EVERYTHING IS LOVELY
A CERTAIN TYPE OF WOMAN
THINKS SO

FASHIONS FROM VOGUE
Prepared Specially for THE GLOBE

She Purrs Constantly About the Beauty of the World and of People, and Thinks There is No Evil Anywhere Because She Does Not See It

There is a certain type of happy woman who is almost unbearable. Real happiness does not make a person idiotic, but the one herein referred to is the gushing, happy woman who thinks everything is perfectly lovely. She never has the blues, has not had a trouble in her life, does not know what suffering is and is altogether sweet. After an hour's talk with her you want to take a long drink of very sour lemonade.

This particular kind of happy woman lives in a fool's paradise which contains her entirely. As a rule, the more one knows the more one becomes discontented with one's self and the limitations which hamper human nature; but not so this happy woman. Nothing can cast her down or make her unhappy. A pink cloud throws her into a rapture; a well fitting gown makes her realize how good God is and she beams on everybody. She regrets that we cannot all be as happy as she is, but she is obliged to own to herself that everybody has not her wonderful disposition and ability to look at the bright side. She disparages criticism by her sweet simplicity. She does not talk, but purrs, and you feel like smoothing her fur as you would a cat. She never has any very deep affections, consequently is never put out or cast down; besides it would be wrong to be depressed in such a beautiful world where everything is just as it should be. Her indifference to sin and the evil of the world she calls charity and declares that she never sees anything bad. She has a poetic conviction that the world was made for her and does not think she ought to let anybody know how kindly Providence attends to every little wish of hers, forgetting that it is she herself who insists upon having what she wants. Everybody is good, and oh, so good to her! She will tell you how devoted her friends are to her and wonders why in the world it is so. And you wonder, too, that you keep it to yourself. She thinks as long as it is so easy for her to be good, it ought to be for others, although it is not part of her good to admit that she is wrong anywhere. "It is all a mistake," she will say charitably.

Charity is indeed her strong point. She evinces it in a thousand sweet ways until you seek the company of the unrighteous for a change. There is such a thing as being so good that you are unpleasant, and this shallow, happy woman is an instance of it. She affects literary taste and will rather intimate that it was only an accident that she did not write all the best books. She is almost certain to find poetry, and you have to be extremely careful lest she read it to you. It is certain to be about the beauty of the world, the charm of fresh air and the holiness of everything. She is absolutely unconscious of misery and will not identify herself with philanthropies because she does not care to come in contact with sordid things or know anything of evil. This is all very lovely, and she makes her friends feel their unworthiness. Indeed it is a liberal education to be with her, but you take a dislike to happiness on the spot. If anybody says anything about her she puts it down to jealousy, and everything continues to be lovely. It is impossible to hurt her feelings because she knows "you mean well, and you are so sweet!" The world is right, the people in it are perfect and there is nothing wrong anywhere. She knows, in course, that her lovely optimism furnishes a halo for the heads of her friends, but can she help it if she is so good?

An interesting burglar would be better company.

Woman Artist is Arrested
ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 28.—After trying to force her way into the residence of William H. Thompson, for the expressed purpose of painting the picture of President Roosevelt, Miss Maria Herndel, a glass painter from Munich, Germany, but claiming to occupy studio quarters at 51 Ida street, Milwaukee, was arrested Sunday night by detectives. She appeared to be about thirty-eight years old, was fairly well dressed and showed refinement. She walked up the steps, rang the bell and explained to the butler, after giving him her card, that she had writ-

The accompanying illustration shows one of the most becoming models seen for a long time. The material is fine cashmere of a pale burnt umber tone, and it is made with a full seven-gored skirt gathered at the top and finished at the bottom with three wide tucks. Over this in the back hangs an upper skirt or tunic of the cashmere that falls in graceful folds and forms a ruffle effect at the sides. It is edged with a narrow shaped ruffle of the material faced with taffeta of the same color and has the appearance of being the skirted portion of the dainty bodice. This latter is made with full shirred fronts opening over a straight vest of ivory point Venise lace and edged with a similar ruffle to that of the tunic. The back is plain with a few gathers at the waist, the wide belt is of burnt umber panne velvet and the sleeves consist of short puffs of the same material with tight point Venise lace undersleeves. The lines of this costume are very graceful and while more suited to a slight figure it is a model that would be becoming to almost any woman. It also possesses many points that make it suitable for costumes of various kinds, for instance, if made of velvet with the ruffle on bodice and tunic edge with fur, the vest made of brocade or cloth of gold and the sleeves lengthened into long sleeves finished with broadened cuffs or fur edge ruffles, it would make a most striking and charming visiting gown. Belts now play such an important part in dress that any novelty in this line is sure to be welcomed with favor. For dressy wear either in the day or evening wide girdles are the smartest, but with shirt waists, blouses and walking suits the narrower belt is most used. Among the newest of these are those of leather cut much broader in the back than in front and ornamented with buttons in numerous unique ways. One effective belt is joined at the back by diagonal straps that cross one another and are caught by gilt buttons of graduated sizes, those at the top being about as large as a 10-cent piece and at the bottom the size of a quarter.

ten to the president a week ago that she intended to call upon him during his St. Louis visit and paint his picture on glass. Detective Nichols, a secret service man, seized and led her down the steps. They sought to persuade her to return to her stopping place, but no amount of persuasion would pacify the woman, and she was finally arrested and locked up.

Miss Herndel was released at the police station, after having been questioned and satisfying the authorities that she meant no harm to the president. Tonight she stated that she has a painting of George Washington on display in the varied industries exhibition, and was very anxious that it be viewed by President Roosevelt. When he failed to see it Saturday she decided to call on him Sunday and endeavor to persuade him to see the picture. If her efforts in this respect caused her to get into difficulty.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 28.—Miss Herndel has an excellent reputation in Milwaukee. She had painted a picture for exhibition at the world's fair. Before leaving for St. Louis on her last trip she expressed a desire to well known citizens through one of the pictures of President Roosevelt for the White house, or to be hung in one of the other government buildings at Washington. She was directed to seek an audience through one of the Wisconsin senators or congressmen.

W. C. T. U. Assembles
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 28.—A majority of the delegates to the annual meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance U. S. U., which opens here tomorrow, are already in the city. Mrs. L. M. N. Stevens, the president, and Miss Anna M. Gordon of Evanston, Ill., the vice president, arrived at a large number of first to arrive, and they have been busy with the other general officers in going over the details of the convention. A meeting of the executive committee was held today at which final arrangements were made for the work of the convention. Purty meetings are to be a feature of the convention. One will be held each day while the union is in session.

Nannie Leiter Will Marry
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 28.—A license was issued today for the marriage of Miss Nannie Leiter, daughter of the late Levi Z. Leiter, and sister to Lady Curzon, to Maj. Collin Campbell, of the English army. The wedding will take place at the home of Mrs. Leiter, on Dupont circle. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. Roland Caton Smith, rector of St. John's Episcopal church.

GOSSIP FROM GOTHAM
Forty cents a pound for Thanksgiving turkeys, outrageously high as the price seemed to most housewives, pales to insignificance beside the rate paid by Mrs. Herbert Satterlee for the tiny gobblers on her table Thursday. It was estimated by wise men familiar with monetary matters that the market value of Mrs. Satterlee's turkeys was nearer $500 a pound. True, none of them weighed a pound, nor anything like it, but each was of solid gold and a much more welcome souvenir than the finest bird grown for President Roosevelt possibly could be. Mrs. Satterlee, having been born a Morgan, can indulge any little fancy of the sort without a second thought. She took the notion to have at the place of every guest a golden gobbler about three inches high as a Thanksgiving remembrance, and all she had to do was to give her order is at work on a tiny portrait of Mrs. W. Rhinelandt Stewart, and has been asked to paint those of Mrs. Astor, Mrs. Golet and Mrs. Gould. The viscountess will travel to Cincinnati in the Zimmerman car, and is slated to continue the trip to Chicago to paint Mrs. F. Palmer—the Chicago widow's likeness; Mrs. Palmer herself is not in need of paint.

Juror is Trapped
NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Leo Cohen, a juror in the O'Donnell will case, and being heard in the special term of the supreme court before Justice Betts, was arrested today charged with offering to "fix" the jury for a monetary consideration of $1,000.

Herbert L. Kamber, twenty-three years of age, who is alleged to have conducted the negotiations, was arrested at the same time on a similar charge. On Nov. 14 three sons of the late Neal O'Donnell and other relatives joined issue in the supreme court for the possession of the estate of Neal O'Donnell and his brother Hugh, both of whom lived to be octogenarians, and who amassed a fortune estimated at more than $1,000,000 in the coöperage business under the firm name of H. & N. O'Donnell Coöperage company. The aged brothers made mutual wills and Hugh's death preceded Neal's by about two weeks. Small bequests were made to some of the relatives, but by their wills each had agreed to distribute the entire estate among certain charitable and religious institutions. The contestants declare that Neal was not competent to make a will at the time his will was signed.

Last week, according to a statement made by Assistant District Attorney Gans, Kamber told an attorney for one of the contestants, while the trial was on, that the jury could be "fixed." The district attorney was notified and negotiations were conducted under his supervision. A conference was arranged to which, it is alleged, Kamber brought Cohen, who said that he was sure that others of the jury could be brought to his way of thinking and that the job could be done for $1,000, out of which he would settle with Kamber. Another meeting with representatives of the district attorney was agreed upon for today, and when Cohen and Kamber appeared they were arrested.

Women in Pulpits
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28.—Delegates to the national convention of the Women's Christian Temperance union, which will be held this week, occupied many pulpits in the churches in the city yesterday. A mass meeting was held in Olivet Presbyterian church tonight under the auspices of the Young Women's Christian Temperance union. Everything is in readiness for the convention which will open Tuesday in Grace Baptist temple, and many of the five hundred delegates expected are already in the city. The national executive board and the various committees have been holding session here to arrange for the work of the meeting. Among the matters to be taken up are several proposed amendments to the constitution, as well as a suggested amendment to the constitution of the United States dealing with polygamy. The question of a canteen question will also be considered.

Use Worn-out Cannon
FIDYATUN, six miles east of Shakhe, Nov. 28.—Since Nov. 23 there have been light engagements day and night in the Russian lines. The Japanese began firing on Noigorod hill, using old-style castron shells, with copper bands. Scratches on these shells, Russian artillerymen say, indicate that they were fired from worn-out guns. It is evident that the Japanese are exerting every effort to increase the number of guns and in view of their lack of quick-firing artillery they are bringing up guns of old construction. This is confirmed by statements made by Chinese that large numbers of worn-out cannon are being used.

Nov. 24 an artillery duel took place. The Japanese bombarded Poutloff hill, the Russians replying, but not vigorously.

Nov. 25 an interesting incident occurred near the village of Nangai. For several days a figure had been observed in a shirt and trousers, a Russian uniform, and it was supposed, wounded, but each attempt at rescue was met with a murderous fire, making approach impossible. At last six men succeeded in reaching the place and found a decomposing corpse, which they were able to face of a furious fire to drag fifty feet. Next day the corpse was found to be that of a man who had been killed six weeks ago.

Japanese prisoners create amusement. They do not know what country St. Petersburg is in, and when they are jokingly offered their release they refuse to accept it and beg to be allowed to remain in captivity. They are well, but lightly dressed.

Chaff One Another
MUKDEN, Nov. 28.—At Linshupu, of which the northern half is in Russian hands and the southern is held by Japanese, the trenches are 20 paces apart and it is possible in the silence of the night to distinguish the voices of the Japanese. Sometimes men on one side are talking to those on the other, and it is possible in the silence of the night to distinguish the voices of the Japanese. Sometimes men on one side are talking to those on the other, and it is possible in the silence of the night to distinguish the voices of the Japanese.

Strikers Find Places
YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Nov. 28.—Vice President Fitzgerald, of the Amalgamated Association, said today that he soon expected to see the strikers in Youngstown. He said that he had seen a number of the strikers in this city and Grand. Many strikers have already left the city, and many are being made every day for men from other cities. A number of men have gone to Wheeling, W. Va., and many to New York. Barely a day passes, said Mr. Fitzgerald, without request for men being received.

TRUST PLANS ROAD

Steel Corporation to Have Line of Its Own

Special to The Globe
PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 28.—The United States Steel corporation is to have its own railroad, according to statements made here today, despite denials from the steel trust people. The trust has made arrangements for entering the field at Newcastle and at other points in Shenango Valley, one of the biggest iron and steel districts.

The Pittsburgh, Bessemer & Lake Erie road, which was built by Carnegie to show railroads which had been squeezing him how he got his ore from the lakes by a line of his own, is being used as a starting point from which, it is said, the trust intends to work west to Chicago and east to the seaboard. There has already been surveyed a thirty mile line from Queen Junction, on the Bessemer line, to Newcastle. It has caused consternation among the Baltimore & Ohio people here, as well as among the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh owners. Once it gets the heavy Shenango Valley tonnage out of the hands of unfriendly railroads the steel trust can either dictate its own terms or build its own line.

ARCHBISHOP FARLEY CALLS FOR FUNDS

Prelate Asks for Financial Support for Catholic University

Special to The Globe
NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The Catholic congregations at masses in all the churches of New York diocese were made acquainted yesterday with the contents of a letter, addressed by Archbishop Farley, urgently calling for funds for the support of the Catholic University of America. The letter comes soon after the renunciation of Catholic faith by Marquise Des Monstiers, who, as Mary Gwendolyn Bird Caldwell, gave $300,000 for the founding of the Washington institution. The impression in some quarters is that the withdrawal of the gift is in contemplation. Archbishop Farley's letter says: "The Catholic university must be sustained at all cost and every sacrifice."

Fund for Religion
NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The givers of the $240,000 to the Union Theological seminary, following an announcement of its attitude toward the Westminster confession of faith, are Morris K. Jesup and the widow of William Earl Dodge. Mrs. Dodge has pledged $150,000 for the establishment of a chair for applied Christianity, while Mr. Jesup, who is a director of the seminary, has given a like sum for the establishment of a professorship of preaching.

At the same meeting at which the amendment relating to the Westminster confession was adopted, another amendment, it is said, was proposed providing that candidates for the faculty or directorate of the seminary shall be members of an evangelical church. This amendment was not taken up at the meeting, which will not take place probably until February.

Dr. James M. Ludlow, of Orange, N. J., a director in the seminary, today denied that the seminary had discarded the Westminster confession of faith in any particular. The seminary, he said, had simply provided for greater flexibility in the matter of teaching. The Rev. Dr. Thomas S. Hastings, professor of pastoral theology and ex-president of the seminary, agreed strongly with the declaration said to have been made by the Rev. Dr. David Schley, professor of church history at the Western theological seminary, Allegheny, Pa., that the Union Theological seminary has substituted the confession of faith of its own. Dr. Hastings said that the removal of the Westminster confession from the seminary was a concession to the faculty thought less of the confession.

Shot in Fight With Bandits
DANVILLE, Ill., Nov. 28.—Frank Holycross, a bandit, was fatally shot today in a desperate fight with three local men. The men were heard planning to stop a train, and while a traveling man to notify the police, they entered the restaurant and the fight with Holycross followed. The bandit knocked down two of the men and the third shot him. A dozen shots were fired. The shooting attracted a crowd of men who shot Holycross held the men at bay while his companions loaded their revolvers. The three desperadoes ran north and succeeded in escaping.

Murdered Woman's Body Found
SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 28.—The body of Mrs. Mary Warner, aged forty, wife of Jacob Warner, a laborer, and the mother of one child, was found today in a clump of bushes on a vacant lot two blocks from her home. Her skull was fractured and the body was badly bruised. Holycross held the men at bay while his companions loaded their revolvers. The three desperadoes ran north and succeeded in escaping.

Lifts Ban on American Bibles
CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 28.—The ports have issued orders to the authorities at Trebizond to cease interference with the sale of American bibles and to restore those that have been seized.
