The Electric-Lighted
"On Time Road"

We are glad to know of the good health of John W. Polly, who is still the engineer for the Richardson Dry Goods Company of St. Joseph. He is the present worshipful master of Zeredatha Masonic lodge and is in St. Louis this week attending the session of the grand lodge as representative. This body is composed of representatives from 619 blue lodges, which represent a total of 55,000 Master Masons.

Those Wedding Bells.

A very striking social event transpired on the evening of September 29, 1911, at the spacious country home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mahon, being the occasion of the marriage of their eldest daughter, Miss Lois, to Mr. Otha E. Dreher, of the same community.

Promptly at 8 o'clock the wedding party entered the parlor, marching to the rhythmic strains of the piano, Miss Maud Mahon presiding. The procession was led by the Rev. T. C. Taylor, followed closely by Mr. David Cropp, who acted as "best man," and the bridegroom in double file, followed by the bride, accompanied by her sister, Miss Ina Mahon, who was the bridesmaid. Marching diagonally across the large and well-filled guest chamber to the identical place where the bride's parents had stood some twenty years before, when they plighted similar their faith either to other, those mystic vows were imposed according to the beautiful ritual of the Methodist Episcopal church, which makes the two hearts to throb as one.

A large number of relatives and close friends of the high contracting persons witnessed the ceremony.

Many beautiful and useful presents were material expressions of the high esteem in which these young people are held.

Immediately following congratulations, invitation was given to the dining room, where a two-course luncheon was served.

The decoration scheme in silver and gold was faithfully carried out. One of the very beautiful features was the part taken by little Misses Louise Mahon and Mildred Ramsay, sister and cousin to the bride, as ribbon bearers.

The bride was beautifully dressed in white and carried a sheaf of white roses. The bridegroom was neatly attired in the conventional black.

These worthy young people carry with them a wealth of good will of a very large circle of relatives and acquaintances on their voyage on, to them, the yet untried seas of life. May the great Pilot bring them safely over. T. C. T.

Through Right of Way.

The Big Tarkio dredge boat passed through the railroad right of way, four miles northwest of town, the first of the week. A temporary loop track was built about 200 feet out around the place for the use of the trains, until the dredger had cut the channel and the new steel bridge was put into place. The bridge was completed Wednesday, September 26, the loop track has been torn out and the dredger is now plowing its way toward the old Missouri, about five miles farther.

One or two farmers who had sought to enjoy the railroad company from laying the temporary tracks through their premises, appeared on the scene Sunday with weapons and attempted to prevent the work, but the railroad men in charge of the construction sent for the sheriff, who restored peaceful relations. Whatever damages that have been incurred will likely be adjusted in the courts.—Craig Leader.

Death of John A. Miller.

After a residence of over forty years in Holt county, John A. Miller, a highly esteemed citizen of Liberty township, laid down life's burdens, at his home, Wednesday, September 13, 1911, in the 75th year of his age.

Mr. Miller was born in Cumberland county, Pennsylvania, February 19, 1837. He came to Holt county in 1860 and located on a farm near Oregon, where he resided some eight years, and then removed to the Minnesota Valley district, where he remained until his death.

He was married in Pennsylvania to Miss Catharine Severs, who with ten children survive, and the death of the father we believe is the first to occur in the family. He was a member of the Brethren church.

Mr. Miller left a will, which was probated last week. It was executed November 8, 1907, and was witnessed by John W. Hart and William E. Stubbs, and names Jacob W. Kuhn as the executor.

He bequeaths all his property to his wife during her life.

To his son William he gives a life estate in the 80 acres, described as the north half of the northwest quarter of 30, 63, 38, subject to the wife's life estate.

On the death of his wife he directs that the executor sell all the real and personal property, and distribute the proceeds equally to share and share alike, to his children, which he names: Alfred, John A., Martin, James, William and Margaret Miller; Amanda Metzgar, Isabella Kuntzman, Eva Shaw and Margaret Judy.

Cooler nights remind us that Jack Frost will soon be here to help us sweat the fly, which is a job he is welcome to if he will stay away until the corn is in the shock.
