HANLON HOLDS OUT

Superba Manager Won't Stand for Salary Cut

BALTIMORE, Md., March 20 .- Manager club made a statement here today to the effect that he received a notification this morning from the owners of the club that if he wished to retain the management of the club he must accept a cut of $6,500 in his salary, and that he had per-emptorily declined to accept the reduction.

Manager Hanlon said that he will remain at his home in this city and expressed the hope that in the meantime his difference with the owners may be adjusted, in which event he will at once join the Brooklyn team in Columbia, S. C.

NEW YORK, March 20.—President Ebbets of the Brooklyn National league baseball club, when asked today regarding the reduction of the salary of Manager Hanlon, said that he had offered Mr. Hanlon a contract at a reduction from $12,500 which he has been receiving annually for the past three years to $6,000 at the request of the stockholders of the club. He said that the conditions in Brooklyn did not warrant the payment of the fancy salaries to the officers of the club, as it was not consistent so to do when the club was making radical reductions in the salaries of the players. He said that it was the players and not the officials or the manager who made the game pay. President Ebbets will appoint one of the players to take charge of the team in South Carolina pending an expected compromise. If Hanlon does not come to terms President Ebbetts will start for the south next Sunday to take charge temporarily.

STILLWATER

Alexander Johnson, a resident of Stillwater since 1858, who for many years had been engaged in logging and lumbering on the St. Croix and its tributaries, dled of heart disease. He had been afflicted with an affection of the heart for several years and a few weeks ago his condition became so serious that he found it necessary to remain in his room. He rallied, however, and apparently improved from day to day. He was bright and cheerful as usual yesterday and ate a hearty dinner. A few moments later a change came over him and he sank into a comatose condition from which he did not recover. A small fire occurred in his room Sunday morning and members of the family feared that the excitement incident would affect him, but this was not the case. The fire occurred when his eldest son George attempted to light a cigar. He struck a parlor match and the end flew off and ignited the fringe of a sofa. The flames in an instant reached the lace curtains and the coverings of Mr. Johnson's bed. George carried his father to an adjoining room, and aided by his mother and brothers, they extinguished the fire. Mrs. Johnson was slightly burned about the back, Reuben Johnson had one of his legs burned. The property damage was small. Mr. Johnson was interested in the East Side Lumber company's sawmill. He also conducted a clothing establishment in Stillwater for several years and at various times was interested in mining ventures in Montana and Mexico. He was a man of considerable wealth. He was 68 years of age and is survived by a widow, four sons and one daughter. He was a member of Stillwater lodge, No. 179, B. P. O. Elks.

Albert Gottschalk frankly admits that things look very bad for his brother and that the evidence is all against him, but is firm in the belief that Ed-ward is innocent. Stan Donnelly, attorney for the prisoner, while admit-ting that Gottschalk is in a bad posi-tion, still contends that the prisoner is innocent.

"Gottschalk is not breaking down," he said last night. "He sent for Hartmann's father because he heard the old man believed him guilty of the murder of Joseph Hartmann. Gottschalk wanted to see the elder Hartmann and tell him he did not commit the crime. That Gottschalk is insane is foolishness. No man's mind was ever clearer. Two members of his family committed suicide, a brother by shooting and a sister by drowning. The prisoner has a reputation in places where he formerly lived as being unusually quick tempered and aroused a dangerous man.

The funeral of Joseph Hartmann, whose body was taken from the river just opposite Pike's island Friday afternoon, March 17, took place yesterday morning at the family residence at 9 o'clock. The interment was at Calvary cemetery. The aged parents of the boy are both prostrated and Mrs. Hartmann was unable to leave her bed yesterday. Ever since Joseph Hartmann was sus pected of complicity in the murder of Schindeldecker both his mother and Schindeldecker both his mother and father have constantly said that if Joe committed the crime he should be punished accordingly. It is a curious fact that the boy's parents believed him to be in the river long before any investigation had been made. Both were positive the boy had been murdered and were not in the least surprised when his body was found.

"It is better this way." said Mr. Hart-

"It is better this way," said Mr. Hartman bitterly, "that Joseph was found in the river, for I would rather have found him dead when charged with such a crime than to have him ar-rested while sneaking around."

County Attorney Confident County Attorney Kane is confident that the police web is strong enough to convict Gottschalk of the double mur-

"The police are in possession of much damaging evidence," he said last night, "and at the right time will disclose it. Under no circumstances will I allow Gottschalk to talk with the father of Joseph Hartmann."

While the police are possessed of enough evidence against Gottschalk to assure his being held responsible for the murder of Hartman, and while a strong chain of circumstantial evidence hinds the prisoner to the grand turn to strong chain of circumstantial evidence binds the prisoner to the grand jury to answer for the murder of Christian Schindeldecker, Chief O'Connor is not resting. Detectives are hard at work on every bit of information that can be gathered and the greater part of the prisoner's past life has been learn-ed. WASHINGTON, March 20.—A geologic folio. descriptive of what is known as the De Smet quadrangle in South Dakota, has been issued by the geological survey. This is to be a part of the geological map of the United States, a work which has been in preparation for many years. This folio is known as No. 114. and it is interesting in connection with folio No. 113, which was recently published concerning the Hurron quadrangle, which adjoins the De Smet quadrangle contains no deposits of valuable metals or coal, and its most important natural resource is artesian water.

The De Smet quadrangle lies in Kingsbury and Miner counties, but comprises portions of Beadle and Sanborn counties, it has an average width of a little more than 24½ miles, a length of about 35 miles and an area of about 857 square miles. It lies on the east slope of James river valley and extends from the bottom of the valley up into the eastern coteau. The region is in general flat and its features are, with few exceptions, those of very subdued glacial topography, the basins being shallow and widely separated, and the swells very low.

The water resources of the quadrangle, both surface waters and subterranean waters, are described in detail in matter accompanying the folio. A map of the artesian waters of the area is shown.

Clapp and Nelson Due in Minnesota in

Week or So

Globe Special Washington Service

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Senator Clapp is planning to remain in Washington for another week. Then he will return to St. Paul for a short stay, as it will be necessary to come back to Washington for the hearings to be conducted by the senate committee on interstate commerce, beginning April 17. Senator Clapp is a member of this committee and is taking lively interest in the subject of government regulation of railroads. He proposes to have some things to say as to the constitutionality of the Esch-Townsend bill which has lately been called in question by reference to the paragraph in the constitution which forbids the federal government making any discrimination in favor of the port of one state as against the port of another state.

Senator Nelson is planning to leave tomorrow for Wisconsin to visit his mother, after which he will go directly to Alexandria.

Senator Gamble is delayed in Washing-

ST. CLOUD, Minn., March 29.—What promises to be the final chapter in the famous McClure-Clarke litigation was opened when a summons was served upon Nehemiah P. and Caroline E. Clarke, his wife, in an ejectment suit to secure possession of the Meadow Lawn and Clyde Main stock farms in Stearns county. These farms are now held by Clarke in Mrs. Clarke's name, although the supreme court recently decided that the title belonged to the McClure estate. If T. S. McClure, who brings the suit on behalf of the heirs, wins the litigation will be at an end. The suit will be tried at the coming term.
