SOME MEN THINK WIFE BEATING RIGHT

Discussion on This Subject Has Been Raging in Eastern Newspapers

If there is one subject upon which it might be supposed that there could be no difference of opinion, it is that of wife beating. Most persons are horrified at the very idea. But it seems that there is room for dispute and a discussion has been raging in newspapers in the east about this very question.

There have been a number of advocates of the strenuous course for obstreperous wives, but it is pleasant to state that the number of writers who denounced wife beating was much greater than those who defended it.

But then some well educated and apparently cultivated men say very strange things. Not so long ago when the murder of a woman was under discussion, the writer heard a man say that there was nothing to be done with women but to kill them.

This is a great surprise in an age when the world is fairly going mad about humanitarianism toward cats, dogs, horses and other animals, and that a man holding such views can get them into a respectable paper is also a matter of surprise.

Of course, it goes without saying that there are innumerable cases of wife beating which never come to light owing to the loyalty of women. No woman can have any respect or affection for a man who would raise his hand against her, but there is a certain decency to the brutality of the man who has married, which is close akin to self-respect.

There are women as well as men whose hearts seem to be more concerned with animals than human beings. The women we hear of now and then who spend their time and money on dogs and cats are almost as unnatural as men who beat their wives.

There are women who shop in New York where the nails of dogs are manufactured. Comment is unnecessary. It is to be feared that the cases of wife beating will be sensibly increased, by reason of this remarkable discussion.

What this department would like to know, is whether a woman is ever justified in beating her husband?

FASHIONS FROM VOGUE

Prepared Specially for THE GLOBE

The majority of the new spring hats, which are just making their appearance, are about the same as have been worn all winter, but there are a few distinct styles to be found in the rough novelty straws.

Among these are the wide brimmed hats on the sides and back and turned up in the most fascinating and coquettish manner and other similar hats that are plaited in the back, both styles being rather severely trimmed with quills or one or two large roses.

Numbers of turbans entirely or partly covered with flowers and leaves are to be seen everywhere, and these, with the rough straws above mentioned and chifon, mulline and mousseline. Turban shaped hats will undoubtedly be very popular for early spring wear.

Friday evening the following: "That capital punishment should be abolished," the team of the T. C. L. S. upholding the affirmative and the negative of the K. K. A. urging the negative. This will be the second of a series of debates, the T. C. L. S. having defeated the Independent Order of the American Boy.

GOSSIP FROM GOTHAM

Lorgnette chains of unmatched stones are among the jewelry novelties of the late season, one worn by Mrs. Borden Harriman in the Metropolitan opera house last night. The opera being a striking specimen of the fact. No two stones in hers were alike, nor even of the same kind. Therefore, as the chain was long, they necessarily covered the whole range of gems. Next to the clasp was a diamond big enough and lustrous enough to deserve a solitary setting. Then came a ruby, a sapphire, topaz, opal, turquoise, emerald, tourmaline, beryl, onyx, carnelian, carbuncle, agate, garnet, and perhaps a dozen more of jewels rarely seen in such picturesque profusion. Of course the stones were spaced out with gold links, for there are not enough different sorts in the world to form a chain of such length. The whole had a Neapolitan ice cream effect that certainly was unusual. Naturally the stones were as nearly of a size as possible, but it was quite a question, evidently, to have them entirely so, for there remained a disparity between the smallest carbuncle and the biggest garnet. Mrs. Harriman's jeweler could find. Husbands with few-necessary to obtain a legal separation, there are none in which the "cruel and inhuman treatment" allegations in any way approach those of Mrs. Christopher Berry. The wife, a wealthy baroness of Holloway Road, Battersea, London. Mrs. Berry had a few complaints which she thought justified her in seeking a divorce and the court held her case under advisement. In addition to speaking harshly to her, Mrs. Berry said, her husband amused himself by dragging her around the room and throwing her down in a muddy street and ruining her gown, slapping her face until it was black and blue and pushing her into the river. Besides this, Mr. Berry was in the habit, when the humor seized him, of consuming large quantities of liquor, and his wife says on one occasion he drank a pint of old Scotch whisky inside of four minutes—an act which did not improve his temper nor add to her peace of mind.

USELESSNESS OF OLD MEN (One of the sapient professors, Dr. Willinger, of Johns Hopkins university, gives it as his opinion that the things in this world are done by men who are under thirty years of age, and that men are useless and even dangerous after they are sixty, at which age he thinks they should be killed.)

Come, let us kill the old men off, they're only in the way. The young men are the ones we need and we should apply for a change of legislation. There's poor old Tolstoy; how unwise and mean his actions are. Commandant Nicholas, the glorious young czar.

Let every man be chloroformed when he has reached three score. He has no right to linger on, his usefulness to the world would be today if Grim old Tolstoy and great Hugo all had died at forty-one.

Turn out the fossils! Give the boys a chance to write and rule! A man is not so man—he's but a headstrong fool. There England trails away behind—her flag and her spine lags at the front with her sublime young king. —S. E. Kleier in Chicago Record-Herald.

MRS. CHADWICK WOULD BE TRIED ELSEWHERE Claim is Made She Could Not Get a Fair Show in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 28.—Mrs. Chadwick declared today that her attorney would apply for a change of venue in connection with her trial in the United States district court. She said the action would be taken on the ground that the jury at the time of the trial was biased against her. Mrs. Chadwick is charged with the murder of her husband, Judge Taylor, Monday, the conspiracy and subornation of perjury. Her trial will commence before Judge Taylor Monday, the conspiracy and subornation of perjury being taken up first.

Swallows His Store Teeth CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 28.—Charles H. Meyer, a New York sculptor, was given an X-ray examination today to locate his false teeth, which were dislodged by a hearty laugh, slipping part way down his throat. The teeth were found in the patient's breathing, but the physicians said no operation will be necessary, and that he is in no danger.

MR. TAFT EXPLAINS EMERGENCY CONTRACTS

Answers Criticism of Acts of Panama Canal Commission

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Emergency contracts for supplies by the Panama canal commission without legal advertising for bids were discussed at today's meeting of the cabinet. Secretary Taft explained that two weeks or more ago he had sent to the commission for all emergency contracts that he had gone over most of them and was inclined to the opinion that, in such as he had examined, the commission had acted wisely. Some of the purchases, perhaps, were open to unfavorable criticism, but he thought, in view of the necessity for haste in procuring many supplies, particularly medical supplies, that the commission had acted against more of the contracts made.

Help Out the 'Pinos NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Announcement is made of the formation of the Filipino Progress association, the purpose of which are declared to be: "To procure and disseminate information concerning the industrial, commercial and political conditions in the Philippine islands; to promote legislation favorable to the Philippines and to promote the fulfillment of a hope expressed by President Roosevelt in his message that the Philippine islands shall stand in some such relation to the United States as Cuba now stands." Jacob G. Schauman is president of the association and Horace White treasurer and the vice presidents include Andrew Carnegie, President Charles W. Eliot, President of the University of Chicago, Starr Jordan and Prof. Henry Van Dyke.

Killed in Feed Grinder YANTON, S. D., Feb. 28.—Delayed work has resulted from a fatal accident at Crofton, a small town seventeen miles south of here, in which the five-year-old child of Charles Eudaly was killed. The little fellow climbed under a feed grinder, during the brief absence of the third man in charge, and as the team working the machine reached him, the sweep of the power caught the boy in the mouth, crushing the head to pulp in an instant. Mr. Eudaly is clerk of courts for Knox county, Nebraska, and was at Crofton, the county seat, at the time of the tragedy. The affair has prostrated the family, which the terrible end of the little fellow brought out one of the largest funerals the county ever saw.

CASTORIA For Infants and Children. The Kind You Have Always Bought Bears the Signature of J. C. Watson. In Use For Over Thirty Years CASTORIA. THE GENTLEMAN COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

The Woman's Club Movement In the beginning, as is the case with every new creation, it was chaotic, indefinite, apparently without settled design. The women themselves were not quite sure what they were engaged for. When asked, "What do you do?" "What is the good of organization for women?" "What do you expect to accomplish?" the answers were necessarily vague. About the only definite thoughts in the minds of the women at that time were, that by organizing they could more readily compare ideas and bring greater numbers of women into communication with each other, and also that by combination they could acquire more knowledge in a given time than they could individually. For instance, one woman would take a special subject, study it more or less carefully, and then give to the others the result of her investigations, so that the whole body would get some idea of that subject. Each woman would gain knowledge in proportion to the amount of interest which she took in the work. With each taking a different topic, a great variety of information was gained.
