Persian Lambs to Billy Goats

The flock of sheep A. C. Deaver pointed out to friends of the famous Persian breed were classed as Tunis lambs when they reached the Chicago market. A Tunis lamb, Mr. Deaver now admits, is something like a cross between a Kansas ewe and a billy goat. These "Persian" sheep have attracted much attention on his farm north of Paris. Their wool was of a peculiar reddish tinge, which, Mr. Deaver was told, was characteristic of a famous Persian breed that had been imported into southwestern Kansas. After their fleeces had been removed the sheep seemed to have been built on the running gear of a regulation goat. Friends remarked on this matter but Deaver did not give it serious thought until the lambs went on the market and were classed under the Tunis head. Next time he buys a bunch of new fashioned sheep he will insist on charts, diagrams, and affidavits of ancestry on both sides. Paris Appeal

"Old Boss" a Profit Maker.

"We get our milk out of the refrigerator," announced a small city cousin inspecting the farm. "That's funny," observed the country child unused to city ways. "I thought it always was kept in a cow. That's the place where we get ours."

The man who milks has a bank of his own. This saying the trite is true. Go into any community cows are kept for dairy purposes and you will find the men who milk them have credit at the bank. Dairying seldom is an unprofitable business, if it does prove unprofitable usually the answer is lack of energy. Certainly the dairying business is no job for a sluggard. But for the man who will work with his hands and his brain it holds out unqualified inducements. And nowhere can you find better opportunities than in Missouri.

A dairy show is to be held at Kansas City in September, 1916. With proper financial backing and the enthusiastic support of western dairymen this exhibit should result in a vastly increased interest in dairying thruout Missouri and Kansas. - Missouri Ruralist

1917 Rules for Driving Automobiles

1 Upon discovering a hearing horse or team the automobilist must stop offside and cover his machine with a blanket to correspond with the scenery.

2 The speed limit on country roads this year will be a secret. And the penalty for a violation will be ten dollars for every mile an offender is caught going in excess of it.

3 On approaching a corner where the automobile can not command a view of the road he must stop not less than one hundred yards from the turn, toot his horn, ring a bell, fire a revolver, halloo, and send up three bombs at intervals of five minutes.

4 Automobiles running on the country roads at night must send up a rocket every mile and wait ten minutes for the road to clear. They may then proceed very carefully, blowing their horns and shooting Roman candles.

5. In case a horse will not pass an automobile the automobilist will take machine apart as rapidly as possible and conceal the parts in the grass.

6. In case an automobile approaches a house when the roads are dusty it will slow down to 1 mile an hour and the chauffeur will sprinkle the dust in front of the house with a hand sprinkler. -1917 Committee

WHY EUROPE GROWS BIGGER FARM CROPS

The European farmer uses 200 pounds of chemical fertilizer per acre of cultivated lands. The average use of fertilizers in the United States is twenty-eight pounds per acre. As a result the comparative crop yields per acre in bushels of European and American farms are:

	Wheat	Oats	Barley	Potatoes
Europe	22	4	25	15
United States	15	25	25	9

We must increase our crop yields per acre if farming in this country is to pay and if we are to continue to feed ourselves without excessively high cost of living. To do so means using more chemical fertilizers, and at present prices or even normal before the war prices of both fertilizers and crops it doesn't pay to use more fertilizer on small farms and general farms and forage crops. The increased crop yield won't pay for the fertilizer used to produce it. In Europe the bigger crop yields pay because fertilizers are cheaper.

The German farmer buys fertilizer for about half the price paid by the American farmer. We pay twice as much for potash to a German monopoly. We pay twice as much for nitrates or ammonia to a Chilean monopoly. The nitrates are the most expensive element in fertilizers. European farmers are getting their supply from the air, made by water power. Our water powers, which would give us cheap fertilizers, are not used.

We must use the resources of the nation, not lock them out of use.—Woodrow Wilson.

The Germ Peril.
"We know a great deal more about germs nowadays than we used to know."
"Quite true. And I think the knowledge has made the average person less courageous than formerly."
"How so?"
"For instance, by merely shaking your handkerchief in a man's face these days you can alarm him almost as much as if the handkerchief were a six-shooter."

Sponge Cake.
Three eggs, well beaten, one cupful sugar, one cupful of flour, 1½ teaspoonfuls baking powder, one teaspoonful lemon flavoring, two tablespoonfuls boiling water, beaten in last.

Salt and Gasoline.
In washing any delicate material in gasoline, if salt is added to the liquid, there will be no stain left at the edges of the cleaned parts.
