Mr. Sheehan expects to entertain many political visitors at a summer home, Atwood between Esopus and West Park.

Judge Parker was routed out of bed at 1 o'clock this morning by one of his coach horses getting loose from the barn and galloping around the barnyard.

USES "PERSONAL" TO PROTECT HIMSELF

Swindler Advertises Sum of Money Found, Then Passes Counterfeit Bill

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 12.—Marcus Crahan, of Providence, R. I., who has just begun to serve two concurrent sentences of fifteen years each in the federal prison at Alcatraz, is advertising forged hundred and ten-dollar bills, can blame his own astuteness for his long imprisonment.

William J. Flynn, in charge of the United States secret service here, told yesterday how Crahan had prepared what he thought was a sufficient defense before he set out to "show the queer." Crahan used the newspapers to get up an explanation of how he had come into the possession of the bogus certificates.

These personal advertisements attracted the attention of the treasury department's agents a few weeks ago. FOUND—Sum of money in bills near Grand Central station, N. Y. ST. LOUIS—One hundred received. Don't be afraid to correspond directly.

On May 25 several of the bookmakers at the Gravesend track found themselves in possession of new $100 certificates which they later learned were counterfeit. The next day thirty of these $100 bills were accepted at the same track.

Agents of the treasury department began to watch men who were tendering hundred-dollar certificates at the various race tracks, and at St. Louis, on June 9, they arrested Crahan, who is a photoengraver, with a home and place of business at Providence, where he had employed what a dozen men.

When charged with circulating bogus money he said: "These may be counterfeits. I don't know anything about that. I found the money—quite a roll of bills of this denomination—and after I had advertised for the owner to call upon me and received no reply I thought I had a good right to the money as anybody else."

When he was searched it was found that he had a receipt for a valise left at the Union depot in St. Louis. This contained 124 of the fraudulent hundred-dollar bills. In his suit case at the Planters hotel there was found more than $4,000 in good money.

It seems that Crahan, who was not a follower of the horses, had had wonderful luck in hitting long shots, both here and at St. Louis, and was fast accumulating a fortune. He had first begun to imitate the $10 certificates known as the "Buffalo" series and had found this so easy and the passing of them no more difficult than that he began to manufacture $100 certificates.

MAN IS HORSEWHIPPED BY SEVEN GIRLS

They Accuse Him of Improper Remarks and Get Even With Him

MILFORD, Utah, July 12.—John McKean, agent of the Continental Oil company, said to have made improper remarks concerning the young women of Milford, was severely horsewhipped by seven of them last night. McKean was calling on a Miss Pratt when a messenger asked him to step outside.

He declined, and a few moments later the house was stormed by the young women who brought him out by force. He was thrown on the porch and beaten for several minutes by a rawhide, while Miss Pratt and her mother stood by screaming in vain.

After McKean had washed the blood from his face and had his cuts dressed he endeavored to have the young women arrested, but was not successful.

McKean has been prominent socially here and has paid attention to a number of young women. He transferred his allegiance often, and is said to have made slighting remarks about former sweethearts. McKean left Milford this morning.

WOMAN FINDS STOLEN WATCH IN A FISH

She Is Robbed and Recovers Plunder in a Remarkable Way

MORRISTOWN, N. J., July 12.—A remarkable restoration of a watch to its rightful owner was made to Mrs. John Biddle while fishing in Budd's lake yesterday. Mrs. Biddle, who lives at Mine Hill, caught a twelve-pound pickerel and in the stomach of the fish the watch was found.

The Biddle house at Mine Hill was robbed three years ago and all the jewelry in the place carried off. Later, when the girl was a twelve-year-old, she was out in the middle of Budd's lake and dumped the stuff overboard. He was convicted and sentenced, but none of the jewelry ever was recovered, because Budd's lake is a deep body of water.

For the first time in her life Mrs. Biddle went fishing yesterday, and the only catch she made during the day was the twelve-pound pickerel. She is now considering the advisability of fishing there every day to see if she cannot recover the rest of her jewelry in the same way.

Offers to Arm Veterans

DENVER, Col., July 12.—Gov. Peabody today received a telegram from Col. Frier, of O'urray county, a veteran of the Civil war, saying: "As Gen. Bell admits he is unable to defend peaceful citizens from thugs and highwaymen in Cripple Creek, I can, if you will give me authority, enlist three companies of war veterans, and if you will supply us with rifles and ammunition we will come there to make Cripple Creek one of the safest places for a peaceful citizen."

Jokes by the Children

Fond Mother—Jane, has Johnny come home from school yet? Jane—I think so. I haven't seen a cat, but the cat is hiding under the stove.

Teacher—Who discovered America? Small Boy—Dunno.

Teacher—Why, I supposed every boy in school knew that.

Small Boy—I didn't know it was lost.

Little Girl—Mamma sent me over to borrow your ice cream freezer.

Neighbor—I'm sorry, but the outside pall was left in the sun and has fallen in.

Little Girl—Well, I'll help you pull and perhaps we can pull it out again.

Naomi, aged three, was greatly interested in a canary that had been given to her mother. The first time she saw the bird asleep she said: "The birdie has gone to sleep with his head inside of him. Her aunt asked: 'Do you have your head inside of you when you sleep?' 'No,' said the child, 'but I have my eyes inside of me.'—Chicago News.

SEEKS HEIRS OF HIS DEAD PARTNER

E. Bamy, Man of Mystery, Returns From Klondike With $130,000 In Cash

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 12.—"E. Bamy," a man of mystery, recently returned from the Klondike gold fields has been in this city searching for heirs of a partner who died and left $130,000 in cash and securities to be turned over to his relatives.

Bamy is one of the most remarkable characters ever seen in this city. He says he is seventy-one years of age. Born in Alabama, the son of a slave owner, he was given a good education and finally sent to Yale college. At the outbreak of the Civil war he and his brothers sided with the South. Their father, however, was a strong Union sympathizer, and he freed all his slaves and came to Cincinnati.

Brothers Killed in Army

Bamy's brothers were killed in the Southern army, and he himself was wounded several times by Northern bullets, and finally captured and put in prison.

After the war Bamy came to this city and married. His wife and only daughter died twenty-eight years ago. Left alone in the world, Bamy and three comrades, who had fought beside him, pooled the assets of $600 in cash—and decided to go West. They went to San Francisco, and there fell in with a prospector, who told them of the great wealth of Alaska.

An outfit was bought, and the party started for the Yukon. For years they worked claims with varying success. They had created many buildings in the mining camps and had rented them. They had acquired considerable money, when one of the party died of fever.

Up to this point Bamy discussed his past freely, but when it came to the death of this partner he became reticent and declared that he did not want to call upon his relatives. He refused to give the name of this miner or that of his other comrades.

The partner who died had accumulated $150,000, which he had converted into real estate and upon his death he entrusted his partners with the task of finding his relatives, if they still lived, and turning this fortune over to them.

Bamy states that he helped to the money was James E. Brougham, who once lived in this city. The fortune of the dead man was placed in a bank, and the partners continued their work. In many months ago, while prospecting about 700 miles above Mount Elias, they struck a vein four feet wide and very rich. The news of this strike spread, and the little party realized that they would have to fight their lives to hold the property. They had about a score of miners working for them. These they paid $12 a day.

Attacked by Canadians

One day an attack was made upon the miners by Canadians. A fierce battle ensued, which resulted in seventeen of the attacking party being laid low by bullets. The little party did not escape entirely whole, however, for several miners were seriously wounded, and Bamy and his wife and only child received Canuck bullets. Bamy was shot twice, and the result was a partial paralysis of one side. One of the other three times.

It was then decided to return to the United States and sell their holdings. Arrangements were made, and, according to Bamy, the little party arrived in San Francisco about four weeks ago.

Bamy came here and employed men to look for James E. Brougham, or his heirs. Finally, he says, he learned that Brougham and his wife and only child, a daughter, died years ago and left no known relatives.

Cuban Legislation Proceeds

HAVANA, July 12.—The first bill to pass the house of representatives was one appropriating an additional sum of $50,000 for the Cuban department of the St. Louis exposition. The house decided to extend for three months the time for the completion of the work of the commission which is examining the claims of revolutionary veterans.

Increase in the loan sufficient to pay off 75 per cent of these claims which shall be made in full of all demands. The government's current surplus is now upward of $7,000,000.

A CLASS IN PLAIN SEWING

Simple Way for Women to Earn Money at Home

Many a woman unable to leave home can earn a comfortable sum by teaching plain sewing, as mothers nowadays frequently find little time to instruct their daughters in this very essential accomplishment.

Commence with teaching the use of scissors, thimble and properly knotting the thread. On strips of muslin about twelve inches long mark dots with red ink where stitches are to be made. Begin with five stitches an inch, and increase the number till twenty or more can be run in that space. Then, with overhand hemming and filling, make short marks instead of dots, to give the proper slant.

Continue with binding, facing, ruffing, finishing, buttonhole making, hem-stitching, cast stitching, and gradually, if possible, in teaching how to run the sewing machine. Keep specimens of each lesson's work in a sewing book made of leaves of any strong paper. Review each lesson, and give only one subject at a lesson. Give practice work to be done at home. Enliven the lesson hourly by five-minute recitation and with some good physical culture exercise to rest the muscles.

A class of ten is a good size. Each one must receive individual attention. One lesson a week is often enough for girls under ten; older ones may take two. A course should bring $5 a pupil. The good teacher of plain sewing will feel that while she is doing something to help herself she is conferring a blessing upon the rising generation, in that they are learning usefulness in a form that has become rare in these strenuous times.

House on the Clark Estate Which Was Pilfered to the Detriment of the Bishop's Wife

While clerks were absent from the office of the Clark estate at Cooperstown, N. Y., where Mrs. Potter had deposited her valuables, thieves looted the safe, which had been left unlocked, and decamped with jewels valued at $50,000.

In the picture are shown Bishop and Mrs. Potter and the house which was the scene of the robbery.
