WHITECOTTON VS. REYNOLDS

James (Hemp) Whitecotton has built rather a hot fire under his chunk of "civic righteousness." When in this city last week explaining the changed records in the Sharp case, he charged Attorney Reynolds of Paris, with making them and said: they are in Dick Reynolds' band writing. Mr. Reynolds was immediately notified by telephone of the statements being made by Mr. Whitecotton. Mr. Reynolds, with reputable witnesses, met Mr. Whitecotton upon his return to Paris and charged him with statements said to have been made by him in Monroe City. Mr. Whitecotton emphatically denied having made them.

Tuesday Mr. Reynolds came to this city and hunted up reputable parties who were said to have heard Mr. Whitecotton's explanation and verified the information telephoned him by a friend.

You can now bank on this: Mr. Reynolds is loaded for Hemp Whitecotton of "Civic Righteous" fame.

Teachers Should Not Break Contracts.

Probably the most annoying thing in the selection of school teachers is that the Board can never tell for sure that they have them until school begins. And even then a resignation may be received any day. President Jesse of Missonri University has just issued a letter to his students on this subject that will meet with the hearty approval of every board in Missouri. "In past years," says Dr. Jesse, "some students of the University have been elected to position in schools and thereafter have continued to apply for better positions. In some cases where a better position has been offered later in the summer the student has broken his contract to accept the better position. When a teacher makes a contract with a school board for a session that contract ought not to be broken by the teacher except by the consent of the school authorities. If the school authorities release the teacher voluntarily, the better position may be accepted without moral taint; but not otherwise. No amount of additional salary can compensate for loss of honor."

Hanged.

Collins was hanged Saturday. He retained his nerve to the last. On the scaffold, he turned to the sheriff and said: Let her go Tom and do it right.

The jury found his partner, Rudolph, guilty in less than an hour. He, Rudolph, was taken back to Hawesburg to await the day of execution.

Whitecotton.

Ollie, oldest son of Mrs. Benj. Whitecotton died at the home of his mother in this city at 10:35 yesterday of consumption. Ollie had just reached his majority last January. As a boy he was kind and thoughtful with his mother and had many friends. The funeral services will be conducted by Rev. Fr. John Lyons today and the interment will be at Brush Creek. Mrs. Whitecotton has the heartfelt sympathy of a host of friends.

Want Rural Mail Route.

A petition has been forwarded to Washington asking that a sub-route to No. 2 be established. The route asked for is 6 1/2 miles long and will give rural mail service to at least sixty families. The carrier on the sub-route would meet the carrier on Route No. 2 at DeMoss chapel and get the mail. The route runs east from DeMoss to Bethlehem, thence southeast to the Hassard road, thence south crossing Rock Lick branch to Lick Skillet near Yeager school house and west to Joanna, where the carrier would deliver the mail collected to the carrier of Route No. 2. This route would give rural mail service to people who otherwise cannot hope for it, as a through route cannot be established without doubling on another route. We hope the petition will be granted.

Those persons who are heaping credit upon President Roosevelt on account of the decision of the Supreme Court in the Northern Securities case should not overlook the fact that it was Governor Van Sant of Minnesota, backed up by the people of the Northwest and of the country at large, who started the war upon the combination. The Washington authorities were actually driven into the case by growing public indignation, backed and directed by the Democratic party. Otherwise it is clear that nothing would have been done.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

The wind storm of Thursday in this city played havoc east of us. Five were killed at Indiana Harbor, Chicago was cut off from telegraphic communication. Forty blocks were submerged at Doniphan and schools closed. Maywood and Harlem were cut off by raging floods. Dozens of buildings were unroofed at Joliet and East St. Louis was in the fury of the storm. The mad elements also played havoc in Kansas and Iowa.
