

Puzzle Prize Winners in Tomorrow's Globe

Not the least interesting feature of the Sunday Globe tomorrow will be the list of about one hundred readers of the Globe who are among the thousands engaged in the solution of Sam Loyd's clever puzzles.

Tomorrow's Globe will be replete with interesting features and brilliant with hard pictures and entertaining text. The magazine supplement is a strikingly good one. It will contain some notable things, including:

"MERE MAN" is the topic discussed in the "Representative Woman's Point of View," by Mrs. William Tod Helmut, one of the most conspicuous club women in the country, who has been interviewed by Frances Carruth.

THE REV. CHARLES R. PARKHURST furnishes the material for an article on "The Real Life of the Swiss," an unique subject comprehensively treated and illustrated.

CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY, the noted novelist, has been added to the list of writers for The Globe magazine. Tomorrow he has a little sermon addressed "To One Going on a Journey." It contains a lot of common sense.

THE WORLD LITERARY, by Carolyn Wells, is a clever bit of satire. MADAME DE RYTHER tells how to cook roast beef. It may be simple enough, but Madame De Ryther tells some things about it that the cook should know.

THE FASHION ARTICLE, with its beautiful pictures, gives some illuminating descriptions of new and handsome things for women's wear. The illustrations are quite up to the usual standard.

SAM LOYD'S PUZZLES will be unique beyond the average and will serve to hold the attention of both young and old.

CAMBODIAN DANCERS POSE BEFORE THE CAMERA. Some pictures and a story of how seventeen lovely young Cambodian girls help dissipate the blues for King Norodom.

"PUBLIC SPARKING ROOM FOR POOR WOMEN." Queer institution established by a Cincinnati preacher.

THE WOMAN'S PAGE OF NEW IDEAS includes some suggestions on Winter Luncheons, the latest thing in Rain Coats, novel suggestions for children's parties.

THE CURIOUS HISTORY OF PRECIOUS GEMS, told in a remarkable book by a Chicago man.

THE TWELVE SENIORS AMONG MINNESOTA'S PIONEERS. A remarkable dozen survivors of the men who came to the territory in the forties of the last century. With their pictures.

THE ST. PAUL CATHOLIC ORPHAN ASYLUM, illustrated. The story and work of a great charity that works quietly but effectively.

WHAT AMERICAN CRAFTSMEN HAVE DONE. A search through the marts of St. Paul shows that there are no original designs in art furnishings, everything being based on models made in the day when men worked with their hands.

THE FOREIGN SERVICE OF THE GLOBE deals with many interesting things, the Duchess of Marlborough as an inventor; Mrs. "Pat" Campbell's home life, fortunes abroad awaiting the claim of Americans and the foreign news of the day.

SOCIETY, THE DRAMA, MUSIC, SPORTS, SUNSHINE and the other departments of the Sunday Globe will be up to their usual standard of excellence and unrivaled in this field.

GIRL RETURNS HOME Decides She Has Had Enough of Making Her Own Way.

"I wish to thank The Globe for the assistance it has given in finding our lost daughter."—Engelhardt Nelson, 471 Cypress street.

Hattie Nelson, who had been missing from her home since Aug. 18, yesterday returned in company with her mother, from Dubuque, where she had been located after a long search, the first clue being furnished through the publication of the girl's photograph and a report of her disappearance in The Globe, Dec. 24.

The Globe traced the girl's movements, by means of its correspondents, through three states, and enabled the parents and the police to continue the quest till she was finally found.

She was located in Dubuque a few days ago, where she was employed in a hotel as waitress, and yesterday her mother induced her to return to her home in this city. She arrived late in the afternoon, and was glad to be again under her parental roof.

As already reported in The Globe, the girl left her home because she wanted to go to work. Having never been compelled to face the brunt of the world, she was fascinated with the thought of contending against difficulties and struggling for herself. When her mother advised her to finish her business college course she rebelled and disappeared.

No word was received of her, and all efforts on the part of her parents to find her were of no avail, till The Globe published, about a month ago, a report of her disappearance, with her portrait. This was seen by a hotel-keeper of Pierre, S. D., for whom she had worked a month before. Givenly she was traced to Deerfield, Minn., and to La Crosse, Winona, and finally to Dubuque, where her mother found her Thursday.

GERMAN-AMERICANS OF ST. PAUL ARE URGED TO STAND TOGETHER

At a Meeting Held Under the Auspices of the German-American Central Bund, the Speakers Counsel Hearers to Support Their Countrymen for Office—Julius Moersch Declares Public Schools Are Dominated by Politics, and Afflicted With Incompetent Teachers.

H. J. NIENSTEDT, President of the German-American Central Bund, Which is Urging German-Americans to Support Their Countrymen for Office.

The keynote of a movement to have the German-Americans of St. Paul stand together in all matters regarding the welfare of the public was sounded at a meeting of representative German-Americans, held at St. Francis hall, in the Fifth ward, last night. The meeting was held under the auspices of the recently organized German-American Central Bund, and a number of speakers urged the members to look out for the interests of their own countrymen.

Matters of a political nature will be taken up by the German-Americans, and if they follow out the plans outlined to them last night, party lines will be laid aside when it comes to supporting a German-American for office. It was stated that there are 11,000 German-American voters in Ramsey county, enough to entitle them to more consideration, they declare, than is being shown them in the way of political plums.

H. J. Nienstedt, president of the German-American Central Bund, was the principal speaker at last night's meeting. He advised his hearers to look more after their own interests and the interests of their fellow countrymen.

"There are enough German-Americans in St. Paul," said the speaker, "to elect every man they might decide upon. We will never get anything so long as we are fighting among ourselves. We must stick together. When a German is nominated for an office we should support him, providing he is a good German, no matter what party he belongs to. If the Germans showed an inclination to stick together it would be only a short time before we would be well represented in public affairs. We are strong enough here to do some good for ourselves, and we should do so."

Politics in Public Schools. Julius Moersch, who is slated for a position on the Panama canal commission, thought there was too much politics in the public schools. "Our schools should not be controlled by politicians," said Mr. Moersch. "They should be above politics. What we need most is a school board composed of men who have backbone, men who do not have to do the bidding of politicians, and men who have no fear of a constituency. We need more competent teachers in our public schools. There are teachers in our schools today who had much better be on the benches with the pupils than where they are. Provision should be made for teaching German in all of the public schools. Every child, whether of German parentage or not, should be taught the German language. It is the language of our greatest writers and composers, and is essential to a thorough education." City Comptroller Louis Betz spoke. "A German today can say with pride that he is a German," declared Mr. Betz. "Fifty years ago the Germans in this country could not unite unless they did so secretly; they would not have been permitted to do so. There is no doubt that the German language is decreasing in this country, but this should not be so. Fathers and mothers should speak German to their children in their homes, at the tables, and see that they are given an opportunity to learn the language in the schools. They should be taught German songs. There is no reason why a child should be ashamed of being a German.

"I believe this society will be of much benefit to the Germans. It is something they need. It is not antagonistic to any other nationality, and it can be made to result in much good to the Germans." Former Representative Philip Martin was another speaker. He said the people and not the politicians should elect the men to office. He deplored the fact that politics was causing the American people to lose their honor.

Scores City Council. "Capital and corporations now rule the government, not the people," declared Mr. Martin. "The present city council has no right to meddle in this gas franchise matter," said Mr. Martin. "It is a matter for the next council, and the members of the present body should not attempt to dispose of a future council body."

Peter Zimmerman approved all that had been said regarding the German-Americans standing together. "Of course there are many Germans in good positions, but the Irish control the city," said Mr. Zimmerman. Another meeting of the German-Americans interested in the movement to see that their countrymen are treated more liberally in political matters will be held at Mozart hall Sunday afternoon.

It was stated last night that the organization would expand until it included enough voters to demand consideration at the hands of the state makers.

MICHIGAN STUDENTS WHO WON THE SEMI-FINAL FROM MINNESOTA.

JOHN A. RIPPELE. JOHN C. BILLS. CLEMENT M. HOLDERMAN.

MICHIGAN UNIVERSITY won the semi-final of the Central Debating League from Minnesota at the university last night. The question was "Resolved, That the adjudication of labor disputes be made a part of the system of justice." The debate was voted one of the best ever heard in the university chapel. John C. Bills, of Michigan, was the first speaker, introduced by President Northrop. Mr. Steinson, of Minnesota, followed. C. M. Holderman, of Michigan; Mr. Churchill, of Minnesota; John A. Rippele, of Michigan, and Mr. Carlson, of Minnesota, spoke in the order named. "This will be the fifth time in the six years' history of the league that Michigan will be represented in the finals."

street car company if the plans it has made are to be realized," he continued. "The use of that street means a revolution in the operation of the system, and the consequent saving of thousands of dollars annually to the company."

According to the outline given by the official, the entire operating plant of the system in the two cities is to be centered at Snelling and University avenues. Here the cars will be received at the close of each day's business and here they will leave in the morning. As far as being a construction plant, that has not been decided upon. Its first use will be for storage purposes.

Under the plan now in force, when a car leaves the barn in the morning it does not take on any passengers until a given point is reached—the dispatcher's office at Wabasha and Seventh streets, for instance. When the car is taken off duty at night it likewise makes the run to the barn empty. Here are two trips with no return to the company, and expenses going on just the same.

Would Make a Big Saving. With a line on Snelling and a central barn at Snelling and University avenues, all this would be changed. From the moment a car left the barn it

Why the Company Wants Snelling Ave. Would Save 180 Runs a Day From Which No Revenue Is Now Received.

"If the car line which the street car company is so anxious to operate on Snelling avenue does not carry a passenger, it will pay for itself in less than six months," said a city official yesterday.

"It may not be known, but Snelling avenue is absolutely necessary for the would be available for passengers, and the same condition would prevail on its return. With about 150 cars for St. Paul alone leaving and returning to the barn daily, the profits that would accrue to the company in consequence of the new order of things can be easily imagined.

If the council allows the use of Snelling avenue, the track on that street will be available for every line in the city. All lines running east and west as a matter of course will tap it, and what few cross-town lines do not could be made to do so.

When the new headquarters are completed all of the company's district barns will be abandoned, both in St. Paul and Minneapolis. This means much to those districts that now realize considerable from the trade of street car omnibuses who reside in the vicinity of those barns, and those who enjoy a revenue from this source can be expected to make a lively protest against the change.

The company, according to those who claim to be acquainted with its plans, has no idea that a line on Snelling avenue will ever pay as far as cross-town line purposes are concerned, but it does expect that a considerable saving will be effected on all lines by the consolidation scheme which it has in view.

Official puts the revenue that the company would realize from utilizing this line as above stated, at nearly $50,000 a year, and he is now trying hard to induce some of the members to back him in an effort to compel the company to at least pay a trifle for the use of the street.

No effort has been made to conceal the anxiety of the company to secure the use of Snelling avenue. "Give the street car company Snelling avenue and you can get what you want," has been expressed openly more than once in council meetings.

FARMERS WILL FORM A FARMERS' TRUST Propose to Control the Market on Agricultural Products.

Permanent organization of the American Farmers' Exchange will be effected when delegates from thirteen states assemble in St. Paul at the state capitol Feb. 2. C. E. Jackson, president of the Minnesota branch organization, is now in St. Paul, and is preparing for the gathering.

The organization, which is a consolidation of the farmers' societies throughout the United States, was recently perfected at a meeting held in Chicago. A state organization was effected at a meeting held in St. Paul about two months ago, and now it is proposed to invite delegates from various outside societies in thirteen states for the purpose of completing the organization.

President Jackson said last night that he expected an attendance of about 1,000 farmers. The scheme of the organization is for the purpose of controlling the markets on farm produce. The members of the organization claim that the markets are manipulated by others than the producers, and that the farmers get the worst of the deal.

Mr. Border Swears Out Warrant. James Border, yesterday swore out a warrant against Special Policeman Kelly, of the Penny Parlor, East Seventh street, on a charge of assault. Border declared that Kelly had been attentive to Mrs. Border, and that the dispute resulted.
