Hunger Hints to Tickle the Fickle Appetite.

Statistics Worth Thinking About;
Facts Worth Knowing;
Expressions Worth Remembering.

The turnpike road to people's hearts, I find,
Lies through their mouths, or I mistake mankind.—PETER PINDAR.

Day after day Uneeda Biscuit.
Last year the National Biscuit Company used two million and fifty thousand barrels of flour. Placed end to end, these barrels would reach from New York to Chicago, a distance of nine hundred miles, and then, for good measure, stretch seventy miles beyond.

Of course! Certainly!! Uneeda Biscuit!!!
What everybody is eating must be good.

It requires seven thousand barrels of flour a day to supply the demand for biscuit, crackers and wafers made by the National Biscuit Company.

Nearly three hundred million packages of Uneeda Biscuit have been enjoyed and the demand grows apace.

Everywhere the bill-of-fare says Uneeda Biscuit.

Lest you forget we say it yet—Uneeda Biscuit.

The woman who buys crackers in a paper bag still uses a flint to light the fire. Both belong to the same period.

"Uneeda Biscuit," said the jester to the king. "Gadzooks," quoth the king, "it's no jest to make a man hungry."

Little drops of water,
Little gusts of dust,
Make common soda crackers
Mighty hard to trust.

When your appetite plays truant—
Uneeda Biscuit.

To bake the biscuit, crackers and wafers of the National Biscuit Company last year required 36,568 tons of coal.

Quality and purity are two words that explain the success of the products of the National Biscuit Company.

The National Biscuit Company has built up its enormous business entirely upon merit—the best goods baked in the best manner.

When Johnny
Comes marching home again
With crackers in a bag—
Send Johnny
A-marching back again
And write upon the tag—
Uneeda Biscuit.

The National Biscuit Company has increased the buying power of a nickel.

Uneeda Biscuit pursue their journey all the way from the oven to the home in an airtight package untouched by human hand, except at one point by a pretty girl inspector, and then only as a matter of precaution.

The Chronology of Uneeda Biscuit

In 1899 we said

Uneeda Biscuit

and the whole Nation laughed!

In 1900 we said

Do You Know Uneeda Biscuit?

and the Nation looked hungry!

In 1901 we said

Of Course! Uneeda Biscuit Certainly!!

and the Nation agreed with us!

In 1902 we said

Lest you Forget We Say it yet Uneeda Biscuit

and the Nation remembered it!

In 1903 we said

Everywhere The Bill-of-Fare says Uneeda Biscuit

and the Nation ordered more!

In 1904 we still say Uneeda Biscuit more earnestly than ever, and the Nation is unanimous in its applause.

YOUR LOVE OR YOUR LIFE

THERE IS AN EPIDEMIC OF MURDERS OF GIRLS WHO SAY NO

It is No Longer Safe to Refuse to Marry the First Man Who Asks—The Only Escape is to Dodge When He Comes.

There seem to be a great many crazy men in the world else some of them are suffering from the mistaken idea that any girl they happen to want to marry must take them or be killed. A perfect epidemic of murder of girls has broken out, and it is no longer safe, my sisters, to say no. The papers are full of accounts of the killing of women by their disappointed lovers. Why, as I heard a girl say about something of the same order the other day, it's perfectly "rediculous." If some one you care nothing for comes along and says "Be mine," you must be his in order to save your life. Now let us do something about it right here on this page; draw up a set of resolutions all full of whereas and send them out broadcast. "Will you have me?" "No." Pop! and off goes your head. This is court-ing down to date. How romantic, how sweet! It is all so cut and dried, saves so much time and thought, and you are as likely to be happy with one of these lovely young men as another. So, whatever you do, say yes, and live long enough to get a few new gowns.

The only way to get out of matrimony with a suitor you do not fancy is to dodge him. If you see him bearing down upon you with a proposal in his eye, waste no time or ceremony upon the order of your going, but go at once. It is self-preservation. Light out, as the boys say, and if you see him following go to one of those nice big policemen (Andy Call, if he is near) and say to him: "Oh, Mr. Policeman, I do not want to marry that young man, and if I say no he will shoot me." And Andy Call will settle him very quickly for you, and before the day is over he'll be on a train headed for Kamchatka.

There are times when absence of body is better than presence of mind, and this is one of them. When a man who is talking with you becomes sentimental, cry loudly for help. Things are becoming serious. This is not the age when one can trifle with young men. It is life or death. If a man who has been a good friend of yours should put his hand in his pocket and look tenderly at you, say your last prayers. "Time was when it was not in the least unpleasant to be made the love of, and one rather enjoyed the languishing glances cast at you by the man who would make you his. But not so now. It's a case of your love or your life at present. And the worst of it is there does not seem to be any remedy. In an older age it was only the young who married, but now they no one is old and a young thing of sixty may be the darling of a middle-aged man of ninety, nobody is safe from the shaft of Cupid.

off in her youth by a man who loved her so much that he prefers her out of the world than married to anyone else. Talk about the freedom of women; I fall to see where it comes in. They are now threatened with a far worse danger than remaining without suffrage, and that is having to marry the first man who asks them to save their lives.

So if a man in the street car gives you a tender glance, get out at once and take the next car. Let us try to live until summer comes, because this year we may have a real summer and the last alleged warm season in this section of the country was merely a mild winter.

So, girls, here's hoping what in other days might have seemed cruel, escape from the tragic young man who loves you very, very much, and a long life of single blessedness.

FASHIONS FROM VOGUE

Prepared Specially for THE GLOBE.

The vital question of the hour to the feminine world is whether the hoop skirt is or is not to be revived.

Most women are ardently opposed to its adoption, but with the ever increasing width at the bottom of the skirt some means must be secured for holding the skirt out, and for this purpose nothing equals the old-time hoop skirt, at least, so the French dress-makers contend, and they are doing all in their power to force its return. It is, however, pretty to be doubted whether the dressmakers will succeed in re-establishing this style, for women of the present day are less obedient to the mandates of fashion than in the past, and they realize that hoops, besides being unbecoming to almost all figures, would be practically impossible to wear in the hustle and bustle of modern life.

Just imagine a street car during "rush hours" if the women were so gowned! Of course, so long as full skirts remain in vogue there will be a danger of the hoop skirt returning to favor, but as only very thin, sheer fabrics are made with the extremely voluminous skirts it seems probable that foundation skirts can be so built as to give sufficient support. Already several novel arrangements are in use on foundation skirts that prove most satisfactory. One particularly good method is to finish the skirt with a deep flounce covered with narrow ruffles with a fine wire run in the hem of each. This gives body and firmness to the skirt without losing the grace of line.

The accompanying illustration shows a most effective costume of white silk gauze striped with hair lines of dark creu cover the white tulle foundation. The skirt is gathered to the belt and about half way down is set on a deep flounce with five shirred headings, and to this is joined another flounce with five similar headings. The bodice is shirred at the top, and is trimmed with bands of Russian lace, which cover the shoulder seams, extend part way down the sleeves and form a stole around the neck, the ends of which being finished with Lierre lace. Russian lace is also used for the stock and on the front, and the sleeves are shirred at the top and are trimmed with five wide gathered tucks to correspond to the headings of the flounces on the skirt, and they are finished with ruffles of Lierre lace.

The art exhibit of the State society at St. Cloud has been a great success and most encouraging to the management.

Minnesota's art in painting is shown at its best in Robert Koehler's portrait of Dean Welling and "Hennepin Avenue After a Spring Shower." A portrait of Bishop Whipple by Miss Grace McKimstry, of Fairbault; a pastel, "An Evening Scene," and "A Swiss Girl," by Miss Henriette Clopath, teacher of art in the state university; a portrait of President Cyrus Northrop, by Emily D. McMillan; "A Study of a Girl in White," by Gustav Goetsch, and "The Cloisters of San Gregorio," by Miss Grace Woodward, of Stanley Hall; "A Precious Charge," a painting of a young girl watching at the cradle of her baby sister, is a story picture, by H. Gausta, of Minneapolis. The exhibit closes on Saturday.

The W. V. R. U. will hold its regular meeting at the hall on Sixth street this evening at 8 o'clock.

Sibley Council 1755, R. A., gave a Dutch dinner last evening at central hall. Among those present, outside of the regular officers, were George T. Hughes, Frank Whitmore and T. A. Keller.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Paine and son will spend a few days with Mrs. William Paine, of Brainerd.

A card party will be given by Dale Hive No. 55, L. O. T. M., at Bowly hall, this evening. Mrs. W. M. Turner, chairman, Mrs. Leonard Batroot and Mrs. A. B. Mallett are the committee.

Mrs. Howard Elliott, of St. Louis, is at the Aberdeen.

Miss Kennedy, of Dayton avenue, will entertain informally Saturday afternoon in honor of Miss Lankester, who will be married next week.

Mrs. Reuben Warner Jr., of Nina avenue, entertained informally yesterday for Mrs. George Cochran, of Butte.

Miss Barry, of Virginia avenue, entertained informally yesterday for Mrs. Snapp, of Seattle.

Mrs. J. M. L. MacDonald, of Holly avenue, gave a smart card party last night in honor of her guest, Miss Blair, of Detroit.

Prince Marries Circus Rider.

BERLIN, April 13.—Prince Hugo Hohenlohe has married Mme. Helga, a beautiful circus equestrienne. Mme. Helga's first husband was a circus performer. The prince's marriage violates the family laws which provide the forfeiture of rank in the event of such an alliance. Henceforth he will be known as Count von Hermesberg. Another Prince Hohenlohe married a Viennese actress.

Prince Hohenlohe has been living in this city since his return from the United States, where he was at various times reported engaged to American heiresses.

Asks Better Conditions for Workers.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 13.—Mrs. Charlotte Smith, president of the Woman's Industrial and Patriotic league, presented a petition to the house committee on labor today praying for better conditions in the mail bag repair shop in Washington and recommending a further restriction on the appropriation for mail bags in addition to that placed in the postoffice appropriation bill just passed by the house.

Won't Arrest Judge Stevens.

TELLURIDE, Col., April 13.—Adj. Gen. Bell, who has announced his intention to arrest District Judge Theoren Stevens, because of his criticism from the bench of Gov. Peabody and the state militia authorities who are enforcing martial law in San Miguel county, today made another statement, in which he considers the judge is immune from military and civil process in the performance of his duty and the administration of his judicial functions while sitting on the bench.
