

NEWS OF THE CITY

SAYS "UP" HAS COST LESS THAN CAPITOL

Alumnus Startles the Regents by Comparison of State Expenditure

At a meeting of the university regents C. J. Rockwood, an alumnus of the university, startled the board with a statement to the effect that the total cost of new buildings and the cost of maintenance since the beginning, paid by the state, less the fees received from students, was $500,000 less than the state has expended in its new state capitol at St. Paul.

The statement caused something of a sensation at the meeting of the regents, but its accuracy is disputed by those who should know.

"I know nothing about the sources of Mr. Rockwood's figures," said chairman J. F. Jacobson of the state board of control yesterday, "but I am inclined to doubt the accuracy of his statement."

"This statement is true," said C. S. Gould, of the board of control, "it is news to me. The annual cost of maintenance of the university is close to $500,000. At this rate, nine years of maintenance of the university would pay the $4,500,000 that the new capitol cost. This does not provide, in the figuring, for the costly group of buildings that fringe the campus at the university, nor for the forty years of its existence."

Mr. Rockwood's statement was made at a conference of alumni of the university with the board of regents, at which the alumni proposed a plan for creating a campus for the university, entirely free from buildings. The plan suggested by the graduates of the university contemplated removing the old mechanic arts building and the engine house at its rear farther back towards the river and locating the main building to be built next summer on the site. The mechanic arts building is old and the advocates of the plan say that the removal of the engine house to a point nearer the railroad tracks would eventually pay for itself in the saving in the cost of transferring fuel. Located on the railroad tracks, the item of hauling the coal would be saved.

The same general plan suggests the grouping of the medical buildings on the river banks, and the creation of a natural park close to the river. The estimated cost of moving the buildings and buying the land is $150,000.

If the campus is to be free from buildings, the physics building, which was originally located on its present site because it was said that a site nearer the railroad tracks affected the delicate electrical apparatus in the building, will have to be removed. The site now under consideration for the main building to replace the historic structure destroyed in October, is on the campus near its University avenue side, but there is objection by the alumni to locating it on the campus.

Scheme Not Practical
"While the alumni made a very strong showing," said Elmer E. Adams, an alumnus of the university, who is a member of the board of regents, "and their plan has the merit that it would preserve the symmetry and beauty of the university grounds, to put it into operation would cost an immense amount of money. I do not believe that it is practical now, and hence it will never be practical, for the new buildings must be erected as soon as possible. The plan is much like Cass Gilbert's scheme of state capitol approaches. It doubtless combines many artistic considerations, but it is scarcely practical. The proposition was therefore laid on the table.

Among the alumni present were: Mayor-elect D. Percy Jones, of Minneapolis; P. B. Stearns, W. P. Webster, C. J. Rockwood and William Carroll.

Delivery Boy Steals Money
Joseph Nadeau, sixteen years old, was placed under the care of the probation officer Judge P. W. Webster, who found him guilty of stealing $18 from the Emporium. Nadeau had been employed as a delivery boy, and was charged with holding out money he had collected on C. O. D. packages.

WIFE SAYS HUSBAND DOESN'T SUPPORT HER

Latter Admits He Struck Her Because She Took Kettle Off Stove

Thomas O'Donnell, 912 Hudson avenue, was arrested yesterday on a charge of non-support preferred by his wife, who said he neglected to provide for her and seven children and that she was forced to go out washing. Mrs. O'Donnell caused her husband's arrest because, she says, he struck her. She first applied to the prosecutor for a warrant on a charge of assault, but she changed her mind and made the charge non-support. O'Donnell declared in court that he had been because she took a tea kettle off the stove.

NEW INCORPORATIONS

Frank A. Day, publisher of the Fairmont Sentinel, has incorporated a new company to publish his paper at Fairmont. The new company is known as the Sentinel Publishing company, and is capitalized at $20,000. Mr. Day is president and Arthur M. Nelson secretary-treasurer of the company. The selection of Mr. Day as private secretary to the governor for the next two years and his enforced absence from his home city, impelled him to organize a company to take over his business. He is the largest stockholder in the enterprise.

Articles of incorporation of the O'Brien Mercantile company, of Brainerd, were filed yesterday with the secretary of state. The company has a capital stock of $100,000, and will do a wholesale and retail grocery business. Con O'Brien, James W. O'Brien, and Bertin H. O'Brien are the incorporators.

A MATTER OF HEALTH

ANTONIO BERDINI MEETS DEATH WHILE AT WORK IN AN EXCAVATION

Just as a crew of eight laborers were leaving their work in an excavation at the foot of Jackson street yesterday evening at 5 o'clock, an embankment of earth thirty-five feet high caved and fell where they had been shoveling, killing one man and injuring another.

The men were digging at the base of the embankment and stopped as the whistle blew at 5 o'clock. They were climbing out of a hole about five feet wide, four deep and fifteen long, when the earth above them started to crumble. The men heard it crack and their foremen warned them to hurry. Six of the men were out of the hole when with a crash a layer of frozen earth fell.

One Man Instantly Killed
Antonio Berdini, thirty years old, was caught under a large cake of congealed sand and he was instantly crushed to death. Beside him Antonio Frasconi, forty-two years old, was buried by another heap of frozen earth and was seriously injured.

The fellow laborers of the men who had been buried instantly turned about and with the shovels they had been using worked to remove the earth and frozen cakes that had fallen. Frasconi was found first and he was carried to the engine shed. Berdini was recovered immediately after his companion, but he was dead.

The police ambulance was summoned and Frasconi was hurried to the city hospital. It was said there last night that, though he is seriously injured, he will recover. Frasconi resides at 25 Phalen creek. He has a family in Italy.

Coroner Miller viewed the body of Berdini and ordered it removed to the county morgue. Berdini resided with his brother-in-law at 139 West Third street. He was also married, and had a family in Italy.

The men were working for Newman & Hoy, which firm is making an excavation at the foot of Jackson street for a building to be erected for Farwell, Ozmun, Kirk & Co. The crew had been working under the embankment all day, but it was thought that as the ground was frozen there was no danger of it caving in. At a point a short distance from where the men were working, however, the embankment had been braced with timbers. Coroner Miller is making an investigation.

DEPUTIES PROBE LOSS OF COUNTY'S FUNDS

Examiner Sends Two Men to St. Cloud to Check Books

Public Examiner S. T. Johnson has sent C. E. Johnson, a deputy in his office, to St. Cloud to assist a deputy already on the ground in making a thorough check of the books of the county treasurer. A county deputy has confessed to a defalcation in the office, and the check will be for the past four years that he exacted an amount of the shortage may be determined. The county has already been reimbursed by the county treasurer. The deputy is said to be ready to make restitution for the amount he is short, estimated at $3,000.

JURY TURNS IN A SEALED VERDICT

Findings in Action to Recover $400 for Care of Stallion Submitted

A sealed verdict was returned at 8:30 last night by a jury that had tried during the afternoon, before Judge Kelly, in the district court, the case of Richard Rostomy against McLaughlin Bros. of St. Paul. In his complaint filed first in Jackson county, whence the case was removed, Rostomy asserted that the defendants owed him $400 for the care of a blooded stallion. McLaughlin Bros. denied the contract. It was negotiated, as Rostomy said, with the firm's agent. The verdict will be opened by Judge Kelly this morning.

AN ANTI-CLAPP FORCE

Defeat of Senator Their Aim, No Matter by Whom

The Gillilan managers concede to Senator Moses E. Clapp but sixty-three votes on joint ballot, where eighty-one votes will be required to declare a choice of the Republican joint caucus. The Clapp managers insist that they have more than enough votes to nominate Senator Clapp.

Taking both claims for what they are worth, the important point before the anti-Clapp managers is to organize the opposition against him. The elements in the Republican party opposed to the re-election of Senator Clapp are working overtime to perfect this organization. In the past few days the labor has made development of members to secure declarations of fealty for J. B. Gillilan, Joel P. Heatwole, S. R. Van Sant or any other man who can be induced to enter the contest as a candidate, has been entirely secondary to the more important problem of solidifying the opposition to Clapp as a party in the legislature.

The men who have been buttonholing senators and house members at the Merchants hotel, where both Clapp and Gillilan have headquarters, have apparently been doing all the work for their candidates, but the real task, the one that is said to be giving the heads of the opposition to Clapp the most trouble, is the one by which it is hoped to organize the opposition to Clapp.

Need of Alliance

By such an organization the men who are opposed to Clapp's return hope to defeat him in the senatorial caucus. Without an offensive and defensive alliance they cannot hope to carry a caucus and secure a joint caucus. Clapp has at present all the best of it, and unless, by a working agreement between the heads of the different factions opposed to him, it can be shown in the caucus that there is a probability of preventing his re-nomination in the caucus, the members will refuse to themselves to a losing cause.

So far as can be learned by disinterested observation, the avowed adherents of Mr. Gillilan are practically confined to the Hennepin county senatorial house delegation. There are not to exceed two or three, at the most, members who are openly for Van Sant. Heatwole's following is essentially anti-Clapp. It may be counted on to go where he wishes. Clapp is defeated, when it will be for Heatwole. Opponents of Clapp yesterday did not hesitate to say that unless they were able to secure a joint agreement on the part of Gillilan, Van Sant and Heatwole, the fight on Clapp would be futile.

Gillilan followers yesterday, without giving the sources of their satisfaction, continued to claim that Clapp was twenty votes short of enough to nominate him in the joint caucus. "The truth is that Senator Clapp has but sixty-three votes pledged to him and on whom he can depend to stay with him until it is reasonably certain that he is defeated," one of the anti-Clapp managers said yesterday. "This talk that Clapp has enough votes to nominate him is founded on the assumption that every member who has said he is 'friendly' to Clapp will vote for him in the caucus."

Block Stamped

Senator Clapp's managers were not permitting the Gillilan workers to stampede their votes. "Clapp has more than enough votes to nominate him," one of his closest friends said. "We have written pledges from the great majority of them, and others have declared their purpose to vote for Senator Clapp in newspaper statements over their own signatures, and in interviews and on the stump during the campaign."

"I do not look to see the fight against Clapp materialize into anything serious," Senator Samuel Paul, of Kasson, said last night. "The talk it looks to me, is mostly in the newspapers, and there is but little foundation for the anti-Clapp sentiment that some of the newspapers are evidently trying to create."

Van Sant was about town during a part of the day and was said to have his ear close to the ground. Some of the closest friends of Van Sant were likely at any time to give his followers a quiet pointer that he is "in the hands of his friends."

MARKET IS HONORED

Maccabees Entertain Grand Commander at Banquet

D. F. Markey, Port Huron, Mich., grand commander of the Knights of the Maccabees, was the guest of honor at a banquet given last night at the Windsor hotel, at which over 200 Knights and Ladies of the Maccabees were present. Mr. Markey is making a tour of the Northwest tents of his order, and to properly greet him the various St. Paul organizations of the order combined to give him a complimentary banquet. Following the banquet during which a string orchestra played, Dr. E. H. Haas, chairman of the general committee, introduced Judge Edwin A. Jaggard, who presided as toastmaster. Short addresses on fraternalism, and its benefits to civilization, were made by Gov. S. R. Van Sant and Frank M. Nyke of Minneapolis, and Mr. Markey spoke of the sentiment, "The Red, White and Black," the colors of the order. Vocal numbers were given by Oscar Anderson, Miss Ethel Evelyn Chelewa and Miss Georgia Sherman. The musical numbers were given under direction of Mrs. Norman Nash McFarlan.

FLAGMAN KILLED BY RAILWAY TRAIN

New at the Post, He Becomes Confused and Is Run Down

Martin Malone, a flagman employed by the Great Northern road and living at 113 Nineteenth avenue south, was run down and killed about 6:30 last night at the east end of the Tenth avenue bridge. He had been employed by the company for a number of years, but only recently was transferred to his new post. It is believed he became confused by the number of trains and in attempting to avoid one stepped on the tracks and was struck by the engine of another train. He sustained a fractured skull and a broken arm and died before he reached the city hospital.

THE PREVALENCE OF BRIGHT'S DISEASE

"Dr. Loomis states from clinical observations and from a large number of autopsies at Bellevue Hospital, that 90 per cent of men and women over 40 suffer from some form of Bright's Disease."—Denver medical Times.

This profoundly serious statement, from one of the highest authorities in the United States, means that the average person's kidneys do not work right, that what is commonly called Kidney Trouble is Bright's Disease, and is more common than people have any idea of.

And the census bears out Loomis' distressing conclusions; for it shows that the deaths from Bright's Disease are simply appalling, increasing from 22,320 in 1890 to 58,748 in 1900.

The admission that "Kidney trouble" is a common salutation. Mild at first, the patient is seldom frightened till it has thoroughly fastened. The realization that it is Bright's Disease comes slowly, as the later symptoms develop, and the usual treatment being futile, death results.

Fulton's Renal Compound is the only cure known for Bright's Disease. You owe it to yourself, and to your family to not let that apparently mild Kidney trouble run a day longer without attacking it.

F. A. Munch, Summit avenue and Rice street, is the local agent.

The suspicious symptoms are—weakness or loss of weight; puffy ankles or hands; Kidney trouble that has lasted longer than three months; urine may show sediment; falling vision; drowsiness. One or more of these.

FROSTED WHEAT BEFORE THE COURT

Importers Say It Should Be Classed as Feed and Farmers Object

General Appraiser Howell, of New York, heard the testimony in the frosted wheat case in Minneapolis yesterday. The argument made by W. P. Devereaux, who imported a quantity of this wheat, was that it should be classed as feed and not as milling wheat, which pays a duty of 25 cents a bushel. The opponents asserted that such wheat would germinate, and therefore should pay the regular duty.

R. C. Sanford, of Kelso, N. D., said frosted wheat would germinate and flour could be made from it. R. Dalrymple, of Traill county, said he had flour manufactured from frosted wheat and he, too, asserted this wheat would germinate.

N. C. Stevens, grain expert for the Pillsbury-Washburn company, said his sample presented in evidence would not make flour fit for human use. The case will be continued at Fargo today.

SENATE WILL CAUCUS

Little Trouble Expected in Parceling Out Jobs

While no formal call has been issued for a caucus, it is expected that the Republican members of the state senate will meet in caucus at the senate chamber in the new state capitol Monday evening, Jan. 2, to agree on the elective positions at the disposal of the senate.

A number of the senators were in St. Paul yesterday, and it was agreed that the time-honored custom should be followed for the session of 1905 and a caucus held the night before the formal opening of the session.

There has been comparatively little contest for the elective and appointive places in the senate, as compared with the caucus held in 1903. The preliminary organization of the house. The reason for this is found in the fact that word went out even before the election that all, or nearly all, of the officers of the senate of 1903 would be given their old places. There may be a few minor changes, but they will be in comparatively unimportant places.

Among the out-townd senators in St. Paul yesterday were Senators William Lord, of Kasson; Daniel Shell, of Worthington; E. B. Wood, of Long Prairie; E. T. Hawkins, of Duluth, and E. K. Roverud, of Caledonia. S. A. Langum, of Preston, who has been secretary of the senate for several consecutive terms, is also in the city.

EARLY WEDDED WIFE IS GRANTED DIVORCE

Mrs. Delano Granted Separation on Grounds of Desertion

A divorce was granted yesterday in the district court to Henrietta Hortense Marie Delano from Edwin Francis Delano. She is forty-five years old and her husband is fifty-three. He is living, she says, in San Francisco.

Mrs. Delano, whose maiden name was Bacon, was married at Fitchburg, Mass., in December, 1874. She has a daughter twenty-nine years old, born when her mother was sixteen years of age.

Judge Bunn found that the husband deserted his wife in April, 1903.

NINE ARE INITIATED

Junior Pioneers Take in New Members

The Junior Pioneers submitted a pleasing entertainment last evening in honor of the nine candidates who were initiated, the feature of the evening being a "bottle royal."

Four young negroes were fitted with boxing gloves, placed in the center of the room and battled for four rounds. A feature of the game that added zest was that the fighters could hit whenever and whomever they saw fit. It was a rough-and-tumble mix.

The numbers were given by the Laurel Mandolin club, Fred Rathbone, J. R. Lineau and Peter Simons, the latter making an address on "Junior Pioneers." Mr. Simons predicted the continued popularity of the order.

The new members initiated were: W. S. Bateson, Thomas Hindall, Frank X. Le Claire, Mark Bischoff, H. A. Young, James E. Westcott, O. H. Best, John Zimmerman and Joseph Bucher. It was decided to hold the annual entertainment of the order in the Grand Opera house on Tuesday, Jan. 24, admission being confined to Juniors and members of their families.

RODING IN THE DARK

Says He Knows Nothing of Prospective Appointments

L. A. Roding, who was chairman of the Democratic state executive committee in the last campaign and who is slated to succeed J. F. Jacobson as a member of the state board of control April 1, was in St. Paul yesterday. Mr. Roding insists that he has no knowledge of any of the remaining appointments to be made by Governor-elect Johnson.

"I have not seen Gov. Johnson but once since the reception given to him by his home people immediately after the election," Mr. Roding said yesterday. "I have not been one of those who have been making pilgrimages to St. Peter, and do not have the slightest inkling of what the governor intends to do in any one case. I understand that he is giving close attention to the endorsements of the various candidates for the different appointments, and will decide as seems to him best. It is a delicate task, at best, and he has the sympathy of every loyal friend in the undertaking."

Mr. Roding plans to give his entire time to the duties of the board of control, and says he is already out of politics. He will retain his business interest in John William Young, of Chicago, Mr. Fogg is an official of the Chicago Terminal railway.

CLEVE VAN DYKE TO ACCEPT APPOINTMENT

Alexandria Man, While Not Anxious for Position, Will Take It

"If my personal inclinations were to guide me I do not know that I would accept the position of executive clerk to the governor," said Cleve W. Van Dyke, of Alexandria, who was in St. Paul yesterday. "But I understand that for certain reasons it is desired that I should accept the offer of the position in the governor's office, and I now believe that I will be one of Gov. Johnson's official family after the beginning of the new year."

A report in circulation last week said that Mr. Van Dyke would decline the appointment.

The wedding took place at the Central Park M. E. church in the presence of many guests. The services were read by the bride's father. She was attended by her six nieces, of whom Miss Helen Little was maid of honor; Dorothy Marshall, Tarbox, organist of the People's church, and Bessie McGraw, of Chicago, Florence Marshall and Gladys Little were the bridesmaids. The groom was attended by Edwin Woods, of Chicago. The ushers were Paul and Earl Marshall, of Minneapolis; Frederick Miller and Harry Dzie. The bride wore a rennaissance lace gown and carried lilies of the valley. E. E. Tarbox, organist of the People's church, played the "Lohengrin" and Mendelssohn marches.

A wedding reception was given after the ceremony at the home of the bride's brother, Edward A. Marshall, 733 Grand avenue. Two score guests were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Fogg went to Chicago, where they will live.
