BOAT ILL EQUIPPED.

Witness Criticizes the Captain of the Steamer Clallam. VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 21.—Capt. Mackintosh, a boatman, who has charge of the lifeboat of the steamer Clallam, which was "recovered" with the body of Miss Harris in it, gave evidence before the coroner's inquest today that the boat was not properly equipped. If it had been it would have lived, he said, after being lowered. The cap of the plug was not attached, and the boat had filled through the plug hole and swamped. The lifeboats and other articles found in the boat showed it had not capsized. He criticized Capt. Roberts' actions severely, saying Roberts knew many places where the Clallam could have been beached, even without her engines, and had used seamanship and the sails of the Clallam were properly equipped. He and another witness gave evidence that the lifeboat was not properly equipped. Capt. Collister, inspector of hulls, testified to his inspection of the steamer. He said she was well constructed and properly equipped.

Boats Frozen In.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 21.—Two boats are fast in the ice a few miles out in the lake, one the Pere Marquette ferry No. 2, and the other supposed to be one of the Goodrich Transportation company's boats. Capt. Olsen, of the life-saving station, said the Goodrich steamer Georgia, was released about noon and proceeded on her way to Chicago and he believes the steamer Iowa to be the vessel keeping company with the car ferry. This opinion is not shared by the Goodrich people, who have advised that the Iowa is still in the ice off Chicago. The vessels are in no danger.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—The steamer Iowa, of the Goodrich line, bound for Milwaukee and carrying a number of passengers, which had been held fast in the ice north of Chicago harbor in Lake Michigan all last night and today, became released this afternoon and proceeded on its way to Milwaukee. Will Wed Wicks

Special to The Globe. SIOUX CITY, Iowa, Jan. 21.—"I want a license to marry Wicks," said Eliza Bowers, fat and forty, presenting herself to the clerk of courts at Cherokee. "Residence?" "Sioux City." "And Mr. Wicks' residence?" "Well, he's in jail now. He's one of the bank robbers they convicted yesterday. He lived at my house, but I did not know he was a robber. Something happened to say started the police and they got him. I want to marry him to prove I did not mean to tell." "But his name is Hicks, not Wicks," said the clerk. "No; his real name is Wicks. He told me." Inquiry developed that the robber, who was to be sent to the penitentiary for the Quimby bank robbery had at least four names. The clerk did not want to issue the license anyhow. "Don't dare issue a license without knowing the real name for certain," was his ultimatum. Mrs. Bowers gave it up and came home, single.
