

There is an old joke about the way to tell a toadstool from a mushroom. Eat it; if you die, it was a toadstool.

So, the only test of shoe-quality most dealers offer is: "Buy the shoes; if they don't wear well, you're stuck." The true character of all Regal shoes is proved before you buy—By the "window of the sole" that proves the oak-tanned leather, and by the merciless saw that proves the character of the put-together.

REGAL

THE SHOE THAT PROVES

60 Regal stores, 20 of them in Greater New York, where the styles originate. The new styles are on sale at our St. Paul and Minneapolis stores at the same time as in the New York stores. Other dealers get them a year later.

ST. PAUL STORE: COR. WABASHA AND SIXTH STS. MINNEAPOLIS STORE: 526 NICOLLET AVE.

FAMILY IS UNLUCKY

Stearns County Household Victims of Accidents.

Special to The Globe. ST. CLOUD, Minn., Nov. 20.—A peculiar run of ill luck seems to attend the family of Knute Botten, living in southwestern Stearns county. The latest accident was the falling of his two-year-old child from a table and dislocating its left forearm. A short time ago two other children were badly injured and their faces scarred up by a kicking horse. Still another fell from a wagon, breaking his arm at the elbow. In addition to all this trouble his little girl set fire to the barn, while little Willie was dispersed by having two thumbs growing from one hand.

LITTLE GIRL DANCES INTO TROUBLE

Maria's Love of Music Leads Her For From Home.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Maria is the ten-year-old daughter of Paola Lorenzi, an Italian barber at 53 East Fourth street, and is the second in a brood of seven. Friday evening she was left to help her eldest sister, Cecilia, in looking after the smaller girls at a barber and his house went visiting in Mulberry street.

The younger Lorenzis had been tucked away for the night, sister Cecilia was napping in the sole Lorenzi rocker, and Maria was trying to amuse herself alone, when there rose from the street the notes of a giddy waltz reeled off by a hand organ. Now, if there are two things that Maria is fond of they are music and dancing. For a while she listened, her feet instinctively keeping time; then she looked at the street dances that she and her sisters, and thought that it would be no harm to slip down to the street and have just one little dance. She tiptoed out of the room and one in the street, joined the little group of girls that were already gliding and pirouetting through the mazes of one of those mysterious impromptu dances on the street corners. The girls are not taught in any book or school, yet where each dancer seems instinctively to know what particular twirl or kick comes next.

The copiers next falling in the organ grinder's hat, and he moved along a half block. So did his little train of dancers, and Maria with them. And in his next, and his next, and his next, Maria followed. Flushed, her eyes sparkling, carried far away from her tenuous surroundings by the swing and rhythm of the music, she forgot the hidden cause of her physical ailment, and the fact that she no longer knew the faces of the children she was dancing with, nor the name over the corner saloon or over the grocery opposite.

"Hey, youse, yer playin' after hours! Cut it out or I'll run ye in!" came from a big, blue-coated minion of the law.

HOME TESTING.

A Sure and Easy Test on Coffee.

To decide the all important question of coffee, whether or not it is really the hidden cause of your physical ailments and approaching fixed disease, one should make a test of ten days by leaving off coffee entirely and using well made Postum Coffee.

"Then I read so many articles about Postum that I decided to give it a fair trial. I had not used it two weeks in place of coffee until I began to feel like a different person. The headaches and nervousness disappeared, and where I used to be sick two or three days out of a week while drinking coffee I am now well and strong and sturdy seven days a week, thanks to Postum. "I had been using Postum three months and had never been sick a day when I thought I would experiment and see if I really was coffee. It caused the trouble, so I began to drink coffee again and inside of a week I had an awful sick spell. I was so ill I was soon convinced that coffee was the cause of all my misery and I went back to Postum again in a hurry with the result that I was soon again well and strong and determined to use Postum the rest of my days and to leave coffee alone in the future." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

SOLDIERS' MONUMENT UNVEILED

Statue Commemorating the Boys in Blue and the Sailors Who Fought to Preserve the Union Is Publicly Dedicated at Summit Park—Ceremonies Preceded by a Military Parade—Capt. Henry A. Castle Delivers Dedictory Address.

Amid the booming of cannon and the applause of several thousand people, who, in spite of the blustering weather, stood for nearly an hour yesterday afternoon about the statue, Miss Susan A. Doran, daughter of F. B. Doran, a veteran of the Civil war, unveiled the heroic figure in bronze of Josias R. King, the first volunteer in the War of the Rebellion, which will crown the soldiers' and sailors' monument opposite Summit park at the head of Third street.

The parade, which preceded the unveiling ceremonies, was an imposing military pageant. The procession formed at Smith park and led through the business streets to the monument. When the procession arrived at the monument, the regulars from Fort Snelling lined up along Summit avenue at parade dress, while the artillery men took their station on Third street hill. Part of the battery was stationed on the vacant lot, half a block down the hill from the monument, and fired the salute of thirteen guns attending the unveiling.

testimonial to the bravery and patriotism of the men who fought in the war for the suppression of the great rebellion—those who died for the land of their love and those, surviving, who have so lived that it might be a land better worth living in and dying for, through the dimness of ages. All share in this commemoration—soldiers who were enrolled in the state's illustrious organizations and soldiers from sister states of the loyal North, or loyal soldiers from the border, who have since found here congenial happy homes. All have joined in building for Minnesota the stable fabric of a Christian civilization; all have aided in establishing the standards of an enlightened citizenship.

Field Battery Escorting the Civil and Military Officials in the Parade.

made the dedicatory address, and the monument was presented to the city by J. J. McCarty, who was mainly instrumental in securing the shaft for the city. Mayor Smith received it.

A military parade preceded the unveiling. Garfield Post No. 8 and Acker Post No. 21, G. A. R., the national guard companies of St. Paul, Sons of Veterans, Philippine and Spanish-American war veterans and the Twenty-first infantry and the Tenth battery of light artillery from Fort Snelling participated.

Although the temperature was well below the freezing mark and a sharp wind blew throughout the afternoon the exercises were a success in every particular. There was a large turnout of the old veterans of both posts of the Grand Army, the militia made a fine showing and a large number of prominent residents of the city and state were present.

The snow a few days ago, followed by the cold spell, delayed the work on the monument, the regulars from Fort Snelling lined up along Summit avenue at parade dress, while the artillery men took their station on Third street hill.

What even the years of the early future have in store for us we cannot say. He would be a bold prophet who would forecast the duties and the events of the day after tomorrow. We have been led by paths we knew not of to higher plateaus of contemplation, where have been discovered new ideals of responsibility and destiny. That the flag of the ultimate republic will float in welcome sovereignty upon Hudson's bay to Panama we may readily assume—but when, or by what process, we cannot foretell. What tomorrow's imperative demands may be we do not know. But this we know—that God reigns, the government of Washington still lives, and the fortitude of the "boys in blue" still animates the souls of their successors.

The monument was presented to the city in a few simple words by Capt. J. J. McCarty, Mayor Smith received it, speaking as follows:

Mayor Smith Accepts Monument. I accept on behalf of the municipality the grand trust conferred on her. It is a fitting tribute to the brave men who in the hour of peril left their homes and offered up their lives as a sacrifice in defense of our glorious Union.

The veterans of Acker post have done themselves and the state great honor in placing on the pedestal of this monument the statue of Capt. Joseph King, of Sault Ste. Marie, in the entire country to enroll his name on the roll of honor.

I cannot let this occasion pass without expressing, as I believe, the sentiments of the veterans of the war and of our citizens generally, of high appreciation of the services of Capt. McCarty, who, by his indefatigable energy largely secured the funds for the erection of this monument. The monument will stand as an inspiration to true patriotism on the part of the generations that will follow ours in the life of our beloved city and country.

Rev. W. H. W. Boyle, of the House of Hope church, pronounced the benediction and the ceremonies closed with "taps" sounded by a bugler.

The dedication of the soldier's monument marks the results of forty years' endeavor by citizens to secure one. The movement was first started after the battle of Bull Run, in which the First Minnesota took part. A committee was appointed to solicit subscriptions, but the strenuous times brought on by the growth of the Rebellion and the Indian outbreaks necessitated dropping the matter.

More Girl Problems. When a girl was born she was named Susan. Later on she wrote it "Susy". After a few years she wrote it "Susie". Now she has "Susane" on her cards. How old is she?

Molly sees two hats. One is becoming to her style of beauty and is priced at $15. The other looks like a fright on her, but the price is $64. She has $75 in her purse. How much money does she carry home after she pays for her hat?

A lady is writing a telegram. Her message will go with a train into five words or into eleven words. How many words does she send?—Chicago Tribune.

CASTORIA. Bears the Kind You Have Always Bought. Sold by Dr. J. C. Fitch.

ATLANTIC STEAMERS. Port. Arrived. Sailed. New York ... Launrent. ... Cymric. Glasgow ... Cambrian. ... Queenstown ... Columbus. ... Queenstown ... Campania. ... Havre ... La Gascogne. ... Genoa ... Liguria. ... Mowille ... Astoria. ... Liverpool ... Dominion. ... Queenstown ... Romano. ... New York ... Ligon. ... Queenstown ... Celtic. ... Liverpool ... Victorian. ... Southampton, St. Louis.

Got a Constant Headache?—Ten chances to one the secret of your suffering is that "white man's burden." Catarrh. Here's a sentence from one man's evidence for Dr. Agnew's Catarrh Powder—"One application gave me instant relief, cleared the nasal passages and stopped the pain in my head." It's a quick, safe and sure treatment, and it never fails to cure.—S. Sold by Tlechner & Jagger.

The Busy Man Should have a Telephone. On his desk; it pays for itself in time saved.

One Dollar Per Month. Northwestern Telephone Exchange Company.

Northwestern Telephone Exchange Company. Should have a Telephone.

On his desk; it pays for itself in time saved.

One Dollar Per Month. Northwestern Telephone Exchange Company.

Northwestern Telephone Exchange Company. Should have a Telephone.

On his desk; it pays for itself in time saved.

One Dollar Per Month. Northwestern Telephone Exchange Company.

Northwestern Telephone Exchange Company. Should have a Telephone.

On his desk; it pays for itself in time saved.

One Dollar Per Month. Northwestern Telephone Exchange Company.

Northwestern Telephone Exchange Company. Should have a Telephone.

On his desk; it pays for itself in time saved.

One Dollar Per Month. Northwestern Telephone Exchange Company.

Northwestern Telephone Exchange Company. Should have a Telephone.

Chuneman's

The Northwest's Greatest Store. Wabasha and Sixth Streets, St. Paul.

5 Henty Books for $1.00

or 25c each—A great Saturday sale that offers an unparalleled opportunity to Sunday Schools, etc., as well as to individual buyers. This is an entirely new edition of the famous "Henty Books," printed from new plates with a new and original cover design. This edition is fully illustrated and is superior to any heretofore published. All by G. A. Henty. Publisher's price, 50c each.

There are 42 titles to select from as follows:

- Among Malay Pirates. A Tale of Adventure and Peril.
- Bonnie Prince Charlie. A Tale of Fanny and Helen.
- Boy Knight. The Tale of the Crusades.
- Braveheart of the Brave. The With Peterborough in Spain.
- By England's Aid; or, The Freeing of the Netherlands (1555-1564).
- By Plain Deceit. A Tale of the Rise of the Dutch Republic.
- By Right of Conquest; or, With Cortez in Mexico.
- By Sheer Pluck. A Tale of the Ashanti War.
- Captain Barclay's Heir. A Tale of the Gold Fields of California.
- Cat of Buxabates. The Tale of an Ancient Egypt.
- Cornet of Horse. The A Story of Marlborough's Wars.
- Dragon and the Raven; or, The Days of King Alfred.
- Facing Death. A Tale of the Coal Mines.
- Final Reckoning. A Tale of Bush Life in Australia.
- For Name or Fame; or, Through African Passes.
- For the Temple. A Tale of the Fall of Jerusalem.
- Friends Though Divided. A Tale of the Civil War in England.
- Golden Canon. The.
- Freedom's Cause. A Story of Wallace and Bruce.
- In the Reign of Terror. The Adventures of Westcott and Bannister during the Siege of Alexandria.
- In Times of Peril. A Tale of India.

Do a little advance holiday shopping. Nothing would be more appropriate for the boy than some of these original "Henty Books." Special Saturday at 25c each, or 5 for $1.00

Winter Gloves

Look to your glove wants today, for here are bargains not likely to be repeated this season: Golf Gloves, in white, grays and black—2-class, regular 35c kinds. Saturday per pair ..... 25c

Cashmere Gloves Ladies' fleece lined and unlined cashmere gloves, regular value 35c and 50c, in Saturday's sale at, per pair.... 19c

Your Sunday Cakes

Should be ordered early. While we have made provision, as usual, for a big sale, we can't promise that there will be enough to go around. So order early. See them made. Prof. Chapman will explain every detail of their making, from mixing to baking. Lessons are free. Best cakes you ever ate, made in two sizes, at 25c and 50c

MOTHER ATTEMPTS TERRIBLE DEED

Continued From First Page.

and secured a bottle of carbolic acid. She also purchased a bottle of pop in one of the saloons nearby and showed it to the children when she arrived home, promising to give them some in a few minutes if they would be good. The children went into another room to play, and while they were absent, it is believed, the mother prepared the deadly brew. She took a small ounce of acid into the emptied pop bottle and then filled it with water.

She called the children from their play, and telling them that they might now have some pop, began drinking from the bottle. She drank three-fourths of the contents of the bottle, and then, placing it to the lips of her little son, Frank, five years of age, she began pouring it into his mouth, but he ran from her into another room. The mother handed the bottle to her seven-year-old daughter, and the girl immediately began drinking from it. She only took one or two swallows when it began to burn her tongue and she dropped the bottle. The mother tried to force her to take more, but as she reached for the girl she began to get dizzy from the effects of the poison, and fell against the wall.

Holding her head up, she made her way around the room as far as her bedroom, where she fell upon the bed unconscious.

"I hardly knew what to do when I saw the mother," said little Mary, "but when I found ma asleep and I couldn't wake her up, I knew something awful had happened, and I ran for the doctor."

Motive for the Deed.

The motive first suggested for the terrible deed was dependency over trouble with her husband. Kovarik, however, denies that he has had any trouble at all with his wife for several months. He stated last night that they had never had any serious quarrels. He admitted drinking at times, but claimed that his habit was not responsible for his wife doing washing. "She did it because she wanted to. She worked for people on the hill, and liked to meet that better class of people. She never had to do it," he explained.

Kovarik believes that it was through fear of death the birth of her sixth child that his wife tried to end her existence. "For the past month my wife has been fearful of her coming illness, because her mother and sister both died of the same thing," he said. Kovarik said Kovarik. "She was very much afraid of the ordeal, and had made arrangements to go to the city hospital when she became ill."

"We talked about her going to the hospital last week and at that time we remarked that the farewells must be said ones when she went, because she would know whether she would come back alive. I said to her then: 'Oh, you must live! You must! What would I do with these little children?' I love them and do not want to give them away."

"The conversation made a great impression on us both, and I think she has brooded over it a great deal since. We have had no quarrel at all for a month, but have been like little children. She always kissed me each morning when I went to work and we were just as happy as could be."

"The only reason I can see for her doing this terrible thing is that she was afraid she was going to die, just as her mother and sister had, and did not want to leave the little children on as a burden. She thought it would be best to end her life and theirs, too. I want to see her recover, for if I did do anything wrong I want to know it."

Made Careful Preparations.

It is evident that Mrs. Kovarik fully intended committing suicide, as she made all preparations for it. She was unusually affectionate in her farewells to her husband yesterday morning, and later when her twelve-year-old daughter, Mary, started for school. The woman surprised her by kissing her good-by and saying a number of "nice things" to her. The little girl states that her mother had not kissed her good-by in years when she left for school, and she could hardly understand it at the time, she says.

The mother also kept at home her little daughter, Anna, who is in the second grade at the Adams school, made the dedicatory address, and the monument was presented to the city by J. J. McCarty, who was mainly instrumental in securing the shaft for the city. Mayor Smith received it.

A military parade preceded the unveiling. Garfield Post No. 8 and Acker Post No. 21, G. A. R., the national guard companies of St. Paul, Sons of Veterans, Philippine and Spanish-American war veterans and the Twenty-first infantry and the Tenth battery of light artillery from Fort Snelling participated.

Although the temperature was well below the freezing mark and a sharp wind blew throughout the afternoon the exercises were a success in every particular. There was a large turnout of the old veterans of both posts of the Grand Army, the militia made a fine showing and a large number of prominent residents of the city and state were present.

The snow a few days ago, followed by the cold spell, delayed the work on the monument, the regulars from Fort Snelling lined up along Summit avenue at parade dress, while the artillery men took their station on Third street hill.

What even the years of the early future have in store for us we cannot say. He would be a bold prophet who would forecast the duties and the events of the day after tomorrow. We have been led by paths we knew not of to higher plateaus of contemplation, where have been discovered new ideals of responsibility and destiny. That the flag of the ultimate republic will float in welcome sovereignty upon Hudson's bay to Panama we may readily assume—but when, or by what process, we cannot foretell. What tomorrow's imperative demands may be we do not know. But this we know—that God reigns, the government of Washington still lives, and the fortitude of the "boys in blue" still animates the souls of their successors.

The monument was presented to the city in a few simple words by Capt. J. J. McCarty, Mayor Smith received it, speaking as follows:

Mayor Smith Accepts Monument. I accept on behalf of the municipality the grand trust conferred on her. It is a fitting tribute to the brave men who in the hour of peril left their homes and offered up their lives as a sacrifice in defense of our glorious Union.

The veterans of Acker post have done themselves and the state great honor in placing on the pedestal of this monument the statue of Capt. Joseph King, of Sault Ste. Marie, in the entire country to enroll his name on the roll of honor.

I cannot let this occasion pass without expressing, as I believe, the sentiments of the veterans of the war and of our citizens generally, of high appreciation of the services of Capt. McCarty, who, by his indefatigable energy largely secured the funds for the erection of this monument. The monument will stand as an inspiration to true patriotism on the part of the generations that will follow ours in the life of our beloved city and country.

Rev. W. H. W. Boyle, of the House of Hope church, pronounced the benediction and the ceremonies closed with "taps" sounded by a bugler.

The dedication of the soldier's monument marks the results of forty years' endeavor by citizens to secure one. The movement was first started after the battle of Bull Run, in which the First Minnesota took part. A committee was appointed to solicit subscriptions, but the strenuous times brought on by the growth of the Rebellion and the Indian outbreaks necessitated dropping the matter.

More Girl Problems. When a girl was born she was named Susan. Later on she wrote it "Susy". After a few years she wrote it "Susie". Now she has "Susane" on her cards. How old is she?

Molly sees two hats. One is becoming to her style of beauty and is priced at $15. The other looks like a fright on her, but the price is $64. She has $75 in her purse. How much money does she carry home after she pays for her hat?

A lady is writing a telegram. Her message will go with a train into five words or into eleven words. How many words does she send?—Chicago Tribune.

CASTORIA. Bears the Kind You Have Always Bought. Sold by Dr. J. C. Fitch.

ATLANTIC STEAMERS. Port. Arrived. Sailed. New York ... Launrent. ... Cymric. Glasgow ... Cambrian. ... Queenstown ... Columbus. ... Queenstown ... Campania. ... Havre ... La Gascogne. ... Genoa ... Liguria. ... Mowille ... Astoria. ... Liverpool ... Dominion. ... Queenstown ... Romano. ... New York ... Ligon. ... Queenstown ... Celtic. ... Liverpool ... Victorian. ... Southampton, St. Louis.

Got a Constant Headache?—Ten chances to one the secret of your suffering is that "white man's burden." Catarrh. Here's a sentence from one man's evidence for Dr. Agnew's Catarrh Powder—"One application gave me instant relief, cleared the nasal passages and stopped the pain in my head." It's a quick, safe and sure treatment, and it never fails to cure.—S. Sold by Tlechner & Jagger.

The Busy Man Should have a Telephone. On his desk; it pays for itself in time saved.

One Dollar Per Month. Northwestern Telephone Exchange Company.

Northwestern Telephone Exchange Company. Should have a Telephone.

On his desk; it pays for itself in time saved.

One Dollar Per Month. Northwestern Telephone Exchange Company.

Northwestern Telephone Exchange Company. Should have a Telephone.

On his desk; it pays for itself in time saved.

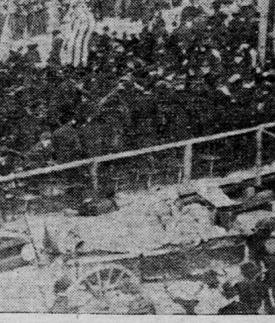

One Dollar Per Month. Northwestern Telephone Exchange Company.

Northwestern Telephone Exchange Company. Should have a Telephone.

On his desk; it pays for itself in time saved.

One Dollar Per Month. Northwestern Telephone Exchange Company.

UNVEILING OF THE MONUMENT IN SUMMIT PARK.

The monument, and the bronze statue of Josias R. King, which was unveiled yesterday afternoon in Summit park.

from its place the cannons began to boom. A salute of thirteen guns was fired.

Capt. Castle, the orator of the day, spoke in an impressive and eulogistic manner of the important part played by the Minnesota volunteers in the Civil war, when 70 per cent of the electoral vote of the state went to the front to aid in the defense of the country. He spoke in part, as follows:

Capt. Castle's Address. The glory of his heroic men is the supreme treasure of a people; a column dedicated to their memory, is the supreme expression of its gratitude and patriotism. The base is a perfectly carved, commonwealth of Minnesota, a queenly metropolis of an illustrious Northwestern empire; thronged among the fountains of the Grand Army, the monument which was opened in St. Paul on April 15, 1861, two days after Fort Sumter had surrendered. He rose to the rank of captain in the First Minnesota, the first regiment of the monument, and the bronze statue of Josias R. King, which was unveiled yesterday afternoon in Summit park.

from its place the cannons began to boom. A salute of thirteen guns was fired.

Capt. Castle, the orator of the day, spoke in an impressive and eulogistic manner of the important part played by the Minnesota volunteers in the Civil war, when 70 per cent of the electoral vote of the state went to the front to aid in the defense of the country. He spoke in part, as follows:

Capt. Castle's Address. The glory of his heroic men is the supreme treasure of a people; a column dedicated to their memory, is the supreme expression of its gratitude and patriotism. The base is a perfectly carved, commonwealth of Minnesota, a queenly metropolis of an illustrious Northwestern empire; thronged among the fountains of the Grand Army, the monument which was opened in St. Paul on April 15, 1861, two days after Fort Sumter had surrendered. He rose to the rank of captain in the First Minnesota, the first regiment of the monument, and the bronze statue of Josias R. King, which was unveiled yesterday afternoon in Summit park.