Business Principles in Dairying.

It is our intention from time to time, as space will permit, to print for the benefit of our patrons, good, practical dairy articles, so that it will be possible for those who follow the dairy business in our community to realize the best results from their work.

At the present time, competition has placed all industries on a commercial basis. The successful merchant is the one who can sell his wares at the lowest price and still receive as large or larger percentage of profit than his competitors. The successful manufacturer is the one whose methods enable him to produce an article and sell it at a price as low or lower than that asked by other manufacturers, and still make as great a profit. The farmer who produces a commodity on his farm for the least possible cost, quality considered, is the one who is successful.

To so great an extent has it become known to the farmer that of all humanity he alone is independent, that there is a likelihood of his having grown careless to a degree, and that in his strife for higher prices he has overlooked an important point, namely, that a dollar saved on the cost of production is a dollar made, and possibly the easiest dollar made on the farm. We are inclined to believe that the farmers have not given as close study to the problem of production as they should. Some do not understand the terms used by teachers, and others do not find the information definite and practical enough to command their confidence.

Dairying has paid off more mortgages for the farmers of the Central States than any other branch of agriculture, and it will continue to do the same thing. It is not a mystery, but a science, and proper handling of the business is all that is necessary.

It is just as easy to succeed as it is to fail, and a great deal more satisfactory when your bank book is balanced.

Art Mitchell of Joplin Tells How He Found Relief By Taking Tanlac.

Joplin, Mo., July 29.—"If I had paid one thousand dollars for Tanlac, that medicine would have been worth that price to me," Art Mitchell, an attache of the American-Davoy mines near hear, emphatically states.

"I was working in the White Eagle mine, Sunny Side, Okla., eight years ago when my health began to fail," he continued. "I was told that I had catarrh and mineral poisoning, although I thought I had consumption."

"My eyes became affected, and I thought, for a while, that my right eye would pop out of my head it pained me so much. I had terrific pains at the base of the brain in the back of my head."

"My digestion was bad and I could eat hardly anything because I frequently became sick at the stomach. My nights were near sleepless. I took many kinds of medicines and gradually lost weight until I was almost a living skeleton."

"I tried Tanlac with the results that my head soon cleared up. The pains have left me and have not come back, either. My appetite is good and I can sit down now and eat a nice juicy steak and be ready for another.

"Tanlac certainly has proved a wonderful medicine to me. The most remarkable thing is that I have gained nine pounds in ten days since I began taking Tanlac. I now have real interest in my work and can sleep like a log. Tanlac is the most wonderful medicine that I have ever seen."

Tanlac, which is accomplishing such astonishing results in stomach and intestinal ailments, kidney trouble and catarrhal affections, is being introduced into this city through H. F. Pitts, druggist.—Adv.

The Independent Standard Foot Lift Plow

THE INDEPENDENT PLOW is one of the lightest draft and most perfect working gang or sulky plows made, only the very highest grade of carbon steel being used in its construction throughout.

All parts receiving the greatest strain, such as the frame beams, etc., are made extra heavy to withstand the roughest and hardest kind of work.

This plow is equipped with an automatic raising and lowering foot lift with great power. It is so simple and easy to operate that any boy old enough to drive a team can handle it with ease.

We still handle those Myers' Pumps, Red Jacket Cylinders, and Samson Wind Mills with a full line of Pump Repairs.
