BIG BUILDINGS SAFE

City Engineer Says None Will Have to Be Condemned

City Engineer Rundlett, as building inspector, accompanied by assistants, yesterday inspected a number of the downtown buildings struck by the cyclone, but announced that none of the large structures seems to have been so severely injured that it will be necessary to condemn any.

In a few instances the damage done was such that repairs were ordered in the interest of the safety of the public, but so far as we have found there are none so badly damaged that it will be necessary to condemn any, said Mr. Rundlett. "In all instances the owners or lessees promised to attend to the repairs at once, conceding that the lives of the public should not be endangered. In most cases the danger comes from loosened cornices and damaged roofs. The walls of the large buildings along the path of the storm seem to be in a safe condition."

GAME BRINGS MONEY

Public Playgrounds' Equipment Will Be Improved

The baseball game played by the Commercial club and Town and Country club teams proved to be a grand success financially, and the funds realized will be sufficient to keep open the public playgrounds until frost time. The gate receipts as far as they have been figured up are $545, and the proceeds from the game will be enough to defray all the expenses of the entertainment.

The grounds committee will put in the necessary equipment for basketball, will build a backstop for the baseball field, will add to the football and hockey fields and put in another croquet ground and tennis court.

The girls are taking a very strong interest in the tennis, croquet and basketball preparations, and several teams are in daily practice for coming competitions.

FALLS FROM ROOF

Man Slips While Clearing Storm Wreckage

Charles F. Brown, a salesman, fell from the roof of his home at 478 Holly avenue Sunday morning, and was severely bruised. Mr. Brown had gone upon the roof to remove tree branches, loose shingles and other marks of the big storm. He made his way down to the edge of the slanting eaves, lost his balance, and fell fifteen feet to the lawn below.

Striking upon his back and head he was stunned and did not regain consciousness for several minutes. According to his physician, Dr. Henry Hutchinson, Mr. Brown will not doubt recover promptly.

The injured man is forty years old. He is employed by a local firm of dry goods jobbers.

He was brought to St. Paul last evening and taken to the city hospital. His foot will probably be saved.

GIRL MADE TO DO MAN'S WORK ON FARM

Mary Fouch Runs Away and Comes to St. Paul in Search of Mother

With a wraith and veil, the only clue to the identity of her mother who placed her in an orphanage when she was three years of age, Mary Fouch, twenty-five years old, who says she was adopted into the family of a farmer near Mankato, and made to do the heaviest kinds of manual labor, arrived in St. Paul a week ago in search of her parent.

Saturday, while on Robert street looking for a physician to dress a sore on her finger, she met the farmer from whom she had run away. She declared to the police and Humane Agent Moak that the man had attempted to induce her to return to the farm with him, and when she persistently refused to go threatened to shoot her. She evaded him by saying she would go to a physician's office and would return to him immediately.

After having her hand dressed at the Chamber of Commerce building she entered the Rock Island city ticket office, Sixth and Robert street, and there, in great terror, asked to be protected. She said if the man found her he would kill her.

Fearing He Would Kill Her—Patrolman Costello was sent for, and after hearing her story he called Humane Agent Moak. While the officer was in search of Mr. Moak the girl again asked the men in the ticket office to protect her.

"If he sees me here he will kill me!" she cried. When Mr. Moak arrived the girl told him the following story:

"I was taken from the Catholic Orphan Asylum in St. Paul in 1881, when I was three years old, by John Brown, a farmer near Mankato," said the girl. "My father died a few months before, and my mother, unable to support me and my sisters, placed me in the orphanage and consented to having me adopted shortly after. She left with my adopted father a rosary and a small chest, and I have used by me when being confirmed. The veil had her name, Alice Fouch, worked upon it, and that is the only clue I have to my mother. I have the beads and the veil still in my possession, and I will keep them if I lose everything else."

Made Her Work in Field—John Brown was good to me, but he died nine years ago, and then his son Mike took charge of the farm. My mother died of cholera in their orchard until a week ago, when I ran away. I was made to do the heaviest kinds of farm labor. I had to work in the fields during winter seasons, and when I became somewhat toughened to it, I suffered greatly. I was told that I had to do it and I believed it.

"A week ago I made my way to Mankato, and there I found a lawyer who told me that I could be my own boss and no one could make me work that was against my will. He gave me money and I bought a cheap excursion ticket to Minneapolis. In that city I found a priest who was good to me and who gave me money to come to St. Paul. I applied to the police in this city and they found me a situation in the home of one of the detectives, who was looking for a girl to do housework. I have been at his home all week, and would be there now but that my hand in which blood poison has developed, troubled me greatly, and I was told where I could find a doctor."

"I was on my way to the doctor's office when I met Mike Brown. He stopped me and told me I had to go back to the farm with him. I replied that I had seen a lawyer and knew that I did not have to go if I did not want to go. Then he said:

"If you won't go we'll see what a revolver can do." Then I was frightened and thought I had better go. I told him I would go to avoid trouble, but asked him to wait for me while I went to the doctor's office to have my hand dressed. When I came out of the office I was afraid of meeting him again and went into the first place I found.

"I am willing to work and hope I can get a position. My hand is troubling me much, but I could do something. I also want to find my mother and sisters, for I think they are still alive and in St. Paul."

Mr. Moak took the girl to the Young Women's Friendly association, where she was given shelter. Yesterday she left for Minneapolis, saying she would return to the priest who had helped her on her arrival in that city.

FALLS THREE STORIES, WALKS THREE BLOCKS

Engineer Drops Down Elevator Shaft But Will Recover

After falling three stories through an elevator shaft yesterday morning at 271 Robert street, Andrew Anderson, a stationary engineer, walked three blocks. He reached the Commercial building, Sixth and Cedar streets, where he was overcome, and was removed from there to the city hospital. Though his back is injured and he is severely bruised about the body it is said he will recover.

Anderson, who has charge of the engine room at Fifth and Robert street, went to the top floor to repair the elevator, which was caught and while at work lost his balance and fell down the shaft. He struck the bottom flat upon his back, but was able to get upon his feet. Thinking himself on a runaway he left the building intending to go to a physician in the Commercial building. He was overcome when he reached the hall and was taken to room by one of the employees, who summoned the police ambulance and sent him to the city hospital.

Anderson is married and lives at Lilydale.

Salesman Becomes Bankrupt—A petition in bankruptcy filed yesterday by George M. Lucas, salesman, of St. Paul, showed that his liabilities consist of unsecured claims to the amount of $4,495.57, and that he has no assets. The debts, contracted while the petitioner was doing business in St. Paul, are small amounts, owing to persons in the Twin Cities and other Northwestern communities. The chief creditor is the Merchants National bank of St. Paul, to which Mr. Lucas owes $1,100 on a note.

INSPECT THE MINNESOTA RIVER

Arrangements Completed to Entertain Committee on Rivers and Harbors

Final arrangements have been made for the entertainment of the congressional committee on rivers and harbors which is to visit this city Aug. 28. Congressman Stevens will leave tonight to welcome the committee at Duluth and accompany the party to Minneapolis, where it goes as soon as inspection of the reservoirs has been completed.

The party will be met by a committee from the Commercial club and other bodies at the locks and dams and will be escorted up the Minnesota river or to Fort Snelling, at the option of the members of the party.

After this the congressmen and their wives will be driven to St. Paul, arriving here about 4 o'clock.

It is considered important by the local committee that the visitors have a good view of the Minnesota river, so that if it is made to appear to them that the stream can be rendered navigable for some distance, an appropriation for that purpose can be secured.

B. H. Scherer, a member of the local committee, said concerning the visit of the committee:

"It has been said that the river is of no practical use for shipping, and is too slow and uncertain to be largely valuable for freight transportation. It is here just the same and can be used for just that purpose and the fact that it can be so used has an effect on freight rates."

Will Estimate Amount Needed—These facts are known to the congressmen and their visit will probably determine how much of an appropriation will be made by the national government to maintain the river in a navigable shape. The maintenance of the reservoirs at the headwaters of the stream is also vastly important, for it is understood that the conservation of the waters in these reservoirs has had the effect of keeping up the datum of the river at least twelve inches during dry weather.

The congressional party will be entertained at dinner at the Commercial club at 7 o'clock. The public is invited to be present at the banquet and reception on the roof garden that will follow it.

Reservations may be made for seats not later than noon of Aug. 25 with Secretary C. P. Stine, of the Commercial club.

Saturday morning the party will embark on the steamer Louisiana and begin their trip up the river. The membership of the party will be as follows:

Theo. E. Burton, chairman, Ohio; Boswell P. Bishop and wife, Michigan; Ernest F. Atchison and wife, Pennsylvania; De Alva S. Alexander and wife, New York; James H. Davidson and wife, Wisconsin; Wesley L. Jones, Washington; D. C. J. Adams, Rhode Island; Minnie M. Beale and wife, Minnesota; John M. Bankhead and wife, Alabama; Steven M. Sparkman, Florida; Joseph E. Ransdell and wife, Louisiana; George F. Burdette and wife, Texas; B. G. Humphreys, Mississippi; J. E. Cassidy and wife, Ohio; J. H. McGuff, Washington, D. C.; Gen. Alex. McKim, New York; J. H. McKee, Cleveland.

SUES SHERMAN DORRIS

Mrs. Sargent Asks $2,430 Damages Due to Chilly House

A disagreement between landlord and tenant in which, contrary to custom, the tenant sues the landlord, was developed in a complaint filed yesterday by Kate Sargent against Sherman E. Dorris and James Mason. Through the aid of the district court Mrs. Sargent desires to collect damages to the amount of $2,430.

She alleges that she leased from the defendants, about May, 1902, the fourteen-room brick dwelling at 9 East Tenth street; that she expected to rent the house and start on the day she was heated from a steam plant controlled by the defendants; that she was to pay $40 a month as rent for the house and $15 for heat, and that whenever she was obliged to have the house heated.

But, as she maintains, the necessary heat was not supplied when called for, it became difficult or impossible to satisfy the demands of chilly rooms; she suffered mentally and physically from the lack of heat; her young daughter sustained serious injury to her health from the same cause; and, besides, she was obliged, at the insistent request of the defendants, to more than double her rent for some months, than she ever had agreed to pay. She left the house last April.

SEWERS ON VERNON AND McLEAN FAVORED

Board of Public Works Will Submit Favorable Reports

The board of public works yesterday decided to make favorable reports for a sewer on McLean street, from Earl to Cypress, at an estimated cost of $1.14 per front foot, from Princeton 200 feet north, at a cost of $1.12 per front foot. The same course was pursued as to paving an alley in block 3, Whitney & Smith's addition, at a cost of $1.34 per front foot.

Plans and specifications were approved as to the following sewers and bids advertised for: West on Third to Capitol; on Woodbridge, Geranium to Albenarle; Water street, from Moses to 60 feet west of Wabasha; Fillmore avenue, from Moses street to 50 west of Wabasha.

Letter Box Is Demolished—The only damage sustained by the postoffice building at the corner of the St. Paul street was the loss of a letter box at Fourth and Sibley streets. The delivery of mails was delayed more or less yesterday, and especially Sunday, by the irregular running of the street cars.

ATTN-BILLBOARD MEASURE INDORSED

Assembly Passes Ordinance, but Aldermen Defer Action on It at Special Meeting

BY ASSEMBLYMAN WINN POWERS

An ordinance relating to billboards and bulletin boards for advertising purposes. The common council of the city of St. Paul do enact as follows:

Section 1. That hereafter no billboard or bulletin board shall be erected, constructed or repaired on any street in the city of St. Paul, except as follows:

Sec. 2. Any person who shall violate the terms of this ordinance shall be punished by a fine of not more than $100, or imprisonment of not more than thirty days.

Sec. 3. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and approval and publication.

Unightly signboards, towering high above the sidewalks, and during high winds endangering the lives of pedestrians, were discussed at the special meetings of the assembly and board of aldermen last night, called to relieve the suffering caused by the recent cyclone. So unfavorable an opinion was expressed by the councilmen that at the special meeting of the assembly an ordinance prohibiting the erection of billboards within fifty feet of any street in the city was passed by unanimous vote.

The ordinance, was presented by Assemblyman Winn Powers, and a distinguishing voice was raised in its passage. Immediately following the passing of the ordinance by the assembly, the matter came before the board of aldermen, convened in special session. As one member of the body was absent from the meeting, and a unanimous vote was not obtained, action at a later date was suggested. The matter was deferred until another meeting, it is believed that the aldermen will pass favorably upon the ordinance.

Would License Billboards—In connection with the plan for removing billboards fifty feet from the street—Assemblyman Powers, and Secretary C. P. Stine, on Monday, at a subsequent meeting of the assembly, to present an ordinance providing for licenses for all bulletin and signboards in the city.

The ordinance provides that firms outside of the city, receiving large benefits from the display advertisements, and that it is only just that St. Paul should receive some remuneration. The plan, it is said, will provide for a tax to be imposed for each lineal foot.

In connection with signboards, and advertising signs, the matter of overhead signs was mentioned, indirectly, but no action was taken. It is not likely, however, that measures to regulate signs will shortly be introduced.

An ordinance passed some time ago by the city council, providing that no signs exceeding ten feet in height should be erected in the city, it was said, would be of benefit in enforcing the provisions of the proposed new ordinance, if it is passed.

Health Commissioner Ohage Will Lose No Time

Health Commissioner Ohage estimates that he can repair all the actual damage on Hayriet island for $3,000, but that a large per cent of the trees are ruined.

"In many instances it will be possible to reset the trees," said Dr. Ohage, "and by trimming all trees on the island, the storm will do almost as good a year as it was this season. With the exception of the sun rest at the entrance to the island, which collapsed, the buildings suffered but little. The structures were erected with the idea that it would be necessary that they would be compelled to stand big storms and the fact that not one of them was moved in the least shows that they were properly built. The cleaning of the island has begun, and everything will be in good shape by Labor day, when the celebration will be held."

The animals at the island, with the exception of the three parrots that were killed, were not injured. The fence surrounding the deer was blown away, but the deer was later found on the upper end of the island quietly enjoying itself.

CARING FOR SCHOOLS

Supt. Gerlach Orders Repair of Damaged Buildings

George N. Gerlach, superintendent of school buildings, has begun the repair of the damaged structures, and after a careful inspection says that the actual cost of necessary repairs will not be less than $25,000. Acting upon the strength and advice from the corporation attorney and city comptroller, Gerlach will proceed with the necessary work, hoping to be able to have them ready by Sept. 6, when the schools open.

The Washington and the Lincoln schools were the principal sufferers, he said, "although the capitol, the Van Buren, the Hancock, the Longfellow and the Edison did not escape unscathed. Reading the buildings to remain without roofs and in otherwise damaged condition, I began work on Sunday at the Lincoln school. It was found that the roof was in bad shape, and a large amount of brick-laying will be necessary, in addition to the replacing of the roof."

"There is no money available for this work, but I went ahead on my own responsibility, and today consulted with the mayor, the corporation attorney and the comptroller. They advised that I proceed with the work, believing that if nothing else could be done money could be secured from the banks on a guarantee that the amount will be raised in the next tax budget."

MUST REMOVE POLES OR CUT THEM

City Engineer Writes a Sharp Letter to Northwestern Telephone Company

City Engineer Rundlett yesterday sent a letter to the Northwestern Telephone company threatening to at once "take his ax in hand" and chop down a large number of telephone poles if the company does not proceed to carry out the instructions of the city council.

Mr. Rundlett goes to some extent into the nature of the resolutions passed by the council, and recalls to the attention of the managers of the company that during the past several months he has written them numerous letters demanding that they remove poles where underground conduits have been ordered and in some instances installed. It is recalled that not only has the company failed to take away the poles, but it has not had the consideration to grant the request of the engineer to send to his office a man authorized to go over the situation and agree upon what is to be done.

If this matter is not given immediate attention, I will proceed to obey the orders of the city council and cut down the poles," says the city engineer.

"I do not know what is the conception of the company's officials of the intent of the resolutions that have been passed by the city council at various times, but it seems that they regard them as a joke," explained Mr. Rundlett.

Company Ignores Request—"Not only do they treat the matter in that light, but go further and have failed to send a man to this office to make arrangements as to the removal of poles. It is not the desire of the city council to be unreasonable, but as it appears that the telephone people have determined to practically ignore the city administration, it is necessary that they be told that the poles must be removed by them or will be cut down by the city."

As to Hague avenue, concerning the poles on which I have just received a communication asking their immediate removal, I do not believe that the thirty poles required by the city council is sufficient. The work cannot be done in that time. But on the other streets the conduits have been ready for more than a year, yet the poles are allowed to stand."

The engineer thinks sufficient time had been allowed the company on East and West Seventh streets, on Broadway street, on Bedford street, on Beaumont street, on Lafayette avenue, Payne avenue, and on some other thoroughfares, and that the company should be of the opinion that the company has been allowed plenty of time in which to do the work.

The district is entitled to two members of the house, and thus far three candidates have filed. It is said that there will be at least one other candidate for the Republican nomination in the district.

STORM DID NO HARM WINDOWS INSURED

Buildings on State Fair Grounds Plate Glass Insurance Companies Feel Storm Found to Be Intact

C. N. Cosgrove, president of the State Agricultural society, accompanied by members of the board of directors of the organization, made a thorough inspection of the state fair grounds yesterday and found all the buildings in perfect condition and ready for the opening of the fair.

Accompanied by Supt. Randall, the grounds were gone over carefully, it being found that none of the permanent buildings had been damaged, and that only one small temporary shed had gone down before the storm, and that the debris from this had been cleared away previous to the inspection. In all other respects it was found that the grounds had not suffered in the least from the tornado, and that when the fair opens, Monday of next week, everything will be in readiness to carry on a successful show.

Mr. Cosgrove and the others interested naturally feared that some of the buildings had suffered more or less from the great wind, and came to St. Paul to investigate. They were pleased to find that such was not the case. The damage done was of such a trivial character that it required but an hour or so to cart off the debris from the small shed.

In every particular the buildings were found to be safe, showing that to all appearances the blow was not as severe at this point as in other sections of the city, and that the loss to the association as a result will be practically nothing. The substantial nature of the buildings and the grandstand were thoroughly demonstrated.

The last vestige of the storm has disappeared from the grounds, and when the gates are thrown open to the visitors Monday it will be impossible to discover any evidences there of the tornado that passed over the city Saturday night.
