Better Shoes for Less Money

Shoes are the most important necessity that you buy. You want them to possess three qualities:

Style—Any maker can furnish it. There is no monopoly.
Comfort—A matter of proper fitting—good store service.
Value—Greatest wear and service for the price paid.

Value is the most important and most difficult quality to get in shoes. The best value can only be produced by the greatest reduction in profits and manufacturing costs.

ENDICOTT-JOHNSON CO. is the first and only shoe house in the World to make shoes from the raw material and place them in our store less all middlemen's profits and expenses.

As inspection of these shoes will convince you that your next pair should be ENDICOTT-JOHNSON CO.

WHAT THE WORLD'S BIGGEST USERS SAY ABOUT CREAM SEPARATORS

LINCOLN, NEBRASKA, November 11, 1908.

When we first began in the creamery business we operated several hundred skimming stations and had in use a large number of the various makes of power separators. Owing to the all-around superiority of the De Laval Separators we found it necessary to replace all other makes with the De Laval and this proved one of the best investments that we ever made.

During the years 1901 and 1902 the hand separators came into very general use and our thousands of patrons naturally looked to us for advice as to the most efficient and most durable separator for them to buy. Realizing the necessity of preventing, if possible, the sale of the so-called "just as good" and "cheap" separators we secured the agency of the De Laval. With the wonderful record back of the De Laval machine, together with the positive proof we could show by actual demonstration, we were able in a few years to sell from twenty-five to thirty thousand of the De Laval Hand Cream Separators, and we are pleased to say that they have given universal satisfaction and are still in use, while most of the so-called "cheap" separators that a few of our patrons were foolish enough to buy have found their final resting place in the scrap pile.

At the present time we are not agents for any hand cream separator, but for the future good of our own business as well as the dairy industry, we are naturally anxious to see every dairyman who buys a hand separator buy the machine that will prove the best investment in the long run, and wide experience has taught us that when it comes to efficiency, durability and hard knocks the De Laval Hand Cream Separator easily stands in a class by itself.

Caught in Machinery.

A terrible accident occurred last Saturday, February 20th, to Geo. Clark, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Clark, of this city. Geo. Clark resides in Wichita, Kas., and is employed in the alfalfa mills there.

Saturday, his arm was caught in the machinery and pulled through two wheels. It was so badly mangled, that one of the bones of the arm had to be taken out entirely. He was still in such a nervous condition the first week, that it hadn't been determined whether the hand and arm would have to be amputated or not.

Mr. Clark lived here some 10 years ago, and also resided in Oregon for about four years.

Mrs. Chas. Hastings and Mrs. Clema Zachman, sisters of Mr. Clark, intended to go there immediately, but couldn't leave their parents, who were nearly prostrated by the news. They will probably go the latter part of the week.—Jeffersonian.

The Canal in 1915.

News from the Panama canal is gratifying. The special engineers with Mr. Taft say the canal is properly located, is entirely feasible, is being properly constructed and will cost far less than the half billion asserted by its enemies, and added to this is the positive assertion that ships will pass through it by January 1, 1915, made by Colonel Goethels himself. Those who were inclined, if any such there were, to accept the sensational, doleful and positive assertion of Representative Lloyd, that the canal could never be built and would have to be abandoned, after a great scandal was revealed, may now revise their ideas. Just why that gentleman should know so much more about it than skilled and disinterested engineers he has not revealed. However, he did give Missouri credit for possessing a representative that knocked the canal harder than any other person has done. His reasons are sufficient for himself, probably, but in view of the evidence he can scarcely expect to carry many people with him.

The canal is going to be completed practically as planned, and in about five years. This suggests that we have no time to lose in the matter of adjusting ourselves to the new conditions of commerce it will create. We should have that deep water channel and be prepared to send a vessel loaded with cargo at St. Louis to be the first one through the locks if possible. The dirt is flying at the Isthmus. It should also fly in the Valley.

Game Law for Missouri.

Since an excellent game law was repealed in this state, almost as soon as its provisions became generally effective, the attitude of the agricultural class has changed enough to show that a new game law, drawn upon modern lines, will now receive general support. When the legislature repealed the Walmsley law the state game warden was practically left without authority, and this was the purpose of the repeal. The object of the action taken was to let down the bars again so that there might be a return to the old go-as-you-please policies. But farmers find the latitude given so-called hunters a cause of loss and frequent trouble. The shooting of stock and damage to crops and fences are a serious nuisance. Prosecutions now rest with the sheriff in each county, a hard-worked official without this additional burden.

Meantime, the game in the state is disappearing. Boys on the farm look to this source for an addition to their pocket money, but with thousands of strangers roaming over the country places, and shooting at all wild animals indiscriminately, the prospect of speedy extermination is strong. In many counties farmers are publishing notices to protect themselves against the raiders. But this is clearly a matter to be wisely regulated by the state. With a good game law the wild life of Missouri will be conserved for all time. As matters are going its finish is in sight. The repeal of the efficient Walmsley game law was a deplorable mistake. A statute equally meritorious should be passed at the present session.

W. R. Miles on Feeding.

W. R. Miles, of Craig, Mo., who was in and brought a carload of stockers, is one of the pioneer farmers of Atchison county, the home of so many big feeders. Coming to the state from North Carolina, soon after the war, Mr. Miles acquired some valuable land at a low price, which is worth $100 an acre today. His farm is well improved and is now worth perhaps $50,000. Like most farmers of that section, he has been an extensive cattle feeder, but this winter he is not feeding any. "For the first time in 20 years or more," he said, "I am out of the feeding business. Somehow it did not look quite right to me last fall, and so I just concluded to keep out. It looked risky and I believe a good many other old feeders took the same view of the situation I did. I do not doubt but what most feeders made some money. They bought very carefully last fall and most of them made short feeds, which was the safest way. All in all there have been no very large profits in the feeding business in that country considerable summer feeding is done as a rule, but I do not hear much talk about putting cattle on feed for the summer markets. There seems to be considerable corn in the cribs, but I rather think it will stay there. No one cares to sell, and as farmers are able to hold it they will just keep it 'till they see what is going to happen later on in the crop season."—K.C. Dailey Drivers Telegram, March 1.

Could Be Made Navigable.

Reports on the Missouri River, containing much valuable data and information as to the feasibility of making the stream navigable as far as Sioux City, as compiled by the secretary of war, has been received at this office, through the courtesy of our congressman, Chas. F. Booher.

According to the reports, the river could be made navigable with a 6-foot channel, which could be completed in three years, at a cost of $7,400,000. The annual maintenance would be $185,000, and snagging $110,000. With a depth of twelve feet, which could be completed in five years, the cost would be $42,500,000 with annual maintenance of $1,062,500 and snagging $110,000.

The first work ever done by the government between Sioux City and the mouth of the river was at St. Joseph and Eastport, Iowa. The amount expended there and at Elwood between 1902 and April 1, 1908, was more than $175,000. At St. Joseph $88,787.67 was spent on dikes and $24,677.52 on revetment, while at Elwood the dikes cost $56,655.15 and repairs to old work $5,547.49, making the total at St. Joseph $113,465.19 and at Elwood $62,202.64. The Missouri river commission which was established in 1890, was abolished in 1902.

In the Federal Court.

T. C. Dungan, as attorney, and William M. Morris, William Patterson and others were in attendance at the United States court in St. Joseph this week. They represent the Nodaway Drainage District, which is involved in two suits, one of which was originally brought in this county, but was transferred to the Federal court.

The John Gilligan company, a grading company, sues the drainage company for $3,604.98 and interest for money alleged to be due them for work done in constructing a ditch for defendant. On the other hand the drainage company sues the Gilligan company for $10,000 on their bond alleging that the grading company failed to comply with its contract and thereby forfeited its bond.

Mattie Robb, plaintiff,

Frank L. Robb, defendant.

At this 4th day of March, 1909, comes the plaintiff herein, Mattie Robb, and files her petition and affidavit, alleging, among other things, that defendant, Frank L. Robb, is not a resident of the State of Missouri. Whereupon, it is ordered by the clerk of this court, that said defendant be notified by publication that plaintiff has commenced a suit against him in this court, the object and general nature of which is to be divorced from the bonds of matrimony heretofore contracted with the defendant on the 21st day of August, 1897, and have said marriage annulled on the grounds and for the reason that said defendant has for more than one whole year next before the filing of this suit, abandoned and deserted this plaintiff and has for said length of time wholly failed and refused to support this plaintiff and has for many years offered this plaintiff such indignities as to render her life with him intolerable, and that unless the said Frank L.
