CAPT. A. W. BJORNSTAD TELLS OF THE WAR IN THE FAR EAST

Former St. Paul Man Now Captain in Regular Army Returns on Leave of Absence—Says Military Men of Europe Knew That Russia Was Preparing for Trouble and Would Have Declared War Had Not Japan Acted First—Conditions Are Much Improved in the Philippines.

CAPT. A. W. BJORNSTAD, Officer of Regular Army Who Has Returned to St. Paul on Leave of Absence.

Russia would have declared war within a short time, had not Japan spoken first—this and other opinions of foreign military men upon some aspects of the war in Manchuria were given yesterday by Capt. A. W. Bjornstad, of the Twenty-eighth Infantry, U. S. A., at his home, 35 East Aurora avenue. Capt. Bjornstad, who is on leave of absence, reached St. Paul yesterday morning.

The captain, who was formerly cashier in the city treasurer's office, secured a captaincy in the Thirtieth Minnesota volunteers, and was then transferred to the Forty-second United States volunteers. Soon afterwards he was made first lieutenant of the Twenty-ninth Infantry in the "regular establishment." He was promoted to be captain a year ago, and was assigned to his present regiment, the Twenty-eighth. He has made three journeys to the Philippines since 1898 and has served in the islands about five years. After a two-week visit here he will rejoin his regiment at the Presidio, San Francisco, where he will probably be stationed for several years to come.

Captain Bjornstad's last tour of duty was in the Southern Philippines. He was assisting Gen. Leonard Wood to show the Moros the error of their ways. "I started on my leave about the 1st of December," said Capt. Bjornstad last night. "I came back by way of the Suez canal. I expected to go home through Europe over the Trans-Siberian railway, but it was found that Hongkong I got word from a friend up near Port Arthur that commercial business over the Siberian railway was practically suspended, and that the whole line was being given up to the transportation of troops and military supplies. Besides, it was hinted that the Russians wouldn't welcome a foreign military officer in Manchuria; he might make too many observations.

"I spoke of this to some German officers that I met later. They were astonished to learn that more than two months before Japan attacked the Russian fleet, Russia was making active preparations for war. Russia has insisted officially, you know, that her intentions were altogether pacific. But these German friends of mine declare that the czar's government was evidently getting ready to strike the first blow.

"Nevertheless, the Germans sympathized with Russia, like most everybody else I met on the continent. They wanted Russia to win, but they argued that she would find it very difficult, if not impossible, to supply an army of 500,000 men, and that without a big army she could scarcely hope to avoid defeat.

"So long as Japan controls the sea the nearest base of supplies for the Russian army will be at Moscow, 6,000 miles distant, and the only means of communication is a single line of railway. Whether such a problem can be solved, the Germans said, is doubtful. Up to the present time the most distant base in modern warfare has been that of the British in South Africa. This base, also connected by a railway, was only 400 miles distant, yet supplies were forwarded with the greatest difficulty. "Germans have about 6,000 small freight cars with an average capacity of, say, 9,000 pounds each; it takes fifty-five days for a freight train to make the round trip between Moscow and Harbin; that is, something over 100 cars can arrive in one day to bring half a million men all their food, clothing, arms, ammunition, forage for their animals, miscellaneous supplies, etc. The resources of Manchuria are about nothing. And the German diet believs that these facilities would prove by any means sufficient, considering delays and accidents. But the Japs can get unlimited supplies by sea within three or four days from their base of supplies.

"Another thing that my German acquaintances marveled at was the refusal of both the Russians and the Germans to let military attaches to Japan permit military attaches to go promptly to the front. That hasn't happened for many years. In all other recent wars during the last half century foreign attaches accompanied both armies wherever they went. If the Japs and Russians expected to give no quarter, the Germans said, we might understand it, but as they intend to observe the rules of civilized warfare, it's very mysterious.

"The Philippines are tranquil," says Capt. Bjornstad, "because the Filipinos are tranquil. There are 7,000,000 of them. They occupy Luzon and the Northern Islands. They are Christians and they want to become Americans. "But the Moros, or 'Moors,' as the Spanish called them, are likely to be the source of any future trouble in the Philippines, but as they are in the archipelago. These Moros, living in Jolo, or Sulu, and other southern islands, though apparently of the same race as the Filipinos, but as they are half civilized. They hate Christianity and America. Every little while one of them goes juramentado, that is, makes a solemn oath to kill a Christian by way of joining Mohammed and the houris.

"The Spanish governor once protested against this indulgence. The sultan of Sulu—George Ade's friend—said he was sorry, but he couldn't do anything; he was under religious observance. The next day a Spanish man-of-war bombarded the sultan's own village and killed several of his dattos, or chiefs. He, the governor, and the sultan complained. I am very sorry the governor answered, but I couldn't help it; my gunners went juramentado. And remained," said Capt. Bjornstad, "his religious observance was frightfully neglected."

ENGINEERS QUARREL WITH BEER MAKERS

Brewery Workers Must Explain Their Attitude to Trades and Labor Assembly.

There is trouble between the Steam Engineers and the Brewery Workers' unions, the engineers claiming that the brewery men will not assist the engineers in their efforts to control the men following the occupation of stationary engineers. The engineers have appealed to the Trades and Labor assembly to interfere and if possible bring about an agreement. There are two organizations of engineers, one of which is not recognized by the local assembly, but with which the Brewery Workers affiliate.

The engineers claim that they have done everything within their power to secure recognition from the Brewery workers, but their personal efforts have not been answered. It is further claimed by the engineers that they have at all times acted in a friendly spirit, but that the Brewery Workers have seen fit to either refuse their requests in an arbitrary manner or ignore them altogether.

The question will come up at the meeting of the Trades and Labor assembly Friday evening and the action taken by this body will be important. The local body, but that the Brewery Workers have seen fit to either refuse their requests in an arbitrary manner or ignore them altogether.

Bomb Is Harmless.
BARCELONA, Spain, April 17.—A bomb exploded at 5 o'clock this evening in the Plaza del Toros. The result was harmless, but the explosion created a panic owing to the fact that King Alfonso and Premier Maura are still here.

Circulated False Reports.
GOMEL, Russia, April 17.—Christian Gorbacheff has been sentenced to three weeks' imprisonment for circulating reports before Easter that the Jews were aiding Japan. The Jews regard this sentence as important as a public vindication of their attitude.

PRENUP TALK QUITS

STOPS MISSOURI

Miss Clara Milner, Out for a Walk, Meets and Weds William North.

"I'm not feeling well and I'd like to get off for a little while to take a walk in the open air. It might relieve my headache," said Miss Clara E. Milner, a pretty clerk in the lace department of Field, Schlick & Co.'s store, at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

With half an hour the young woman returned with flushed cheeks and beaming eyes, the picture of health and happiness. The change in her appearance was noted by the manager and several of the clerks, and in reply to a question as to whether the air had helped her she replied as she took her place behind the counter:

"Yes, I'm feeling much better, thank you. I've just been married. I'm going to quit tonight. I want to say good-bye to you girls," she continued, with a sigh. "I met my husband at the door, and we went together to Judge Gallick and he married us. He's gone now to break the news to my folks."

Notwithstanding her determination to finish the hour, Miss Milner became weary of her duties and notified the manager that she wished to stop work immediately. Her pay was then made up and she hurried to her home, where she overtook her husband, who is William J. North, a telegraph operator for C. H. F. Smith. The newly wedded couple then went to the groom's home, 730 East Fourth street, where the news was broken to his mother.

"Yes, it was rather sudden," said the young husband last night. "Though we've known each other for over two years, and were engaged, we had not made any arrangements for a wedding. When I finished work Saturday at noon I made up my mind to get married that day. A short while after I met Miss Milner at a newstand, where he was buying a fashion plate. She said she would rather wait and make some preparations, but I told her that we had decided to get married at once as we had little time. She finally consented to meet me on Wabasha street at 3 o'clock. After we secured the license she went to the store and I looked up my brother Tom. She kept her word and came at 3 o'clock, and we performed the ceremony."

Miss Milner is a daughter of Thomas Milner, a commission merchant, who resides at 171 Wabasha street. She is now residing with her uncle on Mississippi street last fall, and went to work at Field, Schlick & Co.'s store. She was familiarly known as "Duke" Milner, the one who had taken her fiance knew her till she gave her full name when applying for the marriage license.

The wedding is the result of a romance which started at Bald Eagle lake two years ago, when North met Miss Milner while sailing. North was frequent visitor to the lake last summer, and when winter made boating impossible Miss Milner came to the city. North and his bride will reside at his home with his mother.

READY FOR CARNEGIE

Michael Toley Gets in Line for Hero Fund.

What is Andrew Carnegie's conception of a "hero"? On what basis is Mr. Carnegie going to distribute his "hero fund" of $500,000? Will a certified hero get the same sum as an annual allowance? And will the extent of his heroism be calculated by his own injuries in saving other persons or by the value of the service he rendered?

Michael Toley, who lives "on Robert street," wants to know "how about it." As Mr. Toley telephoned yesterday, the public might be interested to know that he had saved a few lives yesterday afternoon. He is the first local representative of Mr. Carnegie's new order.

About 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon Mr. Toley saw a black horse and cycle down Robert street. He was descending the steep hill opposite the Visitation convent at University avenue. Before he could get to the top of the stone-paved hill, three children were playing. As he approached he rang his bell; the children tarried, but he yelled and they ran. The children did not heed. He rang and yelled, and rang; at length, as he was about to strike the first infant, and knock down a row of three by carrying one against the other, Mr. Toley applied his safety brake. He stopped his bicycle but not himself.

His next observation, as he lay on his back near the curbstone, was the soiled face of a small boy, who leaned over and inquired anxiously, "Say, mister, kin I ride your bike? I kitched it down the hill."

WOMAN LOSTS FIGHT FOR HUSBAND'S LIFE

Wife Is Severely Burned in Attempting to Prevent His Suicide.

Almost crazed by pain, with her hands streaked and seared by burning carbolic acid and by the chlorine, she fought and fought in the doorway of 63 Sherburne avenue to save her husband, who, battling like a mad man, succeeded, despite the efforts of the woman and assistance that she had summoned, in finishing a three-ounce phial of the deadly liquid. The prostrated, dying contents, he dropped with a groan, dying at the feet of his wife.

Evidently made insane by the thought that his wife had left him forever, James Cline, a steamfitter living at 63 Clark street, swallowed almost three ounces of carbolic acid late yesterday afternoon in the doorway of the residence of Richard Barrett at 63 Sherburne avenue. Mrs. Cline, who had been summoned to the door to meet her husband, was severely burned about the hands in her attempt to wrench the bottle from her husband's grasp. Cline and his wife, who had been married about fifteen years ago, had been separated for almost two years. Two children, Paul, aged eleven, and Alice, a pretty little girl of six, have made their home with Cline's parents, who live at 839 Clark street, since that time.

Yesterday Cline, after kissing his children good-bye, boarded a downtown car and going into a drug store on Wabasha street purchased three ounces of carbolic acid. He carried it to the house where his wife had made her home since the separation and asked Mrs. Barrett if he could see her. Mrs. Barrett went to the door and Mrs. Cline asked her if she was going to go home with him. She refused.

Without another word, pulled the bottle of acid from his pocket and with a quick movement placed it to his lips. Mrs. Cline screamed and Mrs. Barrett was so startled that she ran to her husband's aid, and realizing that her husband was about to destroy himself, she shrieked for assistance.

Mrs. Barrett called Mrs. Cline in a terrible agony. Both of Mrs. Cline's hands were terribly burned. Coroner Miller was called and the body was taken to the morgue. Cline's parents were notified. Cline was forty-five and was born in Wisconsin.

MAY REVEAL COUNCIL

Labor Unions Would Reorganize Building Trades Council.

An effort is being made in several of the local unions to revive interest in the Building Trades council, the carpenters taking the lead. A committee composed of C. H. Stratton, E. M. Allen, A. R. Hughes, will represent the carpenters in a conference with the bricklayers, stonemasons and plasterers, and will report back to the union Tuesday evening.

It is likely that an agreement will be reached, the plasterers' and bricklayers' unions having appointed committees to meet with the carpenters and report back to the unions. It is thought that the stonemasons will act in a like manner, and that the council will be reorganized.

The object of such a body is to treat with employers for the different affiliating unions, making it unnecessary for the individual unions to seek recognition.

SONS OF DENMARK OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

Tenth Birthday of Local Branch of Order Is Celebrated at Vasa Hall.

The Sons of Denmark of St. Paul yesterday celebrated at Vasa hall, East Seventh street, the tenth anniversary of the local branch of the order. The ceremonies consisted of an entertainment, supper and a dance. H. P. Andersen, E. Johnsen and August Hendrickson were the speakers. Paul Rasmussen, the newly elected president, told of the growth of the local lodge from a membership of twelve when it was incorporated to its present size.

The following officers were elected at a special meeting of the St. Paul lodge: Paul Rasmussen, president; Jens H. Olsen, vice president; Nels Christensen, secretary, and Paul Andersen, treasurer.

Don't forget to register Tuesday.
Lexington Park on Fire.
Burning rubbish near the fence of the Lexington park was the cause of a still alarm being set in yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock. About 100 tons of rubbish was destroyed by the University avenue side of the park. The damage will amount to about $100.

EIGHTH WARDERS TURN OUT IN FORCE

Democrats Pack Weiler's Hall to Listen to Speech by Mayor Smith.

Mayor Smith was received with loud and continued applause when he appeared at the Democratic rally held in Weiler's hall last night and University street, yesterday afternoon. The hall was crowded to the doors by about 500 eighth warders, and when the mayor pushed his way through the jam at the door he was recognized and the cheering began. The uproar lasted for about five minutes.

William Foelsen, police commissioner, took the wind out of the sails of the Republican assertion that he was not supporting the entire Democratic ticket by going on the platform and in a rousing speech lasting twenty minutes asked for the support of the entire Democratic ticket "from Robert A. Smith for mayor to Stephen Lentsch for constable." Mr. Foelsen spoke in German and his address was received with applause. He predicted that the eighth ward will give the Democratic ticket a tremendous majority, the prospect being that it will be larger than ever before.

Mayor Smith was again cheered when he made his address. He concluded that he had given an administration of which he was proud, and was not content to go on the platform and admit that he had made mistakes and plead that he would do better if given another chance. It was not necessary for him to tell those assembled he had had experience since he held the office of mayor, but was willing to stand on his record. These sarcastic shots at F. P. Wright, the Republican candidate, who admits in his speeches that he made a very poor mayor, brought forth applause.

"It can be truthfully said," asserted the mayor, "that the citizens are now secure in their property in their property. As such cannot be claimed for the administration given in 1892 and 1893. Highway robberies, burglaries, confidence men and big mitt joints were allowed to infest the city. Strangers were robbed with impunity. Even well known citizens were not secure, and if it is not secured he will have no remuneration for the services which he has performed. The appointment of Dr. Crum was a recognition of the colored people, and we would not like to have the honor taken away by the senate."

Comptroller Betz showed by figures that more taxes were collected during the years that Wright was mayor than at any other time, and declared on the spot he would not give up the rate. He said that a radical reduction is impossible, and that the Republicans specify where they can save money.

The other speakers were J. J. Gleason, Matt Bantz, J. Regan, P. D. Seacall, Fred McGhee and James Corcoran.

The sudden change of attitude on the part of F. P. Wright, the Republican candidate for mayor, on Friday evening meeting, did not arouse the interest that he expected, not having attracted half the attention given his attack on the Republican speakers, the commissioners responsible for the erection of the new county jail. It had been expected by the members of the "gag" committee, responsible for the change in the course of the campaign, that the speech would be the sensation of the evening. The fact that it did not even arouse ordinary comment has caused the "kid aggregation" managing the campaign to make a hustle for another issue. The tax proposition has aroused interest, it is believed, that on the average taxes are now lower than was the case at the time Wright was mayor of the city. To all intents and purposes it has been discarded.

There has been considerable talk on the part of the Republicans about the necessity of economy in the city administration, but the speakers have failed to state on what department they propose to economize. An unauthorized speaker, Oscar Hallam, who declines to submit his remarks to a "gag" committee in advance, has said that the party will not reduce the pay of school teachers, the policemen or firemen. If this is correct, it is hard to see where a cut can be made in the running expenses of the city.

Fifty-five out of the sixty ninth ward precinct committeemen attended the meeting held yesterday afternoon in Twin City hall, Wabasha and Rice streets. The speaker, H. P. Andersen, revealed, and the reports from the various precincts showed a most encouraging outlook for the entire Democratic ticket. The committeemen will meet Thursday evening at 767 Jackson street and make preparations for the final registration day. At yesterday's session J. Regan, F. J. McMahon and John Hinkens made addresses.

A well attended meeting of Hebrews was held last evening in Hisawana hall, Wabasha street in the interest of the Democratic city ticket. The prediction was made that the Democrats will secure a large proportion of the vote of this nationality.

FUEL DEALER NABS MAN WHO WORKED HIM
Cashes Worthless Check and Then Runs Into Man Wanted.
John B. Covington, a dealer in fuel at 506 St. Peter street, who is also a special policeman, arrested Richard Brown Saturday on a charge of passing a fraudulent check on him.

COLORED MEN WANT CRUM CONFIRMED

Local Leaders Call Mass Meeting to Influence Minnesota Senators.

If congress adjourns without ratifying the appointment of Dr. C. C. Crum to the post of collector of customs of the port of Charleston, S. C., the colored population threatens to take up arms against the party in power in Washington.

Urgent messages are being sent out by the colored leaders calling upon the local negroes to write in all parts of the country to use their influence with their senators in the interest of the confirmation of the appointment of Dr. Crum by President Roosevelt.

Harvey Burk, of Minneapolis, a prominent colored man, and a member of the Men's Sunday club of St. Paul, has received a telegram from Washington which he read yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the club at Pilgrim Baptist church.

The telegram announced that in all probability congress will adjourn without confirming the appointment of Dr. Crum, and urges that the Minnesota senators be asked to favor the selection of the colored man to fill the federal post at Charleston.

After an animated discussion, in which the opposing senators were roundly scolded by the colored people, it was decided to call for a mass meeting of all the colored people of St. Paul, to be held at Pilgrim Baptist church Tuesday evening.

At that meeting resolutions will be adopted urging the Minnesota senators to vote for the confirmation of the appointment. Addresses will be made by prominent colored men of the city. "We feel that justice demands the confirmation of the appointment for Dr. Crum has now been acting as collector of customs at Charleston for several months," said Rev. W. D. Carter, pastor of Pilgrim Baptist church. "He will receive no salary till the senate approves the president's choice, and if it is not secured he will have no remuneration for the services which he has performed. The appointment of Dr. Crum was a recognition of the colored people, and we would not like to have the honor taken away by the senate."

FUNDS FOR STRIKERS

St. Paul Operators Will Assist Men Out in Canada.

St. Paul operators, members of St. Paul Local No. 9 Commercial Telegraphers' Union, will do all they can in their power to assist the operators of the Great Northwestern Telegraph company, who walked out at Toronto and other Canadian cities, on Friday afternoon. The local union operators met yesterday afternoon at Central hall and listened to lengthy communications from President W. C. Long and Vice President Dunn, who are now in Canada looking after the interests of the strikers. The two officers explained in detail the causes which led up to the strike, and informed the local operators that the men across the line were making a fight for the future of the industry. The operators which led up to the strike were let out simply because they were members of the union.

The operators of the line decided to raise funds for the Canadian strikers by giving a "smoker." A committee was appointed and the date of the entertainment will be announced when a hall is secured.

MANY HEAR SINGERS

Concordia Society Gives Successful Concert.

The Concordia Singing society gave a concert and opera last night before a large audience at Mozart hall. The programme included a variety of selections.

The full chorus, under the direction of Prof. L. W. Harnseng, sang music by Kelbo, Aht, Billeter and Klister. The opera consisted of a play, selections from Keler, Bela and Balfe. Messrs. George O. Penschorn, O. E. Penschorn and E. G. Penschorn played pieces by Tocaten, Niels Amnsden on the mandolin and guitar.

DEALERS IN WHEELS SCORN COMMISSIONS

Will Sell Cycle Path Tags If the Price Is Cut Fifty Cents.

In the bitter war that is waging between the cycle path commission on one side and the local bicycle dealers on the other the Kilkenny features are given in at any price the riders, answered that as much money would be collected with the tags at 50 cents as at $1.

The cycle path commission has met and has solemnly declared that it will be impossible to put the paths in first-class condition if the tags are sold at less than $1. To which the riders, supported by many of the dealers, answered that as much money would be collected with the tags at 50 cents as at $1.

"Nothing of the kind," asserted the commissioners. "We know what we are talking about," rejoined the dealers and the riders. And so it has gone on from the beginning of the discussion. Neither side seems disposed to give in, and the question has become so entangled in personalities and the facts have become so twisted that it is possible that it may be referred to The Hague arbitration tribunal.

The gentlemen have to all appearances made up their minds, and simply will not listen to further argument. The bickering may be said to have been the parties engaged therein, but the bicycle rider who wants good paths and is growing restless, fearing that in the quarrel the very existence of the paths will be forgotten.

There is a slight ray of hope in the rumor that the dealers and riders interested with them would accept a compromise if the price of tags is reduced to 75 cents. This would be meeting the commission if the price is reduced to 50 cents, paying cash in advance. It is claimed that this would save $400 that is now paid for book-keeping and clerical expenses.

The dealers offering to do this are: The William R. Burkhard company, St. Paul Wheel Exchange, Edward A. Filien, Kennedy Brothers, J. F. Placsek, George Wagner, C. S. Neutron, C. J. Smith & Co., T. C. Borg, agent, Armac Motor and E. W. Keller, F. E. Hopkins, North Star Housefurnishing company.

CARELESS PARENTS RUIN THEIR CHILDREN

A. Worden Haynes Speaks to Fathers at Men's Sunday Club.

"It is not the sermon from the pulpit, the mass in the cathedral, or the air of the lecture room that forms the child's character, but the little things heard in and about the nursery and around the family table from infancy to manhood," said A. Worden Haynes, at a meeting of the Men's Sunday Club of the Pilgrim Baptist Church yesterday afternoon.

"If boys and girls hear vulgar stories, immoral phrases and slang from their elders, if they observe irregular habits in the parents, they adopt them, and no subsequent training will eradicate the impression from their minds. "Parents are apt to think that by sending their children to church and Sunday school their duty toward them as far as religious and moral education is concerned is ended. If the little habits of daily life were carefully attended to, the result would be that there would be fewer complaints about the young generation."

Independent Steamship Company.

VIENNA, April 17.—It is reported from Buda-Pest that negotiations are proceeding between prominent Hungarian financiers and the Hamburg-American line for the organization of an independent steamship company in Hungary. The purpose of the negotiations is that the new company, aided by the Hamburg-American line, shall operate a line of steamers from Piume, Hungary, to New York, to compete with the Cunard line for the American emigrant trade. This is a doubtful whether the company could obtain the necessary concessions from the Hungarian government.

Will Lecture on Seed Corn.

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 17.—Prof. P. G. Holden, of the state agricultural college, at Ames, will make a trip through Northwest Iowa delivering lectures on seed corn. Prof. Holden says the farms of Iowa will not get a crop this season, if they do not properly select their seed corn. This is of course of the nature of the crop of last season.

Socialists Hold Convention.

PEORIA, Ill., April 17.—The state convention of the Socialist party was held in this city today with the largest attendance in the history of the party, 250 delegates being present, half of whom were from Pike county. A full state ticket was chosen.
