APPENDICITIS OR
BLOWS FROM FOOT

Coroner's Jury Will Be Called Upon to Determine Cause of Boy's Death

Tomorrow Coroner Williams will hold an inquest over the body of Joseph Borovsky, a thirteen-year-old boy who died Friday on the operating table at the Swedish hospital, while an operation for appendicitis was being performed.

The jury will be asked to determine whether death resulted from natural causes or from the effects of a beating administered by a tailor living on Jewett place, who mistook the dead boy for one of a number of boys who were annoying him and assaulting him.

On July 22 a number of boys were annoying the tailor by throwing mud on his porch. Borovsky, who is a carrier for an evening newspaper, had finished his route and was standing at the corner of Eighth avenue and Jewett place. The tailor started out after the crowd of boys and the Borovsky boy followed them. At the corner of Eighth and Dupont avenues, where he overtook the boy and assaulted him.

According to the testimony of statements of Max Primken, of 801 Dupont avenue north, S. H. Brown, a grocer at 801 Dupont avenue, J. O'Grady, of 803 Dupont avenue, and J. W. Jordan, of 927 Eighth avenue north, the little boy was seized from the back and kicked in the neck and abdomen.

Although suffering extreme pain the child did not seem to be seriously injured, but on Monday last week he was taken ill and Dr. C. M. Kistler, who was called, diagnosed the case as one of appendicitis and urged the removal of the boy to a hospital. He died during the operation. An autopsy was performed yesterday by Dr. W. E. Murphy and Dr. C. M. Kistler and they decided death was from appendicitis. They were loth to believe that the boy's death was caused by the encounter with the tailor, but nevertheless Coroner Williams has decided to hold an inquest tomorrow morning.

FORESTERS' RIVAL
SEEKS A Foothold

Ladies' Catholic Benevolent Association Has a Supreme Officer Present

The Ladies' Catholic Benevolent association is trying to secure a foothold in Minneapolis. This association seeks to be a rival of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters which is in session in Minneapolis and this afternoon there will be a meeting at the residence of Rev. Father Fitzgerald, Central and Twenty-fourth avenues northeast.

Miss Margaret L. Kelly, of Cleveland, Ohio, supreme auditor, will be in attendance and will explain the principles of the organization.

POLICE SAY TIMPANY
WAS ENEMY'S VICTIM

Assert That Man Who Was Stabbed
Was Attacked for Revenge

The police are of the opinion that David Timpany, who was found lying on the sidewalk Friday morning with half a dozen knife wounds in his back, was the victim of a man who sought to murder him.

Timpany is reticent regarding the affray, but there are several persons who claim he was not under the influence of liquor when he started on his walk down Washington avenue, and the police say that robbery was not the motive of the attack, for they claim to know the man who attacked him knew he had no money.

Candidates to Play Baseball

The Seventh Ward Republican club has organized a baseball league. The members are candidates for office and the club will play against the teams from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m. Monday evening, unless the police interfere. The umpires will be John A. Schlener and Dr. U. G. Williams. Republican candidates for mayor, and D. P. Jones, another candidate, will be the official umpire. There is a feast of oratory and some food after the game over.

DELEGATES WELL
SWEET HARMONY

No Discord Marked the Proceedings of the Order of Foresters Yesterday

The convention of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters will be in session all of this week. This was made evident at the session of yesterday, which, though harmonious when compared with those of the preceding days, was none the less interesting and prolonged.

The report of Attorney Francis McDonald, which was discussed the greater part of Thursday and all day Friday, was brought up again and finally disposed of by being accepted, and the attorney was given another vote of thanks.

Yesterday afternoon the report of the committee on constitution was taken up and the discussion begun.

It is expected that inasmuch as there are a number of radical changes proposed by the committee at least three days will be devoted to the consideration of this report, for the nomination and election of officers will not be taken up until late this week.

Although the delegates have been making little progress with the business before the convention, they are busy electing officers, and when the officers are elected there is every prospect of clearing time for the parading of the different candidates have aligned themselves and are seeking to influence the wavering ones.

Today there is no special programme other than in the afternoon the delegates will go to Lake Minnetonka on a special train and enjoy the beauties of that breathing spot.

Contrary to expectations, there will be a session tomorrow, which is a holy day. At 8 o'clock the delegates will attend mass at the Church of the Immaculate Conception and will then resume their deliberations.

RINEHART PEOPLE
DENY ALLEGED DEAL

Assert They Will Support Haynes if He Is Nominated

There is a report in circulation to the effect that should Mayor Haynes be renominated as the Democratic candidate for mayor, there will be an independent Democratic candidate in the field against him. This statement is denied by the Rinehart followers, who assert that a candidate will be defeated for the nomination they will support the nominee and not try to put another man in the field. The origin of this report is a mystery, but it gained considerable currency yesterday and was discussed by the Democratic workers with interest.

Will Jockey Primary Law

There is a story that the politicians of Hennepin county who take exception to the primary law are preparing to make some trouble. It is claimed they will induce a school or more candidates to file for places on the city boards which pay no salary, and therefore no fees are paid for filing, in order to make the ticket an expensive one to print.

The law requires that the names of the candidates shall be alternated on the tickets, and this plan is followed by the ticket will be a long one and a "fat take" for the printer who gets the contract.

There are four places on the park road, one on the school board and two on the library board.

Want Money in a Bunch

The holders of claims against the city for excessive assessments for special improvements will ask the board of tax levy for $125,000 in order that all the claims may be cleared up. A 1-mill tax levy would do this, but the council prefers to pay them in installments of about $15,000 annually.

Cut Alley Through Barn

Ben Gunderson, of the Ninth ward, is annoyed. He finds the city council has run an alley through his barn and he did not know of the occurrence until after the aldermen had completed their work. He vows vengeance on Ald. Larson, who, he holds, is responsible for he did not notify him of the intended "improvement."

Democrats to Have a Time

The first ward Democrats are planning for a lively meeting Tuesday night. For their showpieces they will have the candidates for the Democratic nomination for mayor, Mayor Haynes, Orville Rinehart and R. R. Odell and other lesser lights, such as candidates for alderman and county commissioners and the legislature.

Steals Policeman's Hat

John Novala was fined $10 for drunkenness in the municipal court yesterday. When he departed from the court room he wore away Court Officer Winthrop's Panama hat which has been the envy of the attaches of the police court. The court officer is on the warpath.

DETECTIVE WORKS ON GUILLESS MAN

Banks on His Fears and Extracts a Large Sum of Money Out of Him

Special to The Globe

NEW ULM, Minn., Aug. 13.—One of the most interesting games of extortion that has ever been perpetrated upon a resident of this county came to light today. Carl Bratsch, a well-to-do farmer, residing in the town of Millford, has been known for years to harbor the idea that some unknown party was following him around with the intention to take his life. This was simply an illusion as it is not known that he has an enemy in the vicinity. The neighbors have been disturbed several times by his hallucinations, one party barely escaping with his life. The neighborhood in which Bratsch lives is not a desirable one on this account and several residents have disapproved of their interests and moved elsewhere.

A Twin City detective, who has figured very prominently in several cases in this and adjoining counties, got an inkling of the fact that Bratsch was afraid of his life, and thought that this would be an ideal chance to make a piece of money. He proceeded to operate at once, driving out to the man's home and telling him that for several hundred dollars paid on the spot he would round up the individual that was after him and secure evidence against him. The detective even went so far as to take one of his accomplices from this city out to the home of Bratsch and had him state that if he supposed offending a individual was caught and convicted he could bring a damage suit against him for $5,000. This looked promising and Bratsch paid at regular intervals to the detective between $1,300 and $1,500.

The three banks in this city were informed of the game of graft which was being worked and refused the duped man any more money, knowing that it was simply a case of extortion. He had an appointment with the detective on Thursday and was to give him another bunch of money, but was unable to secure any at the local banks on the previous day and therefore failed to appear in town at the appointed time. The detective was not put off in that fashion and engaged a lawyer and hired a man to go out to the Bratsch farm and bring the duped man to New Ulm in the evening, but several parties in the city who knew that the graft was being worked got Bratsch away from the detective and kept him for the remainder of the evening. The detective left the city as soon as he found out that his game was exposed.

The friends of the duped man expect to take legal steps to recover some of the money he has paid under false representations and they expect to have some one take care of Bratsch. The farm neighbors of Bratsch had observed that the detective was making so many trips to the place and were naturally curious and it is through them that the deal leaked out.
