WEEKLY BAZOO.

SEDALIA, MO., TUESDAY, APRIL 4, 1882.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

PROSECUTING ATTORNEY. We are authorized to announce the name of William D. Steele for the office of prosecuting attorney of Pettis county, subject to the decision of the county democratic convention.

CIRCUIT CLERK. We are authorized to announce the name of B. H. Ingram for re-election to the office of circuit clerk of Pettis county subject to the decision of the county democratic convention.

COUNTY RECORDER. We are authorized to announce the name of John W. Conner for the office of county recorder, subject to the decision of the county democratic convention.

BAZOO BUZZ.

Stationery at McClellan's. S. A. Wright for sewing machines. Mrs. M. Smith, of this city, who is in New York, has the thanks of the BAZOO for files of late New York papers. Dave Cullom won the gold watch raffled by Doc Darnell at Shobe's saloon last night, on a throw of forty-two. There is a letter in the New Albuquerque, N. M., postoffice addressed to Miss R. J. Rhodes, Sedalia, Mo., held for postage. A woman with six children, two dogs and a bushel basket full of young chickens about a week old, was one of the sights at the depot Friday night. Jimmy Thomas was much better last night. He has been near death's door with that dread disease, spinal meningitis, but his recovery is now looked for. John Kaiser was not the selection of the republican convention for Sedalia's mayor. He is too good a man to be put up to be beaten.—Windsor Review. The man who picked up an axe while riding a bay horse and leading another bay horse, on Kentucky street, will please return the axe to W. M. Moore, liquor dealer. The Baptist church, between Third and Fourth streets, on Lamine, is undergoing a general spring cleaning. Paint, putty and a new roof make a wonderful change. A pistol shot fired on West Main street, a few minutes before 9 o'clock last night, caused Constable Barnett to make tracks in that direction, but the culprit could not be apprehended. A long way from home is that box car which a BAZOO reporter saw undergoing repairs at the K. & T. shops, yesterday. It bore upon its side the words: Worcester & Nashua R. R.

George McLaughlin wore a great big sunflower smile all over his face yesterday. And why shouldn't he? Didn't his wife present him with a dimples lily in the form of a sweet girl baby, Friday night? George thinks so.

Charlie McCreary, well-known in Sedalia, a prominent Hannibal fire-bug and an Oregon penitentiary convict, passed through Sedalia last Wednesday morning. He was spoken to and recognized by an express messenger who knew him well.

Another torpedo. This time it was on Fifth street, just east of Lamine. It was struck yesterday afternoon by a wagon loaded with rock, and its explosion brought out the neighbors for a block around. Nobody hurt, but a little excitement was caused.

A little daughter of Mrs. Maud became so much interested in skating at the hall, last night, that she did not notice how warm she was getting. But she found out afterwards when the heat overcame her and she fainted away. She was soon brought around all right.

Sam W. Maddux, agent of the narrow gauge at Cole Camp, who spent Friday in this city, has been remarkably successful in working up business for the company in his section, and that his services in this direction are appreciated is apparent from the fact that his wages have been raised. Sam would be hard to improve upon for the position he now holds.

Dr Carter, when going home, Friday night last, was overtaken by a runaway team, north of the Banks' place, on the Georgetown road, and run into. The doctor was thrown out at least fifteen feet. He received a painful but not dangerous wound. It damaged the buggy some and dislocated a wheel on the runaway wagon. The runaway team belonged to Mr. McDonald, and when found had the wagon tongue and one wheel and axle left.

Grateful to Invalids. Floreston Cologne is grateful to invalids, because it is refreshing without the sickening effect of most perfumes.

Will Die? Will Bean, who will be remembered as having been employed in the hardware establishment of Thomas & Hadden about a year ago, is, as a reporter learned from Mr. Will R. Thomas, lying at his home in Paris, Kentucky, in the last stages of consumption. Some of the most celebrated physicians in that part of the country have been in attendance upon the suffering young man, but their opinion is general that he cannot live more than a month at the outside, and is likely to die at any time. Mr. Bean's early demise will be greatly regretted by the many friends he made while here.

Dyspepsia Cured. BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 14, 1881. I tried your valuable medicine, Brown's Iron Bitters, for dyspepsia, indigestion, &c., and was cured by its use after three leading physicians of this city failed by their prescriptions to give me relief. After eating, before taking the iron bitters, I suffered with a full feeling about the breast, with headache all the time, bowels very irregular, and generally used-up. At night, when I got home from work, I thought I could not last until the next morning. I now feel like a new man. J. V. Howser.

Small Burglary. On Friday night last, at an hour unknown only to the burglar, some one forced open the rear window of T. B. Young's shoe shop, on East Main street, and took therefrom a new pair of shoes, valued at $4.

A singular feature of this burglary is, that whoever did it, took a new pair of boots down from the nail on which they were hanging and left them on the bench. The boots were eight and a half, while the shoes were half a number smaller. It was a pair of foot-gear the burglar wanted. No clue, as yet.

From an extensive use of St. Jacobs Oil in the editor's family, we are able to speak confidently of its great worth in numerous ailments, and fully recommended it as an article most desirable to have on hand in the medicine chest.—Stamford (Conn.) Herald.

Free Again. "Sheriff," said a BAZOO scribe, yesterday afternoon, to Mr. Conner, "any news around your way?" meaning thereby the jail.

"No, not a thing, I believe. We are all quiet and peaceable."

"Waiting for court, I suppose?"

"Yes. Let me see—there were two prisoners released to-day."

"Who were they?"

"Well, one of them was Aaron Moss, who was sentenced last November to serve out four months, by Judge Ryland. Moss' term expired to-day. The other was Willie Dwyer, the little boy who stole a small bucket from Dr. Fessler."

"Did Fessler get the bucket?"

"Certainly. He got it before he had the boy arrested."

"Any other items?"

"Yes. John Hogan, the colored boy charged with stealing a ring belonging to James Wood, was released on bail. His trial comes off next Wednesday."

"So you see, sheriff, you have been pumped to the tune of three items, when you said you didn't have any news, at all," said the scribe.

The genial sheriff smiled, and said he never saw any one like a newspaper man. The twain parted.

What We are Worth. The tax books showing the quantity and value and real and personal property in this county, upon which County Clerk Field has spent so much time and labor, are now finished and only awaiting the levy to be made by the county court at the coming May term. The total number of acres on the tax books, representing the total acreage in this county, is 427,000, and the number of town lots, which includes all the towns in the county, is 4,600. The total value of the real estate is $5,320,310. Of personal property there are 8,771 horses, of the total value of $325,905; mules, 2,658, valued at $120,570. Fifty-five asses and jennets, $3,670. Neat cattle, 29,040, valued at $466,705. Sheep, 36,675, valued at $57,457. Hogs, 27,253, valued at $64,395. Moneys, notes, bonds, mortgages and other evidences of debt, $525,296. Assets in the hands of corporate companies, $372,370. Other personal property, $516,676. Total value of real estate, $5,320,310. Total value of personal property, $2,462,644. Grand total, $7,782,954.

Sublimely Superb. A pair of beautiful Sun-flowers on Esels will be mailed free to any lady who will send ten cents in postage stamps or money to Dr. C. W. Benson, No. 116 North Eutaw Street, Baltimore, Md.

Disturbing the Darlings. A remarkably fine band of musicians has been playing in a Main street saloon every night for the past week. Their skill soon became known by report, to the very top notch of our young society gents, and they determined to secure them for a night's soiree. This was done after midnight Friday night, and the band, with several young gentlemen, started out to wake from sweet slumber the sleeping beauties, whose charms have haunted their male admirers like a dream of bliss half-remembered.

Going out Ohio street, the gallants visited every home wherein dwelt a fair innamorata and under her window floated out upon the soft air delicious strains of music, waking the sleeping beauty into an ecstasy of feeling which poets have failed to picture, with all their wealth of imagination. As if to give added charm to this time of delight, nature gave rich waves of moonlight, and breezes blew as soft as those from Ceylon's Isle, which crept with stealthy step through half-opened lattice and coyly played with brown or golden tresses as they lay in fancy freedom on downy pillows.

But there! The reporter's Pegasus has run off with him and the muse has fled.

HALL'S HAPPINESS

Wrecked by the Scandal Mongers of the Village of Warsaw.

He Pays His Attentions to a Wealthy Widow, Causing Her Son's Displeasure.

The Young Man Assaults His Mother's Suitor, and is Then Paid to Leave Town.

An Interesting Chapter as Picked Up by a BAZOO Reporter on Thursday.

In Which the Principal Characters are Exonerated from Anything that Smacks of Undue Intimacy.

Early last week it came to the knowledge of the BAZOO that a large sized sensational item had developed itself at Warsaw, in which a lady and gentleman of that place figured as the principal actors. The rumors which first reached the ears of the BAZOO man were of such a character that he determined to visit the village and see for himself how much truth there was in the report, and on Wednesday afternoon he took the narrow gauge train for that point, where he arrived at 5:30 o'clock in the evening and remained until 7 o'clock Friday morning, during which time he thoroughly investigated the matter, sitting it to the very bottom, and below presents the result of his labors.

In September of 1881, Mr. James E. Hall, then engaged in the business of selling monuments in St. Louis, ENTERED INTO A PARTNERSHIP with Mrs. E. A. Stone, a wealthy widow, for the purpose of establishing a banking house in Warsaw.

Mr. Hall is a man a little more than two score years of age, and hails from the state of Massachusetts. In 1868 he entered the service of the Lord as a Congregational minister, and in this mission was considered one of the most successful in all the east. A man of polished manners and splendid education, he made friends on every hand, and numerous were the calls he received. Of Mr. Hall's earlier life, the BAZOO proposes treating briefly. He married in his native state, but domestic bliss was not to be his portion, and after a time and obtained by Mr. Hall, the same being granted at Salt Lake City, Utah, where he was visiting.

He then returned east, and in the course of time won the heart of another lady of his native state, and they were joined in wedlock, but this marriage was barren of that love which should exist between husband and wife and a separation was agreed upon.

This brings the narrative up to about five years ago, when Mr. Hall met Mrs. Stone, who figures quite prominently in this story.

She is a lady about forty years of age, and although not handsome, has a pleasing face and one that denotes intelligence. She is highly educated, and on the DEATH OF HER HUSBAND, a gentleman well known throughout Missouri, was possessed of some $65,000 in her own right, besides being custodian of about an equal amount for her children, the oldest of whom, DeWitt Clinton Stone, will attain his majority in October next. Besides this son, Mrs. Stone has one little girl and two little boys.

The friendship that sprang up between Mr. Hall and Mrs. Stone in St. Louis, five years ago, was ultimately the result of their forming a co-partnership for conducting a banking business at Warsaw. In the meantime, this friendship had ripened into something stronger, and Mr. Hall made application for a divorce from

HIS SECOND WIFE, and the proceedings are still pending.

It was Mr. Hall's intention, as soon as he had obtained a divorce from his second wife, to wed Mrs. Stone, and with this object in view they established the bank at Warsaw, both removing to that point, where they would be constantly thrown in to each other's society and each might learn to know the other more thoroughly.

In October they removed to Warsaw and leased the building formerly occupied by Mr. J. D. Briggs as a bank—by large odds the finest in the town. It is a two-story brick, the bank being below, while above are several rooms used as sleeping apartments. Into these rooms Mr. Hall and Mrs. Stone and her children removed, furnishing them in elegant style. For a time they had a family in the house with them, with whom Mr. Hall and Mrs. Stone and children boarded, and

ALL WAS MOVING ALONG NICELY. But the family stopped but a short while, and Mr. Hall and Mrs. Stone and children remained, taking their meals at a restaurant.

In a city the size of Sedalia, this would have been considered all right and proper, and the finger of suspicion would never have been pointed at the parties interested. The mere fact that Mr. Hall and Mrs. Stone were occupying rooms in the same building, the latter surrounded by her children and housekeeper, was construed into something improper—something bold and bad. The better element of society did not for a moment tolerate these rumors, but there are always persons who will make a mountain out of a mole hill in cases of this kind, and so they did in this instance.

DeWitt Clinton Stone, the oldest child of Mrs. Stone,

WAS NOT A LITTLE TO BLAME for a portion of this talk, and from this time forward he figures quite prominently in the article. His associates were not of the best, and to his comrades he denounced Mr. Hall most bitterly, characterizing him as a fortune hunter and a man without honor. To still others he told a different story, and a trouble brewed on every hand.

Young Stone has been a spendthrift from early boyhood days, and at the suggestion of Mr. Hall, Mrs. Stone put a check upon his wild career. The large sums that had been handed out formerly were curtailed, and of course this greatly incensed him. He accused Mr. Hall of being the cause of it, and vowed he would have vengeance. Matters went from bad to worse, and the lives of Mr. Hall and Mrs. Stone were made

AS MISERABLE AS POSSIBLE by the conduct of the lady's son. Some two months ago he married, and a change for the better was looked for but was not realized. On every occasion Clint would denounce Hall in public, and twice he assaulted him, once with a slung shot, and with such force that he was compelled to keep his bed for a week.

Then it entered the minds of Mrs. Stone and Mr. Hall that it would be better to have Clint (he is better known by that name) remove from Warsaw, taking with him his young wife. Negotiations were opened with him and it was soon ascertained that he could be induced to take his departure upon the payment of a certain sum of money. This was finally agreed to, and a few days ago he bade

FAREWELL TO HIS WARSAW FRIENDS and returned to Clinton, where he formerly resided. The money consideration is $100 per month until he arrives at age, when he is to receive a certain sum. Besides this, Mr. Hall presented him with a handsome buggy and a valuable horse and other things, and Warsaw will know Clint no more—providing he can manage to subsist on $100 per month.

This action on the part of young Stone thoroughly disgusted the better portion of the people of Warsaw. They discerned instantly that his talk about Hall was nothing but persecution, and with those who had at first thought there might be some truth in the ugly rumors, the idea was instantly dispelled.

The BAZOO reporter talked with all the best business men of the village on the subject in controversy, and

THEY ARE ALL FRIENDS of Mr. Hall and Mrs. Stone. The mere fact that they occupy rooms in the same building and take their meals in a restaurant, has given rise to all this talk, and the BAZOO regrets that the good people of Warsaw permitted themselves to make so much fuss about nothing.

Mrs. Stone is well known throughout Central Missouri, where she has many warm personal friends. That she is a good and pure woman, is not for a moment doubted by those who know her best—and this is verified by all of the elite of the town calling upon and sympathizing with her in her troubles. The talk that has existed there for weeks past has placed her

UPON A BED OF SICKNESS, and when the BAZOO representative called upon her he was convinced that her cup of misery was about full.

Regarding Mr. Hall, nothing was unearthed by the reporter to show that he was other than what he was known to be in years past—a christian gentleman. His past domestic troubles have weighed heavily upon him, and from this cause he may be termed eccentric. He is one of the best business men in that whole section of country, and nearly all those with whom the reporter talked are solicited that he should make Warsaw his home, and live down, by a noble life, the talk which has been raised about him.

He is a gentleman of ample means, public spirited in the highest degree, and cannot but prove a valuable acquisition to any community.

Shooting at Jefferson City. From Charlie Ballou, who came up from Jefferson City yesterday afternoon, a BAZOO reporter learned the particulars of a shooting affray which occurred there Friday night. It seems that Julius Conrath, a young white man, became involved in a difficulty with a colored carriage driver, named Lawrence Smith, over the arrest of another negro, during which Smith drew a revolver and shot Conrath in the right breast, near the shoulder, inflicting a serious wound. Amidst the confusion the negro made his escape, and at last accounts had not been captured.

ALLEGED RASCALITY

On the Part of the President of the Benton County Bank.

A Discharged Cashier Making it Interesting for His Former Employer.

A History of the Case from the Commencement Up to the Present Time.

The people of Warsaw have been not a little exercised during the past few weeks over the arrest of Jas. E. Hall, president of the Benton County bank, charged with forgery, on information furnished by A. K. Marshall, late cashier of the bank, who was removed from office on the 16th of January, 1882.

The bank was organized under the laws of the state and opened up business on the 10th day of October last, the cash capital being $50,000, with $10,000 paid in. The incorporators were Mr. James E. Hall and Mrs. E. A. Stone, each of whom paid in $5,000, and filled the positions of president and vice-president respectively.

In 1878, while living in St. Louis, Mr. Hall made the acquaintance of A. K. Marshall, a relative of the celebrated Kentucky Marshalls, and when

A CASHIER WAS NEEDED, Mr. Hall took Marshall into his employ, at a salary of $30 per month and board. Marshall had been given to dissipation not a little, and when picked up by Hall, was in about as sorry a fix as it was possible for man to be. He promised to give up drinking, however, and Mr. Hall felt assured that he would do so.

As stated, on the 10th day of October the bank was opened for business, with Marshall at the cashier's desk. Every indication pointed to success, and such would certainly have been the result had the business been properly attended to. Such was not the case. Mr. Hall was compelled to be away from home a great deal, and during his absence Marshall conducted the affairs of the bank to suit himself.

He renewed his old habits, and was often incapacitated for business on account of drinking. In vain Mr. Hall pleaded with him to reform, but to no purpose, and an open rupture occurred between the two men, resulting in MARSHALL BEING DISCHARGED on the 16th day of January, and the appointing of T. C. Chapman as his successor.

On examining the books, Messrs. Hall and Chapman became convinced that some irregularities existed, and on the recommendation of Mr. J. C. Thompson, of this city, Prof. W. H. Moore, of Moore & Fraker's college, visited Warsaw for the purpose of examining the books. Mr. Moore is one of the finest accountants in the state. He and an assistant remained there a week, and at the conclusion of his labors, Mr. Moore informed Mr. Hall that Marshall was short something over $1,200.

Marshall, after being discharged, remained in Warsaw, and was loud in his denunciation of Hall, whom he claimed was a dishonest man, and his discharge was brought about simply because Hall could not use him for his own base purposes. This was, of course, denied by Hall.

When Mr. Moore was examining the certificates of deposit, he made the discovery that there were two for $950 each, and one of them bore undeniable evidence of the date

HAVING BEEN CHANGED from December 31st to November 3d. Both of these certificates were in the handwriting of Marshall and duly signed by him. Marshall claimed that one was a duplicate, and that Hall had changed the date, and thus $950 of his $1,200 shortage could be accounted for.

On this information a warrant was issued for Hall's arrest, and he was taken in custody, and his trial set for the 15th of March. Mr. Hall secured as counsel Judge Shirk, of this city, and James H. Lay, of Warsaw, while P. D. Hastain, prosecuting attorney of Benton county, represented the state.

When the case was called, both sides were ready and the examination commenced. A question arose as to the propriety of permitting the books of the bank to be introduced as evidence against Hall, the state's attorney demanding them, while defendant's counsel were equally as positive they were not admissible. Justice Morgan, before whom the case was being tried, ruled that the books must be produced, and defendant's attorneys took the matter to the county court, where Justice Morgan's ruling was sustained, and Mrs. Stone was ordered to produce them. They were not forthcoming, and as Justice Morgan refused to have Mrs. Stone locked up for contempt of court, Mr. Hastain dismissed the case and brought it before Justice Hamm, where it was called on Thursday last.

Again the propriety of introducing the books as evidence arose, and Mr. Hamm decided that Mr. Hall could not be made to produce them. The state's attorney asked that Mrs. Stone be compelled to produce the books, and a paper to that effect was issued. Mrs. Stone was confined in her bed, but made answer through her attorneys that she had not possession of the books and could not get them. It was ordered that she be committed to jail for contempt until she produced them, but owing to her illness this order was not enforced.

An adjournment was then had, and it was agreed between the counsel for the state and the defendant that the knotty question as to the admissibility of the books should be argued before Judge Gantt, at Clinton, on Tuesday, and the trial resumed before Justice Hamm, at Warsaw, on Thursday.

Mr. Moore, of this city, who is a witness in the case, says there is NOT A SHADOW OF GUILT on the part of Mr. Hall, and it will be so shown when the case is again called up. The defendant's attorneys are fighting against the admission of the books simply because the law does not compel them to produce them.

Mr. Hall is sure of a vindication, and the purpose is then to arrest Marshall and prosecute him to the full extent of the law. The end is not yet, evidently, from what the BAZOO man was able to learn.

LATER INFORMATION.

Yesterday afternoon Judge Shirk appeared before Probate Judge John A. Lacy and filed an application on behalf of Mrs. Stone for a writ of habeas corpus. The petition states that Mrs. Stone was unable to produce the books and papers required for her under the subpoena duces tecum, for the reason that said books, which were the teller's blotter, general and individual ledger, draft book, state savings association book of certificates of deposit and the letter book, were the joint property of herself and the defendant J. E. Hall, and that Hall objected to the introduction of the books in EVIDENCE AGAINST HIMSELF, and refused to part with the same, or deliver them up to her for that purpose, and, as she had no means of producing said books, she could not bring them before the court. Whereupon Judge Lacy issued the writ prayed for, returnable forthwith. Mrs. Stone will have a reasonable time in which to appear before Judge Lacy, as the law gives a person placed in the circumstances which summoned Mrs. Stone at least twenty-four hours. The hearing upon this application will come off on Monday. Judge Lacy can only try the question as to whether she is lawfully imprisoned, and will have nothing to do with any matters collateral to this question. In other words, the propriety of the justice's action in the matter will be the only question.

A Railroad Official Interviewed. Not every one so cheerfully communicates his knowledge and opinions as recently did E. L. Loweree, esq., cashier of the Cincinnati Southern railway, that splendid outlet to the south from the Ohio. Our representative waited upon Mr. Loweree, and in reply to certain questions the latter gentleman observed: "I was suffering from a very severe attack of rheumatism in my right foot; it was in a terrible condition; the pain was almost intolerable; our family physician waited on me without success; I sent for another well-known M. D., but even the twain could do nothing for me; I could not get down here to the office to attend to my duties; in fact I could not put my foot under me at all, and after nine weeks' suffering I began to grow desperate. My friend (whom, of course you know, for he is known by everybody,) Mr. Stacey Hill, of the Mount Auburn Inclined Plane Railroad company, called to see me; he spoke very highly of St. Jacobs Oil, and recommended the remedy to me in glowing terms. I laughed at the idea of using a proprietary medicine, and yet the party recommended it. (Mr. Stacey Hill, remember,) being a man of sound judgment, set me to thinking the matter over. The next day, when the physicians called, I dismissed them, and said to myself that I would let nature take its course. That resolution lasted just a day. On the following morning I, in a fit of desperation, sent a servant for a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil. I applied that wonderful remedy, and it penetrated me so that I thought my foot was about to fall, but it did not; in fact it did just the opposite. The next morning the pain had entirely left my foot, the swelling was reduced, and really the appearance was so different altogether from the day before, that it actually surprised me. I applied more of the St. Jacobs Oil, and that afternoon I walked down here to the office, and was able to attend to my duties and get around as well as any one. Let me say for St. Jacobs Oil that it beats railroad time, and is always sure to win.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The History. We have been permitted, through the kindness of Messrs. North & Sparks, compilers of the Pettis county history, to examine a work which they have already completed on our neighbor, Johnson county. It is a well written and cleverly arranged book of over one thousand pages, handsomely covered with cuts of buildings and portraits of prominent men of the county. If our people sufficiently encourage and aid in the enterprise, Pettis county will have a similar work of which to boast. The Warrensburg Standard speaks thus of the Johnson county history: "This work is now complete and being delivered to subscribers. We have examined the work and find it in every respect up to the promises in the prospectus. It contains a condensed history of Missouri; the constitution of the state; an elaborate history of Johnson county, its early settlement, organization, pioneers, etc.; its growth, improvements and wealth; a history of Warrensburg and other cities and towns, churches, schools, societies, manufactures, etc. Also, biographical sketches of early settlers and prominent citizens. Also, a map of the county, designating townships, cities and towns, school houses, churches, etc. It is bound in full morocco, printed on fine, heavy paper, and contains 1,000 pages. In all these respects it surpasses the promises given in the prospectus. Its illustrations are numerous and good. Its information concerning the early settlement, improvement and gradual growth of the county, is valuable, and will be of increasing value as the living actors pass away.

These gentlemen will also issue a hand book and business directory of Sedalia.

Quick and Sure. Many miserable people drag themselves about with failing strength, feeling that they are steadily sinking into their graves, when by using Parker's Ginger Tonic they would find a cure commencing with the first dose, and vitality and strength quickly and surely coming back to them.

Without a Rival. To the traveling man a first-class hotel is one of the essentials, but 'tis not often you find them in this neck of woods. In the Campbell house, at Warsaw, you find an exception, however. It is presided over by Mr. J. A. Campbell, and the writer knows whereof he speaks when he states that it is, without doubt, the best conducted country hotel in the state. The outside of the building does not present a handsome appearance, but when you take a seat at the table, or recline upon the beds, then it is that you realize that Mr. Campbell cannot be improved upon as a host. It is truly a haven of rest where you are made to feel perfectly at home.
