Bitten by a Rattlesnake.

This morning, about 10 o'clock, Edward Middleton, son of R. T. Middleton, residing two and one half miles southwest of the city, was bitten by a rattlesnake. The young man has not been very well for some time, and was lying on the porch, and, falling asleep, let his hand drop over the side, when a rattlesnake underneath bit him.

He at once awakened and arose in time to see the snake crawl under the porch, and hear his rattles. In an instant he realized that he had been bitten by the poisonous reptile, and, mounting a horse, rode to the city fast as the horse could run, going directly to Slack's drug store, where he commenced to drink whiskey as fast as he could swallow it down. He drank at least a pint before any effect could be produced, and it was not until he had drunk over a quart that he began to show signs of intoxication. Doctor's Piper and Overstreet were called, and the unfortunate man was soon pronounced safe from the reptile's poisonous fangs, but a more drunken boy was never seen than when he was conveyed from the drug store to the family vehicle, which Mr. and Mrs. Middleton had journeyed to town in this morning.

Fine Mules.

Talking about shipping mules, when it comes to that, Mayor Stevens, perhaps, ships more mules from Sedalia than any other person in the city. Last week he shipped several car loads, and on Monday of this week, another lot of eleven car loads were shipped by the Mayor to St. Louis, comprising some of the finest stock in Central Missouri.

Married His Sister-in-law.

At 9 o'clock this morning Dierch Harns and Mrs. Trina Harns were married by Justice Blair, at the latter's office. They are respectively brother and sister-in-law, she being the wife of his brother, and are both residents of Cole Camp, Benton county.

Strange Case of Trespass.

Ed. Donley is proprietor of a saloon on East Third street, East Sedalia, and on Sunday night last, two young men, whose fictitious names are Sam Jones and Henry Martin, went to the rear door of the saloon, opened it, walked in and succeeded in getting a drink and having a jolly good time. On Monday morning these two young men were surprised to find themselves arrested on a charge of trespass on the complaint of Ed. Donley, the proprietor.

Their trial was set for this morning before Justice Fisher, and resulted in a fine of $3.50 each and costs, amounting to $24.50 in all, which was paid, by whom, is a problem that remains unsolved. The young men pleaded guilty to the charge, which was rather unexpected, from the fact that they have appeared anxious to stand trial ever since the arrest.

The best medical writers claim that the successful remedy for nasal catarrh must be non-irritating, easy of application, and one that will by its own action reach all the remote sores and ulcerated surfaces. The history of the efforts to treat catarrh during the past few years obliges us to admit that only one remedy has completely met these conditions, and that is Ely's Cream Balm. This safe and pleasant remedy has mastered catarrh as nothing else has ever done, and both physicians and patients freely concede this fact. The distressing symptoms quickly yield to it.

Brakeman Injured.

Yesterday afternoon T. N. Cunningham, a brakeman on the M. K. & T., was brought to the Missouri Pacific hospital badly injured from an accident he experienced at Clapper Station, about 120 miles north of this city, at noon yesterday. In an attempt to climb on the pilot of the engine, the engine was given a sudden start, which caused him to miss his footing and to fall on the track in front. Luckily for him, however, his life was saved by his clothes catching on some portion of the pilot, and the injuries received were due to being dragged for a distance of about one hundred feet. He was considerably bruised, and is perhaps injured internally, yet the physicians say that he will soon recover.

Sleeplessness.

Narcotics and sedatives murder sleep; the unnatural stupor is soon followed by ill effects. Simmons Liver Regulator removes the cause of restlessness and sleeplessness by regulating the bowels, by establishing good digestion and by quieting the nerves.

"I have been a great sufferer from dyspepsia and loss of sleep. As soon as I feel the least nervous I take a dose of Simmons Liver Regulator, and sleep all night."

Mrs. E. BRYANT, Griswoldville, Ga.

Wedded Abroad.

J. P. Warren, son of J. C. Warren, a prominent farmer residing six miles south of the city, returned this afternoon from Jeffersonville, Ind., where he went several days ago to take unto himself a bride.

The newly wedded pair will at once go to their cozy little country home a few miles south of the city, which has been prepared for their reception. The young husband is a popular and well-to-do farmer, and has quite a tract of land in his own name to assist him in making their lives a journey along a path strewn with flowers.

The BAZOO extends hearty congratulations and wishes the newly wedded a union of complete happiness.

Cut His Throat.

Last evening about 9 o'clock a stranger in these parts, named Dave Sallee, of Benton county, became involved in a difficulty with a man named Owens, and was stabbed in the throat with a penknife in the hands of the latter, inflicting a painful if not a fatal wound. Owens is from Morgan county, while both of the men are employes of Wallace Bowman, residing north of the city.

Lost His Money.

H. H. Hathaway, secretary of the Doris & Colvin combination, who was in the city yesterday to aid the two desperadoes now in the county jail, was unfortunate enough to lose $16 out of his vest pocket. As it was all the money he had with him, he was placed in embarrassing circumstances just about train time, but being equal to the emergency through a long experience in predicaments of this kind, he left at 6:05 to join the circus at Clinton, accompanied by the dwarf clown, who miraculously escaped the stone pile yesterday morning.

The unhappy persons who suffer from nervousness and dyspepsia should use Carter's Little Nerve Pills, which are made expressly for sleepless, nervous, dyspeptic sufferers. Price 25 cents, all druggists.

WAIVED EXAMINATION.

And Held To Await The Action of The November Criminal Court.

A Drunken Lexington Officer Thwarts the Arrest of Two Desperadoes.

James Beecher and Charles Ward were before Justice Blair this morning, to answer to the charge of assault with intent to kill John Wall and Edward Fitzgerald.

It was a good scheme for them to plead "not guilty," and waive examination, but it is hardly probable that the men they so badly used up will leave the state until they have testified against their assaulters and launched them behind the bars where it is understood—they have been before.

H. H. Hathaway, secretary of the Doris & Colvin's circus, arrived in the city this morning, to act in behalf of the accused men, but as Justice Blair placed their bond at $2,000 it is more than reasonable to believe that they will await the action of the November criminal court within the confines of the county jail.

They have splendid chances for the state's prison, and, as one of them remarked in court this morning, "I believe our names are Dennis," shows an idea that they are bordering upon the same opinion regarding their fate.

Marshal Jackson and Joe Gossage returned from Lexington yesterday without capturing "Big George" and "Menagerie White," solely because, as Marshal Jackson says, Deputy Sheriff Williams, of that city, was drunk, and as soon as he heard of the matter, went to one of the girls in the show and gave the whole thing away. The news that two officers from Sedalia were there after the men spread among the showmen like wildfire, and if the two desperadoes were with the show they were warned and given time to hide themselves.

It was while Officers Jackson and Gossage were inside the tent talking to some one, that Colvin, one of the proprietors, came up and said that he understood there were officers from Sedalia looking for the men who had had the fight. Then it was that Jackson said: "Joe, let's go home," and they started for the train, which had pulled out some time before.

Marshal Jackson stated this morning that he never saw more drunks at a circus than at Lexington, that the officers there only arrested one member of the gang and that there were fully seventy-five in a beastly state of intoxication. He added that the show men had everything their own way, and that there were about a dozen big fights and not a man arrested with the exception of the one stated. Lexington must be a dry town, when inside the tent the officers say that the mud was ankle deep.

Mr. Hathaway stated to the BAZOO this afternoon that the trouble between the showmen originated from the discharge of Wall and Fitzgerald on the day before, that these two men were trying to pick a fight all day, and had been driven away from the ticket wagon to protect ladies from insult by their loud and indecent language. He stated also that "Big George" and "Menagerie White" were not with the show now, but were hiding, he thought, in the vicinity of Sedalia, and that this was the first trouble the show had gotten into this season.

Nothing breakable that "SPALDING'S GLECK" won't mend.

Fined For Assault.

James Johnson, who resides on West Second street, was before Justice Blair late yesterday afternoon, charged with an assault upon a boy named Charles Heribert. After hearing the testimony his honor gave Johnson a fine of one dollar and costs, amounting to $9.40, which he paid.

A WOMAN'S WISH.

What would I be, if I could have My wish? Ah well, I wenee You know what I would be! Of course I could be but a queen.

Ah yes, indeed! A queen I'd be, To rule by right divine; And all I'd fixed my fancy on Should be forever mine.

A queen I'd be who'd wear her crown As lightly as a flower For love's sake, but O never, no, For paltry pelf or power.

My kingdom, it should be as broad As God's own gracious skies; And all my tribute, but the light Of one dear pair of eyes.

The light of eyes that do outshiae The steady stars above, And—shall I ever hear them?—words Of love from lips I love.

O Fate, forbear! Be kind and let Me play my woman's part, Only one throne I ask, and but To queen it o'er the heart.

HOME AGAIN.

Bob DeGarmo Returns to His Old Stamping Grounds Once More.

Yesterday evening Bob DeGarmo, who was sent away from Pettis county by the county court a few weeks ago, returned to the city.

It is stated that Bob walked from St. Louis to Sedalia, and lived off the hospitality of the farmers while en route. He says that the country between Sedalia and the "Future Great" is magnificent, and that the city of St. Louis is "purty as it kin be."

The city authorities were this morning notified by Recorder Levens not to arrest DeGarmo any more on the charge of vagrancy, that he would not hear the case. The recorder stated that it had been contrary to the law that the city had provided this unfortunate man with a home in the calaboose, and that it was the county court's business to take care of him this winter. However, he did not favor the idea of sending him out of the county.

Would it not be a good suggestion that the county court send De Garmo to either the insane asylum or the county poor farm? If something isn't done before the cold season commences, there is no telling what will be the fate of Bob De Garmo.

White Horses and Warm Weather.

"Did you ever see a white or gray horse overcome by the heat?" asked a well known livery stable keeper yesterday.

The gentleman to whom the question was directed put on his thinking cap. The rarity of such an occurrence had never before suggested itself to him, and although he was among thousands of horses every day and had seen hundreds overcome, he could not recall a single instance in which a white or gray horse had been prostrated by the sun's rays.

"The cases of prostration among white or gray horses are very rare," continued the horseman.

"We have forty or fifty of them among the 150 we employ, and I never knew of but one that gave out from the effects of the heat in my experience of twenty years in a stable. This, too was hardly a fair case, as the horse was pulling a heavy coupe, which was overloaded, up one of Fairmount's steep hills. His illness was only momentary, and as soon as he received a little care he was all right again.

"Can I account for it?" "Well not exactly. But I suppose that white or gray does not extract the heat like darker colors. You have probably noticed this in your dress. A black shiny-surfaced coat seems to burn into your very flesh, while a garment of light-colored cloth appears cool and breezy. This is probably why white or gray horses stand the heat better. They are not so susceptible to the sun's rays.

"Keep a sharp lookout after this, and you will see that cases where white or gray horses succumb to the heat are as rare as the dead donkey in England." A veterinary surgeon, speaking on the same subject, said that the liveryman's theory that the light colors did not attract the heat so readily as the darker ones was correct.

"This is well known," said the surgeon, "in many of the countries where the climate is very warm and for this reason alone horses of dark colors are rarely seen. In Cuba white, gray or sorrel horses bring high prices, while black and dark bays can be bought for a song. The people of the wealthier class will not buy them at all, and as a consequence, no dark horses are brought into the country."

TAIL COLLISION.

Two Trains Collided Between Kansas City and Independence this Morning.

One Passenger not Seriously Hurt—One Woman Injured While not on Either Train.

Kansas City, Oct. 13. [Special.]—Trains No. 49, a Wichita train, and No. 47, the Kansas City and Independence accommodation, both loaded with people enroute for this place morning got together on "Independence hill" at 9:30. The accommodation train, Ed Nicholson, conductor, was ahead, and was run into by the Wichita train, G. Turmy, conductor.

A RELIEF TRAIN

with a corps of surgeons was sent at once to the wreck, before it was known how much the accident amounted to. As it turns out, however, there was but little for them to do, as only one passenger is hurt, as far as can be learned. As soon as the collision took place, and the trains came to a stand still, the passengers scattered so quickly that it was impossible to learn definitely just who was injured. Only two were hurt, but what they walked about the fields and adjacent groves.

A MRS. GORDON.

a woman residing near where the wreck occurred, was standing beside the track watching the trains, is injured in the side, but not seriously. She is able to talk, and the chances are that she will live to see many more trains.

DAMAGE—CAUSE.

The locomotive pulling the Wichita train, No. 256, is badly stove in in front, while a passenger coach is minus the front end. A baggage car on the Wichita train has one end badly shattered.

A heavy fog hung over the entire Missouri river bottom this morning, and it is believed here in railroad circles that the accident occurred owing to the inability of the engineer on the Wichita train to see far ahead.

The track was cleared by noon so that travel will not be further interrupted.

Natural Religion.

Boston Traveler. Little Georgie, after his mother had prepared him for bed, while still in her lap, used to say his evening prayer. One night he said:

"I don't want to say my prayers in this way," and getting out of his mother's lap, he knelt down before her, and placing his open hands together, repeated his prayer. When his father heard of this he was much interested. He always felt that this was the proper attitude in prayer in the family and in the closet. As nothing had been said to Georgie on the subject, he thought it was evidence of a sort of natural religion. "Georgie" said his father, "do you suppose God likes to have you say your prayers this way better than the way you used to?"

"Oh, I don't suppose God cares anything about it. I was thinking of the kangaroo." He had lately been to the menagerie and seen that animal sitting on its haunches with its fore feet placed together somewhat as he placed his hands in saying his prayers.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

There lies on the editorial table a twelve-page monthly, printed in Boston, on tinted paper, and with the title, "Our Dumb Animals." It is the organ of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and is edited by George T. Angell, the president of that society. The little paper has a sphere of usefulness broader than one would suppose. It is the champion of the dumb animals, "the silent friends of man," whose love for him is manifested every day. There is some excuse for human warfare; to man is given the power over the beasts of the field, and he brings into subjection, by the force of his will, the lower animals. He uses them for his own good; he expects of them much return for little outlay, and treats them, sometimes, as though they were blocks of stone. He meets his enemy on a common level, and mind against mind battles for the mastery. He conquers the spirit of his horse, or his dog, by the power of mind over matter. The faithful horse goes plodding along, doing the work mapped out by the brain-guided hand of the superior animal, uncomplaining and thankful. The voice of his master is a familiar sound; and he comes and goes at his bidding, doing with his strong muscles the work of stronger brain.

And for all this, what?

The lash, and curses, and a load greater than he can bear, until, overcome by the weight, he sinks to the ground exhausted. No matter how warm or cold the weather; no matter the condition of the ground; whether he be well or ill; the master clothes himself to suit the weather; fortifies himself against the ills of the flesh, and, pushing out, takes no heed of his horse's needs. The poor horse cannot say to him, "Master, I am unwell and unfit for service; content yourself with telling me to stand to-day in the broiling sun or driving rain. I am content to take what God sends, but I cannot draw your load; I cannot carry your weight over long distances, I am ill." No. Uncomplaining, he puts his shoulder to the collar, or suffers the saddle to be placed on his back, and makes his way by the guiding hand of his master.

The horse is man's most faithful friend. He should be so treated, and it is the duty of the society of which "Our Dumb Animals" is the organ, and all other such societies, to see that he is so treated.

A Sure Cure for a Cold.

New York Mail and Express.

"I can prescribe a cure for your cold."

"But this is not a cold," replied the reporter to the druggist who proffered the remedy.

"Well, for your bronchitis, then; but you wouldn't take it."

"You know best about that. You ought to know how your own medicines taste."

"This isn't of my own preparation. It comes out of the earth, and should be taken as it is found."

"What is this wonderful cure?"

"Crude petroleum. One teaspoonful before each meal is the best remedy for bronchitis that I know of. Some persons in the oil regions, where I lived for several years, drink large quantities of the stuff, but one teaspoonful is sufficient."

"It must be a disgusting thing to take?"

"At first it is rather unpalatable, but one gradually grows to like it. Those who drink a pint at a time are very fond of it. I have known some very obstinate cases of throat trouble cured by it. It is an excellent tonic, and builds up the entire system at the same time, curing the malady it is especially designed to relieve. Try it and come back and tell me how you like it."
