THREE CITY OFFICIALS RE-ELECTED TO OFFICE BY COMMON COUNCIL

J. C. Michael Is Chosen Corporation Attorney; George T. Redington, City Clerk, and M. L. Bevans, Market Master—Mr. Michael Reiterates His Platform of Considering St. Paul in Same Light as a Private Client Seeking Advice on Legal Matters

At a meeting of the common council last evening J. C. Michael was re-elected corporation attorney, George T. Redington, city clerk and M. L. Bevans market master.

The nomination of J. C. Michael as corporation attorney, in accordance with the recommendation of the caucus, was made by Ald. Bantz, who moved that the clerk be instructed to cast the ballot of the council for the election of Mr. Michael. The motion was carried unanimously, and Mr. Michael was declared by the clerk to be the duly elected corporation attorney.

Ald. Bantz then moved that a committee of three be appointed to escort Mr. Michael to the council chamber. Ald. Bantz, Lynch and Yoerger were designated as the committee, and they soon returned with the corporation attorney.

Michael Makes Speech

In reply to the demand for a speech Mr. Michael said: It is needless for me to say that I deeply appreciate this testimonial of your approval. It has been my pleasure, I think to enjoy the confidence of the common council. When I say that I mean regard the strictly the legal business of the city. Whatever success has attended the legal department during the past two years has been due largely to the faithful assistance of the clerical force in the office. I was elected to the office of the city only on the promise I made the common council that I would regard the city as a client, and that I would transact its business in the same manner that I always did that of private parties. That will be my policy in the future.

George T. Redington was unanimously elected city clerk on motion of Ald. Rohland that the clerk cast the ballot for the council for him. A committee composed of Ald. Helander, Yoerger and Redington were appointed to escort Mr. Redington to the council chamber, where he thanked the members for the honor conferred upon him. He then read a statement of his conscientious performance of his duties which had attended them in the past.

EXPLAINS FORESTRY PLANS OF WISCONSIN

Supt. Griffith Tells What State Expects to Gain by Work

Now that the lumber supply has been exhausted, Wisconsin has turned its forestry preservation energies to the maintenance of the waters for water-powers and the smaller timber required for manufacturing plants.

E. M. Griffith, state superintendent of forests for Wisconsin, was a visitor at the state capitol yesterday, and called on Gen. C. C. Andrews, chief fire warden for Minnesota.

"Wisconsin has 70,000 acres in her forest reserve," Mr. Griffith said. "This land is all at the headwater of the Chippewa and Wisconsin rivers, and the chief end aim of the state is to regenerate the forests and maintain the water supply for our rivers. Wisconsin has great power on many of her rivers and the question of keeping the waterpowers at their full strength through maintaining the source of the supply is an active one. The state is expending a great deal of money in factories requiring the smaller timber. By reforesting cut over tracts we hope to be able to supply the raw material for these mills and factories in time to come."

"Most of our forest reserve is land that has reverted to the state through nonpayment of taxes, and the state has undertaken to make the best use of it. We expect to materially increase our field of development as we show results in our experimental field."

"The practical forester has studied the technique of the business in Germany as well as in the United States. Wisconsin recognizes the importance of his work by paying $2,500 salary to the head of its forestry department. Minnesota pays its chief fire warden $1,200, though a bill is pending in the legislature to increase the amount to $1,800."

BRICKLAYERS WANT PRACTICAL INSPECTOR

Pass Resolutions Favoring Passage of Bill by Legislature

The bricklayers and stonemasons of the international union favor legislation to require the employment of a practical bricklayer in the offices of the building inspectors in cities of the state of over 10,000 inhabitants.

Resolutions to this effect were passed last night. The resolutions state that the fire department reports show that most of the fires in St. Paul are results of defective flues and that the St. Paul building inspectors' office does not employ a practical bricklayer.

J. C. MICHAEL Who Was Last Night Re-elected Corporation Attorney

On motion of Ald. Busemann M. L. Bevans was unanimously re-elected market master.

These elections are all for the period of two years. It is not probable that any changes will be made either in the corporation office or in the city clerk's, as both Mr. Michael and Mr. Redington express themselves satisfied with their present force.

Immediately after the adjournment of the common council the assembly met in regular session.

Routine Session

Routine matters regarding the work to be taken up by the board of public works were disposed of.

The unfavorable report of the committee on streets regarding the vacation of that part of Lisbon street on Oakland and Western avenues was received, and on motion of Assemblyman Whitcomb again referred to the committee.

A communication was received from Mayor Smith stating that he received many requests for copies of the city charter, all of which had been exhausted. A resolution was therefore introduced ordering the city clerk to advertise for bids for 1,000 copies of the charter, 500 to be cloth and 500 paper bound.

A contract for the construction of a sewer on Summit avenue, between Pascal and Warwick streets, was awarded to Chris Johnson. This matter had been held up from the last meeting on account of the fact that Mr. Johnson had not paid the cost of the printing in the advertisement for a former contract, where he had been relieved from its performance. Yesterday Mr. Johnson paid $30, the amount involved.

FIND MOTHER DEAD

Innocent Tots Tell Neighbors of Death's Visit

"Oh Mrs. Johnson! Sumfins happened to mamma! She's lyin' on the bed and she won't speak to us at all!" Stricken with terror from a cause which he knew very well, Ernest Williams, after discovering his mother, Mrs. Sarah Williams, lying motionless on a bed, her eyes closed and her hands cold, ran, crying to the next door neighbor to tell her of "mamma's" silence.

Handling after him was his little brother John, scarce 3 years old, whose baby eyes were filled with wonder that "brother" should be so frightened. Mamma was probably asleep, John thought, and there was nothing very awful in sleep. That was 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon and he would be asleep himself in two hours more.

But mamma was dead. Mrs. Johnson hurried over to the house, 238 Hoffman avenue, and to the bed where lay the form of Mrs. Williams, fully dressed. She quickly comprehended the situation and hurried out. At the gate she met J. O. Williams, the husband, and quickly told him her fears. He hurried down the street and at the drug store met Dr. Horst, whom he summoned to the house.

One glance at the woman lying on the bed was sufficient to tell the doctor that the woman was dead. The body was quite cold and death had evidently come at least an hour before the two little boys, returning from an afternoon's play, had discovered it.

The doctor summoned the coroner, Dr. Miller, who, after an examination, declared that death was due to entirely natural causes, probably through heart failure induced by illness.

For several days Mrs. Williams had been complaining of an attack of the grip, but it never became serious enough to cause her to call in medical aid, and she continued with her household duties. Apparently she was stricken yesterday afternoon with a more severe attack. Overcome with pain, she threw herself upon the top of the bed, where she lay until death came to her relief.

POLICE WANT RIVERS CRANE DROPS LOAD

Requisition Issued for Return of Murder Suspect

Gov. Johnson yesterday issued a requisition on the governor of New York for the return to Minnesota of James Rivers, alias Isaac Rivers. He is the minstrel man, who is alleged to have shot and killed Richard Connor at the Bijou theater, Minneapolis, Feb. 17. Both men were members of the Williams & Walker company, and the shooting was at first claimed to be accidental by both men. Connor made an antemortem statement at the Minneapolis city hospital, in which he said that he was the victim of a murderer's bullet.

Rivers has been arrested at New York, and yesterday County Attorney Al J. Smith asked the governor to make a demand for his return to the state to face the murder charge.

George Roth, a deputy sheriff, left Minneapolis last night for New York and will bring the man back to Minnesota.

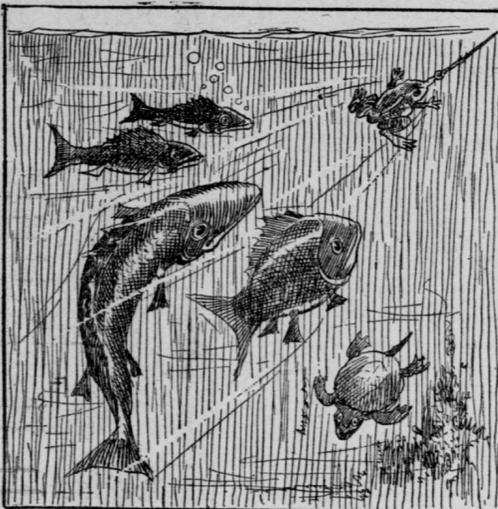

RAG PEDDLER HELD FOR STEALING SCALES

Railroad Watchman Accuses Man of Wrecking Big Weighing Machine

Joe Halenertez, a rag peddler, was arrested in the railroad yards on the west side yesterday afternoon by Special Officer Coughlin, of the railroad police. Halenertez is accused of stealing the iron fixtures from a scale, and according to the officer who made the arrest, was tearing the scale to pieces with a sledge hammer in order to get at the iron. He was locked up at the Ducas street police station overnight and will be arraigned in the police court on the charge of larceny this morning.

WORKMAN IS CRUSHED BENEATH HEAVY BAR OF IRON

Ole Hansen, living at 636 Hall avenue, was seriously injured by the breaking of a heavy crane at the St. Paul Foundry company, South Park. The crane was being raised from the floor with a large bar of iron badly crushed, being fractured in two places, and his back severely sprained. A large steel crane used in lifting heavy iron had been raised about twelve feet from the floor with a large bar of iron fastened to it. Just as the crane was being swung into position something snapped and the long arm brought up with a jerk. The iron bar was jarred from the grip of the crane and crashed to the floor. Hansen was standing directly underneath, and although warned by his fellow workmen, was unable to get out of the way. The heavy bar struck him fairly, hurling him to the floor, where he lay unconscious with the bar resting across his body. Workmen about the place rushed to Hansen's assistance, but on account of the weight of the bar it was with great difficulty that it was removed from the body of the prostrate man. He was carried into the office of the plant and Dr. H. C. Johnson called. Hansen was taken to his home, 636 Hall avenue, where his injuries were attended to. He was resting easily last night and is expected to recover.

SCHOOL SITE STARTS WAR CLOUDS LOWER SEVENTH WARD ROW O'ER CENTRAL HIGH

Citizens Object to Location Picked for New School by Board

The committee on streets of the board of aldermen approved of the resolution to purchase the Seventh ward school site recommended by the school board, which is located on Oxford street, between Selby and Hague avenues. The purchase price is set at $50,000.

While the committee thought that the price was a trifle too high, yet it was determined that no other satisfactory site could be obtained.

A committee of citizens representing the Hague Avenue Improvement association was on hand to register a vigorous objection to the building of a school on the Oxford street site. Mr. Dolson vehemently protested against the selection of that site, as he claimed that when he and other citizens built their homes on Hague avenue it was with the full belief that the school would be located on the grounds owned by the board at Marshall and Victoria street. His contention was that the boulevard and lawns of the residents along Hague avenue would be ruined by the presence of so many school children.

Ald. Lynch, replying, said: "I live right across the street from the Longfellow school and I have as fine a lawn as any one along the street. I do not find that the children are any bother to me."

Mr. Barlow, another member of the Hague Avenue Improvement association said he would like to secure a postponement of action on the matter until the next meeting of the committee. "We are not fully prepared at this time," he said, "to present our full reasons for not wishing the school located on the site of the Longfellow school."

Mr. Holman, president of the school board, said he thought the matter had been continued enough, and would urgently recommend that the committee act at once.

Ald. Corning thereupon moved for a favorable report on the purchase of the site recommended by the school board, which was unanimously agreed to by the committee.

NEW CAPITOL WILL BE OPEN SUNDAYS

Representative Mannix Wins His Fight for the Laboring Classes

The capitol commission yesterday decided to keep the new capitol open Sunday afternoon, in compliance with the Mannix resolution. The commission declared the small boy nuisance has deterred them from accommodating the public by opening the capitol Sundays.

An instance of vandalism was discovered yesterday, when the keyhole in the door of the general's office was found carefully stopped by a wooden plug. There has been some defacing of the marble columns by pencil marks and knives.
