Work of Tabulating the Returns Will Be Begun Early This Morning

This morning the city canvassing board, composed of Ald. Merrill, Clark and Van Nest, Republicans, and Ald. Gerber and Duryea, Democrats, will begin the work of tabulating the returns of the votes cast at the election last week for city officers.

Extreme care will be taken in order that there shall be no error, for the Democrats are confident that a careful canvass of the vote will cause the apparent plurality of 200 or less which the adherents of David Percy Jones, the Republican candidate for mayor, claim, to fade away.

The question whether there will be a contest will be determined after the result of the canvass is announced. Mayor Hayes will not take any action until after the official report is made, and should it appear that he has been elected then the contest will have to be instituted by the Republican candidate.

Rising to Contest

O. G. Rosing, the Democratic candidate for alderman from the Third ward, who, according to the preliminary returns, was defeated by Ald. Claus Mumm, the Republican candidate, will contest should the result of the canvass justify him. It is expected the canvass will be completed today.

Will Call on Johnson

A large number of Minneapolis people are planning to take advantage of the opportunity to see Peter and to vote for the governor-elect by means of the G. L. O. B. S. special train, which leaves this afternoon.

Although Judge Andrew Holt, of the municipal court, can appoint Peter S. Neilson, clerk of the municipal court for a term of six years, Judge Van Bent can appoint Judge Holt's successor for a period of only two years—until the next general election.

Until four years ago the clerk of the municipal court served during the pleasure of the judge who appointed him, but at that time the law was amended so that he was appointed for a six-year term. No action was taken in the case of the judge.

Hennepin Seeks Plums

The Hennepin county delegation to the state legislature will meet some day this week for the purpose of organizing. Senator George P. Wilson, who holds over, has been chairman for several years, and will seek to hold the place, although there are others who aspire to the position.

It was Sherman S. Smith's active electioneering for alderman which has had received the certificate of nomination from the county auditor that caused some of the other aspirants to give up the ability to accept a nomination for the Fourth district questioned by the courts.

Mr. Smith may be the chairman, but there will be a fight.

The four Chinamen who were arrested in Minneapolis a short time ago on the charge of mistreating young girls will be placed on trial this week. They are engaged able legal talent and a strong fight to reach their acquittal will be made.

Immediately after their arrest, there were clamors for the appointment of a special policeman "whose duty it should be to look after young boys and girls found on the streets at night, and the employment of a woman who should act as a friendly visitor and call at the homes of the children who had been taken into the company.

There were several public meetings, and it was decided that the sum of $3,000 would cover the expenses for a year.

The agents have been selected, but the money is not forthcoming, and many persons, to raise the funds, have expressed the opinion that as the excitement has died out it will be difficult, if not impossible, to raise the funds. The agents have not gone to work and will not until their pay is guaranteed.

GREENLAND REPORTS ON ALASKA CABLE

Tells of Land Wires, Cables and Wireless Connecting Links

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 13.—Gen. A. W. Greely, chief of staff of the United States army, in his annual report gives an interesting account of the work performed by his corps in establishing an all-Arctic telegraphic system in Alaska, saying the undertaking is unique in the annals of telegraphic engineering. The cables used in the Alaskan system would reach from Newfoundland to Ireland and the land links from Washington to Texas, there being 2,075 miles of cable, 1,423 miles of land lines and 167 miles of wireless telegraph system. The United States has brought Southeastern Alaska, the Yukon valley and the Bering straits region into telegraphic communication with the rest of the civilized world.

Gen. Greely says that after thorough consideration he decided to install material of American manufacture to be operated by American soldiers and to be held by American ships, except some cable instruments and machinery. A selected force of about 400 men, well trained to today the signal corps of the army is competent to operate in war emergency a submarine cable of any length.

Log Cabin Stations

"Repairs in Alaska are maintained," the report says, "by parties stationed at log cabins about forty miles apart, one signal corps repair man with two assistants from the line of the army and a dog team being at each cabin. The men were taken to the log cabins by the signal corps, and the dog teams are used to transport the material to the log cabins, and with a fortitude characteristic of the American soldier."

The annual business of the Seattle-Sitka cable is estimated at $25,000, and during the year there has been sent 456,470 Alaska telegrams handled by the signal corps.

Philippines Connected

Speaking of the Philippines he says the sixteen most important islands of the archipelago are now connected by cable, which lines, he adds, are recognized as indispensable, both by the military and the civilian authorities. The signal corps has been collected and deposited in the island treasury of the Philippines telegraph line receipts to the amount of $7,675, there having been sent, including government messages, a total more than two million messages, the net expense being $325,961.

The report says it is a matter of the utmost importance that signaling apparatus of suitable character be installed along the Atlantic and Pacific coast to permit of inter-communication between any commercial telegraph system in the world.

The annual business of the Seattle-Sitka cable is estimated at $25,000, and during the year there has been sent 456,470 Alaska telegrams handled by the signal corps.
