LETTERS MAY SOLVE MYSTERY

Coroner's Inquest in Case of Ruth Teachout Takes Place This Morning

Two letters now figure in the mystery which surrounds the death of Miss Ruth Teachout, the Minneapolis girl whose body was taken from the river last Tuesday night near the St. Paul boom. When the contents of these are known the cloud surrounding her mysterious trip to the spot below the falls and the scene which ensued may be partially lifted.

The letter which Ruth wrote at the business college the last morning she was seen alive was addressed to some man in Battle Creek, Mich. This fact has been ascertained from statements made by Miss Cora A. Halverson, the girl who sat beside Miss Teachout Saturday morning at the college.

The police do not believe in the suicide theory, and think that the letter contained something about the picnic which had been dropped by Eva Teachout, and disclosed her escort's name.

The other letter may be of even greater importance in unravelling the mystery. It was addressed to the parents of the dead girl and was received yesterday. Although the letter was dropped by the police, it is believed that the letter came from Battle Creek and that its contents regarding the case. Such statements as the different members have already made differ.

Photographs of Ruth were taken to the residence of Mrs. Teachout yesterday by the officers, but further than the man found in the park the day before and the man Bergstrom, no one has been found who can remember seeing the girl on Saturday afternoon.

A few relatives attended the funeral of the girl at Prescott, Wis., yesterday. Members of the family returned last night and will attend the inquest at this morning. Chief of Police Conroy said he had been unable to find any motive for murdering the girl.

"If she was murdered," said Mr. Conroy, "it must have been by traps along the river. There is no apparent reason why anyone should wish to murder her, but I can understand how she might have been the victim of criminal assault and her body thrown into the river to hide the evidence against the assailants."

The witness called include H. N. Teachout, father; Thomas Teachout, grandfather; and Eva, sister of the murdered girl; John Nordstrom and Oscar Nordstrom, who claim to have seen the girl at the boat landing below Minnehaha falls; John Bergstrom, who claims to have seen the girl at the boat landing; Detective Howard, of Minneapolis; and H. D. Davis, a Minneapolis newspaper man.

LOOTS SALOON SAFE

Thug Holds Up Bartender and Suspects Are Arrested

Jim Abbotts, bartender at O. P. Clements' saloon, Eighth and Sibley streets, was held up by a lone highwayman at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. The robber looted a hidden cash drawer and looted the safe of the money box, getting away with $150.

The police yesterday arrested Charles McElwain and Mike Adams, who they declare planned the robbery, and the footpad to do the work. The police have learned the identity of the robber and are now searching for him.

Abbotts refused to do so and the thug then helped himself. He drew out the money box from the safe, emptying the contents in his pocket, and then went to the door. Adams, who had change was usually kept, Abbotts had selected a different drawer for that purpose yesterday morning, and after a little search the robber found the money in another drawer.

ROADS COMPANIES IS NOT LEGAL

Supreme Court Decides Gas Company Can Sell By-Products to Only One Concern

According to a decision filed by the supreme court yesterday the St. Paul Gas Light company has no perfect right to sell its entire output of coke to the Younghighery & Lehigh Coal company, to the exclusion of all other would-be purchasers.

The case came before the supreme court on the appeal of Charles J. Berlyhill, from the decision of the Ramsey county district court in his action against the gas company and the coal company already mentioned. The ruling of the district court is affirmed.

The supreme court decided that by-products of any concern are not subject to the "unlawful combination" laws of Minnesota. This ruling applies to the principal products of the same concern. The decision was written by Justice Brown and the syllabus is as follows:

Defendant gas light company is a corporation engaged in the business of manufacturing gas for use by the citizens of St. Paul. The gas is produced from soft coal, and one of the residual products thereof is coke, which the company accumulates in large quantities. It is engaged in buying, selling or dealing in coke or other like fuel. It entered into a contract with defendant coal company by which it agreed to sell and deliver to that company all its accumulations of coke, to be used by the coal company to dispose of the same, or any part of it, to any other person or company. It is held that this contract is not a violation of any law of the state.

Widow's Claim Not Allowed

That the directors of a mutual insurance company have a right to limit the payment of dividend to such policy holders as have paid their annual premiums was decided yesterday by the Minnesota supreme court. This decision, written by Justice Brown, affirmed the order of the Hennepin county district court denying a new trial to the plaintiff.

The question came up through an endeavor on the part of Mary J. Petrie, of Minneapolis, to recover from the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company of New Jersey $2,500 as the amount of a dividend on a policy which she had been carrying since 1881. March 18, 1901, he failed to pay the annual premium of $65 due that day. Five months later he died, before the premium had been paid.

His widow contended that his policy should have been credited with a dividend declared by the company directors in January, 1901, and that such credit would have carried the policy beyond the date of his death.

Both courts held, however, that this dividend was paid to the policy holders that had paid their annual premiums; that this limitation was within the authority of the directors, and that, lacking a valid surrender value sufficient amount, the policy had already lapsed when Mr. Petrie died.

Eight other decisions were announced, as follows: Amy M. Brookhouse, appellant, vs. Frances J. Pray et al., respondent. Judgment affirmed.—Douglas, J.

Another Widow Loses

The appellant sued to recover $5,000 willed to her husband by his uncle, Samuel F. Pray, of Minneapolis, in August, 1896, with the provision that, in case any of the devisees under the will died before payment was made to them, and did not leave children or grandchildren, the bequest should be paid to the testator's wife, Frances J. Pray.

Mr. Brookhouse was dead when the will was made, although Mr. Pray was not aware of the fact. The two children of Mr. Brookhouse died later without leaving heirs.

Held that, in accordance with the evident intent of the testator to leave his estate either to his children or his blood relatives, the bequest should be paid, not to his nephew's wife, the appellant, but to Mrs. Pray.

The judgment of the lower court in favor of Mrs. Pray was therefore affirmed.

Must Try This Case Again

Bertha Steindorf, as administratrix of the estate of Albert E. Steindorf, deceased, appellant, vs. St. Paul National Co., respondent. Order reversed and new trial granted.—Start, C. J.

Steindorf was killed by a shock from an insulated electric wire strung by the gas company close to the roof where he was working. The trial court, which directed a verdict for the defendant, held to have erred, inasmuch as the question of fact—contributory negligence, etc.—and should have been decided by the jury.

SWEDISH STUDENTS GIVE THE CONCERT

Chorus From Lund University Delights Immense Audience at People's Church

Not since it was rebuilt has the People's church held so large an audience as that which assembled to hear the Swedish students of the University of Lund, Sweden. Every seat was occupied, and the many who were unable to obtain seats sat on the gallery or crowded about the different entrances to the auditorium.

The chorus more than deserved the greeting it received from its perfect host, an audience which was made up largely of the singers' countrymen. Vocally, it is splendidly equipped, and the superior training received made it difficult to believe that the members are college men and have been singing together only since their university course began.

The recollections of the night they sang their beautiful Swedish songs with a passion and fervor that must have brought before the eyes of many forgotten scenes in the well beloved fatherland.

Over the stage hung last night the American flag and on one side of it hung the flag of Norway, and on the other the flag of Sweden. An immense horseshoe of red and white flowers was a conspicuous ornament on the rostrum.

Chorus Is Most Expressive The student chorus of the Lund university is exceptionally well balanced, full voiced and very melodious, but its most noticeable characteristic is its expressiveness. It is able to voice the finest shades of expression. In pianissimo passages, the voice, strong but indistinguishably seems to carry the theme. And even when the chorus is full of strength the message of the song even while impressing with the music of the voice.

One of the most beautiful number it sang last night was a Swedish folk song "Hör U, Svär," which is a lyric tenor. The harmony is exquisite. The singers performed with the greatest skill and feeling. The Swedish national anthem, "Hör U, Svär," contained a very special appeal for the majority of people in the audience and it is a high degree of enthusiasm.

SAYS CONDUCTOR KICKED HIM OFF CAR

Charles Boogren Found Unconscious on Street and Seriously Injured

Charles Boogren, 774 Faugquier street, is in a serious condition at Bethesda hospital as a result, according to his assertion, of being kicked by a conductor of the street car on which he was riding Thursday night. He was found lying unconscious on the street at Sixth and Marla avenue yesterday morning at 2:30 o'clock.

Boogren was partially revived by the men who lifted and carried him to Seventh street, where they were met by Patrolman Hickey. Boogren was then taken to Bethesda hospital, near station and Dr. R. O. Earl was called.

After examining the man, Dr. Earl ordered him removed to Bethesda hospital. Boogren was found to be seriously injured internally.

According to Boogren's story he had been at the union depot seeing a party of friends off on a train and took a Ron-to and Marla car by mistake for a Seventh street car on his return to his home. When the car turned on to Marla avenue he discovered his error and attempted to get off in the rear corner. The conductor objected, and when the car stopped, Boogren says the conductor kicked him off the car. He staggered into the street and fell unconscious.

POTTGIESER DOESN'T LIKE TORRENS SYSTEM

County Solicitor Says It's Too Expensive to the Taxpayers

Nicholas Pottgieser, county commissioner, announced at the meeting of the committee on claims of the county board yesterday that he would not sign the warrants to carry on the Torrens system of land titles if he did not fear that he would be in contempt of court.

"Just look at this," said Pottgieser, "as he tossed over a bill from William Westfall, the attorney, for $200 for his services during June, the charge being $20 for each examination. Westfall has never received less than $180 a month for such work during the present year, besides which the county pays him $50 a month as the attorney for the register of deeds. This means that Westfall has received from the county for the first six months at least $1,800, and that by the end of the year he will have secured about $2,000. Besides this, there are other expenses connected with the Torrens system that will bring the cost to the county for a year to the neighborhood of $5,000."

At the end of his announcement Mr. Pottgieser signed the Westfall bill for $200, reiterating as he did so that the taxpayers are being mulct for the benefit of others, and that the $5,000 a year is really being thrown away.

COURT REFUSES TO DISMISS COMPLAINT

Decides It States Cause of Action Against a Music Company

Judge Brill yesterday overruled the demurrer of the defendants in the case of J. M. Anderson against W. J. Dyer & Bro., in which Anderson seeks to compel the defendants to pay a note that he holds against the Duluth Music company and also asks for a distribution of the profits of the Duluth company.

It is found by Judge Brill that a majority of the stock of the company is owned by Dyer & Bro. The capital stock of the company is $50,000, and Dyer & Bro. hold that it has earned $70,000 in profits, a portion of which he would like to have on the stock that he holds. The demurrer of defendants was on the ground that the complaint failed to state a cause of action. The case will now be tried on its merits.

DOG REPEATS BITE CHAFFEE HERE TODAY

Fox Terrier Attacks 8-Year-Old Lieutenant General Arrives Boy Second Time From Duluth This Morning

Clayton Hamilton, 8-year-old son of F. T. Hamilton, 1028 Chatsworth street, was bitten yesterday for the second time in the same place by the same dog. The dog, owned by a neighbor, jumped at the boy and imbedded its teeth in his leg, the wound being exactly in the scar left by the first bite, which was inflicted three months ago.

The boy was playing in the yard in the rear of his home with a few companions when a fox terrier, came among the children, seeing to recognize Clayton Hamilton, it sniffed, jumped and snapped, the teeth penetrating the boy's flesh. The dog then released its grip and jumped at the boy again. The second time the boy's wrist was caught between the dog's jaws, and had the animal not been beaten off by Mrs. Hamilton, who was on the yard on hearing her son cry, the artery might have been severed.

"When the dog bit my son the first time, I did not make a complaint," said Mr. Hamilton last night. "That time the boy was partly to blame, but this time the case is different, and I shall insist upon having the animal destroyed. When the dog bit my son the first time, about three months ago, he was playing with a number of small boys. The dog then bit his leg, tearing his trousers and inflicting a deep wound in the flesh. Clayton was then taken to the hospital, and he was kept there for a week or paying any attention to it this time, however. The terrier came into the back yard when a number of the neighbors' children entered the yard, and the dog immediately ran to my son and caught his leg between its teeth. The boy shook off the cur, which jumped again and caught his wrist by the arm. The dog was shot, and that if the owner refused to give it up he would swear out a warrant in police court.

WILL CONSIDER PAY OF JANITORS TODAY

Joint Council House and City Hall Commission Postpones Meeting

The city hall and court house joint committee was to meet yesterday and consider the application of the employees of the building for an increase of $5 a month in their salaries, but there was not a quorum in attendance the meeting was postponed until today.

A letter from County Auditor Kraemer conveyed the information that the money in the salary fund will not permit of an increase, the auditor taking occasion to assure the applicants for a raise that although the law of 1902 has greatly increased the work of the clerks in his office it is found impossible to grant them increased pay.

The petition from the employees states that as the expense of living has greatly increased since the salaries were fixed, it would be no more than just to them to increase their compensation $5 a month for each employe. It was signed by twenty-five of the employes.
