he had ever heard. When it was necessary to call long distance the next night he offered his services to the night operator. After that the romance ripened rapidly.

Preston was an ardent, though modest, wooer, but the night editor soon noticed that the telephone who was carrying the old, old story. He was not surprised when one night the girl with the winning voice called him and asked Mr. Preston was not one of the nicest men on earth. The inquisitive night editor learned that his associate had sent theater tickets and flowers that afternoon.

That was the beginning of the last chapter of the romance. They both worked at night, and it was so convenient to meet every afternoon. The night editor was not surprised when a few weeks after his associate came into the office with the announcement that he had married the girl with the sweet, soft voice. The marriage occurred several weeks ago, but the romance of the courtship was kept a secret by them and the night editor until today.

JUDGE FLANDRAU'S LONG LIFE CLOSES

Career Marked by Distinguished Public Service and Unvarying Adherence to High Ideals in All Relations, Is Terminated After Protracted Illness—Old Friends Pay Tribute to His Memory.

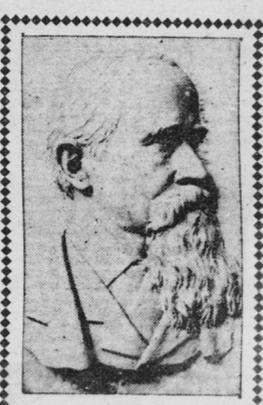

Judge Charles Eugene Flandrau died yesterday morning at 8 o'clock at his home, 385 Pleasant avenue. The cause of his death was kidney trouble, which had afflicted him for more than two years, but which had been serious for but a few days. All of the members of his family were present at the time of his death.

Judge Flandrau was a pioneer citizen of Minnesota, and was closely connected with many of the most significant incidents of the early history of the state. He was born in New York city July 15, 1828, of Huguenot ancestry. His father was Thomas H. Flandrau, a law partner of Aaron Burr. His mother was the daughter of Gen. Alexander Macomb, and a sister of Gen. Alexander Macomb, who were at one time commander-in-chief of the army and navy respectively.

GOES TO SEA AT AGE OF THIRTEEN.

Judge Flandrau was placed in private schools at Georgetown and Washington. After four years of a sailor's life he worked as a sawyer of mahogany veneers for two years, after which he entered his father's office for the purpose of studying law. He was admitted to the bar in New York city in 1851, and came to Minnesota in 1853, settling in St. Paul, where he engaged in the practice of law. When he first came to St. Paul he formed a partnership in the legal business with Horace R. Bigelow, the offices of the firm being on Third street, which at that time was the principal business thoroughfare of the city. In his practice he visited most of the settlements of the territory.

In 1855 he located at Traverse de

HAIR AND LACE FLY

Women Strikers Attack Non-Union Girl Workers.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—Women pickets assaulted non-union girls as they entered the Berry candy factory today, and for a time the air was full of feathers, lace and hair. Led by the forelady, a group of girl workers passed the line of pickets and had almost reached the entrance to the factory when Jennie Sherry and Annie Urbhn, two of the Amazons on the picket line, barred their way.

"You ought to be ashamed of yourselves," said one of the girls. "Why don't you join the strikers and get what's coming to you?" Then the hair-pulling began, and a squad of policemen had to be called to suppress the combatants.

STIRS ST. CLOUDITES

Insane Man Attacks Woman, Boy and 'Bus Driver.

ST. CLOUD, Minn., Sept. 9.—John Olson, of Minneapolis—a card on his name would indicate that as his name—created a sensation at the Great Northern station last evening. He assaulted a small boy, attacked a woman at the station, had a fist encounter with a gallant 'bus driver, and is in jail pending an inquiry into his sanity. Olson gave several people a bad half hour. He had come to town yesterday afternoon and his queer actions had aroused the suspicions of the hotel people. Night Clerk Moses Fifield and Officer Frank Weimann put him in Cal Blood's 'bus when the wagon called at the hotel prior to going to the Great Northern station to meet the flyer from the West at 8:23 last evening.

Riding in the 'bus was a lad named Joseph Reinholz, and Driver Blood looked through the window of the 'bus to find the stranger choking the boy. He reached through the open window and grasped the man by the collar and then went in after him. The boy ran for home, and after a struggle the passenger gave up his 'bus fare, which he had refused to pay the boy. At the station, on the arrival of the train, Olson seized Miss Lizzie Fiesler, who had just alighted from the train. There was no provocation, but the crazy man grasped the young woman by the waist and shook her violently. She screamed lustily, and a moment later collapsed in a faint.

Driver Blood ran to the man and made him release the young woman, and the stranger then jumped on the train. Blood went after him and just as he stepped on the lower steps of a coach the stranger kicked backward,

He Explains to the Court It Is All a Mistake, but Is Fined Just the Same.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 9.—John Atkinson, a well dressed, prosperous-looking man of forty-five years, claiming to live in the aristocratic Back Bay district, was arraigned before Judge Bennett today, charged with assaulting three women. According to the story of Policeman Barry, who arrested him, he was on Washington street, in the principal shopping district, when a young woman came to him and pointing out Atkinson, complained that he had spanked her. She said she would not go to court about it. Barry said that while pursuing Atkinson he saw the latter surreptitiously spank two respectable-looking women, and then he arrested him. Atkinson said that he was the victim of a terrible mistake, and that he had not spanked any women. Judge Bennett fined him $25.

CLAIRVOYANT IS DECLARED A FRAUD

His Wife in an Affidavit Says He Operated in St. Paul.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—In opposition to an application which August Charles Valadier, a dentist, made to have vacated an order on which his wife, Marion, had him arrested in a suit she had begun for a separation, Mrs. Valadier's counsel said:

"This man Valadier has posed as a clairvoyant and asserted that he possesses wonderful knowledge of the science of psychology. He has traveled around the country under the aliases of Prof. La Monte, Prof. Cairo and Prof. Francis J. Warner, and has described himself as the 'greatest living palmist, clairvoyant, medium and natural healer.'"

In her affidavit Mrs. Valadier says: "In St. Paul the defendant practiced his fraudulent operations under the name of Prof. Francis J. Warner, where he advertised 'The great mysteries of life revealed.' In Cleveland he was arrested for larceny under the name of Prof. Heri La Monte."

AUTOMOBILES ARE STOPPED BY TOADS

Waukesha, Wis., Has a Plague That Drives Women Into Hysterics.

WAUKESHA, Wis., Sept. 9.—If the ancient Egyptian plague of frogs was worse than the plague of toads which has been visited upon this summer resort the hundreds of summer visitors and the thousands of natives would like to know it. Thousands of the reptiles have come into the city from the streams and lakes near the city, from no known cause, and numerous accidents have resulted. So troublesome has the plague become that nervous women refuse to leave their homes. There have been eight cases of hysteria treated by doctors in the last three days, due to the entanglement of toads in the lingerie of women residents. Five persons have fallen and sprained knees or ankles as the result of stepping on the creatures. Yesterday Dr. Bapellin was on a trip in his automobile when the toads jammed his levers and he was obliged to run his car into the river in order to stop moving. Another automobilist was riding when the toads jamming about the road jammed his machinery so that the car was stopped by the toad flesh in the cogwheels.
