The Oldest Question in the World

In the current issue of Farm and Fireside Herbert Quick, editor of that publication, writes an editorial in which are brought out many interesting facts as to the use of various meats as food. Following is an interesting extract from his article:

"Whenever we boys found anything animal, vegetable, or mineral—almost —which looked not absolutely repulsive, our first query always was,
'Is it good to eat?'"

"That is the oldest question in the world. Every animal asks it a dozen times a day, and lets sight and smell answer it. Now that war is making a world-wide scarcity, 'Is it good to eat?' becomes a world-wide question for the human beast.

"Take the whale, for instance. We have been wasting the meat of the whale all the many years during which we have been slaughtering this largest of mammals. Why? The whale is a swimming beast which suckles its young and lives on clean food. Now there is a movement on foot to begin the canning of whale beef, to be sold at a low price to those who have the open-mindedness and strength of palate to tackle it.

"In Japan the meat of a red dog is a great delicacy, and dogs of other colors are preferred to beef, mutton, or poultry. Pork is looked upon by the Japanese with much the same lack of appetite with which we regard the meat of the dog or horse.

"Horse beef was not eaten in France until after the great siege in 1871.
Now it is a regular article of commerce."

ing more. H. I. Bradford. 127-4f

Parcel Post May Help to Reduce the Cost of Living

Fireside Postmaster-General Burleson writes an exceedingly interesting article about the parcel post. He presents many practical suggestions about using it and tells a number of interesting stories illustrating his points. In the following extract he suggests that the parcel post may reduce the cost of living:

"The era of war prices inaugurated because of the conflict in Europe had greatly increased interest in every device that gives promise of counteracting the tendency to increased cost of living, and among these agencies we are very sure that none will do so much for the people—for producer and consumer alike—as the facilities now offered by the parcel post. It is only necessary to understand them, to use them intelligently, and to divide the advantage between producer and consumer."

you. It is expected of course that you will buy your wife a Christmas present. Then why not buy her something that you can get good out of too. For instance, a nice buffet, china case, dining table and chairs, a kitchen cabinet or a beautiful rug. You can find them all at Bob Callaway's.

Boehm Residence Robbed in Daylight Frank Boehm's residence on Fourth street was robbed, Wednesday afternoon between 1 and 2 o'clock, while the family was away from home.

Mr. Boehm went home at 2 o'clock and found that the house had been ransacked. The dresser and chiffonier drawers were in great disorder and evidence of an intruder was shown in various parts of the house.

About $20 in money was taken, also a diamond stud and a watch belonging to Frank Boehm. Other jewelry in the house was not disturbed. No clue has been found as to the thief.
