FUNERAL OF SOLDIER

Edward E. Good Is Interred With Military Honors.

The funeral of the late Edward E. Good was held yesterday afternoon from the family residence, 79 Hoffman avenue, with impressive military services. Mr. Good was a veteran of two wars and was prominent in local military circles.

The cortege from the home to the English Lutheran church, where public services were held, at which Rev. A. J. D. Haupt officiated, was an imposing one. The body was carried on an artillery caisson, secured from the Thirtieth battery, Fort Snelling, and was followed by Carleton camp, Army of the Philippines, commanded by President Kremer, Company E, M. N. G., in command of Capt. Montgomery, and about 100 Junior Pioneers.

The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful, and the services at the church were marked with many expressions of grief from the deceased's friends and comrades of many years. The military honors were a fitting testimonial to the patriotic services rendered in the past by Mr. Good.

There were twelve active pallbearers, equally divided between the members of Carleton camp, Army of the Philippines and the Junior Pioneers. The bearers were Maj. C. Treat Spear, Thomas E. Lawkin, Fred P. Vickers, Fernand, Jr., John T. Stapleton and C. S. Colledge.

The bearers representing the Junior Pioneers were Andrew Heck, William L. Kelly Jr., Samuel Painter, F. A. Defiel, Edward Adams and S. E. Kellerman.

Harvey Officer appointed Guardian.

Harvey Officer was appointed yesterday by Judge Bunn as guardian ad litem of the minor heirs of the late J. C. Burbank for the purpose of defending a suit by the St. Paul Trust company to bring about a final settlement of the estate. The heirs referred to are all non-residents.

THE CONGRESS
CONGRESSIONAL DEMOCRATS
HOLDING MEETING

Hall on East Third Street Is the Scene of an Enthusiastic Meeting.

The hall at No. 40 East Third street was the scene of a large gathering last night when a meeting of colored people was held under the auspices of the Fourth Ward Afro-American Democratic club. All the seats in the hall were occupied and many stood during the progress of the meeting. There were a number of good speeches, and the pretensions of the Republicans were ridiculed by Michael Doran Jr., R. D. O'Brien, James Hickey, N. H. Casey, Edward Jackson, Louis Betz, J. J. Reagan, Robert Berle and J. B. Covington. The Republicans promised a close corporation and a condition where capital could not be induced to invest its surplus in the upbuilding of the city's material interests. The allegations of extravagance were shown up and their correctness controverted at every point.

Cornelius A. Hughes, editor of the Droquois, was the principal speaker of the evening. Mr. Hughes is a colored man and is thoroughly familiar with local conditions. He said, in part:

"In the absence of any well defined issue in the present campaign except that of the incapacity of the local Republican machine to decently administer the affairs of city government, which it has thrice manifested within the last twelve years on the occasions in which the citizens of St. Paul had entrusted them with the reins of city government, I feel that I can only generalize. It shall be our aim and our shall live that he serves his party best who serves his country most. I care not who the man may be, I care not what his prejudices may be, I do not care what his past devotion and attachment to his party may be, I maintain that in the hour when he discovers which direction is antagonistic to his country's welfare he is unworthy of citizenship if he does not turn his back upon his party and his face toward his country."

Colored People Are Thinking.

"Hailing, as I do, from a constituency whose attitude to the Democracy has been largely that of antagonism, there may be some in this audience who will object to my assuming that a colored man should take active interest in the success of the Democratic party. To such I desire to say that I have every day in my mind the thousands of young colored men and women ripe from college and high schools of the city, who are being educated to a depth of thought to the many questions of political science and economy which confront the nation as do the most profound thinkers among the whites.

"I shall not dwell upon the fact that to the Democratic board of education we owe the most of the representation which you ever had from the school department, nor shall I generalize on the fact that it was to them that you owe the first position, and, I think, the only position ever held in the municipal courts of St. Paul, that of bailiff. I shall particularize upon none of these points, but I merely urge upon you to become the thinking class of people. I urge upon you to examine the records, both public and private, of the gentlemen whom the two political parties have placed before you, and if you shall proceed along the lines of intelligence reasons there can be no result as to your choice for suffrage May 3. From R. A. Smith to 'Jimmie' Corican, the Democrats have given you a local ticket which any man with the welfare of St. Paul at heart can safely well afford to shout for, root for and vote for."

Wright Becomes Vitriolic.

Col. Wright followed with his usual speech, that had fortified his position with some tax receipts which avowed his contention that taxes were higher now than some years ago when St. Paul school children were compelled to attend only half-day sessions or were housed in tenements, saloons, bakeries and rooms wholly unsuited for their accommodation. Many rooms, originally designed for classes in German and English, were being used as general class rooms, and the pupils' health and the general efficiency of the schools naturally suffered under the restricted accommodations.

He reiterated his charges that somebody had attempted to bribe him in the hard times of 1893, but anybody who remembers the money market then will believe that he placed the figures too high.

Other speakers were Oscar Clausen, former city engineer; Douglas Wright, candidate for mayor; John P. O'Brien; John F. Bruggemann and H. L. Mills.

REPUBLICAN PARTY
SCHOOL FACILITIES
WASTELY IMPROVED

City Cares for 4,400 More Children in Schools Than Under Kiefer Administration.

Despite the unanswerable figures from the records of the board of school inspectors, Republican campaigners continue to dispute the facts in reference to the vast improvement in the city schools and the increased accommodations given the children of the city under Democratic administrations. Of this number not more than three or four were Germans, and the other five men wearing Robert A. Smith buttons confronting the speakers. At 9:30 o'clock the hall was dark.

An extraordinary effort had been made by Schultz and his handful of Fifth ward "red" Republicans to get a wagon bearing a banner advertising the meeting parading the streets in the Fifth ward all day and postal cards were sent to every German voter in the ward by the local organization. The result, in view of the extraordinary humiliating incident, and the fact that will be given up as an unfruitful field and the attention of the workers turned to other territory.

Louis Schultz presided and the meeting was a burlesque. Orator could not be maintained in the high tones of Schultz. Col. Kiefer was the first speaker, but even with this advantage his hearers soon began to leave the hall, and after he had exploited the virtues of his own and other previous Republican administrations he gave it up.

Pupils' Health Menaced.

Under that administration it is estimated by the school authorities that fully 4,000 children were compelled to attend only half-day sessions or were housed in tenements, saloons, bakeries and rooms wholly unsuited for their accommodation. Many rooms, originally designed for classes in German and English, were being used as general class rooms, and the pupils' health and the general efficiency of the schools naturally suffered under the restricted accommodations.

Last year—1903—the administration of the St. Paul school system cost $504,453, which was the largest sum yet for teachers' salaries, for this item aggregated $441,872.66. There was, naturally, with the operation of 104 new rooms over the number during the Kiefer administration, an increased expenditure all along the line, but it is no more than is to be expected when 4,000 more pupils were given an opportunity for an education.

Indications Point to His Selection Should Wright Be Elected Mayor.

Indications point, in the event of the election of Col. Wright to the appointment of George W. Wells as chief of police.

Wells has told a number of his friends that he is slated for Chief O'Connor's star if his friend and employer, Col. Wright, wins out May 3, and has indicated a number of the oldest and best men of the present police force whom he will see are promptly "fired" when he is chief. Patrolman Costello and Patrolman William H. Moran are the two men who are being considered for the position.
