CHAMPIONS DROP TO FOURTH PLACE
Yesterday's Handball Games
Change Standing of Four Teams.

Standing	Class A Teams	Won	Lost	Percent
1	Maher-Schumacher	3	1	.750
2	Nolan-McCarthy	3	1	.750
3	Whitmore-Lindeke	2	2	.500
4	Fitzgibbons-Johnson	2	2	.500
5	Whitmore-Lindeke	1	5	.166
6	McAuley-Cunningham	0	1	.000

By winning their games in the Amateur Athletic association handball tournament yesterday, the Maher-Schumacher and Nolan-McCarthy teams tied for first place, and the Fitzgibbons-Johnson team lost its second game of the tournament and went down to fourth place in the race for the championship.

Fast handball was played by all of the teams which contested in the A class yesterday, and the pace set by the Maher-Schumacher team was too fast for the leaders and the two teams changed positions, the race being so close that the leaders, by losing one game, went down to fourth place.

The Nolan-McCarthy team won from the Whitmore-Lindeke combination, and moved up from second place to tie with Maher and Schumacher for first place.

The games in the Class A tournament have been closely contested from the outset, and so closely bunched are five of the eight teams, that any one of them stands, by good luck or superior playing, to finish at the top.

Yesterday's Class A games resulted as follows:

Nolan-McCarthy	1	2	0	8	0-11
Whitmore-Lindeke	1	0	2	0	3-21
Nolan-McCarthy	1	0	2	0	3-21
Whitmore-Lindeke	1	1	1	1	4-16
Nolan-McCarthy	0	0	1	1	4-9-21
Whitmore-Lindeke	1	0	1	1	7-18
Maher-Schumacher	0	0	2	0	7-4-21
Fitzgibbons-Johnson	1	0	2	0	7-4-21

Dempsey-Nolan	1	0	1	1	15-21
Hilge-Bemis	1	0	1	1	15-21
Dempsey-Nolan	1	0	1	1	15-21
But one game in the Class C series, resulting as follows:
Lilly-Martin	1	0	1	1	15-21
Barrow-Lux	1	0	1	1	15-21

NORTHERN LEAGUE MAGNATES THROUGH

Special to The Globe.
DULUTH, Minn., March 13.—After a brief business session this morning, at which the chief topic of discussion was the schedule for the season, the magnates of the Northern Baseball league left for their homes this afternoon. This is the last session of the league before the opening of the season, and matters which were left unsettled were referred to President D. J. Laxdall to be adjusted by him.

It was apparent from the statements of the different representatives in the league that Duluth will have one of the largest salary lists in the organization. It is expected that the pay of the local players will be close to $2,000 monthly, while Winnipeg will hand over approximately $1,400 each thirty days. Superior will probably be at the foot of the list and unless some additional men are obtained, will be able to keep below the $1,000 mark.

The league has arranged for an equalization of railway fares for the season, so that each club will have to pay a like amount. There will be a guarantee of $50 for each cancelled game and a deposit of $500 will be put up to insure each club remaining throughout the season.

GO THAM CONNECTED WITH BUENOS AYRES
But 4,800 Miles Is Lacking to Complete Through Railway Communication.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 13.—Charles M. Pepper, appointed by President Roosevelt as commissioner to carry out the recommendations of the second International American conference, held in Mexico two years ago, with regard to the Pan-American railway, has submitted his report to the state department, by which it will be transmitted to congress. The second conference created a permanent committee, with headquarters in Washington, of which ex-Senator H. G. Davis is chairman and Andrew Carnegie is a member. The other members are the ambassadors from Mexico and the ministers from Peru and Guatemala.

Commissioner Pepper spent a year in visiting the various countries. His inquiries covered the general subject of trade opportunities that would result from railroad building as well as actual railway construction.

The report says that the general project of an intercontinental line, which ultimately will place New York and Buenos Ayres in through railway communication, is receiving much encouragement. At the present time about 4,800 miles are lacking, and the estimated cost of construction is placed at $150,000,000. This is based on an average of 50 cents gold as a daily wage for labor, with an efficiency of 75 per cent, as compared with similar labor in the United States.

Commissioner Pepper gives five specific causes which he contributed to advance the inter-continental project as well as railway building in general. Some of the developments have taken place since the beginning of the present year. The encouraging causes as specified in the report are:

First, progress at both ends as shown in simultaneous action by Mexico on the north and the Argentine republic on the south to extend their railway lines so that one will reach the border of Guatemala and the other will pass the frontier of Bolivia.

Second, the settlement of disputed boundaries and other questions which heretofore have caused the countries to be indifferent to railway intercourse among themselves.

Third, the opening of the Chilean congress for the tunnel through the Andes, which will enable the long-deferred through railway connection between Buenos Ayres and Valparaiso to be made.

Fourth, legislation by several of the republics with a view to offering greater inducements for foreign capital to engage in railway construction, and especially the law passed by the Peruvian congress a few weeks ago which establishes a permanent railway guaranty fund of $1,000,000 annually out of the proceeds of the tobacco tax.

Fifth, the definite determination of the Panama canal question.

King Edward's Decision Explained.
LONDON, March 13.—The colonial office issued a statement tonight confirming the explanation received from Johannesburg to the effect that King Edward's decision regarding the Asiatic and Transvaal ordinance will not prevent the Transvaal from proceeding with the execution of the ordinance forthwith, the suggested delay in the matter meaning only that certain negotiations have to be completed with the Chinese government before laborers can be shipped.

Emperor William at Dover.
DOVER, Eng., March 13.—The North German Lloyd steamer Koenig Albert on its way to the Mediterranean with Emperor William on board, arrived here this afternoon. A large crowd welcomed the emperor, but as the vessel was unofficially not salute was fired, Sir William Henry Crundell, former mayor of Dover, went on board the Koenig Albert and delivered some dispatches after which the vessel proceeded.

DEWEY REFUSED TO MIX IN TROUBLE
Admiral Tells Reasons for Refusing to Call on San Domingo's President.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 13.—Admiral Dewey, who with several members of the general staff and Assistant Secretary Loomis, of the state department, are at Havana, has telegraphed the navy department the reasons why he failed to call on President Morales, of San Domingo, when the party were in Dominican waters several days ago. The failure to visit caused considerable surprise at that time.

It appears that there was fighting in progress in the vicinity on the day the party was there and for that reason the admiral did not deem it advisable to make an official visit. During the forenoon there were several casualties in San Domingo city from the fighting then proceeding. This was caused from shots crossing the river through which the boat must pass, and as more fighting was expected during the afternoon the admiral gave up the proposed visit. The admiral, however, sent his respects to President Morales by United States Minister Powell.

FROZEN EELS FOUND ON QUEBEC SHORE
Cold Weather Makes It Easy to Gather in Slippery Ones.

GAPE BASIN, Que., March 13.—The excessively cold season has had a curious effect upon the salt water eels in their custom in winter to bury themselves in the sand or mud below high water mark and there hibernate. This winter the frost has been so keen for weeks at a time that the surface of the wet sand has become a sheet of ice directly the water ebbed away. Probably this has had the effect of partially depriving the buried eels of air, and the fear of death by asphyxiation has sent them scurrying out into the open, where they meet with immediate paralysis from the cold.

The appearance of the beach on some cold mornings has been remarkable. Thousands of eels from thirty to seventy inches in length, each one about as brittle as an icicle, and stretched out as straight as a stick, lie about or stand upright from the sand for a good third of their length.

Carts and wheelbarrows, as well as boats, have been filled day after day, and the available markets for fresh eels were long ago glutted. Skinning, salting and smoking have given employment to many who otherwise would have been idle.

The question which suggests itself is: Do these eels hibernate naturally when they experience cold beyond a certain point, or is the condition noted that of temporary suspended animation, the forerunner, or preliminary stage, of death?

For it is certain that the eels are not really dead. The returning tide bears them on its surface at first, as though they were lifeless, but after a few minutes they wriggle about a little, and soon they dive below slowly and carefully, but very much alive. The fishermen usually make things certain by chopping off the heads of their captured fish before they thaw them out.

Apparently no one has ever taken the trouble of deciding whether the fish were frozen through the heart, so there could not be any little stream of life kept in motion in the interior of their bodies by ever so slight a circulation.

TERRIER SWALLOWS A SEIDLITZ POWDER
Dog Accidentally Takes Compound and Runs Wild for a Few Minutes.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 13.—Fourteen-year-old Johnny Sayer, of Ogletown, accidentally swallowed the powder. A moment later the effecting began, and the animal ran wild, frothing at the mouth.

People walking along the street at the time thought the dog was mad, and rushed for a place of safety. Meanwhile the poor animal was butting his head against trolley poles and lamp-posts in agony.

At last Johnnie succeeded in capturing his pet, and with tears rolling down his cheeks walked home with his now thoroughly frightened pet. The paroxysm subsided in a short time, and the dog seemed none the worse for his experience.

Launch a Miles Boom.
DES MOINES, Iowa, March 13.—About seventy-five prominent Iowa Democrats held a conference here last evening and launched a boom for Gen. Nelson A. Miles for the Democratic nomination for president. It is claimed that the Iowa movement is part of a national one, which has been inaugurated by Gen. Miles' manager.

Col. A. L. Sorter, of Mason City, at one time candidate for congress from the Fourth district, seems to have been the moving spirit in the meeting. The men present represented nearly the entire Democratic representation in the legislature.

Senator Tillman Much Better.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 13.—Senator Tillman, who for a week has had serious trouble with his throat, is reported to be very much improved tonight, and the confident expectation is expressed that he will be able to do his duty in the Senate during the present week for a period of recuperation. The marked improvement is due to the relief experienced from the use of another agent.

Snowstorm at Burlington.
BURLINGTON, Iowa, March 13.—The worst snowstorm of the season is raging over this region tonight. Street car traffic is badly interfered with. The snow is ten inches on the level and drifting badly.

STORY LEFT UNTOLD
Death Cuts Short Old Soldier's Dream of Life.

MARION, Ind., March 13.—While writing and moralizing on his life, telling of a resolve firmly made and kept to remain on the light side of life rather than on the dark side, James M. Kuhn, a naval veteran, fell dead from his chair at the national military home today.

He was writing under the caption of "An Old Soldier's Dream." The article was not quite complete when he fell to the floor. He was carried from his barracks to the hospital, but was dead when he reached it. The manuscript which he had been working on was picked up and will be sent to his widow.

He had written: "I am now going on my seventy-fourth year. I have generally tried to live what is called an exemplary life, temperate habits, law-abiding, church-going, and a good citizen. Since I have been in the home I have reflected on my life. I must soon take that long journey. I now see that walking on the line is risky and dangerous.

"I must get off the line, over to the bright side, and stay there, which, with God's help, I have been trying to do. We slip along through life taking things easy, and our neighbors, generally on the dark side of the line, and in touch with the evil one."

The pencil dropped from his fingers at the end of this paragraph, and he expired.

TO PRESERVE THE DOROTHY Q. HOUSE
Appeal Is Made for Funds to Save the Historic Mansion.

BOSTON, Mass., March 13.—An appeal has been issued for the preservation of the Edmund Quincy house, commonly known as the "Dorothy Q. House" at Quincy, Mass.

This famous dwelling, so closely identified with the early history of the country, may soon be torn down. This house, a portion of it built in 1836, has for more than two centuries seen within its walls some of the most famous men and women of Massachusetts.

The house was born "Dorothy Q." of Dr. Holmes' poem, here John Hancock came courting beautiful Dorothy Quincy, and on the walls of the north parlor still remains the quaint wall paper, imported from Paris in anticipation of their wedding. Here came John Adams, and later John Quincy Adams, Benjamin Franklin, and many of the revolutionary patriots to partake of its hospitality.

The house is most picturesquely situated, standing upon the high road, and is especially accessible to visitors. Singularly enough, it happens that successive owners of the mansion have preserved it without alteration, and it remains today exactly as it was in pre-revolutionary days.

By the north-side of the house runs the brook alluded to by Judge Sewall in his diary, March, 1711, when, after a journey to Braintree, he turned in the house, and was lodged in a chamber next the brook.

Later another chamber, still nearer the brook, was provided for the celebration of the wedding. The house, Col. Quincy erected for the use of that celebrated man, who was for over half a century a tutor at Harvard college. The study used by him is still as it was, and is open to the public.

The house belongs to Rev. D. M. Wilson, who has removed to Brooklyn.

SMITH HAD STORMY TIME IN EARLY LIFE
Polygamist Chief Saw the Rough Side of Things as a Youth.

SALT LAKE CITY, March 13.—A man whose dramatic career and present position invest him with more than ordinary interest is Joseph F. Smith, president of the Mormon church, who is in Washington for the purpose of the Smoot hearing. To the Mormon people everywhere he is "prophet, seer and revelator"; to them his word is law and his teaching inspired by God. He has been a man of great energy and bloodshed near the Mormon settlement of Far West, in Caldwell county, Missouri. His father was Hiram Smith, brother of the Prophet Joseph, founder of the Mormon religion.

As a small child he passed through the persecutions of the "Saints" in Missouri and Illinois, and he was with John Taylor when he was shot and uncle were shot to death in Carthage jail. As a lad of eight years he drove an ox team across the state of Iowa, when his mother, with the rest of the Mormon family, fled from Nauvoo. At fifteen he was sent on a mission to the Sandwich islands and was obliged to find the means for reaching his destination, which he did by working as a stave maker in California.

In the historical works of the church Joseph F. Smith is credited with having worked many miracles while on his mission, including the casting out of evil spirits and healing of the sick by the laying on of hands. That was in 1834. The young missionary was absent from Salt Lake City three years, finally working his way back.

On the day of his return he enlisted in the Mormon army dispatched by Brigham Young to fight the United States troops under Gen. Harney, who were about to invade Utah. He performed active service as a scout, harassing the federal expedition until the present's proclamation ended the Mormon war.

"The president of the Mormon church has been active in politics, having served a term in the legislature. He has been a Republican. Several times he has been on European missions for the church. He is a zealot, thoroughly imbued with the spirit of Mormonism and the spirit of his divine origin. He is devoted to his five families and has always been a firm adherent to the doctrine of 'patrilarchal marriage.'"

SENIOR RAWLINS TREATS A MORMON
Former United States Senator Emphatically Denies Judge Hiles' Statement.

SALT LAKE, Utah, March 13.—Former United States Senator Joseph L. Rawlins today sent the following dispatch to Chairman Burrows, of the committee investigating committee, relative to the testimony of Judge Ogden Hiles, of this city, before the committee yesterday:

"Hon. J. M. Burrows, United States Senate, Washington: Judge Hiles' statement that I am a member of the Mormon church is unqualifiedly false. I do not believe in any of its doctrines, dogmas or revelations. I have no affiliations with it. Such has been my attitude in public and in private for thirty years. Give this publicity in your proceedings.

—J. L. Rawlins.

DIAMONDS WILL BE SMUGGLED IN SAUSAGE
Plan to Feed Stuffed Frankfurters to Dog Before Crossing Line.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 13.—All the dog catchers in Detroit may be requisitioned at any moment to frustrate a bold diamond-smuggling expedition. Secretary Shaw was put on the qui vive yesterday by this letter from a man at Evansville, Ind., whose name is not revealed:

"I overheard a plot to smuggle diamonds across the river at Detroit. It may be a fake, but it sounds plausible enough to me, and I send it to the department for what it is worth. The two men whom I heard talking about it propose to put the diamonds into a small frankfurter sausage. Then they will keep a dog without food for a couple of days. When the dog is good and hungry they will feed him the sausage and then bring him across from the Canadian side. Then they will kill the dog and take out the diamonds."

"Gracious," said Secretary Shaw when he read this message. He referred it to the secret service division. John Wilkie, the chief of secret service, hurried down to see Assistant Secretary Armstrong, who was in charge of the customs administration, when everyone was forced to the conclusion that the matter was given too much publicity.

"If we are ever going to catch that dog," remarked Mr. Armstrong, "we will have to go about it quietly."

CHAMPION OF BULL FIGHTERS IN GOTHAM
He Has Record of 400 Bulls and Gets More Money Than a Tenor.

NEW YORK, March 13.—The champion bull-fighter of Mexico, Antonio Montes, who has a record of 400 bulls in town. Montes is a Spaniard, a native of Seville, and was imported to Mexico as the United States import opera stars. He is the only Spaniard to hold a medal offered by the Claros-Osuro, a Mexican sporting periodical, for the best bull-fighter, in a competition with his great rival, Machaquero. The decision as to the winner of the two rivals was left to the vote of an assembly of 6,000 people, and Montes won with a majority of 1,700 votes.

He fought four "curries" in the Plaza Toros in Mexico City on four successive Sundays, and was twice wounded, once in the thigh and once in the side. He fought twenty times in all in the three months he spent in Mexico and received for each fight $2,000 Mexican, or about $300.

Montes is a typical bull-fighter, with baggy clothes, pointed shoes and the inevitable "cochera" or tiny pistol, which is the time honored distinctive ornament of a bull-fighter. He has sixteen wounds to show for the six years he has been in the business, and he is twenty-seven years old. Two years ago in Seville a bull tossed him, and the bull-fighter came down on his chest on the horns and was tossed over his back.

"The stroke of the horn went to the right," Senator Montes said yesterday in telling about it. "If it had gone to the left it would have torn my heart."

"How long were you in the hospital?" he was asked. A dark flush spread over his swarthy face and his blue eyes gleamed dangerously.

"The hospital?" he said quickly. "I was at my house."

He was mollified by the explanation that the hospitals here are very good, and that it is the custom of the most celebrated people to go to them in cases of serious illness.

"I was sick at my house for twenty-two days," he said.

When questioned as to how lucrative on the whole his career as a bull-fighter had proved, Senator Montes preserved a discreet silence. Neither would he utter a word as to how much he had been accompanied on his trip by Enrique Gavati Limeno, a banderillero, whose duty it is to pierce the bulls' shoulders with his maddening banderillas, and to distract their attention at critical moments with his red caps. They traveled together to Monterey, Aguas Calientes, Puebla, Pelaya and other cities, and the Spanish bull-fighter picked up the Mexican bull-fighting song, of which the following is a rough translation:

I am the bold plecter.
Who laughs at the wrath of the bull;
I never retreat from before.
Of the pride of the fight I am full.
Ring bells, bells ring for the sport I adore.
Speak to him, shout to him, give him a stroke.
Dodge him and flout him with scarlet cloak, O!

QUACK IS TRIAL FOR MANSLAUGHTER
Treated an Average of Four Thousand Patients a Month.

BERLIN, March 13.—Curious revelations were made at a trial for alleged quackery which began yesterday at Tilsit. Prof. Max Schroeter, described as a magnetopath, is charged with fraud, also with causing bodily injury, and finally with manslaughter.

He is but twenty-five years of age, and up to five years ago was engaged in the clothing business. Believing that he was endowed with strong magnetic powers, he applied himself to the study of the science of healing by means of hypnotism, and spent a considerable time under the tuition of the leading exponents of the theory of oscillation.

Fruitful Field of Practice.
During his stay in East Prussia, Prof. Schroeter discovered that the inhabitants of that section have most elementary ideas of medical matters. They live in an atmosphere of superstition and dirt, know nothing of the influence of proper diet, hygiene, and physical training, and when medicine is prescribed they take it in schnapps or spiced drinks, thus destroying its effect.

Prof. Schroeter judged that this would be an excellent field for his labors, and he soon had a magnificent practice. His theory is that the nature of any complaint can be learned from the expression of the patient's eyes, and he claims to have obtained phenomenal success with his system.

After looking intently into the patient's eyes for some time, he feels a pain in his own body in the place exactly corresponding. His plan is to disperse the malady by means of suggestion and his oscillation methods.

4,000 Patients a Month.
He treated some 4,000 patients every month, although he says his fees amounted to only $3,000 a year. The case is creating a great sensation in medical circles. More than sixty eminent physicians from all parts of Germany have been summoned as witnesses. The accused was given the title of professor honoreaire by the Societe Magnetique in Paris, and the question is, can a French professor call himself a professor in Germany?

One witness described the school of magnetism as being similar to the school at Tilsit where barbers qualify themselves to act as dentists.

"GLOVE money" is the name they used to give to a bride, because it was customary to present gloves filled with gold pieces. A pair of GORDON GLOVES without the gold is all any man could ask. $1.50.

The court will confront Schroeter with a number of patients from the Tilsit municipal hospital and give him an opportunity of demonstrating his magnetic powers.

BABY ELEPHANT LEARNS TO PLAY HARMONICA
Hattie, in Central Park Zoo, Can Already Give "Die Wacht am Rhein."

NEW YORK, March 13.—Hattie, the baby elephant in the Central park zoo, is struggling with the intricacies of the Japanese national anthem, which her keeper, William Snyder, is trying to teach her to play on the harmonica. Hattie has already mastered "Die Wacht am Rhein," and Keeper Snyder declares that there is not another elephant in the world so intelligent or one which can do so many stunts with a musical instrument.

The baby elephant's struggle with its music lessons has afforded great amusement to thousands who have visited the zoo the past few days.

Hattie holds the harmonica, which is of the curved kind, at the extreme tip of her trunk, waving the latter to and fro, as if to keep time while she plays.

Hattie can also dance, kneel as if in prayer, do a cake-walk, and has many other accomplishments. She is only three and a half years old, and is valued at $10,000. Keeper Snyder has previously taught several other elephants to play the harmonica, but Hattie is the most apt pupil he has ever had.

Engineers at Havana.
HAVANA, March 13.—The members of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, who with their wives and families are touring the West Indies on board the Hamburg-American liner steamer Prinzessin Victoria Luise, were entertained at a reception today at the residence of United States Minister Squiers, at Marianao, a suburb of Havana.
