BAPTISTS SUBMIT ENCOURAGING REPORTS

Eastern Minnesota Association Holds an Interesting Session.

The session of the Eastern Minnesota Baptist association, which has been meeting at the First Baptist church in St. Paul this week, was brought to a close last night by addresses by Rev. A. O. Williams and Rev. C. F. Holt, of Minneapolis. Rev. Holt told of conditions in Europe and other foreign countries, where the church was in a most flourishing condition.

Rev. C. C. Markham, of St. Paul, was selected as the moderator of the association at the afternoon meeting, and Samuel Perry was chosen as treasurer and clerk. The annual sermon was preached by Rev. H. H. Cantwell, of St. Paul, and Rev. S. E. Moon, who soon leaves for the Congo country as a missionary, told of his prospective work. Others who addressed the meeting at the afternoon session were Rev. R. M. West, Rev. F. L. Anderson, Rev. H. B. Steadman, and Harry Emerson.

The entire session of the association has been marked with success, all of the meetings being well attended and much interest manifested.

DAVIS' OPPONENTS MELT INTO THIN AIR

Congressman From Third District Seems Popular at Home.

C. R. Davis, congressman from the Third district, was in St. Paul yesterday for a few hours on his way home to St. Peter from Washington. Davis has been given a number of probable rivals for re-election by the newspapers, but not one of the men credited with being candidates against him has as yet declared himself.

While in St. Paul Mr. Davis met a number of his political friends from the Third district, and one of them later said that he did not believe that the opposition to Davis could be centralized in any one man. Frank M. Wilson, of Red Wing, has been most prominently mentioned in connection with an opposition to Davis, but nothing has been heard from him for some time, and there are reports from his home town at Red Wing that he is not looking on the game with that degree of fervor that characterized his earlier vision.

TAWNEY GLAD TO GET RID OF POSSIBLE RIVAL

Will Urge Nomination of A. D. Gray for Railroad Commissioner.

It was said in St. Paul yesterday that the formal announcement of the candidacy of A. D. Gray, of Preston, for the Republican nomination for a place on the railroad and warehouse commission would be made in his home paper today. Gray has long been a prominent man in the First congressional district, and it is believed he will have the support of leading Republicans of his district, including Congressman James A. Tawney, of Winona, for the nomination.

Tawney has long realized a possible competitor in Gray for his congressional seat and it is declared by men conversant with First district matters that he will be glad to boom the Preston man for a state position.

CONGRESS CONCLUDES UNEVENTFUL SESSION

Senator Clapp Says Panama Canal Legislation Was Only Notable Act.

Moses E. Clapp, United States senator from Minnesota, reached St. Paul yesterday on his return from Washington, and spent the day at the hotels in greeting his political and personal friends. Senator Clapp left Washington immediately upon the close of the session and will spend some time at his home in this city.

"The session was not remarkable for any notable legislation," he said yesterday, "other than the completion of negotiations for the Panama canal. That question is now out of the way and Washington looks to see active work commenced as soon as practicable. The usual appropriation bills were passed, but there was little of world-wide interest in the work of the last congress."

GUNN WOULD SERVE ON RAILROAD COMMISSION

Northern Minnesota Republican Cherishes Ambition to Land Office.

Daniel M. Gunn, member of the Republican state central committee from Itasca county, has been a candidate for nomination for state railroad and warehouse commissioner, is in the city and is accompanied by James A. Stuart, the Grand Rapids editor.

"Gunn's chances for nomination are excellent," his newspaper friend declared last night after spending the day among the Republican politicians. "He has assurances of support from nearly all the Northern Minnesota counties and will come to the state convention with a backing that will make him a most formidable candidate. One of the places will certainly be conceded to Northern Minnesota, and Gunn will have a strength that will make him that man."

SAYS WILLS DIFFER

Attorney for Wilder Relatives Claims There Is No Trust.

The hearing before Judge Bunn, in the district court, had for the purpose of securing an interpretation and construction of the Amherst H. Wilder will, argued the greater part of the day yesterday, the committee which the matter was postponed until Saturday, May 14, when it will be taken up at the special term.

The suit, friendly one, brought to determine the scope of the trust alleged to have been formed by the terms of the will, took on a new turn during the argument yesterday, when the title of no further objection on the part of the opposing counsel to permitting Mr. Clapp, one of the attorneys for the trustee, the executors of Mrs. Wilder, an opportunity to express his interpretation as to the character of the charitable trust contained in the Wilder will.

If, under the terms of the will, there be no trust, and Mr. Clapp did not believe there was any, then neither the trustee nor the executors of the present suit, could administer it. Mr. Clapp contended that if it could be shown that there was no trust, then there was no trust for anyone to administer. In respect to the trust feature, it was contended that the will left by Amherst H. Wilder was entirely different from the one which the executors of Mrs. Wilder, Mr. Clapp argued at considerable length upon the proposition that the probate court never, in its final decree, will determine whether or not there was or what were not lawful trusts under the will of A. H. Wilder.

Jared How and E. B. Kellogg, counsel for the trustees under the will, maintained that the will was valid and that the legacies should be paid and the residue of the estate turned over to the corporation to be used for the worthy objects of St. Paul. Mr. Clapp said he would not oppose the payment of the legacies unless the payment decided affirmatively the question of the validity of the A. H. Wilder trust.

LOOKS FOR BETTER PRICES FOR CATTLE

Hereford Breeders Will Make Big Exhibit at State Fair.

C. R. Thomas, secretary of the American Hereford Breeders' association, came in from Kansas City yesterday en route to the Canadian Northwest, and during the day visited the state fair grounds and various officials of the fair. Mr. Thomas is the executive officer of the Hereford association who has had immediate charge of the national exhibition breeders' organization at the Minnesota fair in recent years with so much success. He is one of the best posted cattlemen in the country.

Speaking of conditions among the breeders and stock, Mr. Thomas said yesterday that he looked for better prices for Hereford breeders in the future, though he did not expect them to go to the abnormal place which they reached a few years ago. In the South, he said, especially in Texas, the cattle growers are very much discouraged on account of continued dry weather and the low price obtainable for their animals. This much information was yesterday volunteered by a court house official who is in a fair position to know what he is talking about, and it is said the investigation is one which may cause much worry in certain high moral circles of the city.

The Globe's informant declined to say just what the investigation would embrace, but the intimations which, if well founded, would indicate that the final report will not be as dry as had been expected.

The grand jury yesterday took up the regular investigation of jail cases, none of which is of much importance. This work will consume the body's time until tomorrow or Friday, when other matters not included in the charge of Judge Bunn will have the searchlight turned upon them.

GRAND JURY MAY DIG INTO NEW FIELDS

It is Rumored That It is Likely to Unearth a Sensation.

The present grand jury, before it finally adjourns, will probably take up a number of cases of unusual interest to the public, the outcome of which is most likely to create something of a sensation in the city. FIREMAN SUES THE RAILROAD FOR $10,250

Dennis J. Nee Wants the Northern Pacific to Compensate Him for Injuries.

Dennis J. Nee, who was at one time a fireman on the Northern Pacific, yesterday brought suit in the district court to recover damages from the road in the sum of $10,250 for injuries sustained by reason of the blowing out of an arch of the circulating flue of the fire box at a time when he was engaged in performing his duties as a fireman.

Nee says the flue was a defective one, and when it blew out the escaping steam and hot water, which struck him in the face, knocked him down and burned his flesh away from his cheeks. He was otherwise badly burned and injured, and has ever since been in a hospital at Brainerd. The accident occurred last December.

THE HONORABLE PUBL. CO.

THE RE PUBLICANS ARE SAINLY CITY

Committee Selects St. Paul as the Place and June 30 as the Date of the Gathering to Nominate State Officers—

Duluth Makes a Vigorous Fight but Is Defeated—Judges of the Supreme Court Will Be Nominated First.

The Republican state central committee yesterday selected St. Paul as the place for holding the state nominating convention over Duluth, designated June 30 as the date of the convention, made the basis of representation the vote cast in McKinley in 1900, named United Senator Moses E. Clapp as temporary chairman of the convention, and decided that the nominations for judges of the state supreme court should precede, in the order of business, the nomination of a governor, overturning a plan which has been in existence in the state for a great many years.

There was practically no contest over the decision to hold the convention on June 30, nor on the basis of representation. The selection of Senator Clapp as temporary chairman was made unanimously, and the two factions in the committee rivaled each other in passing bouquets to the junior senator.

The decision that the judges precede the gubernatorial nomination was made by a margin of one vote, the Collins men in the committee voting almost solidly for the new departure, and the Dunn men casting their strength against it.

There are threats that the convention will disregard the recommendation from the committee and that a test of strength will be made at the opening of the convention by moving a substitution of the old plan of nominating the gubernatorial candidate first.

It is pointed out that the friends of any candidate, if in sufficient numbers in the convention, can easily overcome any recommendation from the committee, and the alleged intent of the committee's action could thus be circumvented.

St. Paul Republicans Squirm.

The committee was in session for nearly two hours, and while there was little feeling displayed on the part of the meeting, several sharp passages occurred between the rival leaders in the persons of Gen. M. D. Flower, of St. Paul, and C. A. Morey, of Winona. Gen. Flower has the right for St. Paul as the convention city, and Morey was the chief spokesman after Millie Bunnell, the Duluth editor, in the interest of Duluth. Morey did not miss the opportunity to goad the St. Paul men of the committee for their overwhelming victory given the Democrats on Tuesday, and his whip-lash caused a squirming in the seats of the Duluth men.

The committee was called to order in a parlor of the Windsor hotel just after 8 o'clock by Robert Jamison, of Minneapolis. He called the roll and showed all the members present except E. B. Hawkins, of Blwabek, represented by Millie Bunnell, C. A. Hitchcock, of Crookston, E. J. Stebbins, of Minneapolis, represented by J. H. Steele, and Philip Lietch, of New Ulm, who was not represented by proxy.

The dates of the convention were first considered and was settled without friction. H. M. Richardson, of Rochester, suggested the date be made contingent for the meeting in the city of the party, and Thursday, June 30, was chosen without debate. The hour for opening the convention was made 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

Hallam Starts the Ball.

Oscar Hallam precipitated the discussion as to the selection of the convention city by saying that it had been the custom for many years to hold the convention for the nomination of state officers at St. Paul, and he read a communication from the Commercial club extending an invitation to the convention to be held in the city, with the further tender free to the convention of the Metropolitan opera house for convention purposes. He spoke of the large auditorium and safety of the house, and said that arrangements would be made for seating 1,300 in the parquet and stage of the opera house, and that the hall would be utilized for spectators. He offered a resolution by which the committee named St. Paul as the place for holding the convention.

Chairman Jamison read a communication from the Duluth Commercial club and resolutions adopted by the Garfield Republican club of Duluth, the Eighth district congressional convention endorsing Duluth for the honor. It was pointed out that Duluth had three fine hotels, a large auditorium and an ideal summer climate, as inducements for coming to that city; that concessions had been secured in railroad rates, and that the city at the head of the lakes was entitled to recognition as the third port of the United States in the volume of its business.

Millie Bunnell, of Duluth, moved a resolution to the Hallam resolution substituting Duluth for St. Paul as the place for the convention, and said that his town would not only provide a free hall, but would furnish music and all other incidental expenses of the convention. A rate of $3 for the round trip from the Twin Cities to Duluth—$15 less than the usual convention fare—had been obtained, and many delegates, he said, desired the opportunity of making a summer trip to the head of the lakes.

Preds St. Paul.

"If you will send the convention to Duluth this year," said Mr. Bunnell, "you will find that two years hence there will be a fine audience in St. Paul to care for conventions. Public sentiment will be aroused and will result in filling the want."

Gen. Flower said Duluth was impracticable as a convention town for the state at large, and the committee should not establish a precedent in going to one corner of the state and thus compel delegates to see an additional day in attending the convention. A small convention would be the result because of the extra expense and loss of time. When the delegate convention was voted to Minneapolis there had been a tacit understanding that the nominating convention would be held in St. Paul.

C. A. Morey favored Duluth and took issue with Gen. Flower as to the expense of an agreement, tacit or otherwise. St. Paul had been the scene of conventions and a vote was necessary before Minneapolis was selected. Of a convention of 1,300 to 1,500 delegates, two-thirds would be men who would ably had never seen Duluth, and they would prize the opportunity to take the necessary time and the extra expense to visit Duluth. Morey spoke of the alleged discomforts in the old St. Paul auditorium, and said he believed the opera house plan would be infinitely worse. St. Louis and the neighboring counties had saved the Republican ticket from defeat in three campaigns, and he thought the party there should be recognized.

"After what happened in St. Paul yesterday, wouldn't it be well for St. Paul to look about and see whether it has enough Republicans to send a delegation to the state convention," Morey said, as he sat down, amid the laughter of the committee.

Some Remarks Courtroom.

"Is Winona under your benign influence, Republican city?" sharply responded Gen. Flower, and while Morey said the county had given Republican majorities he could not say that his home city was in the Republican column.

"I'd rather like to reply to the remarks from the gentleman from Winona," continued the St. Paul man. "We are well aware of the fact that we had an election yesterday, but there were local conditions influencing the result. But St. Paul yesterday cast over 11,000 Republican votes and under some conditions that were adverse to success. Any reason for taking the convention to Duluth would apply equally well to St. Paul," and the speaker controverted the Winona man's insinuations regarding the arrangements made for the distribution of the conventions early in the year.

J. G. Hamblin, of Faribault county, said his people, remote as they were from Duluth, wanted to go there for the convention. "Jim, have it to go to Duluth," he naively said, they had told him on leaving home along with the usual exhortations to "take care of self." Other members of the committee expressed their individual opinions.

The vote defeated the Bunnell substitution in favor of Duluth 17 to 16, and the Hallam resolutions designating St. Paul was then put through without opposition.

Morey made the motion designating Senator Clapp as temporary chairman of the convention, and it was seconded by Gen. Flower and James A. Tawney. The motion was carried, and Senator Clapp had reached St. Paul on his return from Washington and when it was found that he was not present, the convention adjourned until the following day, when he was accorded him without division of sentiment.

The basis of representation in the convention was made 1 delegate for each 250 voters or major fraction thereof of east for Winona McKinley in 1900, with 5 delegates at large from each county. This will give the convention 1,170 delegates, of which Ramsey county will be entitled to 61.

Judges Will Come First

The proposition to nominate the judges of the supreme court first in the convention was adopted by the Democrats, and the reading by Chairman Jamison of a resolution adopted by a recent meeting of State Bar association favoring the change. Mr. McGhee, in the reading of the resolution, moved the regular order be proceeded with, and Albert Johnson, of Goodhue, amended that the judges be nominated first, and that the action of the convention on the amendment showed 14 yeas and 13 nays, and Millie Bunnell demanded a roll call. The roll called:

Yeas: Miller, Johnson, Flower, Jamison, Martin, Whitney, Hallam, Widell, Eastman, Cosgrove, Nupson, Dykeman, Sutherland—14.

Hawkins, Masterman, Richardson, Steele, Adair, Bunnell, Erickson, Dickson, Ward, Gunn, Hamlin—13.

The yeasty conventions were ordered to be held Tuesday, June 28, and in addition to the other officers usually designated in the call for the state convention, 11 presidential electors will be named by the convention.

The committee recommended that the new committee named for Roseau county by a mass convention held March 4 at Warrad, be recognized by the officers of the committee in issuing the call for the state convention. It is said that the old committee had refused to call the county convention in March and had lost its legal right to existence.

All arrangements for the state convention by these voters during the past few weeks has been too decided to leave any doubt as to how they would vote, said Mr. McGhee.

Must Give Teacher the Reason.

Assistant Attorney General P. A. Ewert yesterday transmitted to the state superintendent of public instruction an opinion explaining an enactment of 1899, concerning the power to revoke or to refuse to issue a teacher's license. He says that the county superintendent may revoke a license or refuse to issue one when he deems such action necessary, but that he must furnish the aggrieved party with a statement giving the reasons for doing so, and must forward a copy of the statement to the superintendent of instruction, to whom the teacher may appeal. A case in point arose in Houston county.

Benz Buys Merriam Property.

George Benz yesterday recorded a deed of the old W. R. Merriam property, located on Merriam hill, from J. W. Lusk. The consideration given in the transfer record is $47,456.

NEGRO VOTE REBUKES THE REPUBLICANS

Their Refusal to Confirm Appointment of Dr. Crum Heard from Last Tuesday.

"Never before in the history of St. Paul have so many colored voters supported the Democratic ticket as in yesterday's election," said Frederick L. McGhee, last night in discussing the outcome of the city election.

"I believe that fully 75 per cent of the colored voters in the city, and probably more, voted for Mayor Smith and other Democratic candidates. The colored vote was a rebuke to the man in which the Republican party has treated the negro race, and it is a good omen for Democrat success this fall in Ramsey county."

"The negroes of the entire country are thoroughly aroused over the refusal of the Republican party to confirm the appointment of Dr. Crum as collector of customs at the port of Charleston, and the better class of our colored citizens here in St. Paul are no exception. The negro appreciates the kindly feeling for the race shown by President Roosevelt in appointing Dr. Crum, but the continued refusal of the party behind the president to confirm the appointment, has aroused much bad feeling, and the colored people are beginning to see that the Republicans have little use for them in the affairs of the nation."

The Race Insulted.

"Whatever duty the negro might owe to President Roosevelt, he owes a greater one to his race, and the thinking negro will be heard from more than once in future elections. Because Dr. Crum was given an appointment by the president, it does not follow that the negro should support the Republican party, when that party, through its representatives in congress, insults the race by declining to confirm an appointment made by the president."

"The negro feels that the only practical way to show his contempt for such a party is to vote with the Democrats, and I believe they will be found doing so in the future. Just as they did yesterday. Should the colored voters of St. Paul vote with the Democratic party this fall as they did yesterday, it will mean the success of the Democratic ticket in Ramsey county."

Engagement after engagement followed. Guesting performances throughout the country, in Russia and Austria, and then the Bayreuth Festspiel, when reports of her great art occupied considerable space in the musical columns of our papers, and still later her triumphs at Covent garden, after which she came to this country as a member of the Metropolitan Opera company, are leading achievements in her career. Of her enormous success here much has already been written until her name is known even to the music lovers in the smallest city in the country. Enough is said when it is told that she is the most popular song-recital singer now before the public.

DORAN HOUSE SOLD

George T. Slade, of the Great Northern, Is the Purchaser.

Michael Doran's residence, on the northeast corner of Summit avenue and Arundel street, the largest mansion on St. Anthony hill with one exception, has been sold to George T. Slade, general superintendent of the Great Northern railroad.

The Doran mansion, a palatial structure of white brick, was erected at a cost of $85,000, and has more floor space than any building on Summit avenue with one exception. It was originally built at a cost of $35,000, and five years ago extensive additions involving an outlay of $50,000 were made to it.

Mr. Doran will vacate the premises during the present month, and the new owner will take possession on June 1. The purchase price has not yet been given out.

SCHUMANN-HEINK TO SING HERE FRIDAY

Noted Contralto Will Give Concert at People's Church.

Mme. Schumann-Heink, who sings Friday evening at the People's church, has had a most remarkable history as a singer. At the termination of her contract with the Dresden Opera company she contracted with Pollini, the director of the Hamburg Stadt theater, where she remained for some years, after which she became a member of the Royal opera, in Berlin. Having married in the meantime, it was not until this engagement that the name of Ernestine Schumann-Heink became world-renowned.

STATE'S WARDS MUST NOT PUT ON STYLE

Board of Control Saves Money by Purchasing Last Season's Goods.

Style is not necessary for inmates of the state institutions, says the board of control, which, in the letting of contracts for clothing supplies, will not permit the cut of a garment or the shape of a hat to stand in the way when the material is satisfactory and the price sufficiently low.

Observing this rule, the board was yesterday able to secure at great reductions a large number of job lots of last season's stock from bidders who submitted samples of goods they wished to sell to the state for the use of its wards in the schools, hospitals and asylums.

Several large contracts were made with St. Paul and Minneapolis merchants for hats at 30 per cent discount from the regular price on account of the goods being of last year's pattern. About $30,000 worth of contracts were awarded yesterday by the board, the members of which, with the assistance of the superintendents of the state institutions, made examinations of a large number of samples of groceries, clothing, underwear, shoes, hats, notions, bedding and table linen. The contracts were for supplies for the next three months. The successful bidders were not announced yesterday by the board.

While the superintendents of the institutions were in town they took advantage of the opportunity to make a tour of inspection of the stock yards and packing houses of South St. Paul and the experiment station at St. Anthony Park.

"Much information that will be of value was gained by the superintendents at the packing house at South St. Paul," said J. F. Jacobson, chairman of the board of control, yesterday. "They are nearly all in charge of farms and they learned a great deal about dressing meat, which they are required to attend to. At the farm school, where we inspect the dairy, the stables and the fields, many things were also learned. We put in a busy day Tuesday, starting at 7:30 in the morning and finishing at 6 in the evening."

Marshall County's Attorney on Carpet.

The trial of Greeley Carr, county attorney of Marshall county, charged with collusion with ditch contractors, will be held this morning before Gov. S. R. Van Sant. Testimony taken by a commissioner will be submitted, together with arguments.
