

THE HEARNES AGAIN,

Another Sensational Story Concerning Their Escapades in California.

The news comes from Hannibal that Dr. Hearne has been placed under arrest at Los Angeles, Cal., and that Mrs. Hearne has gone crazy. The Hearnese will be remembered as having created several sensations in Hannibal.

Mrs. Hearne, it will be remembered, was formerly the wife of A. J. Stillwell, the wealthy pork man who was murdered several years ago. That sensation was followed by another, in her marriage to Dr. Hearne on the first anniversary of Stillwell's death.

Not long ago the papers were filled with accounts of her attempt to run off to Germany, the facts in the case being, it is said, as follows:

Dr. Hearne had been brutal to her, chastising her at different times, and she went to Chicago, where she was met by R. H. Stillwell and wife. There she made her will and left the doctor $1. R. H. Stillwell and wife witnessed the document and returned home. She then left for Germany.

After she had boarded the steamer the doctor induced her to return, the will was altered and he was left almost her entire share. This is vouched for by interested parties and also said to be a fact by one of the county court judges.

THAT BAD THUMB.

Startling Discovery Made by an Otterville Barber Who Used to Shave Hedspeith—An Interview.

Mr. K. W. Hobercht, who resides at Otterville, where he owns a large flouring mill, was in the city this morning and was seen shortly after his arrival by a representative of the BAZOO. From him information was gleaned that, almost beyond question, establishes the identity of the man arrested at that place night before last. The man, it would seem, is none other than Marion Hedspeith the ex-convict who in the early part of December last aided in robbing an express train at Glendale of $100,000.

About dusk Tuesday night, a man, dressed after the manner of a middle class westerner, entered J. W. Bexter's barber shop claiming that his name was John W. Morris and that he was a cousin of Bexter's.

This strange announcement together with the personal appearance of the man, caused Bexter, who had seen his cousin, John W. Morris, of Cooper county, not later than six months ago, to regard the new comer with suspicion though this he managed to conceal.

Further on in course of their conversation, the Glendale robbery was introduced, whereupon Morris carelessly inquired if Bexter knew Hedspeith.

In the meantime, while his "cousin" was talking Bexter busily engaged himself in scrutinizing the man. There were certain peculiarities about him that made his thoughts advert to a man known as Hedspeith, whom he had known in Cooper county years ago and whose face he had shaved many a time. While his mind was employed in trying to find out what it was about the man that seemed familiar, his eye rested on the stranger's thumb and then it was that he became seized with fear, for this thumb, deformed by a felon, corresponded exactly with that of a man he had shaved years ago—a man desperate and dangerous who had served in state's prison seven years having been sent from Cooper county for larceny; Morris and Hedspeith were the same.

Dispatches were sent to Tipton and two detectives arrived on a freight train disguised as cattle men. They went at once to the Bowman hotel where Morris was and having advanced on either side leveled their pistols in his face.

He was searched and on his person was found a huge Colt's revolver. He was taken to Tipton where he is awaiting the arrival of officers from St. Louis to whom he will be delivered.

While in Otterville, he gave various accounts of himself, telling a physician that he had come from Boonville, another Ellston and yet another from Texas.

When arrested, he became seized with a violent spell of nervousness, and refused to talk.

He will be taken to St. Louis today.

LONG EARS IN COURT.

A Case Full of Brays, Both From the Cause of the Suit and the Attorneys.

A case was in the circuit court yesterday which attracted considerable attention from the bar.

Of course it did. The title of the case was Samuel R. Daniel vs John L Johnson.

It was a suit about a blind, long eared animal, a direct descendant of the same kind of an animal on which Balaam went through Jerusalem, and which is mentioned in connection with Bob Ingersoll.

Daniel resides in Benton county and P. D. Hastain was his attorney.

Johnson resides in this county and Sangree & Lamm were his advocates at the bar of justice.

It seems that Daniel on the 8th day of April, 1891, bought of Johnson a jack and paid for the same $241 good and lawful money, which was not disputed by Johnson.

Daniel further alleges in his petition that the animal was warranted sound, but subsequently he, Daniel, discovered that he was blind, so blind he could not see a train of cars, Osage river, Benton County court house or a barn as large as a meeting house.

Could see a fly on the court house dome; A wart on Dad Smith's chin. A boom for Blaine, or a "Home, Sweet Home."

When a mother-in-law is "in." Of course Johnson denied all this in his answer and would affirm that the jack could see anything that was pointed out to him from a peck of corn in the feed trough to a spear of grass on the highest hill in the jungles of Benton county or the beautiful prairies of Pettis.

The evidence was not very voluminous and then came the arguments of the attorneys to an intelligent jury.

Well, the scripture that Messrs Hasting & Lamm don't know about Balaam and his historic steed, whose ears are of regulation length, it is not worth the while of any of the ministers' alliance to search for.

Judge Field sat upon the bench after dark last night to listen to the oratorical efforts of the learned counsel in the case, and if the talk of the attorneys is all taken for truth, they too were great students of the animal kingdom as well as of Biblical lore.

The jury, too, are now resting uneasy on their pillows over the education they received. Their minds were as a blank piece of paper regarding the jack question before this trial, and now they are satisfied that a blind jack is a worthless piece of property and gave the gentleman from Benton county a judgment for $249, all he asked.

And Daniel is happy while Johnson is mad and refuses to be comforted.

A FATAL MISTAKE.

Physicians make no more fatal mistake than when they inform patients that nervous heart troubles come from the stomach and are of little consequence. Dr. Franklin Miles, the noted Indiana specialist, has proven the contrary in his new book on "Heart Disease," which may be had at A. T. Fleischmann's, who guarantees and recommends Dr. Miles' unequalled New Heart Cure, which has the largest sale of any heart remedy in the world. It cures nervous and organic heart disease, short breath, fluttering, pain or tenderness in the side, arm or shoulder, irregular pulse, fainting, smothering, dropsy, etc. His Restorative Nervine cures h. adache, fits, etc.

FALSE PRETENSES.

John Mashburn and a fellow claiming to be his brother appeared at Van Wagner's shoe store yesterday evening and by his misrepresentations secured two pairs of shoes on credit. They claimed to be brakemen on the Missouri Pacific railroad.

Their fraud having been detected, a warrant having been sworn out for them. As yet only Mashburn has been captured.

He was brought up before Justice Blair this morning and on a plea of guilty was fined $10 and costs, amounting in all to about $25.

He will go to jail.

DIED.

John Klein, aged 64, died at the residence of T. H. Shonk 504 East Third street last evening 4:15.

Funeral services will be conducted at the German Catholic church tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Deceased was a victim of yellow jaundice. He leaves no family, having but one relative in this country, a cousin in Chicago, and a half-brother at Paris, France.

Mary, the 11-year old daughter of Mr. W. A. Lutz, died of brain fever, nine miles south of Sedalia yesterday morning at 5 o'clock.

Funeral took place this evening at 2 o'clock, remains being interred in the Bethel cemetery.

The infant child of Mr. Mark Green died yesterday evening at corner of Twentieth and Ohio streets. Funeral took place this evening from the family residence,

THE MARSHALL BANK FAILURE.

The failure of the Cordell Diannica Banking company of Marshall Saturday is more serious than at first supposed. The cause of the failure was the protesting of a $3,000 draft on the National Bank of commerce of St. Louis, and a run on the Cordell bank followed Saturday morning. As stated in yesterday's BAZOO the liabilities are closely estimated at $92,000 deposits and $60,000 in bills payable. The assets of loans to the amount of $130,000, overdrafts $26,000, cash $2500. The overdrafts are all said to be unsecured. The assignee, Mr. J. P. Huston, refuses to give an opinion regarding the value of the $130,000 loans, but it is known that the bank has for a long time held a great deal of doubtful and worthless paper. The assignee is hard at work and will file a complete inventory of all assets not later than Thursday of this week. He will retain Mr. J. H. Cordell, the cashier, as his chief clerk while the affairs of the bank are being wound up. Mr. Cordell, is, in point of experience, the oldest banker in Marshall, and is very popular.

ROGERS IMPROVING.

A BAZOO Reporter Calls on Him—What He Said.

A BAZOO reporter called at the home of G. W. Rogers yesterday evening. Among the sore to whom the reporter applied but one had any definite idea as to where Howard street was. It required fully two hours to locate the man's home at No. 508.

Knocking at the door of an humble little cottage, the reporter was kindly admitted to the room where the wounded man lay swathed in blankets.

Asked as to his condition he replied that he was feeling quite sore—a result naturally to be expected from the nature of the stabs. "I think there is no doubt but what I'll pull through allright," he said, though I'm liable to be confined to my bed for a long season. I feel an unnatural hitch in my breathing that pains me very severely, especially at that particular part where my left lung was penetrated. The doctor told me that had the wound been in the least deeper, there would have been absolutely no chance for my recovery. There are eight different cuts in my body, two of which are the dangerous ones.

"Look at that jacket," he said, pointing to a garment which his wife handed the reporter, who examined it. It was literally cut to pieces—one cut being fully ten inches long. The knife must have been a murderous weapon, indeed.

Referring to Biggs, who did the cutting, Rogers said: "I feel sorry for Biggs; I'm afraid he'll have trouble. He is a good fellow, ordinarily, but when full of whiskey, he's dangerous."

Mr. Rogers stated that the trouble that culminated between himself and Biggs began about four weeks ago when the latter began an unprovoked attack on him. Last Saturday morning he renewed this squabble when Rogers knocked him down. Later in the evening they met again in Riley's saloon, when, no sooner had he left the place than he was seized upon without ceremony by Biggs who emerged from a stairway.

Rogers was handed a copy of the BAZOO. He said the account of the cutting was accurate save in that particular where it said Woods had bought his share in the horse. "I still own half the animal," he said. Rogers rested well last night and today was much improved.

WANTS A DIVORCE.

The Printer Evangelist's St. Louis Wife Freeing Herself From Him.

The numerous wives of Charles Shelly Hughes, the "Printer Evangelist," are gradually freeing themselves from the bonds which united them to him in a matrimonial sense. Saturday Mrs. Mollie A. Hughes, the St. Louis victim of the bigamist, presented a petition in the circuit court at St. Louis, asking a divorce. In her petition she states that she was married to Hughes in Sedalia, April 15, last, and that she lived with him just three days. Then she discovered that he had other wives living in Missouri, Illinois and elsewhere. She also states that he was recently convicted of the crime of bigamy and is now serving a sentence for his crime. In conclusion, she asks a divorce and the restoration of her maiden name, Mollie A. Borgesser.

ROGERS WILL PROSECUTE.

The Wounded Man Not Ultra Sympathetic—His Condition.

G. W. Rogers, the man cut by Bob Biggs Saturday night, was visited at his home, 508 East Howard street, again this morning. Asked by the BAZOO reporter as to his condition he replied that he was feeling better than he did on the occasion of the reporter's last visit. "My side is very sore though," he said, "and is swollen yet though not so much as yesterday. Across my back on a line with the deepest stab my body is almost as hot as fire and I am oppressed with burning sensations in that part. "I feel all right in the morning and fore part of the evening, but from four o'clock till about twelve I suffer dreadfully. I coughed up two pieces of substance this morning as long as your finger. I thought it was lung tissue at first, but on examination, it proved to be nothing more than congealed blood. Dr. Overstreet says he notes daily improvement in my condition and has little fear but what I'll pull through all right.

"And so Biggs' father says Bob was cut also, does he?"—referring to a statement to this effect, published in a recent issue of the BAZOO—"Well he'll have a hard time establishing proof that I was wounded at my own hands. I was offered a knife before we left the saloon and was told that I would be attacked, but I refused to accept the weapon."

"Will you prosecute Biggs?" "Most certainly, while I am truly sorry for the man, yet I feel that in justice to my citizenship and to the people, I feel that it is my imperative duty to withhold no evidence that would shield him from the clutches of the law.

There are several other parties aside from Biggs who sustain the cutting of participants criminis to the cutting and of course their names will be divulged. As yet I shall withhold their names from publication.

The whole affair was concocted, I am satisfied, and I can explain the scheme on no other ground, save that those fellows by some means were striving to secure possession of my property."

The case comes up before Judge Blair Saturday, January 30th.

It is questionable whether Rogers will be able to attend court that early.

The wounded man says he has a horse for sale, and will dispose of it at a sacrifice as his trouble makes it necessary that he convert the animal into ready cash.

BURNED ALIVE.

Two Colored Children Perish in a Burning Dwelling.

Late Saturday night the cry of fire was heard in the city of churches, Smithton, Mo., a small village six miles east of Sedalia, on the Missouri Pacific of about 600 inhabitants.

It was soon located in 'Coon' town. The eastern portion of Smithton is principally settled by negroes, and the residence of William Buckner was on fire and ready to fall in before any one knew of it. The house was an almost new box structure, 16x32 feet. The family was away from home attending one of their colored lodges, "Wise men of the East," except the two larger children, aged 5 and 7 years, who were asleep in the house. These two children perished in the flames.

Not a thing was saved out of the building, and the wasted bodies were fished out after the building had fallen in, only to be disgusting in the extreme, to look upon. Their feet and hands were burned entirely off, while the bodies were a crisp.

William Buckner and his wife, Jessine, were hard working, well respected colored people and have the confidence of all who know them.

The charitable people responded today to help them by taking up a collection at all the churches for their benefit.

The manner and origin of the fire will never be known. Various theories are advanced. One of the children was burned in the bed, while the other one had gotten out of the bed and went to the other part of the room and seemingly had crawled under the bed.

HOW TO SUCCEED.

This is the great problem of life which few satisfactorily solve. Some fail because of poor health, others want of luck, but the majority from deficient grit—want of nerve. They are nervous, irresolute, can't manage, easily get the blues and "take the spirits down to keep the spirits up," thus wasting money, time, opportunity and nerve force. There is nothing like the restorative nervine, discovered by the great specialist, Dr. Miles, to cure all nervous diseases, as headache, the blues, nervous prostration, sleeplessness, neuralgia, St. Vit's dance, fits and hysteria. BIGGS' FATHER LALKS.

The father of Martin Biggs confined in jail for cutting G. W. Rogers, was seen by a BAZOO reporter at Judge Milo Blair's office this evening. He said: "My son is also suffering from two cuts one in the head and the other in the back. It would seem that he was not the only party who used a knife." Mr. Biggs has retained Messrs Steele and Hast as his lawyers.

County Attorney Longen reduced the bond to $1,000 this evening and the young man's father said he could easily give it. Biggs will in all probability be released this evening or tomorrow.

His examination comes up before Judge Blair, Saturday, January 30th.
