

SOCIETY

LAST week society was; this week it will not. From now on gayety will be only spasmodic in certain sets, and even those who do not observe Lent are perforce obliged to, as there are few set circles which do not number among their number a few who keep the fast rigidly. Therefore there will be little doing until April and then not until the middle of the month.

Yesterday morning, Mrs. Gardner Moore, of Goodrich avenue, is in New York visiting Mrs. John Farrington. She will go to Washington to visit Mrs. A. G. Foster before returning. Mr. and Mrs. A. A. White and Miss White, of her sister, have gone to Los Angeles to remain until spring. Mrs. E. W. S. Tingle, of Philadelphia, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. John Meagher, of Goodrich avenue.

A farewell surprise party was given by the congregation of the Trinity English Lutheran church Tuesday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Strobe, of Ohio street, who shortly leave for St. Louis to reside. The sixth anniversary of Cardinal Chapter No. 127, O. E. S., will be celebrated Tuesday evening at their hall, corner South Wabasha and Colorado streets.

The social season just past has demonstrated one thing distinctly, and that is the growth of St. Paul. Many have thought this before, but this winter proved that there could be several large affairs given on the same night and each well patronized by society. This certainly never happened before. St. Paul society is becoming very metropolitan, and one sign of this is the dinner giving that has obtained this year. Never before in the history of society have so many beautiful dinners been given as during this season. Card parties and other less formal ways of entertaining have been relegated to the past, and there have been only one or two fashionable card parties given this year, leaving out, of course, the meetings of one or two card clubs. Dinner parties and luncheons have been favorite ways of honoring one's friends, and we may be permitted to doubt if anywhere in this country more beautiful affairs of this kind have been given than right here. Certainly nothing is lacking; charming homes, plenty to do with in the matter of means and appointments, all are here in abundance.

Mrs. J. W. Stevens, of Holly avenue, gave a luncheon on Tuesday. Mrs. Strickland, of Omaha, who has been the guest of Mrs. J. C. Ames at the Angus, has returned to her home. Mrs. J. Norman Risley, of Philadelphia, will come to St. Paul to attend the wedding of her brother, Mr. Edward Holbert and Miss Finch.

The ladies of Bethany church will receive the gentlemen tomorrow afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock at the home of Mrs. E. L. Robbins, 51 West Robie street. The ladies also are invited. The Florentine club's auxiliary will hold a semi-annual meeting next Tuesday evening. Mr. J. Blackman, of Selby avenue, entertained the Capital City Driving club at

We are to have our annual crop of weddings in the spring and one of the largest is to be that of Mr. Edward Holbert and Miss Florence Finch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley B. Finch, which will be celebrated Thursday afternoon, April 14, at 4 o'clock, at the Church of St. John the Evangelist. Miss Finch will have her sister, Mrs. Anthon Andrews, of Minneapolis, as matron of honor and the bridesmaids will be Miss Lessynsky, of Chicago; Miss Holabird, of Evanston; Miss Spencer, of Minneapolis; and Miss Humbird, Miss Cora, and the Misses Holbert, all of St. Paul. Mr. Robert C. Holbert, the groom's brother, will be his best man, and the ushers will be his intimate friends, who have not yet been selected.

Mrs. Gustave Scholle, of Summit avenue, has gone south. Mrs. Robert Auerbach, of Seattle, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Oscar Kalman, of Summit avenue. Judge Wilson, of the Aberdeen, has gone to Florida. Mr. C. E. Beach Jr., of the Aberdeen, has gone to New York. Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Tights, of Dayton avenue, have gone south. Mrs. Howard James, of the Aberdeen, will return this week from the East. Mr. Frank P. Shepard, of Dayton avenue, has returned from Georgia, accompanied by his father, Mr. D. C. Shepard.

Judge and Mrs. D. A. Adams announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Mary, to Dr. Sydney E. Bennion, son of Mr. Edward Bennion, of Litchfield, Minn. The Music History club will give a recital on Wednesday evening, Feb. 24, at 7:30 p. m., at St. Agatha's conservatory.

Mr. Holbert and his bride will go East and expect to be present at the Price-Risley wedding on the 27th in Philadelphia. When they return they will be at home at the St. Albans, St. Albans street, where Mr. Holbert has taken an apartment. Mr. W. P. Price has also taken an apartment in the same building, and he and his bride expect to occupy it after May 15.

A very pretty little farewell luncheon was tendered on Thursday to Miss Frances Hoyt by the teachers of the Grant school. The kindergarten room was decorated in red, carnations, and the color scheme of red and white was carried out in the name cards, confections and shaded candles. Mrs. C. E. Filmer and Miss Adelaide McCaine responded to toasts and Miss Mary Coffin sang.

Suits that are now being made for early spring wear are mostly of large-mesh, rough-finished canvases or other like materials, or of the ever popular mohair fabrics. Tailor-made suits of the latter material in solid colors are great favorites, and are smartly trimmed with heavy soutache braid, and light tones, such as biscuit, sage green, pastel blue, coral pink, champagne and all shades of white in this serviceable material are also in great demand for house gowns. They are very effectively trimmed with silk laces of the same color, or with the old-fashioned knotted silk insertion, fringe or moss edging, which are revivals of bygone days now much in vogue.

Mrs. J. T. Clark, of Fairmount avenue, gave a sleighing party to the Country club Friday night in honor of her son, Mrs. W. E. Dandman, of Lincoln avenue, entertained informally Friday afternoon. Mrs. W. E. Howard, of Summit avenue, will give a small dinner tomorrow evening.

with a hip yoke that starts at the front breadth and is cut in points on the sides. This is stitched with brown silk on the edge, as are also the seams, to within twelve inches of the bottom, where small tabs of the material are attached, and below each seam is formed into an inverted pleat to give more flare at the foot. The coat is a short blouse, with a tight-fitting back and collar, and only a slight pouch in front. It is intended to be worn open, but has narrow vest fronts of white cloth, that are so made that they may be worn or not as desired, as they are separate and are attached to the coat, when wanted, by hooks and loops. The collar, of white cloth, is about three and a half inches wide. It is cut into sharp points in front and is trimmed with brown buttons flecked with gold. The cuffs correspond and similar but smaller buttons trim the tabs on the skirt.
