MICHIGAN ALUMNI TO HELP COACH YOST

Effort to Be Made to Secure Services of Former Players

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Dec. 18.—In addition to Coach Yost, the University of Michigan football eleven will have a supplementary system of graduate coaching next fall, and the athletic manager, Charles Baird, and Yost himself say that at least one or two ex-Michigan men are in view already.

This slight modification in Michigan's coaching system was suggested by the recent Eastern trip of Fitzpatrick, Yost and Baird. The idea originated partly in wanting the work of Yale line men in the Yale-Harvard game. Of this work Trainer Fitzpatrick said: "Although as a team the Yale line was probably not any stronger than ours, yet as individuals they had a higher average of finish in their play than Michigan. They knew more points of the game, especially on defense. Though I think we had one or two line men better than Yale's, yet the individual attention which was given to each man by an individual coach showed to great advantage."

Plan Is Favored The plan at Michigan is to have a couple of supplementary coaches, men who have been trained on former Michigan teams in Yost's style of play to do this individual work with the men. One serious difficulty has been encountered. It is that Michigan's alumni are not available. Manager Baird himself says that the alumni he wants most are men of graduate means who cannot spare the time even to return during the few days preceding a big game. The possible value of some of these ex-players is so great that they are worth the effort necessary to secure them. This fall there were ten Michigan players from Yost's eleven coaching various teams in the South and West. Of these three won the championship of their states, yet no individual championship of his section of the country.

Joe Maddock, at Utah, with a light eleven, won the state championship; Herstein, with the Haskell Indians, won the Missouri valley championship; and Michigan at Vanderbilt won out of an eleven which was never one held to less than thirty points and which laid claim to the Southern championship. Besides these men, Grayer at Marietta, McLean at Missouri, Redden with the Indiana Medics at Indianapolis, Paul Jones at Western Reserve, "Tug" Short at Alma, Bruce Short at Nevada and Sweeney are all Michigan men from Yost's eleven.

The best of them could not be brought back to Michigan, unless by loyalty to their college alone, for less than $1000 a season. Mr. Baird says that the athletic association has not this much money to spend in addition to the high salary paid to Coach Yost.

Yost, however, is satisfied if only one or two come back all season. He says: "Yale may have had more finish in line work than Michigan, but I failed to see their superiority in Harvard. One hard working, conscientious coach on the field with men can do more good for football than eleven that do more graduate coaches gathered around a table in the evening discussing what is best for or against me. I know those long talks over cigars. They are a help of fun, but they don't do much good. Too many graduate coaches are a weakness at least, as they conduct themselves at most colleges, where their great inducement to return is the prospect of a good time. Michigan is, moreover, already supplied with more coaches than most people realize. Trainer Fitzpatrick is, I believe, the superior of most any graduate coach Michigan or any other college could secure there, working with the eleven four hours every day, and in addition to him there is always at least one assistant coach."

Mr. Fitzpatrick also is in favor of having the old players return.

Not Because of Theater

APPLETON, Wis., Dec. 18.—President Samuel Plantz, of Lawrence university, issued a statement today in which he takes exception to the conjecture in some minds that the gift of $100,000 of William W. Cooper, of Kenosha, who lost his life in the Iroquois theater fire in Chicago, was waived by that institution because Mr. Cooper was attending a theater when he lost his life. President Plantz says that Lawrence university is not owned or controlled by any religious denomination. The real reason for waiving of the gift, Mr. Plantz says, was that the heirs of the Cooper estate represented that the estate had depreciated so much in settlement that they (the heirs) felt that if this bequest was paid their support would be endangered. President Plantz pays a high tribute to Mr. Cooper's memory.

PITCHER JACK TAYLOR IS ON THE WARPATH

St. Louis Twirler Issues Signed Statement Concerning Hart

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 17.—Pitcher Jack Taylor today gave out a signed statement of his relations with President Hart, of the Chicago National league team. He reiterates his vigorous denials of the charges President Hart is alleged to have made against him.

"Then they started in to turn the tables. They began hammering us just as easily as we had been hammering them. Where I had begun by shutting them out and allowing them but two or three hits, they came back and took my measure twice. They did the same thing to Weimer, who began just as well as I did.

"Then Hart began singing another tune. With the series standing five to four in our favor, where it had been four to one, Mr. Hart sent for me. This time he wasn't in the good humor he was on the occasion of my first visit.

"See here, Taylor," he said, "you're a nice fellow not to stay in condition while this series is on and give the club your best services. My telephone keeps ringing day and night about you. Why, only today one man rang me up and told me about you being so drunk yesterday morning that he picked you out of the gutter and carried you home."

"I asked Mr. Hart to tell me that person's name, but he said the man refrained from disclosing his identity.

"Mr. Hart," I said, "the next time some one calls you up and says I was out late and in a drunken condition, kindly get his name and address. I'm not drinking, nor keeping bad hours. A week ago I told you I was in the best of condition and said the White Sox couldn't beat me once in a thousand years. Now you say that I'm a drunkard.

"I told Seale, that I was taking better care of myself the last week than I did previous to the start of the series."

"The White Sox are just beating us. That's all there is to it.

"Baseball is the most uncertain of all games and you've been in the business long enough to appreciate that."

"But Hart kept on talking and I walked out of his office swearing never to pitch another game of ball for his team. The next day we were to engage in the tenth and final game with the White Sox. It was to be played on their grounds.

"We couldn't leave the series, as it stood 5 to 1 in our favor. The worst we could do was to get a draw. I showed up at the clubhouse at the regular hour the next day, but didn't dress with the rest of the players. Finally, Seale came over to where I was sitting and asked me what was the trouble.

"You know well enough," I said. "Mr. Hart gave me an uncalled-for call-down last night, and I told him that I would never pitch another game of ball for his team. I'm sincere."

"Why, Jack," said Seale, "I'm counting upon you officiating in the final game today. We need that game and you're the pitcher to win it."

"You'll have to win with some one else," I said. "I've got nothing against you, but it's curtains between Hart and I and I won't pitch today or any other day for him."

"Seale induced me to dress and drive over to the White Sox's grounds with the rest of the players. I don't remember who pitched, but I know I wanted for me so the trade was never arranged.

"Then one fine day came the letter that I had been released to St. Louis—traded for Jack O'Neil and Brown. I was pleased to hear the news and readily signed my name to the contract Mr. Robinson sent along.

"I see that Mr. Hart, who accused me openly of pitching 'crooked' ball for him,

AUTO RECORDS WILL FALL, SAY EXPERTS

Florida Meeting Promises New Time for All Distances

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Thirty-six seconds, and perhaps thirty-five seconds, will be the new mile record, according to many reliable members of the automobile fraternity. There is much speculation regarding the probable figures for the mile at Ormond this year. Many cars have been sold recently under a guarantee of 100 miles to the hour speed, and several are expected to make 100 miles an hour.

Several of the high-speed cars are now in America, one of them, the Fiat, is owned by Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt and operated by Paul Sartorius, Jr. Europe this car gained a speed of 103 miles to the hour. F. A. La Roche has sold a car to E. W. Stock, the Philadelphia and Pittsburg millionaire, under a guarantee of thirty-six seconds to the mile, or 100 miles an hour.

The Pope Motor Car company is constructing a machine which will eclipse thirty-six seconds, it is thought. A C. Webb will drive this car. Barnes, Oldfield county upon doing thirty-six seconds to the mile with his Green Dragon.

William K. Vanderbilt Jr., E. R. Thomas, H. L. Bowden, B. M. Shanley Jr., James L. Bresse and others who own ninety-horsepower Mercedes believe that thirty-six seconds will be made.

Emile Jenatton is coming from Europe with three special built racers of the class, and he counts upon doing thirty-five seconds. It is possible that one of these cars will be driven by Edle Bald, Tom Cooper, Joe Nagel and many other Americans have cars which are planned to beat thirty-nine seconds, and Harry S. Harkness, with his 120-horsepower cup racer, believes thirty seconds to be possible.

As nearly fifty racing automobiles will be at Ormond, both from America and Europe, with the best drivers, it is not only possible, but highly probable, that the thirty-nine-second record will be beaten, and it is almost certain that thirty-six second mark for a mile is in sight.

A "Nighter" in Philadelphia "That fellow is a regular 'nighter,'" commented the night manager of a Tenth street restaurant as a belated customer finished his lunch the other morning.

"Really, do you know he's a regular?" asked some one when the stranger had gone. "Well, you see, he ordered two fried-egg sandwiches and a cup of coffee. The speaker didn't see 'What's that got to do with his being a 'nighter'?" he asked. "Everything," replied the restaurant manager. "We charge fifteen cents for two fried eggs and bread and butter. This fellow orders two egg sandwiches. He gets two eggs, four slices of bread and butter, and a cup of coffee for 15 cents. He saves five cents. He wouldn't order that in the day time, because it wouldn't be heavy enough for his dinner. It's the kind of meal he'd get at supper time. That fellow's been working somewhere at night. He's looking for something that furnishes nourishment, and it's only 'nighters' who learn the science of the restaurant business well enough to work a nickel-saving trick like that."—Philadelphia Record.
