—Mrs. Golda Furnish, of Fairfax, returned home, Wednesday of last week, after a pleasant visit of several days at the home of Mrs. Dr. J. C. Ottman and friends in Craig.

—We would like to make some encouraging remarks concerning the weather, but for fear that we might violate one of the "Deacon's" rules, concerning strong language, so we will refrain.

—Ed Heaton and family arrived Tuesday from a six weeks' trip to California. They took in every thing worth seeing from Canada to Old Mexico, and came in home feeling fine, considering the miles traveled.

—Presiding Elder C. B. Duncan, of the St. Joseph district, will preach at Bethel church, next Friday night. This will be an intellectual treat to the Bethel community, as the Elder is a man of ability and a deep thinking theologian.

—Attorneys H. B. Williams and Henry Richards were taking depositions, all day, Friday, before E. G. Cox, notary public, concerning the Tarkio Drainage District damage suits, that are to come up in circuit court at its next term.

—Mr. Ed Watters, of St. Joseph, was a Sunday guest of his sisters, Mrs. Tom Carlton, Mrs. Chester Watkins and Miss Alice Watters, and brother, Clarence. The father is here from St. Louis, and with the presence of Ed, there was a family reunion.

—Mr. and Mrs. Will Long, of Luray, Virginia, arrived Saturday to visit with Mrs. Long's mother, brothers and sisters, Mrs. Jake Nauman and children. They will remain an indefinite time, but before returning home will proceed to the Pacific Coast to visit the Panama Exposition and other places of interest.

—Dr. J. A. Thompson, president of Tarkio college, occupied the pulpit at Pleasant View, Sunday, morning and evening, in the absence of the pastor, J. P. Brewster. Dr. Thompson will fill Rev. Brewster's appointments in Craig, next Sunday, morning and evening. The doctor is an eloquent minister and will not disappoint his audience.

—A half dozen young fellows from Tarkio came down from that town, Sunday evening to visit the town, and incidentally to see the Craig girls, but the rain Sunday night made the track so dangerous that the train was abandoned until Tuesday. The boys got to see the town and all the girls they cared to see long before they got an opportunity to return home. Come again, boys.

—Professor Joseph Dyson, of Fayette, was in town, Saturday, in the interests of Howard-Payne College, and we are told that a number of young ladies contracted to attend that institution the coming winter. We are glad to know that our young people are thinking about college. It is the thing to do. They owe it to the land in which they live to be the best citizens that education will make.

—At the morning services of the Methodist church, Sunday, eight were taken into full fellowship of the congregation, namely: Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Wise, Mrs. G. O. Beris, Mrs. Floy Williams, Mildred Butler, Lillian Taylor, Mrs. Anna Taylor and Lyle Williams. These have been the result of the personal labors of the pastor, E. O. Lockart, who has kept up a systematic plan of visits in the town and community.

—Rev. F. P. Brewster and Mrs. Brewster left Tuesday of last week for Chicago to attend the World's Christian Endeavor convention that was in session all last week and a part of this. The returned brother will stop at Winona Lake and attend some of the Sunday school classes of instruction before returning to Craig. His pulpit will be occupied by President Thompson, of Tarkio College, next Sunday, morning and evening.

—Mrs. Sam Thompson and daughter, Miss Una, and Miss Ella Gaffney arrived Sunday morning, on the early morning passenger, from Melbourne, Florida, where they have been for several weeks, the guests of Byron Johnston and family. They report a delightful visit, and that Byron and family are happy and contented. Una is the editor of a newspaper in Melbourne, and is doing a good business. Mrs. Johnston is a sister to

Mrs. Thompson.

—T. A. Ward received a communication, Thursday, from Mrs. John Fries, who was in Kansas City, with her son, Johnnie. She stated that Johnnie's leg had been amputated by the surgeons of Kansas City and that the boy is doing fine. Johnnie is a lad about fourteen years old, and has suffered all his life from a diseased limb. It is to be hoped that the boy will have no serious after-results and will be restored to health and usefulness. Their home is about eight miles north-east of Craig.

—Since the great celebration, conducted by the Modern Woodmen, the fifth, there has been considerable discussion among the members of that fraternity of organizing a cornet band. That would be just the thing and worthy of the boys that are advocating the project. The instruments are here in the town and can be procured at a reasonable price. The town needs a band badly and will give its support to an institution that will foster one. The lodge is capable of maintaining an organization of the sort without much expense. It will be an advertisement to the town, community and to the Modern Woodmen. By all means, organize the band.

—Craig is to have a new dentist in the person of Eric Gustaff Edstrom, D. D. S. He will locate in the Hunter building, in the rooms vacated by Dr. Wallace. The doctor comes to us well recommended and should have the support of Craig and the surrounding country. There is no excuse for any one running to neighboring towns to get their "Eye Teeth" cut. Stay at home. The job can be done here in Craig and you can have the satisfaction of cussing the fellow for it. Just as good workmen are located in Craig as anywhere else, and many times more honest work will be done at home than in a foreign town, where they will not expect to see you again. Patronize home and thus improve the community.

—A terrific down-pour of rain, Sunday night, has put the ditches around Craig on a boom. The Little Tarkio ditch has backed up into the bed of Big Tarkio, and water is out in all the low places. It has gotten over the banks on both sides at the Scott bridge and is pretty deep. The Big Ditch has an abundance of water. It is reported as pouring out of the rupture made in the dike several weeks ago, and filling all the land with water that was under water at that time. The farmers have a right to be discouraged for that matter, yet things can not be helped by being discouraged. "Halt your hook and keeping trying." is good sentiment at this time. We are not always as badly hurt, as we complain to be hurt.

—The sympathy of the entire community about Craig and in the town go out to our fellow townsmen, Ora and Earl Scrivener, in the arrest and accusation of their father, Samuel Scrivener, of Siam, Iowa, for complicity in the murder of a rich cattle buyer, near that place, in 1898. Mr. Scrivener has visited his sons several times since they have been in Craig, and has formed a number of acquaintances here. He has the appearance of a smart man, and is of a jolly, jovial character. It is the belief of many here that Mr. Scrivener is being black-mailed by some one, who thinks he can scare him or his children into paying a sum of money. This community cannot believe that Samuel Scrivener, the father of our esteemed citizens, could ever have been guilty of the crime, that the daily papers are now flaunting before the public. Every one expresses the belief that he will show a clean record and in the end prove that he is the man we all believe him to be.

—Craig's Public Library has been in operation for about a year and during that time it has increased to a library of something near one thousand volumes. The management, consisting of several of our enterprising and philanthropic ladies, have sacrificed time, money and talent that the town and community might enjoy the privileges of a free public library. They have held bake sales, moving picture shows, engaged talented lecturers, and done everything that seemed worthy of a trial to maintain the institution in our midst. That the library is a worthy institution and deserving of the unstinted support of our citizens, is attested by the patronage of the reading public. It has taken considerable time and money to operate the library, and the ladies have been meeting and over-coming, alone, many obstacles. The discouragements have been many, and so few people have evidenced their interest in the success of the enterprise by contributing of their means to its support. In fact, the situation has gotten to such

The discouragements have been many, and so few people have evidenced their interest in the success of the enterprise by contributing of their means to its support. In fact, the situation has gotten to such is looking for a way to unload and wash their hands of any further responsibilities. Now, wouldn't it be a shame and disgrace to this haughty town to indifferently permit the Free Public Library to become a failure and retrograde to the rubbish of dead enterprises? Rather, let us call a mass meeting and discuss the situation, and it may be that some one can propose a plan, whereby our library may be made of greater usefulness, and the labors of these industrious, sacrificing women be not in vain.

—The famous Liberty Bell, the Nation's greatest historic relic, favored the people of Craig with a visit Friday morning at two o'clock, while it was enroute from Philadelphia to the Panama Exposition at San Francisco. It was understood that the special train that escorted the bell was to leave St. Joseph for Omaha at eleven o'clock and would pass through Craig about one o'clock without a stop. Several of our influential citizens got in communication by telephone and telegraph with the Honorable Mayor Marshall, of St. Joseph, who plead the claim of Craig to favor us with a stop, and succeeded in convincing those in authority that people who were patriotic enough to remain awake until such an hour to demonstrate their respect and reverence for the famous relic, were worthy of more than a passing glance, so it was ordered that a stop be made at Craig. Had it been known sooner, there would have been a larger gathering at the station, but as the request was granted at a very late hour, it was too late to extend the news, yet fully two hundred and fifty people greeted the historic bell. It was two o'clock when the special bearing the bell pulled into the station, and came to a dead stop. Some patriotic and thoughtful woman began signing "America" and the strain was taken up by the assembled hosts and sang with fervor and animation to the end. The bell was mounted on a flat car that was railed all around with a brass rail, but in the open so that the bell might be seen from all sides. There were electric lights so arranged as to clearly distinguish every mark on it, and the famous crack was next the depot, so every one was given a view to the very best advantage. A representative of the great state of Pennsylvania, and of the city of Philadelphia greeted the gathered audience and said that Craig was indeed a patriotic people and deserving of consideration. He said that every where great crowds were gathered at the stations along the route and that demonstrations were exhibited in honor of the bell, at every stop. Several minutes were given to view the relic, and as the train pulled out from the station, hats went into the air and three cheers shouted for the "Liberty Bell." Perhaps, never again will our city be honored at night or by day with so famous an object of veneration; that represents to the American people so much liberty and freedom. Not another object of any kind in all America is as historic, and around which cluster so many events connected with the days of our Nation's birth and early struggles. Philadelphia, in order that the people might be informed correctly concerning this famous historic relic and its wonderful history, is having her representative distribute a booklet containing a correct statement of all that transpired in connection with the bell, its casting, flight in time of threatened capture, its home in Independence Hall and its travels to the several expositions. These booklets serve as a souvenir of the occasion and in the days to come, will be preserved as precious documents to be revered and read by the future generations of Craig.

—In a letter received the other day by Jake Vandeventer, of this city, from his son-in-law, Chas. Hannah, of Fillmore, Mo., he tells of some potatoes. He says he went to the garden to dig a few for dinner and stuck the hoe into the hill, a bushel and a half running out before he could get the hill stopped up. He also enclosed a $2 bill and told his father-in-law if he believed the story to keep the money. Mr. Vandeventer still has the money and says he can believe two dollars' worth of it. Missouri is some state.

The Brownings are getting along well in Oklahoma, and are in excellent health.

—Meeting with old friends of the past and recalling experiences of the by-gone days, some pleasant, others not so pleasant, has been the good fortune of the older ones here the past few weeks, in the visit of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Duff, now of Lawton, Oklahoma. They left here years ago and not many of the old timers are here that earned the friendship and acquaintanceship of these two old people, not so old yet but what they

There is 464 feet of door tracking, and hay can be dumped any place in the barn. Hay can either be unloaded inside or outside. This barn was designed by Mr. Hinkle and is conceded to be one of the most convenient for its purpose than any in this section. The roof has about 120 squares of iron in its construction. After the first inning, Mound City woke up to the fact that they were in a game, changed pitchers, putting in Wenzel Noll, a high school student, who shut them out in the other eight innings, with the exception of the one run. Mr. Noll is one of the most promising pitchers in this county, and if he does not throw his arm away, as he is still young and not matured in his manhood strength, he will become a star. Mound City has the material to make up a good team at any time, but has heretofore been short on pitchers and with the young blood enthused, she can promise something worth while to the ball fans. Corning will visit us next Sunday, July 15.
