Philip Schuler, of Lincoln Neb., was visiting his father, sisters and numerous other relatives in Oregon and vicinity, this week. He is working at his trade, carpentering in Lincoln, and is prospering. "Uncle Phil," as he is familiarly called by many, is always a welcome visitor to his old home, Oregon.

The revival services closed at the M. E. church last Sunday evening. The result was quite satisfactory to those who watched carefully the result upon the church and the community. Evangelist Shawhan will be heartily welcomed to Oregon at any time in the near future that he may choose to return. In fact, the strong probability is that he will be urged to return inside of a year. As an Evangelist he has but few, if any superiors in his country.

Hallow's eve has come and gone, and with it the usual amount of devilment, not necessarily a companion, but made so by custom, for upon this evening the boys, some of them veterans, too, take occasion to play pranks, and do other tricks. It is all right for them to have fun, but when they go as far as they did last Monday night it is time to call a halt. On this occasion they destroyed considerable property, and it is the intention of the parties whose property was destroyed to prosecute them if they can find them out.

Some four or five weeks ago it will be remembered that John Callow residing north of here had a mile impaled upon a six foot post, the post having to be chopped in two to release the animal, and after being released the mile ran around the stable lot several times before they succeeded in pulling the post from the body. The post entered the body just back of the fore legs, and came out near one of the shoulder blades. Dr. Elliott, veterinary surgeon, was called, and to stop the flow of blood poured a bucket full of flour into the wound. At this writing, as miraculous as it may seem, the wound has healed up, and apparently the mile is as good as ever. Mr. Callow intends bringing the post to town, and leaving it at T. L. Price's hardware store, where it can be seen by the curiously inclined.

The Old Reliable Peter Schuttler wagon runs lighter and will last longer with no trouble and expense to the owner, than any other wagon made. It is made to-day with as much care as thirty years ago. Come and see it, and I will show you why it is better. H. C. Schmidt, agent.

The Corn Producers

Ought to recall that the Cleveland administration, emphasized by Cleveland's commissioner general at the Paris exposition, discouraged the introduction of corn for food in the leading countries of Europe. The treatment of the subject was changed by the present administration. Our corn has been introduced into Great Britain. During the last three months of last year we exported to Germany 1,294,000 bushels of corn, and during the corresponding period of this year we sent them 5,555,000 bushels. Then why should the corn producer cast his ballot against the party that has done this? You should vote the Republican ticket.
