He was auditor of Marion county from 1886 until 1894, and for four years was chairman of the Democratic state central committee. Noble Woman For Whom, Medora, N. D., Was Named.

CHIEF'S BODY GONE

Said to Have Been Stolen for Smithsonian Institution.

Special to The Globe.

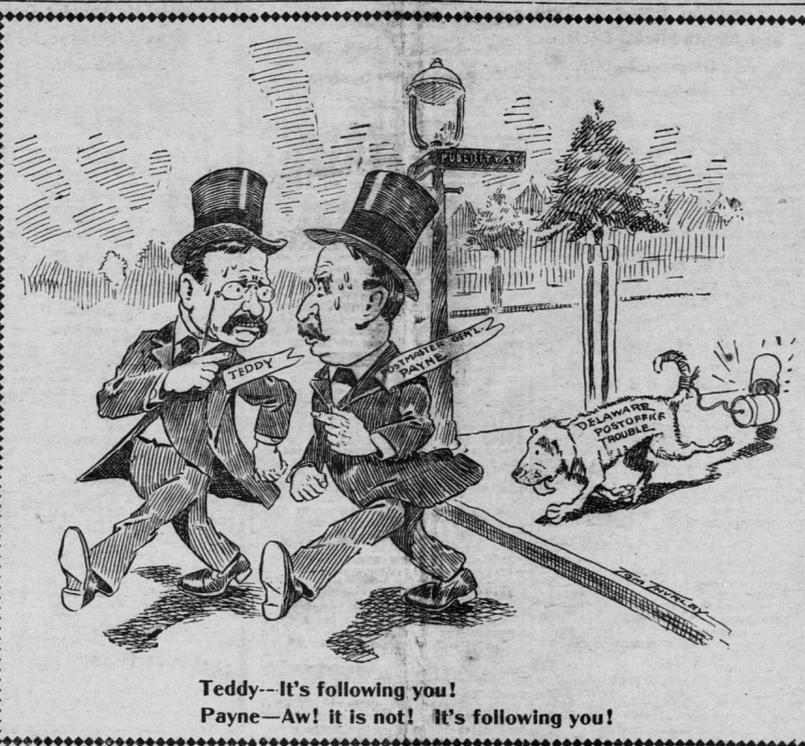

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Sept. 11.—Strange and sensational is the story which comes from the Blackfoot Indian reservation regarding the mysterious disappearance of the body of the great chief White Calf, which has been stolen from its grave. White Calf died last February in Washington, D. C., where he went as a member of a delegation to protest against the leasing of reservation lands. White Calf's tomb was a sealed-up house, located on a lofty cliff.

Man Under Arrest in Montana is Accused of Many Crimes.

Special to The Globe.

HELENA, Mont., Sept. 11.—Julius Hansen, who was recently arrested in St. Paul and brought back to Helena on a charge of assaulting young girls, is accused of a similar crime in St. Paul, and the police of that city have a warrant for his arrest. The chief of police of St. Paul has requested Chief Travis to notify him immediately in case the man is not convicted in this state, saying that in that event he would take steps to return Hansen to St. Paul for prosecution. A ten-year-old St. Paul girl was the victim.

MARQUISE GOES TO HER DAKOTA HOME

Widow of Famous Marquis de Mores Arrives in St. Paul.

The Marquise de Mores, born Hoffmann, one time a cattle queen in the Bad Lands, and for whom the town of Medora was built and named, is at the Aberdeen with her two children, Louis and Marie de Mores. The marquise arrived last night from Chicago. She will go on to the West today, for she has crossed the seas to again visit the scenes where she and her dashing young husband made much of the color of the early history of Dakota, after the white man had settled for good.

It is fifteen years since the marquise was in St. Paul. At that time she was a beautiful young woman. She is still handsome, and she still apparently has that same taste for the stirring life as she had when she was the hostess of the president of the United States at her ranch at Medora, and her young husband was making plans to revolutionize the cattle business of the country--plans that failed in his hands, but which were afterwards adopted by the great packers to their own enrichment.

"I just want to see Medora," said the marquise last night. "I want my children to see the place where we lived so long. The place has been kept up, and I shall find a place to stay. I have not forgotten that it was quite possible to get along without strikes, lockouts and stoppages of work, pending the decision of the arbitrator. No effort was made on your part to arbitrate the questions at issue between yourselves and your employer. Such a total disregard of your contract obligations not alone reflects upon the standing of your own local, but endangers the international organization, is against the principles of trades unionism which the international association espouses and is alike

SAM PARKS' UNION IS SUSPENDED

President of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers Denounces Breaches of Contract.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—President Frank Buchanan, of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, tonight announced that he had annulled the charter of Local No. 2 of the Housewrights and Bridge-makers union, the organization of which Sam Parks is the virtual head, and has suspended the local union strike. Buchanan's letter, which was sent tonight to the meeting place of Local No. 2, says: "Investigation into the charges and complaints entered against your organization has led me to the following conclusions: That the agreement of May 1, 1903, was made in complete ignorance of the international organization and the employers' association, known as the Manufacturers' and Erectors' association, has been broken and violated by the action of your local. Such a total disregard of your contract obligations not alone reflects upon the standing of your own local, but endangers the international organization, is against the principles of trades unionism which the international association espouses and is alike

CHADIMA NAMED IN HELM MYSTERY

Inver Grove Constable Is Said to Have Fallen Out With Helm Over a Yellow Dog.

Ill luck pursues Constable Joseph Chadima of Inver Grove. Last December Martin Johnson drifted into Inver Grove and, becoming intoxicated, made himself offensive. Chadima, in his official capacity, started with Johnson to compel him to leave the village. A few hours later Johnson was found in a barn in the outskirts of the village, with two ribs broken. He died while being removed from the place. Last Monday evening a controversy over a yellow dog occurred in the saloon of Charles Helm and Joseph Chadima, constable of the village, a few hours before the mangled remains of Helm were found on the track of the Great Western railroad. Testimony taken by Coroner Kramer of Dakota county in the second inquest in this case, held at Inver Grove yesterday afternoon, brought to light this circumstance, but failed to develop any evidence that murder had been committed. Thus within a year Constable Chadima's name has been connected with two tragedies, in which accident may have taken the appearance of crime. Dr. J. R. Campbell, who had examined the remains of Helm, yesterday testified that it was impossible to discover upon the body any traces of previous violence if there had been any, as the body was so completely mutilated. John Protzke, watchman of the Rock Island, testified that he had seen, twenty minutes before the passenger train arrived, two men standing at the spot where the body was afterwards found. "I could not recognize the men," said Protzke, "for the night was dark and I was 150 feet away from them. I

DO WITHOUT UNION

Chicago Pastor and Flock Building a Church.

Special to The Globe.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Because of a strike of union painters who refused to work with a non-union man, Chicago Lawn residents, headed by their pastor, have undertaken the construction of their own church building where all Protestants of the suburb will worship when it is completed. Rev. Alexander Monroe is acting as superintendent of construction of the building and is aided by many members of the congregation. A feature of the affair is the serving, at frequent intervals, by the pastor's wife and other women of lemonade, sandwiches and home-made cakes and other delicacies which the union does not provide for its members.

JUDGE BAKER DECIDES FOR JAMES LYNCHBAUM

But the Case of the Fugitive From Ireland Remains Undetermined.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 11.—Judge Baker, of the United States circuit court, today sustained the writ for a writ of habeas corpus filed by a writ of James Lynchbaum, the Irish fugitive arrested here. The court granted the petition on the ground that United States Marshal Pettit could not make an arrest here on a warrant issued in New York. He said the prisoner had a right to be tried where captured. The decision would free Lynchbaum, but Charles Fox, the British legal representative at New York, made application in court to have Lynchbaum rearrested on a warrant sworn out in Indianapolis. The court granted the writ, but the proceedings may go as originally planned. Judge Baker placed the warrant in the hands of Marshal Pettit, who was instructed to rearrest Lynchbaum and hold him for hearing before United States Commissioner Moore. By mutual agreement the hearing was fixed for Wednesday.

TAKEN FOR A THIEF

Secretary Shaw the Victim of a Curious Mistake.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Secretary of the Treasury Shaw does not know that he was mistaken for a pickpocket and that he was in grave danger of being arrested at the Auditorium hotel yesterday afternoon. The secretary had just returned from the West and was seated near the cigar stand talking to a friend when a stranger walked up and sat down near the two men. The secretary has a habit of fingering the watch chain of the man to whom he is talking and he was engaged in that occupation when the stranger caught sight of him. "There is absolutely no danger if you will keep up your courage," the secretary was saying. "Bunko man," muttered the stranger and his eyes did not leave the fingers on the watch chain. "You see, it will be a lack of confidence that will precipitate a panic." "The stranger was straining every faculty to catch the remarks and all the while he was watching the fingers on the watch chain. "Shooting the hot air for sure," commented the stranger, but he still watched the fingers on the watch chain. "As I remarked at the traveling men's banquet the other evening—" "Shooting pretty high," muttered the watchman. "Things were never as prosperous." "Shame to let him take that man's watch, I'll get an officer," and the stranger arose. He walked to the cigar counter. "See that fellow trying to lift that chain? You keep an eye on him while I get Repetto, the detective," said the man to the girl behind the counter. "Why, that's Mr. Shaw, secretary of the United States treasury," she explained. Then she wondered why the man beat such a hasty retreat.

FEAR IS REALIZED

Former Member of Italian Secret Service Is Murdered.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Arcangelo Rainio, formerly an officer in the Italian army and later connected with the secret service in Italy, was shot dead today in a hallway adjoining a saloon at Second avenue and East One Hundred and Thirtieth street. Rainio came to this country three years ago. While in Italy he had been instrumental in the conviction of a number of dangerous characters. It was said that he fled from Italy to save his life, fearing that certain men would kill him. He went to live in Philadelphia and came to New York now and then. While on one of his visits he made the acquaintance of Teresa Giano, a beautiful young woman, who is spoken of as the "Belle of Little Italy" and who lived over the saloon. Rainio visited the girl today, and about an hour later two shots were heard and two men were seen running from the house. Rainio was found dead in the hallway, having been shot through the back of the head. Near the body the police found two side combs, a pair of heels from a woman's shoes and four pistol cartridges. The girl, who raised an alarm that men were robbing her apartment just before the shots were first discharged, immediately after. An Italian was arrested tonight on suspicion of being concerned in the murder. Restored to His Father. PORTLAND, Or., Sept. 11.—After wandering around the globe for fifteen years, forgetting even his birthplace and the names of his parents, from whom he had been kidnaped, Marcus Hechtman, now twenty-two years of age, walked into the store of his father to look at a watch, and was recognized by the aged man. Young Hechtman was stolen by a wandering troupe of variety actors when seven years old.

POWERS INCLINE TO PROCURE PEACE

They Bring Pressure to Bear at Constantinople to Prevent a Turco-Bulgarian War and Seem Successful for the Time Being—French Squadron Will Go to the Levant and Other Powers May Follow Suit.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—The powers are evidently still exerting pressure both at Constantinople and at Sofia to avert a Turco-Bulgarian war, apparently with some temporary success; but meantime an increasingly terrible tale of atrocities committed in Macedonia shows that the situation is daily becoming aggravated. A French squadron is going to the Levant. This is also held to be ominous and this step by the French government will probably be followed by similar action on the part of the other powers. The Turkish embassy in London in its denial, issued daily, of Turkish atrocities, today declares it to be "absolutely false that Ottoman troops are burning villages, the truth being that it is the Bulgarians, who at the approach of the troops use explosives to burn the villages before leaving them and then accuse the Turkish troops of such abominable deeds."

The same communication maintains that there were only eight persons killed and fifteen wounded in the affray at Beirut and that many fugitives to Lebanon are returning to their homes. According to dispatches from Constantinople, the Mussulmans sacked Christian houses during the disorders at Beirut and startling rumors of all kinds are current, including a general dynamiting of public buildings and the poisoning of the water supply at Constantinople. From Vienna comes again an unconfirmed report that Boris Sarafoff, the Macedonian leader, has been murdered near Monastir. SOFIA, Sept. 11.—The first indication of the Greeks aiding the Bulgarians against Turkey appears in a circular addressed by the general staff of the Eighth revolutionary district to the Greek towns and villages in the vicinity of Adrianople. It expresses pleasure at hearing that the Greeks desire to join their Bulgarian brethren in the fight for liberty and invites the Greeks to send delegates to formulate plans for joint action. The population of Greeks and Bulgarians in fifteen villages of the district of Kostur have joined the insurrection. The insurrection in Eastern Macedonia is progressing slowly. Gen. Zontcheff has been engaged in three skirmishes with the Turks in the district of Djouze. The insurgents fought a band of Bashi-Bazouks between Popadi and Vartisch, in the district of Velea. The Bashi-Bazouks lost eight killed. Next day the regular troops pursued the insurgents into a forest, but fell into an ambush in which many of them perished. The Turkish artillery has utterly destroyed the village of Dobrovani, Monastir vilayet. Many of the inhabitants were killed.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Monastir in a dispatch dated Sept. 6, says that himself, the British vice consul, MacGregor, and an American missionary, Bold, are the intended victims of the Turkish revenge, because they reported the Turkish atrocities. If their murder could be compassed it would be fathered on the Bulgarians. The correspondent describes further atrocities by soldiers. In one case they flayed a little girl's head, while in another they dug the flesh from under a woman's arm with pocket knives in order to see the working of her lungs. A Constantinople dispatch to the Daily Mail, dated Sept. 10, says the Porte telegraphed to Washington asking to have the American squadron recalled from Beirut, but the request was refused. Minister Leishman declared that it would remain until the departure of the late val, Beshid Pasha.

LIME IS EMPLOYED IN A SQUABBLE UNDER GROUND

Heinze's Miners and a Force of Amalgamated Men Have a Novel Clash in a Mine.

SPECIAL TO THE GLOBE. BUTTE, Mont., Sept. 11.—Nearly 2,000 feet underground a force of about thirty of P. Augustus Heinze's miners from the Rarus mine had an exciting encounter with a force of Amalgamated miners from the Pennsylvania mine, an adjoining property, in a portion of ground the ownership of which is now being determined by the courts. Supt. Trerise, of Rarus, led his men, and breaking down bulkheads invaded the workings of the Pennsylvania. The intruders were met by Supt. J. C. Adams, of the Boston & Montana company. Rocks and loose dirt were flying when Heinze's men secured a sack of lime and directing a stream of compressed air from a hose through the mass hurled fire lime and gas into the ranks of the Amalgamated men, causing them to retreat to prevent being suffocated. Several of the men became unconscious and had to be dragged away by their comrades.

Pastors Changed. ST. CLOUD, Minn., Sept. 11.—Bishop Grobe has announced changes in the pastors of the churches of his diocese. Rev. P. Gans, who has been stationed for some years at Staples, is transferred to the new parish at Birch Lake. Rev. Schreiner, who has been assistant pastor at Melrose, will succeed Father Gans at Staples, and Rev. Weigand, who has been connected with the cathedral at St. Cloud since his ordination, goes to Melrose to succeed Father Schreiner. Rev. Dr. Leo Gans, now at the cathedral, is assigned to the parish of Tintah and will also have the mission at Donnelly.
