

GENERAL VILLA RESIGNS

Soldiers Of Ex-Bandit Oust Carranza's Men

El Paso, Texas, June 16.—Reports that General Villa had resigned as commander of the northern military zone, in Mexico were confirmed partly here tonight. Carranza's offices in Juarez were confiscated by Villa's supporters.

Similar confiscations were reported authentically to have taken place at Chihuahua City and Torreon, where Villa remained today.

The seizure of the offices in Juarez tonight was taken here as conclusive evidence of a long predicted split between Carranza, leader of the Constitutional revolution and, Villa, his most successful chieftain.

Private advice received here at a late hour told of the similar taking over of Carranza offices in Chihuahua City and Torreon, evidently placing the entire north of Mexico in the power of Villa or Villa's leaders.

In addition to the information bureau and telegraph office, it later was learned the customs house and the treasury department at Juarez had been confiscated by Villa's officers.

Carranza's publicity agent, H. Perez Abreu, was reported as jailed, and it was made known that all the employes of the treasury department had been arrested.

Alberto Pani, in charge of the treasury at Juarez, has been the trusted relay man in the recent exchanges between Carranza from Saltillo and Zubaran at Washington.

FRISCO CONTEM- PLATES CHANGES IN CREW RUNS

Tonight Freight Crews Will Run from Springfield to Afton Without Change at Monett

A call has been made for a union meeting of all the members of the railway orders of B. of L. E., O. R. C., B. of R. T. and B. of L. F. and E. to meet at Campbell's hall Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, June 18.

The reason of this call for a meeting is the action of the officials of the Frisco system in giving orders for the crews of trains Nos. 34 and 35 to run through from Springfield to Afton, instead of their runs terminating in Monett as has been the custom up to this time.

The employees see in this move an attempt to cut out Monett as a terminal point for many of the train crews, which, if put into effect, will create a great hardship to those who reside in this city, not only by reason of their being compelled to move, but also by reason of loss sustained by those who hold property in Monett.

A strong protest will no doubt be made against the contemplated change, not only by our railroad boys, but also by the Commercial Club and the business men and property owners other than employes.

It is hoped that all railroad men who can possibly do so will attend this meeting.

New Way to Make Apple Dumplings

Served With Hard Sauce or Cream and Sugar

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

Here is a new way to make apple dumplings that will surely please every housewife, for it is not necessary to have whole apples, and the juice cannot run out and burn as with apple dumplings where the apple is placed in the center and the dough turned up around it. The biscuit part forms a crispy shell that holds the apples and juice.

K C Apple Dumplings

One and one-half cups sifted flour; 1/2 teaspoonful salt; 3 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; 1/4 cup shortening; about 1/2 cup milk; apples.

Fill the cups of a buttered muffin pan with pared and sliced apples, sprinkle with salt and turn two or three tablespoonfuls of water into each cup. Sift together, three times, the flour, salt and baking powder; work in the shortening, and mix to a soft dough with the milk. Drop the dough from a spoon with the apples in the cups, giving it a smooth exterior. Let bake about twenty-five minutes. Invert the pan on a large serving-dish. Put a spoonful of hard sauce above the apple in each dumpling and finish with a grating of nutmeg.

This is only one of the many new, delicious and appetizing recipes contained in the K C Cook's Book, which may be obtained free by sending the colored certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the JAMES MFG. CO., Chicago. Be sure to get the 25-cent smaller cans do not contain Cook's Book certificates.

NAPHTHALENE FUEL FOR LOCOMOTIVE

Internal-Combustion Locomotive That Uses Naphthalene as a Fuel.

An internal-combustion locomotive of a novel type, which is designed to use naphthalene as a fuel, has been brought out in France. Since naphthalene is a solid which must be both melted and vaporized, provision is made for starting the locomotive with gasoline, benzol or some other volatile liquid, separate carburetors being installed for the different fuels. The tank in which the naphthalene is carried is inclosed in a water jacket, and the arrangement is such that the water is heated from the engine. In this way a constant temperature is provided which is more than sufficient for melting the naphthalene, which, as fast as it is melted, is lifted to the fuel tank by a pump operated by the engine. The shift from gasoline or benzol to naphthalene is readily made by means of a three-way valve. The motor is a four-cylinder 70-horse power engine of the ordinary automobile type, which can be run at varying speeds of from two hundred and fifty to one thousand revolutions per minute. A speed of about twelve and one-half miles an hour with a drawbar pull of 7,700 pounds has been obtained with this locomotive, the fuel consumption being one-half pound per horse power hour.—From Popular Mechanics.

WAS MAN OF BUSINESS

OWNER OF PURLOINED COAT WASTED NO TIME.

Completed Task, With Time to Spare, and Recovered Property With Satisfaction to All the Parties Concerned in Transaction.

Sidney was a man of business. When he found that some one had walked out of the restaurant with his mackintosh he went about recovering his property in a businesslike way. It was then 12:40 o'clock and he wished to catch a 1:10 train, so he had no time to waste in hysterics.

Some men would have made a scene. Some would have thrashed the manager and thus become entangled with the police. Others would have consumed valuable time suing the restaurant company or consulting a clairvoyant. Still others would have had recourse to a want ad, which would have restored the lost coat, but not in time for the 1:10 train. None of these things did Sidney.

Five overcoats were hanging on the wall between his table and the next, to be divided among four diners. Each of the four men identified his own coat at Sidney's request. Sidney took the fifth coat and looked in the inside pocket. There the card of John Jones, tailor, Market street, was stitched.

At 12:43 o'clock he left the restaurant. At 12:46 he stood by the desk of John Jones, tailor, while Mr. Jones looked through an account book.

"I made that coat away back in 1909 for Chris Minderman, the shoe dealer," said John Jones.

Two minutes later Sidney entered the shoe store of Mr. Minderman. The day being Saturday, the store was doing a rushing business. Saturday is shoe-buying day in Newark.

Mr. Minderman looked up from trying to put a shoe on a fat customer's foot.

"Something for you?" he asked Sidney.

"Yes," said Sidney. "I'd like to trade overcoats with you."

"You can't trade overcoats with me," said Minderman, positively.

"I think I can," said Sidney. "Isn't this yours?"

"It sure is," said the dealer, astonished. "What are you doing with it?"

"I'm carrying it over my arm until I get my own. I think we'll do a little trading after all, won't we?"

"But I haven't got your coat. I don't know anything about it. Where did you get mine?"

"In Kidd's restaurant. You must have taken mine by mistake, and left your own."

"But I haven't been inside Kidd's restaurant in a week."

"Then how did your coat get there?"

"By golly!" the shoe merchant cried. "I lent that coat to Lou Spiegelmeyer not an hour ago. He's a lawyer friend of mine in the Sussex building."

It was 12:55 by the village clock when Sidney got Mr. Spiegelmeyer on the wire.

"What do you mean I got a coat that don't belong to me?" shouted Mr. Spiegelmeyer. "I'm a thief, am I?"

"Look in the pockets and see whose coat it is," said Sidney. "By the time you find out I'll be over there to get it."

At 12:57 he opened the door of Mr. Spiegelmeyer's office in the Sussex building. Within was a man wild-eyed with worry.

"Have you looked in the pockets?"

"Yes," answered the wild-eyed man, "and I ain't got the coat I thought I had. I borrowed Chris Minderman's and now I got somebody else's, a mackintosh besides, and I suppose now I have to buy Chris a new one when I can't afford a new one for myself, even."

His eyes lighted on the overcoat which his caller was taking off. Joy swept the worry from his face.

"Gott sei dank!" he cried.

"My sentiments exactly," said Sidney, slipping into his mackintosh. "Good day."

As he stepped out of the elevator into the street he looked at his watch.

"One o'clock," he said. "Ten minutes to kill before train time."—Newark News.

THE MYSTERY SOLVED

A letter received last night by S. J. Chafin clears up the mystery of Mrs. Chafin's disappearance.

The letter received was from Mrs. Chafin and says that she departed from Rockford for Monett on the date agreed upon but becoming ill she stopped over with her sister in Chicago. She requested her sister to notify Mr. Chafin of her illness, but the sister forgot to do so.

When she had nearly recovered her health a telegram was received telling of the serious illness of their mother and the two sisters went to Rockford, where Mrs. Chafin now is and from whence she wrote Mr. Chafin. This clears up the mystery and Mr. Chafin is greatly relieved.
