

Girlish and Womanish America.
When it is here remarked that the male American is declaring symptoms of dawdling effeminacy no occasion is offered for indignation. The average American has so much thorough masculinity that he can spare enough to dower a less vigorous people. What is meant is that the natural reaction to the paramountcy of the American girl has set in. As she shares the pursuits, the pleasures and the liberties of her brothers and imposes her commands upon them she becomes more masculine, they more feminine; her shoulders square off; theirs begin to slope. She dons the sweater and blazer and wears her skirts shorter and shorter; they take to pink shirt waists and clocked open work stockings, and their ever baggier trousers, worn so long that they have to be turned up at the bottom, seem fashioned on a seraglio pattern.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

Getting Even with the Chinese.
Some years ago, when Chinese oppression was intolerable, American merchants had the alternative of wearing the Chinese costume and shaving their heads or leaving the country. A number of Americans, in order to protect their interests, adopted the dress of the land. Capt. B. H. McCalla, of the American navy, serving his country in Chinese waters at that time, encountered one of these transformed Americans.

"Had to do it?" said one of the transformed Americans, pointing to his head and queue.

"I presume conditions warrant this sacrifice of your Americanism?" said the captain, scornfully.

"Let me tell you," said the American-Chinese, drawing closer to the captain, "the Chinese make me wear a pigtail, but in return I make quite a few Chinese tael myself."

Rising Importance of Caoutchouc.

One of the natural products of the world which year by year is rising in importance is caoutchouc, or India rubber. A French writer has drawn attention to the vast and nearly neglected resources of Peru in regard to this substance. The finest rubber produced comes from the basin of the Amazon, the upper portion of which lies in Peruvian territory, and in species of gum-yielding trees. Mainly for want of roads, the exportation is not a tithe of what it might be, and the forests, where there is any exploitation, are being ruthlessly sacrificed without regard to the future—after the manner of South American republics. Probably in the time to come more rubber may be exported from Central Africa than from Peru.—London Telegraph.

Odd Couples.

A recently published table gives the respective ages of all the married couples in the United Kingdom. There is one husband of 95 years who has a wife of 21, while three husbands ranging in age from 85 to 95 have secured wives of 25. Elderly wives and youthful husbands are rarer, and the greatest disparity in this direction is between a wife of 65 years and her husband of 20. The oldest couple in the list are aged 100 and 95 years, respectively, while the youngest pair have only numbered 16 and 15 summers, respectively.—Golden Penny.

Waste and Mad Cats.

A ladies' school of music in a suburb of Vienna has owned three cats during the course of the past year, and each has gone raving mad, according to the testimony of a veterinary surgeon. The diurnal discord within the establishment is reported to be ear torturing in the extreme. The school soon owns a deaf cat, which sits out the strumming of a dozen pianos with sphinx-like imperturbability.—N. Y. World.

Insanity Among Women.

A German professor has been investigating the causes of insanity among women, and has come to the conclusion that if women are admitted into competition with men the inevitable result will be a tremendous increase of insanity among the women. He finds that the percentage of women teachers who become insane is almost double that of the men teachers.—Detroit Free Press.

Disgusting Ignorance.

Cholly—Why did you discha'ge your man?
Aig—He was too ignowant. Whenever I was writing a lettah and wanted to know how to spell a word, he had to look in the dictionary.—N. Y. Weekly.

Kind That Troubled Him.

Son—Pa, every now and then I see something in the papers about the "ruling passion;" what is it, anyway?
Pa (after a cautious glance around the apartment)—It's a disease your ma is badly afflicted with, my son.—Stray Stories.

Educational Item.

"Have you heard the latest educational item?" asked Biggs.
"No," replied Wiggs; "what is it?"
"They have just decided," said Biggs, "to rewrite the primer in words of five syllables for Boston children."—Smart Set.

Deacon Epuraim—Yes, sah. He always goes ter bed wid de chicking.—Judge.

A Second Thief.

"Some mean sneak ran off with my umbrella to-day."
"With your umbrella?"
"Well, with the umbrella I've been carrying all week."—Philadelphia Press.

CURES SCIATICA:

Rev. W. L. Riley, L. L. D., Cuba, New York, writes: "After fifteen days of excruciating pain from sciatic rheumatism, under various treatments, I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment; the first application giving my first relief and the second entire relief. I can give it unequalled recommendation." 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold by Hiade Drug Co.

How to Carry a Cat.
"Yes, I think it is the best way to carry a cat, and I've tried them all," replied the woman in the railroad station, who had a cat in a gingham bag, the feline's head being out of the opening, which was carefully drawn up around its neck lest it escape. "A pet cat feels very lonely in a hamper. In this bag, you see, the cat feels me all the time as I carry him in my arms, and he knows he is not deserted. If he had not traveled with me up and down to the seashore for years I shouldn't have as much confidence in him, and certainly wouldn't allow his head out now for a breath of fresh air. I wouldn't even trust him if he could get one paw out, for he naturally has the scary-cat nature and might fly before he realized there was no danger. As a matter of fact, he's a bit intoxicated. Two hours before starting I put a bunch of fragrant catnip in the bag and didn't let him inside until he was crazy over it. When I did he scurried in with a rush and that saved him the fright he'd have felt at being put in against his will. When we get in our cottage I simply put a bit of catnip on his cushion and he knows he is at home."—Philadelphia Record.

A More Beauty.
The belle of Bongoa was a slave girl of 18, so graceful and lithe that her every attitude suggested a bird just alighted from a flight through space. Her dark eyes were fringed by the longest of black lashes, and even her stained teeth could not detract from the curves of her pretty mouth. She had a self-satisfied consciousness of her own attractions, and was as imperious and overbearing as any American beauty, stamping her tiny foot in rage at the photographer's lack of haste in taking her picture, and once walking away from the camera with a disdainful toss of her head. When, after much persuasion, she was induced to return, it was only to scowl sullenly at everybody with the most bewitching ill temper, poised so lightly that the very wind seemed to sway her slender figure back and forth like a flower on its stalk.—From Tales of Tawi Tawi in Everybody's Magazine.

Sea's Bottom Falling.
Scientists tell us that, counting from the sea level, the lowest body of water on the globe is the Caspian sea. For centuries its surface has been gradually settling down until now it is 85 feet lower than that of its near neighbor, the Black sea, which also lies far below the level of the oceans. The common conclusion all along has been that the Caspian was simply losing its waters by evaporation, but recent investigation shows that this is not the case. Soundings made and compared with records of soundings made over 100 years ago reveal the astounding fact that there is even a greater depth of water now than then. This leaves but one hypothesis that would seem at all tenable—that the bottom of the sea is actually sinking.

Brisk Correspondence.
Mrs. Lamson was saying an affectionate and tearful farewell to her husband, as she was about to start for a month's visit to her old home. "Now, my dear," said Mr. Lamson, in a pleasant but firm tone, "I wish you would try not to ask me for money every time you write."
"Well, I will try not to," said Mrs. Lamson, wiping her eyes, "but you—you know, Henry, that means I shall have to write even oftener than usual."—Youth's Companion.

Vigilant Election Judge.
Judge of the Court—Is it true that this gentleman was intoxicated during the count of the ballots?
Election Inspector—I don't think so.
"Didn't he drink every time the bottle went around?"
"No, sir."
"He refused sometimes, did he?"
"Well, he didn't exactly refuse, but he was asleep and didn't know when it was passed."—Baltimore American.

Typhoid from Blankets.
The British medical journals report an outbreak of typhoid fever on a British training-ship, the origin of which was traced to infected army blankets which had been received from South Africa, and which had been in contact with persons suffering from this disease.—Good Health.

Questionable.
She—So you consider Mr. Doubleday a genius, do you?
He—Yes, in a way. He's something of a lawyer and something of a musician.
"But which is his profession?"
"Well, the lawyers call him a musician and the musicians call him a lawyer."—Chicago Daily News.

THE DUFFORD'S
BLACK-DRAUGHT
THE ORIGINAL
LIVER MEDICINE

A sallow complexion, dizziness, biliousness and a coated tongue are common indications of liver and kidney diseases. Stomach and bowel troubles, severe as they are, give immediate warning by pain, but liver and kidney troubles, though less painful at the start, are much harder to cure. The Dufford's Black-Draught never fails to benefit diseased liver and weakened kidneys. It stirs up the torpid liver to throw off the germs of fever and ague. It is a certain preventive of cholera and Bright's disease of the kidneys. With kidneys reinforced by The Dufford's Black-Draught thousands of persons have dwelt immune in the midst of yellow fever. Many families live in perfect health and have no other doctor than The Dufford's Black-Draught. It is always on hand for use in an emergency and saves many expensive calls of a doctor.

Mullies, S. C., March 10, 1901. I have used The Dufford's Black-Draught for three years and I have not had to go to a doctor since I have been taking it. It is the best medicine for me that is on the market for liver and kidney troubles and dyspepsia and other complaints. Rev. A. G. LEWIS.
