As Others See Him.

Mr. U. S. Hall, president of the "Farmers and Laborers' Union, of Missouri," is a very energetic fellow. He does lots of work. One of our Democratic contemporaries said, after the last election, that "no half dozen men in Missouri had done such efficient work for the Democratic party during the last year as Mr. Hall."

But, while he works hard and does a great deal for the Democratic party, his efforts are not always appreciated. He is supposed to be at the head of a Farmers' organization in Missouri and there are some people who believe that he ought to work for the farmers. So, when it was reported the other day that he was at Springfield, Ill., trying to get the farmers members of the Illinois Legislature to vote for the election of a Democratic politician to the United States Senate, there were some members of the Farmers' organization that didn't approve and appreciate far-reaching efforts.

The Progressive Farmer, of Mt. Vernon, Ill., said to be the organ of the Farmers' organization in that state, had this to say in regard to the matter:

"U. S. Hall is president of the Farmers and Laborers' Union of Missouri, and he and one or two others in a determined effort to transfer the organization to one of the political parties have done much to disturb and disintegrate the movement in that state. But Mr. Hall is ambitious, and does not believe Missouri is large enough for him. We understand he has recently been to Springfield to teach us Suckers how to manage an Illinois Senatorial contest. Mr. Hall's assumption is very great. His organization is not involved in the Illinois contest and what our F. M. B. A. men do at Springfield or elsewhere is none of his business. He was never a member of the F. M. B. A., never had anything to do with it, and if he ever said a word in its favor the public never heard it. He is simply a partisan politician, nothing more, nothing less, and it is determined so far as he can influence it that the Farmers' movement shall be used for partisan purposes. Before he attempts to dictate to Illinois, or to control other farmer organizations, he will do well to wait until such have died away the echoes of the hisses he received in this national meeting of his own organization."

Girl Slavery in Tibet.

The people were in a state of excitement over the marriage of the belle of the place and the high price her prospective husband had to pay for her: fifty taels to purchase a "number two wife" was highly creditable to the town which had given birth to such a treasure. The Sen-ch'uanese are much given to selling girls, and large numbers are exported from Chung-ching for Han-kuo, Shanghai and other eastern cities. The price usually paid for one of six or seven years is from seven to ten taels. They are kindly reared by the adoptive parents, who buy them, and give them a liberal education with all model accomplishments, and when they have attained the age of sixteen are easily disposed of at high prices. The trade has nothing cruel about it, and many of these girls are respected members of society in after life, and certainly enjoy many more material comforts than if they had been left in their poor villages. I have lived in homes of highly respectable Chinese where the wife had four or five little girls purchased with her savings, and they were treated with as much kindness and love as her own children.

The March number of the North American Review will contain a long article by the Irish historian, Lecky, showing "Why Home Rule is Undesirable" and also articles on "The Parties of the Sandwich Islands," by Claus Spreckels; on "Self Control in the Cure of Insanity," by Dr. Wm. A. Hammond; on "The Scandal of the Rear Guard," by Lieut. Ross Troup, who sharply criticizes his former commander; on the possibility of commercial union with Canada, by Erasmus Wiman; on "American National Literature," by Walt Whitman, and on the "Discouragement of Matrimony," by Mrs. M. E. W. Sherwood.

The recollections of Gettysburg by the Corps Commanders, which were given in the February number of the North American Review, will be continued in the March number by Generals Sickles, Butterfield, Newton and Gregg.

An unusual interest at the present time attaches itself to some unpublished letters from the late General Sherman which appear in the March number of the North American Review. One written to General Garfield in August, 1870, as to the loyalty of General Thomas, is eminently characteristic of Sherman. Another letter describes the meeting of Grant and Sherman with President Lincoln on board the "Ocean Queen" at City Point near the end of the war. These letters will doubtless attract a large number of readers.

LAMON'S TALES from Shakespeare's Tragedies, edited, with notes, by Dr. William J. Rolfe, is announced for immediate publication by Harper & Brothers. The book is intended both as a "supplementary reading-book" for young children, and as an introduction to the study of Shakespeare for those who are old enough to begin that study in earnest. It is uniform in appearance and plan with the Tales from Shakespeare's Comedies recently published.

On Italy, by Charles Dudley Warner, being a description of the climate, resources, and scenery of Southern California, richly illustrated from photographs and from drawings by eminent American artists, is one of the many new books announced by Harper & Brothers for publication in the spring.

Kirk MURDOCH'S Companion: A Story of the Plains, which, as a serial in Harper's Young People, was a source of unalloyed pleasure to a vast host of youthful readers, will be issued in handsome book form this month.

Ought to Become a Law.

A bill has been introduced in the Legislature this week by Col. W. G. Hays, representative from Boone county, entitled "An act in relation to the manufacture and sale of vinegar," that ought to be passed.

The bill was prepared by Mr. C. C. Bell, of Booneville, at the request of the Northwestern Cider and Cider Vinegar Makers Association, of which he is Vice-President, which request was made at the annual meeting of the association held in St. Louis last December.

Below the bill will be found in full, and careful study of its provisions will convince every one that such a law is just and necessary.

The enactment of such a law is asked not only for the protection of the honest manufacturer of pure fruit vinegar, but also for the protection of the thousands who buy and use vinegar.

The bill does not prohibit the manufacture of vinegar from acids or chemicals, or substances other than fruit, but is intended to prevent the branding or sale of such vinegar as cider vinegar or fruit vinegar.

So much adulterated vinegar or vinegar made from acids is made and sold as cider vinegar that the genuine article has been to a considerable extent driven from the market and its manufacture made unprofitable. We are informed that it doesn't pay the farmer or fruit grower now to make vinegar for sale.

This bill, if made a law, will benefit the fruit grower, by preventing the substitution on the market of acid as adulterated vinegar for the pure article, thereby creating a demand for the latter. A great deal of fruit that goes to waste would undoubtedly be used to make pure vinegar. And there would be a big demand for pure vinegar if the spurious stuff were branded with and offered for sale under its right name.

Such a law as this will also protect the consumer. It will prevent deception, and if properly enforced, will enable the consumer to purchase pure vinegar. There is no doubt that vinegar made from acids is injurious to health, and if its sale is permitted at all, it should be sold for what it is and not as pure cider or fruit vinegar.

We believe the bill ought to become a law and hope it will be passed during the present session of the Legislature. It is as follows:

An Act in Relation to the Manufacture and Sale of Vinegar.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Missouri:

Section 1.—That any person who manufactures for sale, or offers or exposes for sale as cider vinegar, any vinegar not the legitimate product of pure juice, known as apple cider, or vinegar not made exclusively of said apple cider or vinegar into which foreign substances, drugs or acids have been introduced, so as to appear on proper test, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, be punished for every offense by fine of not less than fifty dollars, nor more than one hundred dollars, and the costs of prosecution, or by imprisonment in the county jail not to exceed ninety days.

Section 2.—All vinegar sold or offered for sale, exchange or delivery shall be without artificial coloring or flavoring; and no person by himself or by his agent or employee shall sell, or offer for sale, exchange, deliver, or have in his custody or possession, with intent to sell or exchange or expose or offer for sale or exchange, any vinegar labeled or branded as cider vinegar, or as apple vinegar, which is not the legitimate product of pure apple juice, or that is not made exclusively from apple cider.

Section 3.—Every person making or manufacturing apple cider, or other fruit vinegar, for sale, shall brand on each bottle of such cider, brand or label containing such vinegar, the name of the manufacturer or firm, and also the name of the fruit out of which the vinegar is made; and where there are inspectors of food products, vinegar shall be one of the articles under supervision of such inspector, with power to inspect and seize any may be found fraudulent, and in violation of this act.

Section 4.—No vinegar shall be branded "fruit vinegar," unless the same shall be made wholly from apples, grapes or other fruits; and any person who shall brand, label or sell or offer for sale any such "fruit vinegar," and vinegar not made wholly from apples, grapes, or other fruit, or who shall violate any of the foregoing sections, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and be punished as provided in section one.

Section 5.—This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Popular Shams.

Foreigners and native observers have often laughed at an American trait which induces every hair-cutter and bootblack to call himself an "artist," and every teacher to assume the title of "professor." This kind of humbug flourishes especially in the musical world. Charlatans who have not brains enough to earn an honest living learn to play a few pieces and by a comparatively successful in persuading non-musical parents that they can teach their children the divine art. Second and third rate piano manufacturers advertise in large type that their instruments are unequalled in tone and action, and proffered by all artists, whereby ignorant purchasers are constantly duped and reputable makers lose their dues. One of the most lamentable illustrations of this trait is afforded by the way in which music teachers who have secured a few pupils, immediately sign a room or two, and put out a sign board with "Conservatory," or "Mormon Conservatory," or some other high-sounding name on it. That the public likes to be duped is shown by the flourishing condition of some of these schools; but among the educated classes there shams "conservatories" have done a good deal to bring the word "conservatory," like the terms "professor" or "artist," into just contempt, or at least under suspicion; and which in some instances even have the impudence to claim the right of conferring the degree of Doctor of Music, though they are not anything but private music schools, organized for the sole purpose of making money.—Harper's Weekly.

Hardy Blooming Roses.

The leading varieties that have proven to be true perpetuals with me for several successive years are as follows: First, my old favorite, which is, doubtless, Madam Wood, and the Dime rose, which promises equally well, though not tested so many years. These are very strong growers very large, very double, brilliant crimson roses, blooming in clusters of three to a dozen on the ends of the canes and branches all the season from June to November. Next in constant and profuse bloom is the rather dwarf growing Madame Alfred Bouquet, fresh white, cupped, and a beauty. Also, the American Beauty, which is a very fine, though hardly so profuse a bloomer, though a stronger grower. Charles Darwin is a very dark, velvety, black-red rose, buds and bloom equal in form to "Gen. Jack," and most of the tens, and blooms repeatedly through the season. Mrs. John Laing produces magnificent soft rose-colored bloom, singly on erect stems, all summer, but owing to its habit, above stated, is not a profuse bloomer. It is a great keeper, the bloom remaining perfect a long time. Madame Hochschild is an ideal rose in form and color, light rose color, globular, and, so far as tested, I believe it to be, when well grown established, a reliable ever-bloomer. Gen. Washington is a good crimson rose, and blooms repeatedly through the season. Another red rose of great beauty, of which I never had the name, has been a fine June bloomer, with scattering flowers during the summer, when it gave repeated series of bloom. Another, for which I have no name, of vigorous growth, never blossomed at all till some five years ago, and then but sparingly; but last year it blossomed all summer, giving us charming buds and roses, borne in racemes on long, graceful stems, color bright rose-pink. If its ever-blooming habits is established by another year's experience, I shall call it a gem. La France is not so hardy as the foregoing, but can be grown with like treatment, and it is, perhaps, the queen of all the roses, shell pink, of perfect form in bud or flower, fragrant, and a profuse and constant bloomer.—Vick's Magazine for March.

How to Dress in March.

There is a curious prejudice among many against the overcoat, and yet the despised rubber is an essential protection against the melting snow and slush of March. The thickest coat of the best walking boot absorbs enough moisture to dampen and chill the feet, and yet nothing is more perilous than sitting in a warm room with rubbers on, excepting going about the ordinary house in slippers. Draughts hook the floor and lie in wait for the unwary. The clinging of wet skirts against the ankles is a fruitful source of aches and pains. Leggings of leather water-proof or rubber will obviate this trouble in a degree, while a skirt of flannel, faced with a rubber band, avoids the danger altogether. While the feet are kept warm, the head should be cool. The hardest nations in the world are those which cover the head and face lightly. Reserve the fur hat and muffler for the sleigh ride, and banish them from the promenade. Catarrh and throat troubles are often caused by the introduction of foreign particles into the nasal passages, so wear a thick veil as a safeguard against the dust which March winds bear on their wings; and, lastly, avoid tight-fitting clothing for several days, wearing loose, comfortable, and warm garments, which are much thinner than those habitually worn during the day; and eyes should be taken to increase correspondingly the outer and undergarments. It is a trifle presumptuous to discard flannels, and then after hours in a hot ball room, to put on a creation of lace and ribbon for a drive or walk in the night air of March.—The Ladies Home Journal.

An Indian Challenge.

Two tribes of Indians in the upper part of California had a boundary between their districts, a low ridge where the Snake and Kings rivers met. To where one of these rivers crossed the Kings river, you would see still standing a tall pile of stones beside a never-failing spring; on one side of this cairn was the territory of the Pomo Indians, and on the other the land of the Chumina. These tribes were enemies, and were often at war. When the Chumina wished to challenge the others to battle, they took three little sticks, cut notches found their ends in the middle, tied them at the ends into a baggot, and laid it on this cairn. If the Pomo accepted the challenge, they tied a string around the middle of the three sticks and left them in their place. Then agents of both tribes met on neutral ground and arranged the time and place of battle, which took place accordingly.—Ernest Ingersoll, in March St. Nicholas.

Vick's Magazine For March.

A splendid number—full of choice articles on a great variety of subjects. The opening article, Village Parks, with an illustration, is a plan for parks in the larger villages, and good reasons are given why such public grounds should be established. Winter Aspect of Trees, with five illustrations, is very valuable. Hardy Blooming Roses, gives an experience of rose growing in Illinois, a hundred miles west of Chicago, and shows what varieties of roses can be depended upon for blooming all summer. Other articles are, Colours, Gardening Wild Flowers, the Verbena in the Garden and Windows.

The Department of Foreign Notes has interesting and instructive matter gleaned from foreign journals.

The Pleasant Garden Department is a rich mine, full of timely and instructive reading. The first day's doings at the meeting of the Western New York Horticultural Society are here reported in full, for the first time in any journal, with all the discussions and nearly all the principal papers. These papers alone, to fruit-growers, are worth many times a year's subscription to the Magazine.

The Young People's Department is entertaining, as it always is. As a Magazine of rural affairs, Vick's meets the popular want.

Her eyes were rheumy, and weak and red.

Her length—you could smell it after. She had ringing and dizziness oft in her head.
