ILLINOIS IS EASY FOR THE GOPHERS

to pull down the Minnesota backs before they had fairly started, and Diener and Dillinger took care of left end and made that way an impassable route for Minnesota.

The game itself, from a Minnesota standpoint, was easy.

The Minnesota men came here confident of victory, but not overconfident, for they had heard the stories telling of the assistance tendered Woodruff during the past week. They were told that since the defeat by Indiana, Illinois had a coach for every man on the field, but despite this fearful tale the Gophers went in to land the game, and they landed it.

Few Minnesota followers saw the game. Messrs. Kaufmann, Roberts, Jones and Joyce, of Minneapolis, made the trip to Champaign and through it all rooted the "ski-u-mah" through megaphones.

The Illinois students deserve nothing but words of praise, for while they cheered their team on from beginning to end, they were more than fair to Minnesota. When the Gophers appeared on the field they were given three hearty cheers, and every time a Minnesota man was laid out he was praised in wild shouts by the orange and blue followers until at times one could hardly believe that Minnesota was playing on foreign territory. The game was decided in about the first ten minutes of the play.

Gophers Win Toss.

Minnesota won the toss and picked the north goal. Moynihan kicked off to Harris on the 5-yard line, and the quarter came back 5 yards, and the punt went around left end to the 40-yard line and Schacht, Davies and Burdick tore through the Illinois line to the orange and blue 50-yard line. Minnesota carried the ball 5 yards farther, and then Burdick fumbled.

Having the ball the first time, Illinois looked dangerous. Diener going through the Gopher line for 8 yards, but Rogers and the others falled and Minnesota got the ball. Diener started for the Illinois goal. Burdick made first down on the Illinois' 25-yard line and then Schacht, Davies and Irfield were used by Harris in getting the distance. Illinois tried to fight on her 1-yard line but Burdick was hurled against the line and the scoring had started. Rogers missed his goal.

For a time it looked as though the score would be lost to Minnesota. Umpire Gale declared that Minnesota had scored on an illegal formation and ordered the team penalized 20 yards. Capt. Rogers and Coach Williams filed an emphatic protest in the dispute on the side lines and the argument ended when Gale allowed the touchdown.

The other scores of the game were even more easy. In scoring the second touchdown Irfield, after Minnesota, by steady line bucks, had carried the ball to Illinois' 20-yard line, circled the end not protected by Dillinger and Diener, for the score.

Rogers had miserable luck, again missing goal. In the second half Illinois braced considerably, and this aided by the fact that the Gophers were playing on a muddy field, made the fight more close. The Minnesota goal was never in danger though, and near the finish Harris engaged in a punting match with Huntoon, which, in addition to using up the time, gave the Minnesota quarter all the best of the argument.

The game all the way through was a

THE WORLD OF SPORT

STORY OF JEFFRIES' FIRST PRIZE FIGHT

Was a Plain Boltermaker Until Hank Griffin Came to Town.

There is an odd little story, written about the accidental manner in which James J. Jeffries, champion of all the champions, became a fighter.

"Jeff," he was asked, "how did you happen to get into the fighting game?" The giant rolled over slowly and thought for a moment. Then a wide smile came over his features.

"Well," he said, "it was an accident, I guess. It was forced on me in a way and at the time I didn't know my own luck."

"I was living down at home and working hard in the boiler works. One day a big coon came to town. He was one of those fighters who travel all over the country, picking up a fight here and there in the small towns, and he was pretty good in his line. His name was Hank Griffin."

"Well, this Griffin went to a saloon where the boys used to hang out after work in the evenings. He leaned on the bar and began talking about what a fighter he was, just like all those fellows do."

"He boasted around until the boys began to get a little sore, and then he threw a handful of waffles on the bar and said that he'd back himself to knock out any man in the town."

"That was too much for the crowd. I was a big, husky fellow then, as big as I am now, so some of my friends sent for me."

"They thought I was about the only man around there equal to the coon in size and strength, and then in the few fights I had had with the boys nobody had got any the best of me either."

"I was over there in a minute as soon as I found what was wanted. I was ready to fight him right on the spot, and as soon as I got in the door I pulled off my coat, but he explained that he meant a regular ring fight, and that we might as well not make a little money out of it."

"That idea struck me as all right, so we fixed it up. We got a hall to fight in, and I went on with my work, while the big coon began training."

"When the night came for me to fight I got through early and went home to dinner. Then I went over to the hall."

"The gloves were put on my hands for the first time in my life. I remember how funny they felt to me, just as if I had a great big, clumsy pair of hands that I did not know what to do with."

"The very first crack the big coon hit me an awful punch on the nose. It made me mad, and I went for him, tooth and nail."

"I guess that was just what he wanted me to do, for during the next ten minutes he punched me all over the ring. What he did to me was a shame."

"He punched me on the nose until I saw stars, and he walloped me on the jaw as fast as he could hit."

"But after awhile I found out that he couldn't daze me or knock me down, and then I began to get cooled off a little, and I went in to find out how he did it."

"I didn't know a thing about boxing. The coon peppered me until he began to get tired out, and I was as strong as when I started."

"He would jab me at arm's length and keep me from getting near him at all. But all the time I was learning more in that fight than I did in a year's boxing afterward."

"Along about the fourteenth round the black man was pretty tired. I started forcing my way in, thinking all the time about a plan I had for beating him."

"After awhile I got my chance, and I punched him a good one in the stomach. He curled up on the floor and couldn't get up, so that was all there was to it."

WHICH IS THE MORE DANGEROUS SPORT?

Pugilist's Death Revives Old Football-Prize Fight Controversy.

The recent death in Philadelphia of Pugilist O. W. Knight, from injuries received in the ring, has revived the old controversy as to whether football or prize fighting is the more dangerous sport.

It has been generally assumed by writers on fistiana that the number of deaths in the prize ring since the time of Flieg was not over forty, and the more conservative, influenced by the thought that comment would injure the sport in public opinion, have given the number as below thirty in the total.

In statistics of this kind the total is always below rather than above, as some must escape notice of the compiler.

In connection with the matter of comparative statistics the reader should take into consideration the fact that the football season is scarcely six weeks in length, and the number of players is fully 50 per cent greater than that of pugilists. In these respects, in consideration of results, indicate that the percentage is against the football player.

Prof. Edwin G. Dexter, of the University of Illinois, sent out a circular letter last December to more than 100 colleges and universities of America, seeking information as to the number of deaths in the prize ring, approximate total number of students who played football, number fatally injured in the game and the number permanently or seriously hurt. Sixty replies were received, and the data covered a period of ten years. The compilation is shown in the following table:

Total male students enrolled	210,334
Total played football	22,776
Average percentage played football	10.8
Total number seriously injured	654
Average percentage seriously injured	2.9
Total teams	1,374

The results of the compilation showed that football is more generally played in the smaller than in the larger institutions, and the figures do not indicate the subsequent permanent injuries from overtraining, which affects the vital organs. There is also to be considered the physical and lasting effects from badly set broken limbs, misplaced bones in the ankle, injured eyes, and danger from typhoid fever in bruises which develop into abscesses.

Vital statistics obtained in the past ten years show the following death rate:

Year	'92	'94	'95	'96	'97	'98	'99	'00	'01	'02
Deaths	30	7	4	9	10	8	11	14	9	12

Includes twenty-two in Great Britain. Total deaths in ten years, 114.

The number injured in 1902 was seventy-eight, which, with the dozen deaths, made an average of one player killed or maimed for each day of the playing season. In the three months of 1900 there were 200 injured.

The number of injuries has been largely due to the mass and tandem play, and so dangerous has the game been considered that pastors have even preached against it and legislators have passed laws to stop it. The little effect in reducing the number of deaths, although it is claimed that the changes go into effect this season will tend in this direction.

In the physical results to those incapacitated in the prize ring and football there is a great difference. While instances are recorded of permanent injury in the ring, the victim of a knockout may be seen on the street within twenty minutes after a bout with the gloves in the full enjoyment of health. Exceptions are noted.

Frank Bannon, knocked out by John Regan in East Yeward in June, 1890, was taken a few days later to an insane asylum. As will be seen in the review of injuries to pugilists, months have elapsed before the fatal result following a fight. These cases are rare, however, as death usually follows the unconscious period produced by the knockout blow.

Football enthusiasts who argue that it is not a more dangerous sport than pugilism always cite the remarkable case of Vernon White, a player who in six years had broken nearly every bone in his body and who continued in the game. His list of injuries in different games was as follows: In 1895, left leg

OLDEST MAN IN INDIANA

Alexander Ferguson, of Gilman, Ind., is as vigorous, hale and hearty as when 35 years of age. He has a good appetite, perfect digestion, sleeps well and is

HALE AT 115 YEARS

Thanks to Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

MR. ALEX. FERGUSON, 115 Years Old.

"I am now going on my 115th year, and I feel as strong as my youngest son, who is now past 35. I have worked hard all my life, and am working yet. I get around my place to see that everything goes right. Some years ago I began taking DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY, and I know it is this great medicine that has prolonged my life. Before taking DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY I did not sleep well. Now I have perfect rest at night. Every morning and every evening I take it, and I always have a good appetite and perfect digestion. I expect to live for old folks, and we always have and always intend to have a bottle of it in the house."

Mrs. Martha Ferguson, aged 78 years, wife of this old man, says: "Alexander is certainly an old man, but he seems to be as young as he was fifty years ago, and the amount of work he does surprises me. Some years ago he was troubled with not being able to sleep well, and it was then that he began taking Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. Now he sleeps just like a baby and eats hearty. I always take some of the whiskey mornings and evenings when he does, and it certainly has done me a world of good. I am certain that Alexander would not be in as perfect health he now is if it wasn't for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey."

There is a future for boxing in America when the right men shall be in control of the sport. The degrading spectacle furnished for the edification of that element who take interest in the sport only from the amount of gore shed and the utter lack of science displayed by the contestants may be classed with a similar scene on the football field when seventeen men try to squeeze the life out of the poor victim at the bottom of the heap of humanity caused by the unscrupulous and senseless "mass play." Good purses for boxers who have ability and can pass a successful physical examination, and referees who will stop a contest when it reaches a brutal point, will uplift the sport of boxing and place it where it belongs in the category of legitimate sports.

YACHT RACING RULES ARE CHANGED

Lake Michigan Club Makes Several Material Alterations.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Lake Michigan Yachting club members tonight amended the racing rules of the club. The rule which placed thirty-foot yachts in a class with much swifter yachts, thereby keeping all such yachts from participating in the club races, was amended so that such yachts are placed in a separate class. The "twenty-one foot class" was abolished, and in its place a "twenty-one foot race-boat class" was substituted, with rule similar to those of the Long Island Yachting club.

Amendments to the twenty-one foot cabin class were as follows: "The keel, stem, stern port frames, floors, cabin, trunk beams and principal deck beams shall be made of oak and solid. The length of the forward, or aft, overhanging, shall not exceed 65 per cent of the total overhanging."

The annual election of officers resulted: President, E. P. Warner, Chicago Yacht club; first vice president, George R. Peare, Columbia Yacht club; second vice president, R. B. Brown, Milwaukee club; secretary, Charles Scott, Michigan club; treasurer, Mat Shirlaw, Jackson Park club.

Winter Racing Opens. SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 14.—The winter racing season of the California Jockey club opened at Oakland today before 8,000 persons. Clear weather prevailed. The track was muddy, but the fields were large. While the favorites were not successful, well played horses scored, with the result that most of the fifteen bookmakers in line did not have a profitable afternoon. Interest centered in the opening handicap at a mile, which was taken by Eonic at 20 to 1. Fifteen went to the post, Nigrette and Huntress having been added. Kenilworth was favorite and Nigrette next in demand. The start was a struggling one, Eonic and Schwalbe getting away in front. They paced out the grand Schwalbe assumed the lead. She held the position until the stretch was reached, when Chandler took the rail and assumed with the lead. Eonic landing her a winner by a half length from Schwalbe. After a poor ride and suffering interference Kenilworth was third. The race had a value of $3,470, of which $2,800 went to the winner.

Summary: First race, seven furlongs—Captivate won, Man of Honor second, Sainly third. Time, 1:31 1/2. Second race, Futurity course, purse—Dondomo won, Padua second, Sailor Knot third. Time, 1:14 1/2. Third race, seven furlongs, selling—Galanthus won, Miracle II second. Anville third. Time, 1:32. Fourth race, mile, opening handicap, value $3,470—Eonic won, Schwalbe second, Kenilworth third. Time, 1:45 1/2.

Fifth race, six furlongs, purse—Burnia Bunton won, Albemarle second, Martimas third. Time, 1:18.

Northwestern Plays Slow Game. CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—The football teams of Northwestern university and Notre Dame played a slow but evenly matched game at the American league park today, the final score being Northwestern 9, Notre Dame 6.

Cleveland Goes Out for Ducks. NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 14.—Ex-President Cleveland, accompanied by Dr. Paul Van Dyke, of Princeton, and Rev. D. W. Jones and Ernest Gittings, of Baltimore, arrived at Norfolk tonight and left shortly afterwards for the Back Bay Gunning club as the guests of Joseph Seelenger, president of the club.

"When I started out on this trip I forgot potties and began to think of ducks," said Mr. Cleveland.

DULUTH'S WEATHER FACTORY

Building Erected by the Government for the Observer at the Head of the Lakes.

Special to The Globe. DULUTH, Minn., Nov. 14.—Congress, at its last session, appropriated $50,000 for the erection of buildings to be used exclusively for the offices of weather bureaus. The money was apportioned recently and Duluth got $10,000. The result is that there is now being erected in this city the only building of its kind in the state, which will be turned over to the Observer Richardson, of the Duluth office, about Jan. 1.

Aside from having rooms for the offices of the observer and for the expensive new apparatus which is to be installed at this station, there will be a complete set of living rooms for the family of Observer Richardson. The structure will be steam heated and electric lighted throughout. It occupies a commanding position, at the summit of the hill, 500 feet above the level of Lake Superior.

Four other buildings of this nature are now built in the United States, one of which is in North Dakota. This is said to be the inauguration of a plan whereby weather offices all over the country are to be removed from other government departments, in cities where special facilities are desirable.
