Railway Restaurant Cook Uses Knife in Fight with Springfield Printer

Joplin, July 27.—Harry Simms of Springfield, was stabbed and wounded seriously by Owen Morton, also of Springfield, in a fight in an alley between Main street and Virginia avenue and Third and Fourth streets at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Simms now is in St. John's hospital, with physicians and hospital attaches unable to determine whether he will recover.

The trouble is said to have originated in Springfield some time ago. From statements and intimations by Morton, officials here believe their differences resulted from Simms having paid some attention to Morton's wife, who is in Springfield.
