Carpenter Breaks His Ankle—John Heisch, 281 Colborne street, broke his right ankle yesterday afternoon while at work on a building on East Fourth street, near Minnesota street. He was removed to his home in the police ambulance.

Cook Doesn't Prosecute Waiter—E. S. Knox, a waiter, arrested a week ago on a charge of assaulting W. Norwich, cook in an East Fourth street restaurant, was brought from police court yesterday for want of prosecution.

Sues to Recover Cost of House Furnishings—Joseph Hart has brought an action in the district court by which he seeks to recover $1,200 for house furnishings from John G. Roche, alleging that the latter took possession and refuses to pay.

Wants Divorce From Convict Husband—Frieda Young asks for a divorce from Arthur L. Young, claiming that he was sentenced to three years in the state prison, and that he is not on parole. She suggests that she be allowed alimony.

Old Johnson Held to Grand Jury—Ole Johnson, charged with passing a forged check on Norris Fink, an East Seventh street saloonkeeper, had a preliminary examination yesterday in court and was bound over to the grand jury.

Veteran Prohibitionist to Speak in Minneapolis—John P. St. John, ex-governor of Kansas and prohibition candidate for president in 1884, will open the prohibition state campaign at a meeting at Y. M. C. A. hall, Minneapolis, Tuesday evening, Sept. 27.

Sues to Recover Commissions—Henry C. Peterson has brought suit against L. L. May for $640, commissions he says are due him for traveling for Mr. May. Plaintiff asks that the defendant be required to come into court and make an accounting as to the exact amount due.

Accuses Husband of Drunkenness—Catherine Jungkunz wants the district court to give her a divorce from Albert Jungkunz, alleging habitual drunkenness, inhuman treatment and personal assaults. Plaintiff asks that she be given the custody of the two children and allowed one-third of the property owned by her husband.

SHATTERS HIS HAND

Photographer Hurt While Taking a Flashlight Picture

While taking a group picture in a house on West Third street last night, A. R. Bostwick, a photographer who resides at the Windsor hotel, Minneapolis, suffered an accident which may cause the loss of his right hand. He held a carbide flashlight tray in his hand and told his subjects to look pleasant. In an instant there was a deafening report and the tray was shattered and splattered with blood. The explosive had wrenched the tray and had lacerated Bostwick's hand so badly that it may have to be amputated. Bostwick was unable to account for the accident in any other way than that he suspected he had received gunpowder instead of carbide. The tray had been carefully loaded and the powder was properly set, so he said, and an explosion would not have occurred if the carbide had been genuine. Bostwick was attended by Dr. Doran, acting police surgeon, and was taken to the city hospital. The wound was carefully dressed, but as the flesh is torn and some of the bones are broken, blood poisoning may set in. Bostwick is twenty-six years old.

CLEAN POLITICS AT THE "U" THIS YEAR

Ballots Cast Correspond With Number Present at Junior Class Election

Corrupt politicians and politics are no more at the state university. When the ballots were counted at the election of officers of the junior class there were just 199 ballots cast and there were just 199 students present. It is the first time in history that charges and countercharges of ballot stuffing have not been flying around thick and fast after an election, but the defeated candidates say they were beaten fairly. The usual fight between the students of the academy and engineering colleges was on, and although each side had agreed to put up a clean contest, it was not expected that they would stand by their agreement to such an extent. After electing C. T. Christianson, academic, to the presidency by a vote of 105 to 95, the student body elected and allowed L. L. Clement, engineer, to be elected unanimously to the vice presidency. The other officers chosen were: Irene Radcliffe, secretary; H. C. Rawson, treasurer, and M. D. Toudil, sergeant at arms.

MAN WHO SLASHED POLICEMAN IS HELD

Oscar Benson, Assailant of Sergeant George Smith, Bound Over

Oscar Benson, arrested on a charge of cutting Sergeant George Smith with a knife on the night of Sept. 5, was bound over to the grand jury yesterday after a preliminary hearing before Judge Finehout. Sergeant Benson testified that Benson had been insulting people on Eighth street, near Jackson, and that when he ordered the man away he refused to move. Smith then placed him under arrest, and Benson resisted, and in the fight drew a knife with which he slashed the officer on the right wrist.

Recovers From Blow on the Head

Theodore Funk, arrested a week ago on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon, will have a hearing in the police court Friday on a charge of assault and battery. He is accused of striking with a club Edward Goeke, foreman of the Webb Publishing company's printing office. Goeke, who received a blow upon the head, was confined at St. Joseph's hospital several days, but has recovered.

House Boat Dweller Dies

Peter Nielson, who resided with his wife on a house boat moored near Willow island, in the Mississippi river, died yesterday morning at the city hospital. He was thirty-six years old.

KISSES CHILDREN AND DISAPPEARS

Mrs. Edward Lofstad Bids Them Good-by and Her Whereabouts Are Unknown

Kissing her son and daughter and telling them they would never see her again, Mrs. Edward Lofstad, 155 Valley street, left her home Tuesday night and has not been seen since. Her husband, alarmed at her strange disappearance, searched the city yesterday but was unable to find any trace of her. He appealed to the police last night, asking them to aid him in locating her. He said he had seen all the relatives or friends whom Mrs. Lofstad might have visited, but they had no news of the woman.

Mr. Lofstad said that late Tuesday night his wife kissed her son and daughter, declaring she would never be seen again. The children did not regard her words seriously until she was missed a few minutes later. It was then found that she had left the house and had taken her jacket and hat.

She was nowhere to be seen about the house, and inquiry among the neighbors failed to reveal any trace of her. She had not returned yesterday afternoon, and Mrs. Lofstad then set out to find her. He went to all places where he thought she might have been, and last night, discouraged, he asked the police to help him. He said he was at a loss to account for her behavior.

Mr. Lofstad gave the following description of his wife: She is forty-seven years old, is five feet four inches tall, has a dark complexion, and when she left home wore a brown dress, black jacket and black hat.

RAISE VALUATION OF OFFICE FURNITURE

Equalizers Increase Assessments on This Class From 10 to 200 Per Cent

The state board of equalization met yesterday at the capitol and discussed the assessment of office furniture, raising the assessments in nearly every county in the state from 10 to 200 per cent.

Ramsey, Becker, Kanabec, Mille Lacs, Mower, Olmsted and Sibley counties were raised 6-2-3 per cent, and Freeborn and Morrison counties were raised 100 per cent. Stevens county 138-1-3 per cent, Scott county 166-2-3 per cent, Sherburne county 200 per cent. There were no increases in thirty-seven counties and no decrease in any.

These increases in valuation make the assessment about 10 per cent higher than last year. The returns from the county boards showed a slight falling off in the valuations and for this reason the increases were made. No action has been taken in the matter of assessment of household goods and office furniture in Hennepin county, action having been delayed at the request of E. Cole, representative of that county, who stated that he wished to examine into the matter more closely before the board took final steps.

Members of the board intimated that they might reconsider the Ramsey county valuation on office furniture, $45,000, a considerable advance over last year's valuation of $1,000,000 on this class of goods in the state. The decrease in St. Paul is only $200,000.

Today the board will consider farm household goods. The total assessment on this class of goods in 1903 was $4,771,028, and the valuation returned for 1904 by the various counties amounts to only $4,325,642, a decrease of $445,386. The returns from many counties indicate that this class of goods has decreased in value, while others show an increase. The assessment will be equal that of last year at least, and may possibly be raised to exceed last year's valuation by about 10 per cent.

Fire Loss Was Overestimated

The loss sustained by the St. Paul Sash, Door and Lumber company in a fire which partially destroyed its plant on Rice street last Friday, has been adjusted and the amount estimated at $1,100,000, a decrease of $1,000,000 from the $2,100,000 originally announced that the total loss will not be more than $1,200,000. The loss on the building is placed at $5,000, on the contents at $100,000, and the machinery $2,700. The company carried $7,500 insurance.

Young Dorgan Arraigned

Thomas Dorgan, the boy who stabbed Kelly in the shoulder during a scuffle near a polling booth at South Wabasha street and Indiana avenue Tuesday night, was arraigned in the police court yesterday on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon, and his hearing set for Friday. He was released on $250 bail. Kelly, who is at the city hospital, was out of danger yesterday.

Attorney Sues Former Client

Ferdinand Barta has filed a suit in the district court asking that he be paid a verdict for $200 against Isaac Goldstein. Barta alleges that for nine years he acted as the attorney for Goldstein, rendering a great variety of services. During the period Barta says that he was paid but $90, and claims that his services were well worth $200 additional.

New Instructors at State School

The faculty of the state school of agriculture has been increased by the addition of two new instructors, W. L. Oswald, of Wisconsin, and Carl Mechenand, Ohio. The former will teach the department of botany and the latter the department of athletics.

STARS POLICEMAN AT UNION DEPOT

Stranger Cuts Patrolman Williams, Who Removed Him From N. P. Coach

Patrolman James P. Williams, stationed near the union depot, was stabbed twice in the neck yesterday afternoon at 3:40 o'clock while removing a disorderly man from a Northern Pacific train which had just arrived from the coast.

The man gave his name as John R. Davidson, and said he was on his way from Wallace, Idaho, to Hartford, Conn. He is now under arrest at the central station charged with assault with a dangerous weapon.

Davidson had been acting strangely on the train, and had insisted upon smoking in the day coach, threatening the brakeman with violence when he was ordered into the smoking car. When the train reached St. Paul he did not get off, and after the coach in which he had been traveling had been cleared, the porter informed him that the train had reached the end of the line. Davidson replied in a surly manner that he did not intend to get off at St. Paul, but was going through to Hartford, Conn. The porter attempted to explain to him that he would have to change cars at this point, but he refused to leave his seat, and he was removed to the depot.

Officer Bouse and Patrolman Williams were called from the depot and when they arrived they found the man with a bloody face. He explained that he was partly blind. They then asked him to get off, and finally prevailed upon him to go with them. He insisted upon going to the front of the car, where the door was locked.

While waiting for the conductor to have the door opened Davidson suddenly, without warning, made a lunge at Williams with a knife which had been concealed. Williams attempted to get the weapon from him, but Davidson got his arm behind the officer, inflicting two wounds above the left hip.

Officer Bouse, who stood in the aisle of the car behind Williams, then caught hold of Davidson and jerked his right arm loose and made a pass which Bouse narrowly escaped.

The policeman then overpowered Davidson and led him to the patrol box at Third and Sibley streets. A large crowd gathered about the car in which the encounter took place, and when the prisoner was led from the depot the throng became so dense that the street was nearly impassable.

HELD TO GRAND JURY

Harkins and Richardson, Alleged Bandits, Bound Over

Michael Harkins and David Richardson, accused of holding up H. Weingarth, proprietor of a hotel at 2149 University avenue, on the night of Sept. 6, were given a preliminary hearing in police court yesterday afternoon before Judge Finehout and were bound over to the grand jury.

Weingarth testified that as he was crossing a field near his home on the night of the holdup he was stopped by two men, who seized him by the neck and held him while one searched through his pockets. He was relieved of a revolver and $100 in gold which he had in his possession.

Harkins and Richardson, who were arrested the day after on suspicion, were examined. Harkins, who is employed by a St. Anthony Park furniture company, said he left Weingarth's hotel early in the evening and went to Minneapolis, where he visited a gambling house and won $35 with dice. He then returned to his room. Richardson, who is employed by the hotel of Weingarth, said that he was about the hotel during the night.

M. Towey testified that on the morning after the holdup Harkins and Richardson came to his place and left a revolver, which was afterwards identified as that taken from Weingarth. They also changed some gold pieces.

They said that they had found the revolver in the morning and said the money which was taken from Weingarth was in the trunk which he had won in Minneapolis the night before.

MANY SUITS AGAINST ST. LOUIS RAILROAD

Victims of One Accident Claim Damages Aggregating About $150,000

Three additional personal injury suits were yesterday filed against the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad company, based on the collision in the Minneapolis yards on the excursion train returning from Carver on June 12, the claims aggregating $25,200.

Helen A. Lindgren, who was injured internally, she alleges, asks for $15,000; Ethel A. Best, $10,000; and Gina M. Munson wants the same amount.

BRING SUITS AGAINST THE CITY FOR $11,000

Defective Sidewalk Alleged to Be Cause of Personal Injuries

Three suits asking for $11,000 damages for personal injuries were filed in the district court yesterday against the city.

Walter A. C. Tokenson says that he broke his leg Dec. 19, 1903, by falling on the icy sidewalk on the Seventh street side of the library building. He says he is permanently injured and asks for $5,500.

Emma Helmbrecht demands $2,000 for injuries received by a fall on an alleged defective sidewalk on Armstrong avenue, near Milton street, on Aug. 13, 1903. Mathias Helmbrecht, her husband, wants $500 to compensate him for the loss of her services.

DISCOVERS ST. PAUL SCHOOL WAS CUT OUT

School Learns Why Teachers' Training Institution Received No State Grant

Why the St. Paul teachers' training school didn't receive this year its usual grant of $500 from the state is something that the school board learned last night. The board's enough money to go round, wrote George E. Alton, of Minneapolis, state inspector of high schools, and "preference was shown," presumably by himself, "to the country high schools, because it was the evident intent of the law to encourage the preparations of teachers for the country schools."

This explanation didn't satisfy the board. If there wasn't enough money to give the usual allowance to every one of the dozen or more high and training schools entitled to the grant, why, asked President Holman, didn't Mr. Alton suggest that the proportionate allowance be reduced? And why did he cut off the St. Paul school of his own volition, apparently, instead of reporting the difficulty to State Superintendent Olsen?

Nobody could satisfy the president's curiosity. The problem was referred to himself and Inspector Lindahl for investigation.

"Our training school," said Supt. Smith after the session, "has been receiving an annual grant of $500 from the state for the last ten years. The appropriation made by the Legislature last year was $10,000 for all the schools last year, and I can't imagine why our school should be always the one to share merely to let some other school receive a full share. But the division of omission, rather, was not made by the state, but by the city of St. Paul. In a letter to Secretary Octave Savard, of the St. Paul Board, Supt. Olsen writes that he would have to refer the inquiry to Mr. Alton."

NIGHT SCHOOLS TO OPEN OCT. 17

Miss Anna M. Dickson Chosen to Succeed Miss B. Morgan at Central High

The opening of the night schools was ordered last night by the school board, to take place Oct. 17. The committee on schools was authorized to assign teachers and make other arrangements.

Miss Anna M. Dickson was appointed instructor in English at the Central high school in place of Miss Marie Morgan, who, because of ill health, has obtained a leave of absence for one year. Miss Dickson has temporarily filled Miss Morgan's place at the Central on several occasions.

The resignation of George Voelker, instructor at the Mechanic Arts high school, was accepted. He is going Oct. 1 to another city to take a post graduate course. Charles E. Smith, of the Mechanic Arts, was assigned to Mr. Voelker's place, and Joseph Pemberton was engaged to succeed Mr. Bohn.

Charles E. Smith, a graduate of the Mechanic Arts school, was appointed a teacher of manual training in the grade schools.

The committee on health and sanitation has decided to consider a letter from the state board of health, asking that a medical examination be made of the eyes of pupils in the St. Paul schools to prevent the possible spread of contagious ophthalmia.

Permission was granted to the Young Men's Christian association to use the building of the Central high school for the occasional instruction of classes in electrical engineering. The same privilege had been previously enjoyed by the same classes.

Mr. E. Mark and Mrs. C. E. Fittner personally addressed the board. They desired leave for public school teachers to accept magazine subscriptions in the interest of the Sunbeam band and owner of the magazine, said she would circulate the magazine for the betterment of the school children, and proposed to give the school a shrub with every subscription. The board praised the work accomplished by the band and its leaders but refused the leave asked. To grant it would be to violate a standing rule.

CAMP CARLETON WILL JOIN ST. PAUL'S PARADE

Members Offer to March in Khaki Uniforms on Semi-Centennial Day

At a meeting in their hall on Robert street last night the members of the Camp Carleton, Society of the Army of the Philippines, decided to volunteer their services to the committee in charge of the city's semi-centennial celebration. If their offer is accepted they will turn out in khaki uniforms in the parade.

The camp will meet twice each month instead of once. A social meeting will be held on the first Wednesday of each month, and a business meeting on the third Wednesday. F. E. Krembs, C. S. Colledge, H. N. Klime, C. W. Albrecht, Frank Jacobs, E. E. Daniels, F. Wittman and Andrew Ahlberg, who composed the committee from the camp which attended the national convention of the Society of the Army of the Philippines at St. Louis, are among the members.

Arrangements will be made with the ladies' auxiliary of the camp, which was recently organized, and during the coming winter the camp will march in the social life. A dance will be given early in November, followed later by others, and card parties and smokers will be held.

SURPRISING CASE IN CONNEMARA PATCH

Aged Woman Becomes House-keeper for Fritz the Hermit, and Likes the Position

There is always much to talk about down in the "Connemara Patch," along the borders of Phalen creek, in the ravine north of Third and Commercial streets. Surprising things happen nearly every day in this little Irish colony, where the houses alone would surprise the residents of more "hundred" neighborhoods—frame houses with sheet iron roofs, houses as blue as Monday morning, houses brilliantly adorned with such notable statements relative to tobacco that certain of the red and yellow letters extend boldly from the ground floor to the roof, and the entire phraseology behind which the family dwells quite obscures both windows and the door.

Yesterday the surprising thing at the Patch concerned Fritz the Hermit. Fritz the Hermit had taken a house-keeper!

The Hermit had lived alone in the Patch for ten years. He had never been to the Patch because, being a German, he didn't know anybody there, as he explained, and he didn't want to. He had visited none of his neighbors, he had permitted none to visit him.

Had Regard for Women. His regard for the ladies was so restricted that he had smoked his pipe indoors on the hottest summer evenings, and had never ventured to sit out by the creek and watch the ducks until all the women round about had gone to bed.

But when Secretary Hutchins, of the Relief society, learned the other day that Mrs. Eleanor Clark, aged eighty-four, was "starving to death" in a blue house at the Patch, he made inquiries, accidentally, of the Hermit. The Hermit didn't know her; he didn't know anybody, he was glad to say. But she was a good neighbor; she "never bothered him."

Mrs. Clark, herself, denied that she was starving. She never kept much food about the house in summer, she admitted. She hadn't eaten much lately because she didn't care to eat. No, she wasn't strong. When she felt stronger she would go and buy "a lot of food." She felt sure she could get money from her son. He had "a steady job on the railroad, and he was very well, the Lord be praised," but he hadn't been home for some weeks.

Half ironically Mr. Hutchins asked one Fritz if he would look after Mrs. Clark until her son could be summoned. The Hermit looked astonished. But after finishing half a pipe he said, "Why not? A good neighbor she was always."

Yesterday the son was found. He didn't know his mother needed help, he said. He would get anything she wanted.

THE HERMIT PROTESTS

But when this message was carried to the Hermit he protested. He would not let Mrs. Clark go back to her blue cabin. "God sent her, I guess," he said. "My house is a real house, and with a lawn and a garden. If she'll let me, I'll take care of her. Better ask her."

She has answered, "Well, I feel stronger here. I can cook sometimes. I think I'd like to stay."

Even the ducks seemed to quack astonishment yesterday afternoon when they beheld the Hermit smoking his pipe as he sat at his cabin door beside a woman.

"MEDICS" HOLD CANE RUSH AT UNIVERSITY

Freshmen Defeat Sophomores by 16 to 13 and 21 to 18

The underclassmen in the college of medicine and surgery at the state university held their annual cane rush in front of the medical building yesterday afternoon.

As the rush of the academics and engineers a week ago, the freshmen were victorious, although their victory was not as sweeping as in the former contest. There was hardly an underclassman in the college who did not participate, and as there are only two more freshmen than sophomores, it looked like an even thing at the start and there was no such score as 40 to 6 when hands were counted as in last week's fight. The "freshies" won out in the first and second rounds, the scores being 16 to 13 and 21 to 18.

QUARREL OVER A DOG

William Proetz, 972 East Third street, was in the police court yesterday on a charge of disorderly conduct, and a fine of $10 was levied. On Sunday, Sept. 4, he is charged with having had a quarrel with a neighbor, Charles Kartak, 960 East Third street. Neighbors testified that the trouble started over a dispute between Proetz and Kartak concerning a dog belonging to Proetz which chased Kartak's daughter.

FINED $15 FOR STEALING A PEACH

George Lyons, sixty-two years old, who was arrested at Seventh and Broadway streets Tuesday evening by Patrolman Galvin, was fined $15 in the police court yesterday. He was charged with taking a peach from a fruit stand, and becoming insolent when asked to replace it or pay for it.

HAS A GOOD EFFECT

Commercial Club Committee Reports Benefits of Fair

The effect of the state fair on industry and development in the Northwest as the subject of a report given out after the meeting of the board of directors of the Commercial club yesterday.

The report is that of a special committee of the club's city development committee and was submitted by E. A. Parada, G. S. Loftus, Charles Stees and F. G. Bradbury.

The report calls attention to the large and artistic display at the fair, its growing attractiveness, as a blooded stock mart, its influence toward accomplishing diversification of the crops throughout the Northwest, and the stimulus it exerts upon industrial activity.

The committee criticizes the manufacturers of the section for not making a better showing in the new manufacturing building erected this year. The report concludes:

If the Minnesota state fair can do for industry what it has already done for agriculture, and stock raising, the future greatness of Minnesota might well be the pride of any nation.

SUES STREET RAILWAY FOR $25,200 DAMAGES

Three of Four Personal Injury Actions Arise Out of Same Accident

Four personal injury suits were brought against the St. Paul City Railway company yesterday, the claims aggregating $25,200, of which $15,200 represents the amount desired by three persons who were victims of the same accident.

Mrs. Martha J. Patton sets up that while driving on South Smith avenue the construction car of the street railway company frightened the horse that she was driving, causing a runaway. The plea is that the men in charge of the car failed to stop it. Mrs. Patton was thrown to the street, breaking her collarbone and sustaining other injuries. She asks $10,200.

Katherine P. Sloane, who was in the buggy, asks for $3,000, and Maria P. Steele, minor, claims damages to the amount of $2,000.

Rudolph Fischer asks for $10,000 for injuries inflicted on him in a collision with a Stillwater car on East Seventh street. Fischer, while driving a street sweeper, claims that the car struck the sweeper and threw him to the pavement, breaking his left leg and otherwise injuring him.

Chief Examiner F. H. Higgins, on his way from San Francisco to Washington, D. C., stopped over in St. Paul yesterday and visited Secretary Maroney, of the Eighth civil service district, who has headquarters in this city. Civil Service Commissioner H. F. Green, of Duluth, who recently returned from Washington, was also a visitor. Both said that conditions here compared favorably with those of other districts.
