ANTI-BEER MEASURE IS SIDETRACKED

Congress Took Recess Until September 21. Senate Failed to Vote On Beer Bill.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Congress took a recess tonight until September 21, without a vote by the senate on a bill prohibiting the manufacture and sale of beer to the sick. The senate ended its work at 11:35 o'clock and the house at 11:58 o'clock.

Beer—bottled for the sick, not on draft for the thirsty—stood early tonight as the one legislative barrier in the way of congressional plans for a recess beginning at midnight. Given the right of way in the senate after a two-hour parliamentary snarl, the conference report on the measure agreed to in the afternoon by the house was discussed for five hours and then displaced to make way for other legislation.
