HAVE FEEL OF GLAMS

New Englanders Enjoy an Old-Time Banquet
Real Massachusetts clams, baked under fragrant heaps of seaweed which accompanied them with sweet potatoes, were the piece de resistance at a New Englanders' feast last evening at Frank Shanley's East Eagle home, the Virginia.

The New Englanders' clam bake, arranged by George W. Currier, of Bald Eagle, was conducted with all the ceremoniousness which attend any one of which no Massachusetts clam bake would be a success.

At 4 o'clock yesterday morning a roasting fire was started over the pit over half filled with round stones, and mid-afternoon the fire was drawn from the hot stones, over which were spread a barrel of clams direct from Massachusetts, with corn and sweet potatoes. Then the seaweed, also especially brought from Massachusetts for the purpose, was strewn over the oven and the fifty New Englanders sang the songs of their native Yankeeedom until the feast was announced at 6 o'clock. The supper was followed by several addresses.

AT THE UNIVERSITY.

The football team practice yesterday afternoon was very satisfactory. After a little work in running down punts and kicking the fielding yesterday was set up for a game, while the third team went through signal practice.

The state's legal authorities, while not prepared to admit that the capitol was irregularly in legal, they say that it should be so proved that the capitol title could in no way be impaired, as the street's vacation could be again and properly consummated.

The funeral was conducted by the Brainerd Masonic lodges.

WANTS MEDALS FOR BRAVE FIREMEN

President Warner, of Fire Commissioners, Would Reward Them for Heroic Deeds.

Medals for acts of bravery are all right for the firemen if we could afford them, but what we should think of at the present time is money with which to purchase oats and coal. This talk of spending money for medals is very unwise, considering our financial condition. There are too many things we have to have—A. J. Schweizer, president board of fire commissioners.

Plenty of Room for School Directors in City Hall.

The cry of no more room in the big city hall and court house will be with out justification when the improvements now being made on the top floor of the big building are completed.

Part of the floor which was first used as a city library and later as a temporary jail has been converted into six good-sized rooms and they are not equaled in the entire building for light and good ventilation.

Painters and carpenters have been at work on the rooms for the past month, and when completed they will be offered to the board of school directors for their use. Others in the building who are protesting because cramped quarters will also be accommodated.

TO VALUE LAND WANTED FOR STATE CAPITOL

Court Names Messrs. Richardson, Read and Watson as Appraisers.
Because of the alleged illegality of the vacation of two streets upon which the location of the new state capitol have been laid, the state will be asked to award extra damages to the owners of adjoining property about to be appraised by a commission appointed by Judge Brill, of the Ramsey county district court.

On the lower end of the capitol site the vacant lots, the purchase price of which is in dispute, and the purchase of which the legislature appropriated $100,000. Judge Brill has appointed John C. SELL TO LUMBERMEN

Warden Andrews Would Let Them Buy Pine Lands Direct.
"I submit that it would be very much better for all concerned if the remaining public lands in Minnesota could be sold direct to the manufacturer, according to measurement, at proper value, and in such quantities as the market would take." Warden Andrews, fire warden of Minnesota, yesterday, discussing the disposal of government pine lands.

"If the United States had managed its pine timber lands on forestry principles it would have had the timber sold at a fair valuation, to the highest bidder, just as the state of Minnesota is today selling the pine timber on its school lands. If the government had pursued that course the manufacturers of lumber would have had a fair chance to purchase timber in a legitimate way, and the lumber would have been furnished to the public at cheaper rates than now prevail."

HENNEPIN COUNTY REPORTS TWO AUTOS

That not a finely bred horse is owned in Hennepin county, but to get at it two out of nearly 1,000 automobiles was too much.

Hints dropped by country members of the board, at one moved general raised of from 5 to 100 per cent was made. The increase made by the board was commenced by all the members. Clearwater, with seven listed for a total of $33, an Hennepin with only two, was far down the list as the equalizers went. Nothing in the way of raising the averages was done. The whole list was set aside pending the submission of explanations by county officials.

Ramsey Reports 28 Machines.
In comparison with other counties, the evasion of automobile taxes in Ramsey is mild. In fact nearly one-third of the total automobile and power tax for Ramsey is returned from Ramsey county. And at that only twenty-eight machines are disclosed, with a total assessed value of $1,200. The rate on $337.57. Winona county lists 134 for a total of $3,151, or an average of approximately $22 each.
