

OSGOOD—KREBS.

The Famous Krebs-Osgood suit Assumes a New Phase.

How the Little Game of Kidnaping Kidnappers Failed

The readers of the BAZOO will remember the famous Krebs-Osgood suit brought at the last term of the circuit court, in which George C. Osgood attempted to gain possession of his son, Charles Osgood, aged 8 years, which Mrs. Krebs, its mother, had in possession. The case was long and hotly contested, but ended in Mrs. Krebs, nee Mrs. Osgood, being awarded the permanent custody of the child with her present husband, Charles Krebs, as guardian. Osgood at the time was very indignant over his failure and swore he would or spend his last dollar, and ever since then the Krebs have been expecting to hear from him, and yesterday afternoon their expectations found fruition when Deputy Constable Waller, of Labette county, Kan., Osgood's home, appeared at the the Krebs mansion, on Ohio street, backed by a posse committatus composed of Marshall Barnett, Chas. Barnett, Chas. McGhee, Doc. Graham and Osgood's valiant attorney from Kansas. Entering the presence of Mrs. Krebs, a requisition for her arrest, duly endorsed by Gov. Marmaduke, and charging her with kidnaping, was read to her by the valiant deputy, while his chivalrous aids stood ready to prevent any hostile demonstrations on her part. It wanted but when they appeared, but she demanded the right to send for her attorney, and did so in spite of their demurrers. Fortunately Messrs. Sampson and Smith were at their office, and realizing the situation and the cunning attempt to kidnap their client under pretext of law, they hastened to the court house just in time to catch Judge McClung preparing to leave. A habeas corpus writ was quickly made out and providence again favored them by causing Deputy Bowers to appear, he having just returned from serving the replevin in the Sturtevant case. In a moment the new writ was in his hand and his horse sped him to the scene of the attempted snare practice just in time to prevent the forcible conveyance of Mrs. Krebs to the depot. The astonished and non-plussed officials having no other way for it proceeded to Judge McClung's. Osgood's attorney skipping out for Kansas while Osgood in person came round the corner to assume his place. Judge McClung demanded their return to the writ and the Kansas outfit agreed to have it ready by 10 a. m. to-day and Mrs. Krebs was ordered into the custody of Deputy Bowers.

ON HORSE BACK

"I have a very great responsibility in this matter and want to know that she is in the hands of parties who will not allow her to go out of the city," said Constable Waller.

He was politely informed that Missouri sheriffs quite as well and were fully as responsible as Kansas constables, and so the matter ended until the court shall meet to-day.

The BAZOO when this sad case was before the court made mention of the fondness of the child for his mother and its dread of his father, and when the decision of the court was reached there was a universal expression of approval among the citizens over the result, and it was hoped the matter was ended, but it seems otherwise.

MRS. KREBS' STORY.

A reporter visited Mrs. Krebs last night and she made substantially the following statement:

That at the age of 16 she ran away from home to marry Osgood against the wishes of her parents, coming with him to Missouri to get the ceremony performed. They then went to live with Osgood's parents at Parsons. Here she found herself sadly mistreated both by them and Osgood. A year and a half after marriage, the son, who is the bone of contention, was born. Finding life with them unbearable, not being allowed to see any of his friends, and not being furnished any money on which to subsist, she told him and they separated, the infant being left in her keeping, it being agreed by Osgood that she should have the custody of him until he was twelve years of age. Osgood she also claims gave her a note for $150 to be paid to the boy, but he afterward got her to return the note, promising to deed the child a house and lot in lieu of it, but although this was two years ago, and two years after they parted he had failed to do so. About the same time she claims he got possession of the child by

and took it to his home, where he had another wife whom he had married after being divorced. This woman she says was a widow who had a son named Willie Loveland who badly mistreated her boy, and she instituted a suit in the Kansas court for the recovery of the child. Osgood then spirited the boy away and she finally found him in the possession of near South Monnd, Kan., and after much persuasion she induced her to give him up and took him to Oswego, where a preliminary trial was had, after which she had the child brought to Missouri in order to prevent being bound over not to leave the state with him. Since she has been in this state she married Mr. Charles Krebs, who was appointed by Judge McClung guardian of the child, and that appointment was confirmed by the circuit court at its last session. Altogether the case is a very sad one and a commentary upon the evils of domestic infelicity. But it's last phase does not reflect any great credit upon the wisdom or shrewdness of the Kansas officials who will come into Missouri and attempt to carry off by stealth, under protection of a requisition, a defenseless woman.

LATER.

Yesterday's BAZOO contained a simple, plain, forward statement of the high handed manner in which Geo. C. Osgood aided by an attorney and a deputy constable from Kansas attempted to kidnap under the guise of law a lady citizen of Sedalia and carry her off to Kansas. The peculiar and underhanded manner in which the arrest was sought to be made created no small amount of indignation among those who knew of the circumstances, and the very prompt action of Attorneys Smith and Sampson, Deputy Sheriff Bowers and Judge McClung received strong commendation. After the service of the habeas corpus writ Osgood and his confederates every possible means in their power to prevent if possible any communication being had with

by those whom they thought the interested friends of Mrs. Krebs, but Missouri unfortunately for them, is a free state in a free country, and Mrs. Krebs and her husband have since their residence in Sedalia, made by their honorable conduct, more friends than their persecutors know of. As a consequence County Recorder Conner and Attorney E. J. Smith left on Tuesday night's train to interview Governor Marmaduke and inform him as to the true situation of affairs, while the Parsons state senator, skipped out for home, thinking doubtless it was the best place for him under the circumstances. Deputy Waller and Osgood remained in Sedalia, and securing the services of a couple of coons, proceeded to keep watch and guard over Mrs. Krebs, and Deputy Bowers to make sure they did not elope out of Sedalia. The night passed quietly, but this morning Judge McClung received a telegram from the governor which read as follows:

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., July 8, 1885.

C. M. McClung, Probate Judge:— You will hold jurisdiction of the persons of Mrs. Louetta Krebs and Mrs. Martha Snyder, and direct the sheriff of your county to keep them in his own possession until further advised by me.

[Signed.]

JOHN S. MARMADUKE, Governor.

Simultaneously with this came a telegram to Sheriff Murray of the following purport:

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., July 8.

L. S. Murray, Sheriff:—

You are hereby directed not to execute my warrant of yesterday for the arrest and delivery to the agent of Kansas of Mrs. Louetta Krebs and Mrs. Martha E. Snyder until you are further advised from me.

JOHN S. MARMADUKE, Governor.

This settled the matter of the habeas corpus trial before Judge McClung, and the matter was then laid over until to-day.

When the evening train arrived from the east Recorder Conner and Mr. Smith returned home, bearing a letter of which the following is a copy:

L. S. Murray, Sheriff, Sedalia, Mo.:

SIR—On yesterday, the 7th, upon the requisition of the governor of Kansas based upon papers in due form charging Mrs. Louetta Krebs and Mrs. Martha E. Snyder with the crime of kidnaping a child, I issued a warrant for the arrest and delivery to the agent of the state of Kansas the said Mrs. Krebs and Mrs. Snyder. The requisition in the case was presented to me by a Mr. Kimball, of Parsons, Kan., who undertook to give the history of the case and explain more fully than was done in the paper the circumstances surrounding it.

This morning Messrs. John W. Connor and E. J. Smith, both of Sedalia, Mo., appeared before me and made a presentation so completely contradicting the facts as presented to me yesterday in several material points that I have determined to suspend the operation of my said warrant until I more fully know the facts in the case. Mr. Kimball represented that neither of the said women was the mother of the child, but that said mother was dead. These women bring the grandmother and aunt of the child. He also stated that the woman had resided continually for years past in the state of Kansas until a few months ago preceding the offense, and that to the best of his information they were only transiently in Missouri. He also stated that there had been no legal controversy for and determination of the proper custody of the said child. Each of these statements is specifically and distinctly contradicted by Messrs. Connor and Smith, who claim that the falsity of Mr. Kimball's statements, and the verity of their own on these points is fully proved by the records of a proceeding had upon a writ of habeas corpus in the circuit court of Pettis county since the date of the alleged offense in Kansas.

Upon this state of facts I have telegraphed the judge of the probate court of your county to hold jurisdiction of the persons of Louetta Krebs and Martha E. Snyder and direct the sheriff of your county to keep them in his own possession until further advised by me. I have also telegraphed you not to execute my warrant of yesterday etc. until further advised by me, and I now further direct that you retain the custody of the said Mrs. Krebs and Mrs. Snyder until such a time as Messrs. Connor and Smith can produce the records of the proceedings alluded to, or until you are otherwise directed by me. Very truly yours,

JNO. S. MARMADUKE.

This shows conclusively the means adopted by the Kansas to secure endorsement to the requisition, and also why they were so very anxious to get it served and the persons wanted out of the state without any inquiry into their proceedings.

That they have by such a course benefited any real grounds of complaint against the parties at whom their prosecution is leveled, is an open question, but it is no open question that the people of Sedalia now believe that Osgood's threat, when defeated in the courts here, that he would make this earth a hell to Mrs. Krebs or spend his last dollar trying, was not a mere idle assertion, but an expressed determination.

Leg Broken.

Chris Prentice, an old resident of this city, formerly a policeman and has been in the employ of the railroad company, had his leg broken at Montserrat yesterday morning while en route to Kansas City on a freight train. Mr. P. was assisting the train men in making a running switch when unfortunately he met with the accident.

He was brought to this city and taken to his residence on Summit street, between Fifth and Sixth streets, where his injuries were dressed. Chris has a summer contract and the sympathy of his friends.

Run Away.

Albert Williams, aged 11 years, ran away from his home on Main street last Tuesday and his mother is very anxious to hear of his whereabouts. He was dressed in a blue suit, soft black hat and button shoes and may try to go to his uncle's at Clinton, Mo.

WANTS TO DIE.

A Case of Attempted Suicide at Cole Camp.

The Husband of the Victim Skips for Salt Lake.

There was a furor of excitement at Cole Camp Tuesday night when it was reported that Mrs. Tucker, wife of Al Tucker, the hotel-keeper, had attempted suicide by shooting herself and taking laudanum. As to the cause of the rash act little could be learned, though it is claimed to be a case of domestic infelicity, which report is given color by the fact that her husband, Al Tucker, was in the city yesterday and informed a reporter that he was on his way to Salt Lake. Mr. Tucker is a young and energetic man and has for several years been regarded as a quiet, good neighbor. There is behind the affair a dark background, however, which may yet force the matter into public notice.

Mrs. Tucker was attended by Dr. Keiffer who yesterday expressed the opinion that she would recover.

Why Not?

"I want Sedalia to build a road to Marshall at once," said Mr. W. J. Hockett to a reporter yesterday. "What is the matter with the people here, anyhow? I am an old Sedalian and like all the rest of that class, I can't get rid of my affection for her. Such a road would be worth a clean $100,000 a year to her above all expenses. I have just come from Marshall and from the coal beds, and as one disinterested in Marshall or her people, and having nothing at stake in Sedalia, I want to say to Sedalians, you never had a better opportunity and never will have a better one, to get up a boom that will send Sedalia away up in prosperity, than that offered you by building such a railroad. I am an old practical railroad man, and if I know anything at all, it is the value of a road, real or prospective. The Marshall people are anxious to join Sedalia, and will pay liberally for the privilege. You ought to build the road at once."

Commence the Year Right.

Don't make too many resolutions, but hold on like grim death to those you make. If your physical system is out of order you should attend to that at once; for its no use trying to keep a stiff upper lip when your kidneys or liver are taking the course out of you. If you have really made up your mind to turn over a new leaf, commence the year by taking a thorough course of the celebrated Kidney-Wort. Thousands of people testify to its good effects for kidney diseases, biliousness, piles, constipation, etc.

To the Pen.

Deputy Sheriff Isaac Jackson came down from Kansas City yesterday on his way to the penitentiary with the following recently sentenced convicts: J. C. Miller, alias Muller, burglary, three years; J. J. McRae, obtaining money by confidence game, four years; T. H. Burkman, burglary, ten years; Andy Windland, robbery, first degree, seven years.

The prisoners were all rather fine looking men and well dressed.

"That's what I am sent for," said Windland, showing the reporter a well worn silk handkerchief. "That was given me by the man who swore against me and it will cost me seven years in the pen."

The sheriff stated the prisoner was "giving straight goods," and that he rather expected his sentence would be commuted.

"People generally think when a man shows a light heart on his way to where we are going that it is because he is a hardened criminal," said McRae, "but it is not always so, but its just as well to face the inevitable with a smile as a frown, no matter how the heart hurts."

As the train was about to pull out the scribe could learn no more from the history of the men and their crimes, but he is compelled to say they were the most gentlemanly quartette he ever saw going to prison.

More Recruits.

Cliff Wade, who in 1883 murdered Bob Cummings at Madison station, Monroe county, and then fled to York county, Nebraska, where he was apprehended and returned to Monroe county last December, will pass through Sedalia to-day on his way to the penitentiary to serve out a twelve years sentence for his crime. James McDonald and Charles Warner, each sentenced for a five year term for burglary, will accompany him.

The deceased was an exemplary and promising young man, possessed of the respect and love of all who knew him, and gave promise of a life of great usefulness. About six months ago he contracted a severe cold while visiting in Chicago, which developed into consumption, and although he visited California and other points seeking relief, the disease continued to rapidly sap away his life until death came to end all.

O. A. Harris, the well known livery man, has developed a serious and dangerous case of insanity in the last few weeks. The result of misfortune and sickness. His wife is also very low and cannot recover. Yesterday Officers Gossage and Mooney were sent to Mr. Harris with orders to remove all firearms from his possession, in order to prevent him doing himself or any one else harm with them: He gave up two guns and a revolver. Mr. Harris' misfortunes are deeply regretted by his many friends, as he has proven himself an upright and honorable citizen and is respected by all. Lost His Grip.

H. C. Duffield came to town yesterday like a dutiful husband to make some purchases for his wife, but I ke an undutiful spouse he made other purchases for himself which were not at all calculated to lend lustre to his fair name or brain. After filling up with benzine he met Officer Golden on Third street and informed him that some parties at Benson's saloon had confiscated a coffee sack belonging to him, which contained twelve yards of calico, four yards of bleached muslin, six yards of sugar and coffee. The officer went with Duffield to the saloon and to several other places but failed to find the sack and contents. Where Duffield left them, if indeed he ever had them, is still a mystery.

A south bound conductor in passing through his train at the Garrison house, hailing his passengers to the right cars, came across one whom he could not understand and called in his German brakeman. The obliging brakeman rattled away at the astonished passenger in the foreign tongue for about five minutes when the latter got up, astonished his interlocutor and amused the passengers by remarking, "Ye bloody hatbens, what would yees be after taking me to be; it's Irish I am and its Irish or American yees should be talkin to me and not such a murthin bloody linggo as that if yees want a decent answer."

RAILROAD RACKET.

—Charles Dorman came down Friday by the way of the K. C. C. & S., happening to catch a train at Harrisville bringing the crossing for the M. K. & T. He has the honor of being the first passenger coming in on that road.—Clinton Advocate.

—Men and teams are arriving in considerable numbers to work on the new road between Rich Hill and Appleton City. Some thirty or forty men with teams are now camped near the Gulf round house. They expect to be put to work very soon. Large numbers are also congregated at Appleton City for the same purpose, which would indicate that there is something in the wind. When the company is ready, the word will be given, and everything will go with a rush.

—Vice President H. M. Hoxie, of the Missouri Pacific railway system, has issued the following circular: The management of the Missouri Pacific railway system is desirous of placing the property of the companies in good sanitary condition, and trusts that so doing will be the means of accomplishing a positive good to all concerned. Results obtained in sanitary matters have established the fact that much time, trouble and sickness among the employes may be averted by a systematic, methodical and careful application of sanitary measures. The management will always be ready to cooperate promptly and he ritily with all state and local boards of health with which it may come in contact, and, moreover, asks the hearty cooperation of all others concerned in this matter. The sanitation of the system has been placed under the direction of Dr. W. E. Outten, chief surgeon, and all rules and directions issued by him must be strictly adhered to and carried out. Superintendents of the various roads of the system are expected to see that such rules and directions as are established by Dr. Outten are adhered to in the territory over which they preside. All expenses are chargeable to conducting transportation.

THE SITUATION AT THE SHOPS.

Reports have been flying around to the effect that a number of men were this morning installed at work in the different departments of the Wabash shops at this place. Not being satisfied with the contradictions as to the number a Monitor representative visited them to find out the truth of the matter. The greatest courtesy was extended to him by the foreman of the different departments when his mission was made known. In the machinist's quarters but bare one machinist was at work, with three or four helpers at various kinds of other work. In the paint shop but one man was at work. The car shops are working about twenty men, all told, and this statement was corroborated by every man questioned on the subject and also by actual observation. This comprises several minor departments, in each of which from three to a half-dozen men were at work. This is exclusive of clerks. The engines are running, which gives the place the semblance of work until you get on the inside, when one is struck with the quietness of a place where hundreds of men may be employed and find plenty to do. In the yards are about six hundred cars, three hundred and fifty of which are serviceable and ready for use, but are known as detained cars. The others, about two hundred and fifty, are disabled. About thirty-five engines are to be seen, eighteen or twenty of which are in use. The others are either disabled or dead. Laborers in the yards are also scarce, and would probably run the number of men employed in and around the yards, inside and outside the shops, to thirty-five.—Moberly Monitor.

A Bad Accident.

Yesterday afternoon Wm. Alcorn, a huckster, left his team a few moments standing near Rippey's shop on Second street, to wait on a customer. While he was gone Pat Meyer, aged 4 years, son of Chris Meyer, climbed into the wagon and got hold of the lines causing the team to start east pretty rapidly. When they reached the rock piles at the eastern terminus of the macadamizing in front of Dr. Boyer's place the wheels struck the rock, throwing the boy high in the air. He came down on his head among the jagged boulders laying the skull bare on the right temple and badly bruising himself about the body. He was carried into Dr. Boyer's office where his wounds were dressed and he was then conveyed to his home on Thirteenth and Washington avenue. His wounds are not thought fatal, but his escape is considered miraculous.

EL DORADO SPRINGS.

A Bazoote's Praise and Opinion of Them.

A Large Number of Sedalians Sojourning There.

El Dorado Springs, July 5.—[Correspondence.]—The remarkably cool weather which has prevailed for the past four or five days does not decrease the number of arrivals at this famous health resort. Daily stage coaches and carriages come in filled with visitors. This can be accounted for from the fact that El Dorado Springs is in the full use of the word a health resort and not a place for those seeking pleasure and fashion only. All the hotels seem to be full to their utmost capacity but still there is always some place to locate new cozers pleasantly and comfortably.

Your correspondent on arriving here last Tuesday registered at the Grand Central hotel, of which our genial fellow townsman, Mr. W. A. McMillan is the proprietor, and where most of the "Sedalia crowd" are domiciled. One receives such a hearty welcome from "Mac" and all the occupants of the hotel that they immediately feel "at home."

So much praise has been accorded the waters here that the writer deemed it make a careful test before passing judgment and not allow his imagination to run away with him. After doing so he can conscientiously add his humble testimonial to
